It is written in the law of realization for all that there are no notes of discord in the hymn of material living. If we will accept our true status in the scale of life which is, that we are one with God and as eternal as reality. Love, happiness, beauty, health, youth and prosperity are our true inheritance. For God is all. God is one. God is complete, and the whole of the eternal universe.

Bernard Shaw said that "Bolshevism" was a word put into the mouths of fools to steal their brains. Today the word is "Communism."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON - SERMON

Unchanging beauty is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon "Soul and Body" to be read at all Christian Science churches on Sunday. "Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul" sings the Psalmist in the Golden Text.

"Man is the reflection of the Soul," declared Mary Baker Eddy in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures."

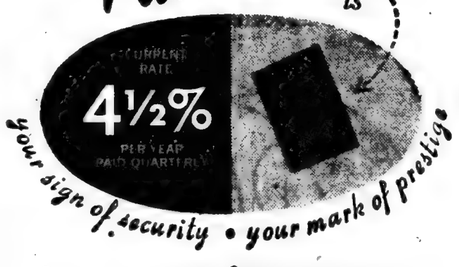
Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!



In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Jeff Track Team Eyes City Title

Jeff's Arthur Brownlee, who tied the 100 yard dash record in 9.6 one windy Friday afternoon, came roaring down the cinders in both 100 and 220 last Thursday in the Southern League finals to win both events in 9.7 and 21.5. His victories helped Jefferson to post a 45 to 42 upset victory over Dorsey at East Los Angeles Stadium.

However, Dorsey had already clinched the Southern League title and was awarded the title even though finishing second in the finals.

Further opportunities lie ahead for those sassy Democrats in the form of the All City finals on May 27 and the State meet, which are the ultimate incentives for the Sam Hamerman squad.

In qualifying for the Dixie finals Jefferson landed only 16 men behind Fremont and Dorsey who had 20 and 23. So, when the All-City preliminaries come up on May 20, don't count the Hooper Street wonders out until the last race is won.

Softball Teams Dedicate Sunday's Win to Mothers

BY EDW. "ABIE" ROBINSON

Chuck Hollaway, ace pitcher for the Caribbeans, bullied his way to an 8 to 5 win over the New Orleans Sea Food Grotto, as the Caribbeans powered to their ninth straight victory in the bar league last Sunday.

An estimated crowd of 1700 watched the men in action as the teams in the various playgrounds dedicated victories to all mothers watching the games.

Mother's Day guest of the league was Fannie Burrough, of Buffalo, N. Y., who was en route to San Francisco to attend the National Convention of the Ancient Order of the Forests. She selected Rancho Playground and watched the Living Room's Jim Cavaugh hurdle a masterful 7 to 6 win over the Intermission Room.

With the game tied at 6-all in the bottom of the 7th Ed Jackson strolled to the plate and lined a sizzling single to score the winning run. Jumpy Criner was the game's fielding star, who delighted the visiting Mrs. Burrough who was rooting for Claude Duke's team.

The biggest upset of the afternoon saw the previous winless Mac's Castle post its first win with a 10 to 9 victory over Collins' Tigers. Collins' team blew an 8-run lead in the last inning.

Another upset occurred when Marty's, enjoying a big lead over Clark Hotel, was defeated in the extra inning 10 to 9. Clark tied the game in the 7th at 8 all and iced the contest in the extra frame.

Lee Roys, previously unbeaten, had to pull out all stops to gain a 3 to 3 tie with the pesky Town Tavern at South Park. "Big Train," pitching like he did when he was 25 years old, enjoyed a 3 to 2 lead going into the 5th. Jess Pinson's, Lee Roys batting star, blasted a triple and came home on a throwing error to tie the gate at 3-all. John Gibson, starting pitcher for Lee Roys, was nicked for 3 hits and 3 runs and was replaced in the 5th. Robert (The Fireman) Hilton came in and pitched peerless ball in the remaining innings, allowing no runs and no hits.

The Playroom and Red Carpet squared off for their do-or-die game at Rancho. It was the Playroom that walked off the diamond with a well earned 6 to 2 win. Kings Hotel took the measure of Dynamites 11 to 0 as W. Dukes pitched one hit ball.

Two of the league's biggest games are on tap tonight (Thursday). The unbeaten Caribbeans, facing the always dangerous Intermission Room at Rancho, should be a ding dong battle. The Playroom, leading the Elbow Benders League with a healthy 8 and 1 record, is the target for the Town Tavern also at Rancho.

Other Thursday contests find Lee Roy's meeting New Orleans Seafood at Rancho; Mac's Castle vs Marty's at So. Park; Kings vs Collins' Tigers at Rancho; and Dynamite Jackson against Red Carpet at Baldwin Hills.

TRACK CAPTAIN — Luke Roderick, named captain of Pepperdine College's track team for the second straight year, receives his trophy and congratulations from coach Bert Brewer during the Lettermen Club's annual athletic awards banquet.

As far as names in baseball go these days, the name, of John Rachal perhaps won't cause any excitement among the Dodgers' and L.A. Angels' scouting staff. However, if they are as smart as they are paid to be, they would find their way down to Cressy Park in Compton on any given Sunday. Rachal is manager of the Compton Dons of the Pioneer Major Division of the American Baseball Congress and his classy nine is labeled National Championship caliber.

The deft manager got started in baseball back 31 years go in the town of Shreveport, La., and held his own against teams like the Louisville Black Giants, Newark Royal Giants, Cuban Giants, Homestead Garys and the Pittsburgh Crawfords. As a player there is every reason to believe that Rachal could have been playing in the American or National leagues as we know them today. However when he was a lad of 15, organized baseball wasn't looking in the direction of the likes of Rachal.

Now still in baseball because of his love for the game, as manager of the Dons, he is making it possible for young players interested in a baseball career to get the needed experience. Baseball prospects come in all colors which account for the fact that the Compton Dons is an interracial squad ranging in ages from 19 to 23 years. The team boasts some of the most sought after players in the city and the reason Rachal and his coach, Teddy Butts, another ex-great of the Negro Leagues, have been able to keep them together is due because of his confidence in each of the players and his interest in developing them into top-notch performers.

This hasn't been always an easy job because young players with great natural ability often reject rules and regulations.

Rachal and Butts have been manager and coach of the Dons for the past four years. For the first two years they finished in the celler of their league; last year they did much better with a fourth place standing.

This season, which got under way two weeks ago finds them winning their opener 8 to 4 and they have their sights set on a National Champion.

With UCLA's two great college stars, Ezell Singleton and Teddy Flowers, set to join the squad in two weeks Rachal and Butts are certain they can put together a winning combination. They have such standouts as Lonnie Wilson, Isaac Galloway, Don Russell, Robert Bledsoe and Maurice Thrower among their 18-man team. The Dons 16-game schedule includes trips to Rosemead and Lancaster. All other games will be played at Creesy Park in Compton.

"THE TEE" with MAGGIE HATHAWAY

We hate to tell you that a year and a half ago "we told you so," but it is just impossible to resist the urge. Since Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk is cancelling all of the PGA tournaments in this state and has been accused of playing politics, we must come to his defense by taking you back to the records.

Almost two years ago Bill Spiller, Charles Sifford and this writer met with Asst. Atty. Gen. Franklin Williams (who flew down from San Francisco at our request) to work out a plan to attack segregation in PGA (Professional Golfers Association) and WBLGA (Women's Public Links Golf Association). At this time Bill Spiller had been refused admission by PGA and Charles Sifford had not even been given a player's card (as he was given later) to enable him to attempt to earn a salary playing professional golf.

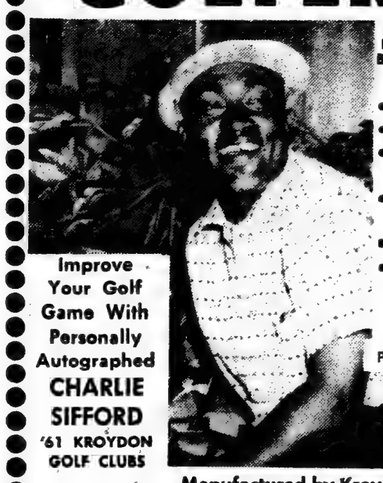
The real joke is that yesterday PGA Tournament Director J. Edwin Carter accused Atty. Gen. Mosk of "playing politics" and bluffing the 1962 PGA golf championships out of Los Angeles.

What Edwin Carter does not know is that it was not Atty. Gen. Mosk who started the PGA fight but it was really a Negro professional by the name of Bill Spiller.

Seven years ago Spiller was segregated in San Diego along with Eurell Clark and Joe Louis. Joe called Walter Winchell and Winchell raised such a "howl" that they allowed Joe Louis to play. Spiller predicted at that time that if only Joe was allowed to play, Negroes would never be accepted in PGA without starting the fight all over again.

PGA crucified Spiller and Negroes ostracized him; they called him a "radical" and so many other names that they took all of the fight and spirit out of him. Spiller became so discouraged that he gave up. PGA and his own people defeated him.

Strange as it seems, it was this same Bill Spiller who (seven years later) segregated again and who started "the ball rolling all over again" (through Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk) against segregation in PGA.



We have news for PGA and J. Carter: we have already advised Mr. Mosk of a faster solution to stop PGA from segregating. Our suggestion is to request that the County and City cancel all PGA golf shop leases on our golf courses.

The manager of the club, Bill Sail, favored the club during the installation party by receiving and welcoming the guests at the door.

Four full hours of musical entertainment started with Phenese Newborne and his quintet, featuring Teddy Edwards and Russell Jacquet. Dickie Barrow delighted the guests and club members with several songs.

People and Places

TURF SET — Last Wednesday when Hollywood Park opened its racing season one got the idea it was a dress rehearsal for the upcoming Medical Variety Show because of the large number of pill pushers who were there!

JOHN Y. KOYAMA — Skillful West Jefferson Optician will probably never meet the person whose cheap pair of sun glasses he repaired last Thursday and will learn here for the first time that those same glasses had been fixed three times that same afternoon for fees ranging from 25 cents to 75 cents. He will be happy to know that the person he helped is now recommending his work all over town, because he did a good repair job and then said, "No charge!"

LIZ ROGERS—She's not giving out her telephone number at her new location because she's much too busy counting her loot on the returns of a smart investment when the city purchased her westside home to build a freeway!

GEORGE HYMER — He is sorry now that he didn't get his law degree. He's been in three courts since November, has worn out a dozen lawyers and retired three judges—and it still looks like a long summer!

JERI RANCIFER — Topflight hairstylist and popular Rinkydink member cruising in her sleek battleship grey Thunderbird out West Adams and making it look like the class she is!

EUGENE H. WALKER—Young doctor with offices in the Ver-Bro Medical Center boasts two classy members in nurse Clara Wallace and receptionist Doris Fredricks to match his fast growing practice!

CLYDE MC PHATTER — After all these years he is still magic at the box office. The recording star is a $500 life member of the NAACP and although he has an income that exceeds $125,000, he was a prominent figure in the picket line in Atlanta for the sit-ins!

TOM BRADLEY — So called big shot politicians shouldn't attempt to by-pass his name if and when the time comes for the appointment of a competent person to fill a vacant councilmanic seat. Other Negroes should step aside if they are sincere about Negro representation down at City Hall. This maybe your chance to get it!

CLAUDE DUKES — Ex-New York Central Railroad chef for some 30 years has swung open the doors of his cozy and smart cocktail lounge in the 2600 block on Crenshaw and is serving hors d'oeuvres with every cocktail in the lounge, which is called "Living Room!"

JESSIE LEE CATLEY — Who grew up on the Westside and can remember when Eastsiders picked wild mustard greens at the end of the J-Car line, pens this note: "Abie, you would rather be found dead than cancel Godfrey's and my subscription!"

The trio features the superb voice of Geula (pronounced Gay-u-la) Gill, whose matchless singing has been heard on records and in concert halls and clubs throughout Europe and the Americas.

Although she is a veritable anthology of Hebrew song and folklore, Miss Gill is not limited to that tradition alone. From Spanish to Portuguese, Roumanian, Greek, and on through sixteen languages, her voice moves as

In her role as featured singer with the Aranim Zabar, she has made four records for Elektra. Most recently she joined voices with Theodore Bikel in the re-

RINKYDINKS GASSERS

On Sunday the 7th of May the Rinkydinks had their second of three dances at the Riviera Terrace Ballroom, and it was a 'gas', with a slightly older crowd than at the Easter affair, and one which was bent on having fun.

"Wild" Bill Davis, Eddie Barefield and the orchestra provided excellent dance and show music for the entire evening, and the club put on a swinging show, depicting the past dances and a "remember when?" theme. This was preceded by the announcement of the winner of the money tree for guessing the closest count of black-eyed peas in a large brandy snifter, at the last affair, then the fine singing of Tony Lawrence and the glamour and sexy singing and entertaining done by Miss Amanda Thigpen.

NORMA MILLER THRILLER

To close the show, it was the sensational dancing and showmanship of Norma Miller and her Four Flash Dancers. A good time was had by all, so the next, and last affair on Sunday, June 4th, should be jam-packed and the finest.

JOHNNY WOODRUFF

Monday night the Camp Fund Affair was held at the Midway Lounge and 'Long' John Woodruff (former Olympic titleholder from 1936) was honored. There was a fine turnout on a rainy, dreary night.

Wednesday night it was Basin Street East, delicious Chinese food and delightful entertainment in a capacity-filled room, as Al Hirt and his Dixieland group pleased the house, followed by the rib-tickling comedy of Larry Storch and then to the accompaniment of a 19-piece orchestra, directed by Eddie Barefield. NOTES OF AN INNOCENT BARSTANDER

A white bar owner in the community had noisy rows with two Negro newsmen, assorted other customers and members of his hired help, all in one hectic evening on the weekend. What's his trouble? Could it be the same trouble that's reportedly been buggin' him all along? That he just doesn't dig folks of our hue? We've already had two calls today from Negro scribes on other sheets saying this man is a misfit for sure . . .

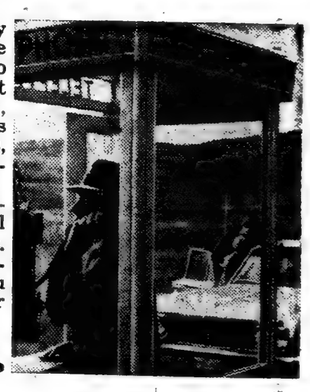
WHAT'S DOING

A "rock factory" in which man, not Mother Nature runs things, has recently gone into operation. It belongs to Western Electric, the manufacturing branch of the Bell System, and the rocks produced are quartz crystals.



Thin slices of quartz crystal are used in several types of telephone equipment. While there's lots of natural quartz in the world, big crystals that can be sliced are scarce and expensive.

To get around this, Western Electric is using a unique process to "grow" large crystals from small, inexpensive pieces of quartz. The man-made crystals (above) cost a lot less than large, natural ones. And because they are more evenly shaped, twice as many usable slices can be cut from them.

With vacation time nearly here, most folks are busy deciding where to go this year. Almost anywhere you head, you're apt to meet lots of other vacationers, and good accommodations may be scarce.

There's an easy remedy, though: just call ahead for reservations. It takes only a few minutes and can save you lots of time hunting for a vacancy.

NAACP AGAINST LOCAL HOLLYWOOD AWARDS

Edward Warren, President of the local NAACP, announced this week that NAACP does not endorse and knows absolutely nothing about the Hollywood Race Relations Bureau.

It seems that this newly formed HRRB was recently organized by Caleb Peterson, after a group of entirely different Negroes fought and won a fight (through FEPC) to have casting changed from East Los Angeles to Hollywood Blvd. and at the same office where all other actors are cast.

Peterson attempted to get an endorsement from this group (who had already joined and enlisted the aid of the NAACP) to start a major fight to integrate all departments in all studios.

AWARDS RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT

When he was refused, he appealed to the NAACP to join him in presenting awards at the First AME Church next Sunday. Peterson was refused by President Edward Warren and was advised against giving awards to any persons in Hollywood until the Hollywood Studios integrated and employed Negroes in all departments. He was also told that the NAACP was no longer interested in awards in Hollywood and that this organization had promises from a few Hollywood producers to employ more Negroes and there should be no rewards until Hollywood fulfilled all promises.

Peterson ignored this request and is planning one of the phoniest award concerts ever promoted in Los Angeles.

MOTIVES COMPLETELY UNKNOWN

What the NAACP and the Negro actors (who can't get enough of work out of Hollywood to pay their Union dues) are asking is "What is Caleb Peterson going to get out of this promotion? Who asked him to organize and what is the 'Hollywood Race Relations Bureau?'"

It has been rumored that there are two local ministers in Peterson's organization. What kind of part could these ministers be playing in such a Hollywood organization? Do they really know what they are doing?

Tragic indeed, the destruction of Malcolm Small's famous house atop Edgerton Drive in the recent holocaust; Malcolm always had his doors open to stimulating and amusing people engaging in provocative discussions and listening to glorious music. It was there I met so many interesting African students, too. His concert grand piano was a magnificent instrument. The town shares his great loss. VIRGINIA CAPERS, the real boss vocalist, sashayed back to town to go before the cameras in a straight dramatic role in a yarn based on women in the big house now shooting at a major Hollywood studio. Luscious MIMI DILLARD also nabbed a role in the Prison flicker! . . .

The aforementioned JANELL HAWKINS item would have been there anyway even if her manager MARC GORDON wasn't a favorite person of the pillar. He's one of the nicest guys in the biz and deserves mention too! . . .

A Hollywood trade paper itemed that NAT COLE has fired his white business managers and attorneys and replaced them with Negro experts in those fields. If that's true Nat, we know of a good Negro theatrical agency that could be, would be pleased to represent you.

We sat and chatted with actress JAN STERLING in her dressing room at the Beverly Hills playhouse Friday night following her starring performance in "The Days of the Dancers" . . . Not only is Miss Sterling a superb actress, but she is a helluva grand gal. She is astounding good as the Tennessee Williams type heroine in this off beat vehicle. She plays a whiskey sodden dame frustrated in life who poignantly and drunkenly recalls the "days of the dancing" when the living was much easier.

A Negro lad BOB ENNIS is another member of "Days of the Dancing" and you'll be hearing a lot more about this chap. And all favorable! .

MY MOST UNFORGETTABLE EXPERIENCE

by Dr Howard Thurman
Boston University's Dean of Chapel, and, founder of San Francisco's interracial Fellowship Church

ONE DAY, I had a call from a hospital to tell me that one of the members of my parish was critically ill. Before going to the hospital, I waited deliberately until the usual visiting hours because I did not, on this first visit, want to be in a position to have to insist on my prerogatives as a minister. When I called at the hospital to see my parishioner, I was told by the nurse in charge that Miss X was on the critical list and could see no visitors. I replied that I was not merely a visitor, I was her minister. Then the nurse did a strange thing, but I understood. She asked, "Can you spell Miss X's name?" And I said, "I will spell her name for you but it's quite unnecessary. That is not what is troubling you. Nothing in your past experience has prepared you for this – this problem. You can't understand how a responsible Caucasian member of the community could be at the same time a member of a church of which I am the minister. If she were some ne'er-do-well – that you could understand. But this particular situation is beyond you."

"Listen, you, I'm not prejudiced against Negroes!" she said a little too loudly.

I tried to reassure her; I needed first of all to remember my parishioner. "I'm not saying that you are a victim of racial prejudice. Rather, you're suffering from a deep sense of being isolated, being separate, and you find it impossible to square all of this with my coming in here and saying 'I'm Miss X's Minister."

While I was saying that, someone behind me called my name. It was another nurse who said she was Miss X's private nurse and that her patient was expecting me. Each time I visited her during the next few days, her doctor, the nurses, the interns, the orderlies on the ward, had to accommodate their thinking to this new fact in their experience. This was a famous hospital in which members of the congregation were patients many times afterward, but I never had to go through that sort of thing again. The fact of Fellowship Church, what it was and what it stood for, was understood, accepted, and finally taken for granted.

Kansas-born, Chicago-reared Gwendolyn Brooks wrote high school book reports in rhyme, submitted verse twice-monthly to Poetry Magazine 14 consecutive years before her first poem was published there at age 28. Six years later in 1950, the housewife and mother of two became the first member of her race to win the coveted Pulitzer Prize.

Detroit-born Nelson Algren, 47, is author of: Man With The Golden Arm, A Walk On The Wild Side, other novels, and volumes of short stories. To many, he has inherited Carl Sandburg's mantle as Poet Laureate of Chicago and is said to be the "keeper" of the Windy City's heart.

New York-born James Baldwin 36-year-old novelist, is author of: Go Tell It On The Mountain, Notes Of A Native Son, and Giovanni's Room. A book of his essays, entitled Nobody Knows My Name, will be released this month. His latest work, a new novel, Another Country, will be available for readers in the fall of the year.

Canada-born Gene Lees, 33, came to the U. S. six years ago as classical music critic of the Louisville Times, but wound up two years ago pursuing his primary musical interest, jazz, as managing editor of Down Beat magazine. Generally credited with the revamping of that publication, Reid Fellow Lees last year assumed full editorship.

North Carolina-born Billy Taylor, jazz pianist and composer is a writer of uncommon skill. The Virginia State graduate (class of '42) has written 12 books, in all, on music, and, his keenly perceptive articles have appeared in Saturday Review and Down Beat. Much sought-after as a lecturer by top music schools, trio-leader Taylor, has performed his craft with the contemporary greats of the idiom hemasters.

Chicago-born Joseph L. (for Lee) Persons is a 21-year-old former Air Force radio operator who picked up his first camera (Argus C-3) in February, 1960. Yet, in these, his first published studies (Gwendolyn Brooks' Chicago) Persons displays a keen ability to 'see', and owns a future chock full of promise. He has since studied his profession at Chicago's Art Institute.

THEN THERE WAS CLEMENT LEWY, a little boy at the back, on the second floor.

Lewy life was not terrifically tossed. Saltless, rather. Or like an unmixed batter. Lumpy.

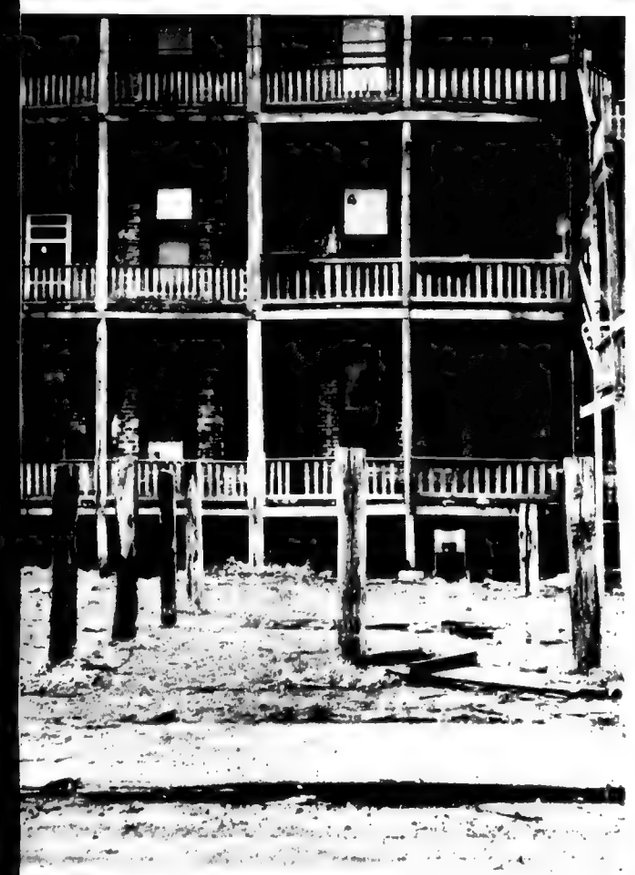
Little Clement's mother had grown listless after the desertion. She looked as though she had been scrubbed, up and down, on the washing board, doused from time to time in gray and noisome water. But little Clement looked alert, he looked happy, he was always spirited. He was in second grade. He did his work, and had always been promoted. At home he sang. He recited little poems. He told his mother little stories wound out of the air by himself. His mother glanced at him once in a while. She would have been proud of him if she had had the time.

She started toward her housemaid's work each morning at seven. She left a glass of milk and a bowl of dry cereal and a dish of prunes on the table, and set the alarm clock for eight. At eight, little Clement punched off the alarm, stretched, got up, washed, dressed, combed, brushed, ate his breakfast. It was quiet in the apartment. He hurried off to school. At noon he returned from school, opened the door with his key. It was quiet in the apartment. He poured himself a second glass of milk, got more prunes, and ate a slice – "just one slice," his mother had cautioned – of bread and butter. He went back to school. At three o'clock he returned from school, opened the door with his key. It was quiet in the apartment. He got a couple of graham crackers out of the cookie can. He drew himself a glass of water. He changed his clothes. Then he went out to play, leaving behind him the two rooms. Leaving behind him the brass beds, the lamp with the faded silk tassel and frayed cord, the hooked oven door, the cracks in the walls and the quiet. As he played, he kept a lookout for his mother, who usually arrived at seven, or near that hour. When he saw her rounding the corner, his little face underwent a transformation. His eyes lashed into brightness, his lips opened suddenly and became a smile, and his eyebrows climbed toward his hairline in relief and joy.

He would run to his mother and almost throw his little body at her. "Here I am, mother! Here I am! Here I am!"

To be in love
Is to touch things with a lighter hand.

In yourself you stretch, you are well.



You look at things
Through his eyes.
A Cardinal is red.
A sky is blue.
Suddenly you know he knows too.
He is not there but
You know you are tasting together
The winter, or light spring weather.

His hand to take your hand is overmuch.
Too much to bear.

You cannot look in his eyes
Because your pulse must not say
What must not be said.

When he Shuts a door –
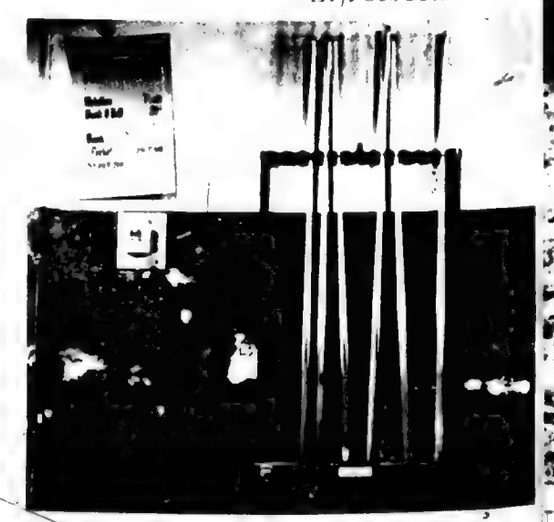
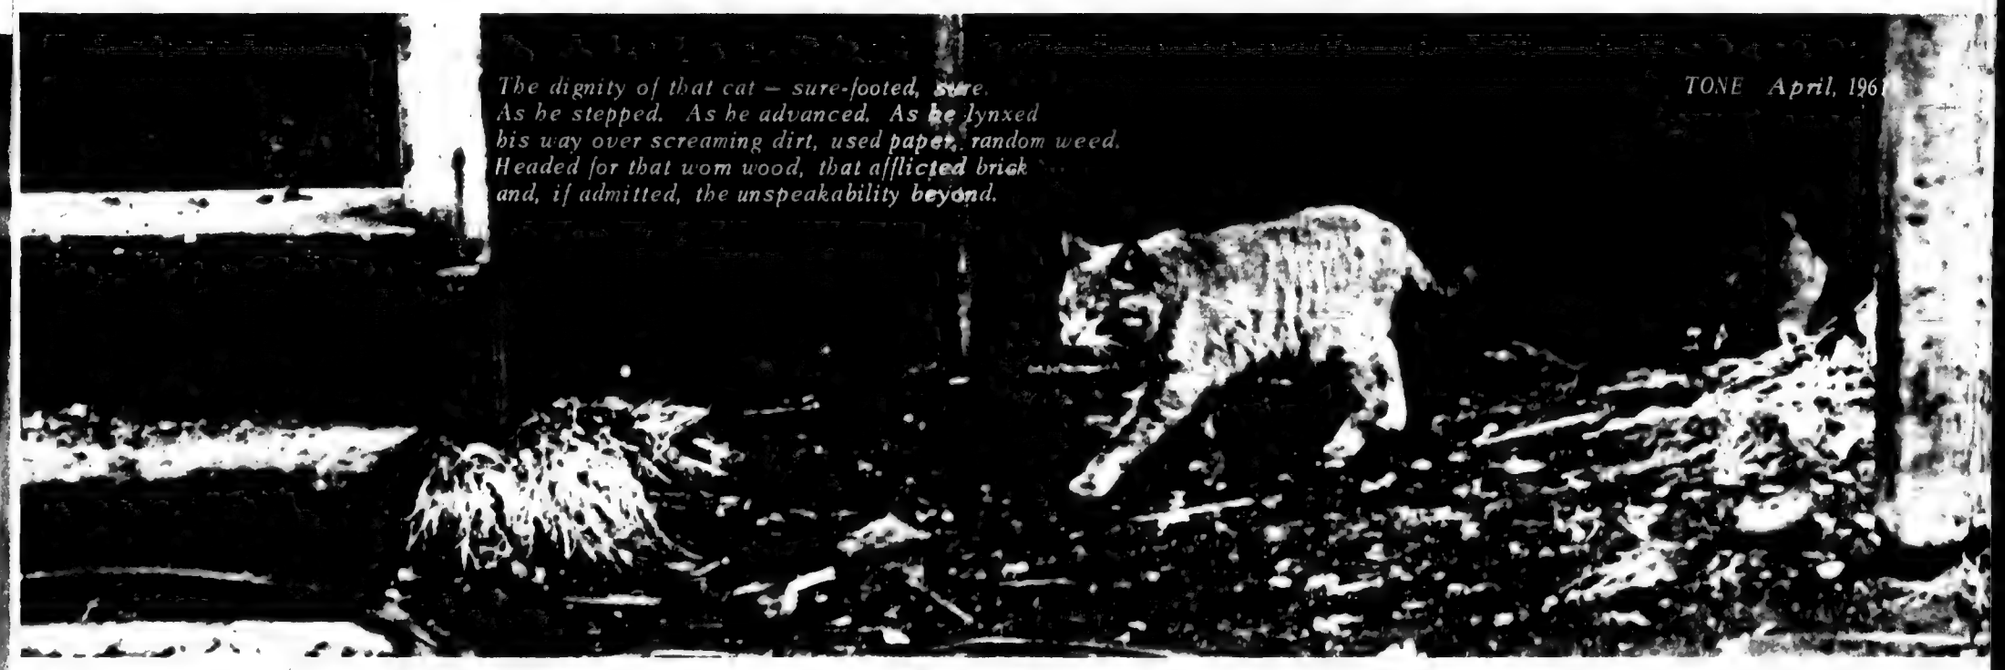
Is not there –
Your arms are water.

And you are free
With a ghastly freedom.



But could a dream send up through onion fumes
It's white and violet, fight with fried potatoes
And yesterday's garbage ripening in the hall,
Flutter, or sing an aria down these rooms....



Its walls are bare except for a calendar disclosing Jesus leading his flock. Into a bare, dusty window peep pieces of fire escape.

Rhythmic, tense hand-clappings. The people stand up and sing whenever they want to. Hallelujahs. Praise-the-Lords. Fast, jazzy music. Testimonials, random, fluidly extemporaneous.

We real cool. We

The dignity of that cat – sure-footed, sure.
As he stepped. As he advanced. As he lynxed his way over screaming dirt, used paper, random weed.
Headed for that worn wood, that afflicted brick and, if admitted, the unspeakability beyond.

She has taken her passive pigeon poor,
She has buried him down and down.
He never shall sally to Sally
Nor soil any roofs of the town.

Below the tinkling trade of little coins
The gold impulse not possible to show
Or spend. Promise piled over and betrayed.

NELSON ALGREN

RICHARD WRIGHT'S "Native Son" was an emotional autobiography of a man who began as a Southern Negro of no particular address, possessing no claim to an individuality of his own, who was not content with the single privilege of surviving – if he behaved himself as nameless face among multitudes of other nameless faces.

It happened that he was not content, and forced recognition of himself as a unique personality, a man who became so articulate that he became the voice of multitudes, both black and white. Wright drove a wedge through society's front through which millions now nameless and faceless, both black and white, are forcing recognition of themselves as rightful members of the company of men.

This, I believe, is what Native Son is all about.

It is not what A Raisin in the Sun is all about. What Raisin is all about is the aspiration of the new, rising Negro mercantile class to own color TV, refrigerators that have two doors, sports cars, split-level homes, central heating, self-wiping dishes and air-conditioning. In short, it is not a play about human dignity, but how to invest wisely.

I am not against color TV, refrigerators with two doors, split-level homes or sports cars. I wish I had all four, including a split-level wife. I think all people should own these things as a matter of course.

But I do say the class that has succeeded in having the most of them, the best of all these, in such abundance as never before seen on the earth of Man, is also the most anxious, humorless, sickest society ever to drag itself in and out of a split-level civilization. I refer to the American middle-class.

Raisin does not assert the hard-bought values the Negro has won, but expresses only an eagerness to have a sports car in order to get to the psycho-analyst as fast as white folks do. Dramatically, Raisin does for the Negro people what hair straightener and skin-lightener have done for the Negro cosmetics trade.

Now I am going to be told that what I am saying is that the Negro had better stay in the tenement with the ice-card in the window, the john down the hall, and the laundry on the fire escape. But that is not what I am saying. I am not discussing the housing problem. I am saying only that a play called "A Raisin In The Sun" has value as a report on the rise of the Negro middle class. As such, it is effective journalism. As a play, it is strictly soap opera. As a social study, it is a good drama about real estate.

I have read that Raisin is a warm play, but to me it did not seem to warm up until the question of investment came up. Then there began a great deal of very loud declamations, with gestures, whose dramatic source was closer to the Yiddish Theatre of the turn of the century than to the well springs of Negro life.

This play does not demand, as Native Son demanded, the right of the Negro to be himself. Rather, it merely suggests how good it would be for everybody if white property owners and investors would let a certain quota of Negroes into the game. In return for this privilege it implies a readiness to cut loose from Negroes who don't own property and are clearly unready to invest. Between its Uncle-Tomism and the Black Faubusism of the more recent Kicks & Co., if forced to such a choice, I would have to choose Uncle Faubus.

I must also add that there is never, not for one moment, a line or a scene that is the work of a creative talent. I can assure the reader with as much certainty as I can that Patterson will beat Johansson tonight (it is now 8:37 A.M. Monday, March 13th) that this play is the work of a strictly one-play playwright.

Its assertion that the Negro has pride assumes denial on the part of the spectator. I hadn't given this any thought, as I haven't met any Negroes lately who were traveling on all fours. I have also noticed that the peoples of Central Asia, certain tribes in the Antilles and natives of Western Europe also walk upright. What I'm saying is that I resent being told to get the idea out of my head that I'm going to sneer when I haven't been given anything to sneer at.

Yet I do sneer. To repeat, I sneer at the struggle, like that of cats in a pit over a piece of liver, now engaging the energies of the American middle class. I laugh outright at the man who has to belong to a key club in order to feel he is a playboy. If he wants to be a playboy, let him play without a key.

Basically, the distinction between Miss Hansberry's play and Dick Wright's story is in the place they go to find truth. Miss Hansberry goes to the respectable, the well-dressed, the well-invested. the "honest" middle

JAMES BALDWIN

BOTH Native Son and A Raisin In The Sun are flawed pieces of work, though this is clearly not the point of Mr. Algren's argument. I do not place Native Son as highly as he does, and he claims too much for Richard Wright, who never found out many of the things Mr. Algren authoritatively speaks of him as "knowing." Neither do I think that A Raisin In the Sun is the meretricious creation he takes it to be. Furthermore, unlike Mr. Algren, I find a profound connection between the two works, and, even certain rather obvious similarities.

This, naturally, has everything to do with the difference between my point of view, and Algren's. Only politically, for example, does his rhetoric about being "rightful members of company of men" make any sense to me. Personally and artistically, it seems to me that this problem presents itself in ways which make the use of the word "rightful" rather questionable if not rather terrifying.

In my own reading of Native Son, it seems to me that where the polemic is most strong, the novel is least true; and, conversely, that the real fury of the novel tends to complicate and compromise and finally, indeed, to invalidate the novelist's social and political attitudes.

A Raisin In The Sun is not nearly so massive and it would seem to be far less angry. But this last is not the case. It is a very angry play indeed, and to say that it is angry about real estate is like saying that Native Son is angry about airplanes. Bigger Thomas you will remember, stands about on Chicago's street-corners, watching the airplanes flown by white men, wishing to rise into that sky. There are long exchanges between himself and his buddies, in which they pretend to be powerful, rich, white tycoons – "one of America's bald-headed men" is the way the sister in Miss Hansberry's play puts it, taunting her ambitious and deceited brother. The great flaw in Native Son is, it seems to me, involved with Wright's attempt to illuminate ruthlessly unprecedented a creation as Bigger by means of the stock characters of Jan, the murdered girl's lover, and Max, the white lawyer. The force of Bigger's reality makes it impossible to believe in these two; though one can, of course, protect oneself against Bigger's reality by clinging to these shadowy and familiar figures; which is, indeed, in the event, what happened.

And the flaw in Raisin is not really very different. It involves the juxtaposition of the essentially stock – certainly familiar – figure of the mother with the intense (and unprecedented) figure of Walter Lee. Most Americans do not know that he exists. From the point of view of someone who knows that he exists and how bitter his life is, I could wish that the role of Lena Younger had been written with greater ambiguity. Part corrosive ambiguity of his mother's role in his life. This brings up the whole question of the role of the mother in Negro life, and the peculiar and horrible problems of the Negro woman. This theme is never overtly stated, but it runs throughout the play. Each of the women, the mother, the wife, and the daughter, are, on their own levels, grappling with the problem of how to create a haven of safety for Walter, so that he can be a man, play a man's role in the world, and yet not be destroyed. It is dangerous to be an American Negro male. America has never wanted its Negro to be men, and does not, generally, treat them as men. It treats them as mascots, pets, or things. Every Negro woman knows what her man faces when he goes out to work, and what poison he will probably bring back. There is no guarantee that she will always be able to suck the poison out of him; the more particularly as the male's aspirations, and his failures, are so thoroughly bound up with herself. And if he is living where Walter lives, with a 'dream' of buying a liquor store, flying an air-plane, buying pearls for his wife, hitting the number – the entire family teeters on edge of disaster. With every move he makes to bring the dream closer, disaster becomes more probable. On the other hand, should the dream fade, he fades with it, so do they, the women: and disaster has overcome them.

This is the reason that Walter's wife wearily tells him to eat his eggs. It is the reason his sister is so quick to turn on the brother she loves: she does not dare to trust his manhood, for it has no power in the world, and cannot protect her. And it is the reason, of course, that the mother plays so dominant a role in all their lives. She has been able to work when her husband could not find work. (All over the nation, at this moment, white matrons are extolling their maids and deploring their 'no-count' husbands). She has known

GENE LEES ◄ ► BILLY TAYLOR

THE QUESTION "Where is jazz going?" has been asked so often that it has become a joke. Yet even musicians, in conversation on jazz, tend to drift into discussion of the music's future. No doubt this is inevitable; man has always been curious about tomorrow, and soothsayers and fortune tellers have reaped profit from this curiosity all through history.

Yet, rarely has the future been of such all-consuming interest as it is in jazz. Yet this, too, is inevitable: in jazz, individuality has been celebrated more intensely than in any other art, past or present. To be individual means to be different; to be different means to search for another way of doing things. As a result, jazz musicians and fans alike often seem to put the question, "Is it different?" in front of the really basic question, "Is it good?"

Therein lies what seem to me to be the dangers confronting jazz.

Optimism is so ingrained in the average American, at least the average white American, that he finds it impossible to entertain even the thought that his nation might someday disappear – though threats to America's existence are many and real. American jazz fans, reflecting the national optimism (I do not mean "cheerfulness"; I mean simply an inability to consider that the worst, not the best, very well might triumph in a given situation), assume that jazz is going to go on forever – even though the history of music is strewn with abandoned forms.

BEING neither optimist nor pessimist by nature, I can easily entertain the possibility that jazz could disappear in the foreseeable future; at the same time, I am not convinced that it will. Whether jazz grows or dies depends on a number of completely unpredictable factors.

I see three major threats to jazz from within, two of them musical, the third socio-political. Let's consider the first two together.

Jazz, I believe, faces the possibility of death by emotional dessication on the one extreme, or by emotional excess on the other. Putting it in other words, I think that at the one end of the spectrum, it could die of too much intellect and too little emotion, and at the other end, of too much emotion and too little intellect.

Since this is a general discussion, I don't intend to discuss the music of specific individuals. But, as followers of jazz are well aware, attempts to mix jazz and classical music have gone on for some time. A term, Third Stream, has come into use – though the mixing of the two musics began long before that. Indeed, Dave Brubeck has argued that the entire history of jazz represents a mixing of the Negro musical tradition with that of Western music. Thus, you could say that all jazz has been a third stream music.

Henry Pleasants, a noted critic of classical music, has decried the emptiness of much modern classical music, as have other writers. The chief complaint is that classical music has worked itself into a blind alley and that most contemporary classical music is chilly intellectual exercising, bloodless, emotionless, lifeless. Thus, it seems to me that Third Stream too often is an effort to marry jazz to a corpse, for the sake of a dubious respectability.

The other side of the spectrum is that of excessive utterly unrestrained emotionalism. There is in jazz today a school of thought that holds the position – whether they realize this is their position or not – that it doesn't matter how crudely, how sloppily, how defectively you play, so long as you are expressing yourself. What you express, whether or not it is worth expressing, and whether or not anyone understands it, does not seem to matter. If this trend continues, jazz could end up having about as much artistic significance as that of a baby crying his lungs out while banging a pot with a spoon: he's expressing himself, all right, but about all he is achieving in the listener, by way of emotional response, is a high degree of nervous irritation.

I don't think either of these extremes is likely to be the predominant trend in jazz. Jazz has among its musicians too many intelligent, strong, emotionally warm

JAZZ IS A MEDIUM of expression originated by the American Negro because it allowed him an emotional and intellectual outlet which he could find nowhere else. He was able to say many things musically which would not have been accepted by a white America had he verbalized them. As it was, his music was so meaningful in the context of American culture that it was often plagiarized and exploited by white opportunists.

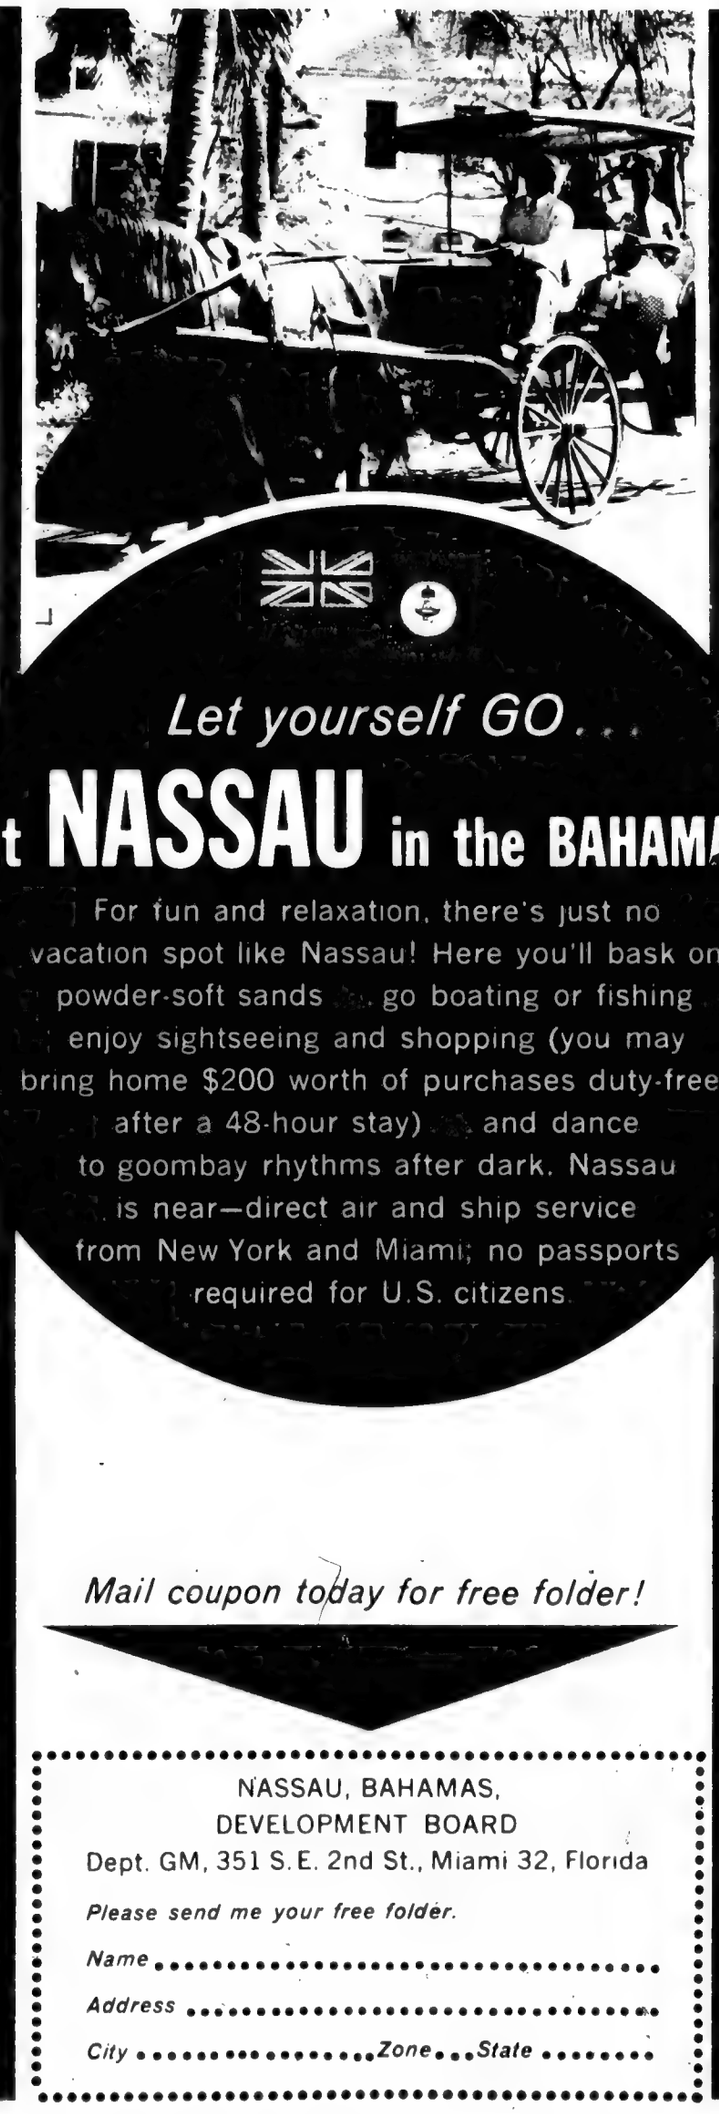
Even in those early days of jazz, if a white musician literally lived with his Negro counterpart it was possible for him to assimilate much of the spirit of the music and play it as if it were his own and since he could move freely in and out of the situations which made the music necessary he was able to reach a much wider audience than even the most popular Negro performer.

However, as the position of the Negro in the social and economic structure of America has changed, so has his music. Jazz reflects now, as it always has, many facets of the Negro's life in America. Thus the dynamic tour of Art Blakey's drums, the subtle shadings of Milt Jackson's vibes, the sometimes erratic but always compelling sound of Charlie Mingus' bass and many other individual voices in jazz are poles apart yet they stem from the same need for personal expression and from the same cultural background.

A VERY significant jazz musician is speaking in his own way simultaneously to and for a segment of the America he knows best. (i.e. The true "soul-stirrer" is playing in the gospel influenced tradition he was brought up in, while his more urbane brother is creating in the Scott Joplin, Will Marion Cook, Jelly Roll Morton and Duke Ellington.

However, no matter what style he plays, the Negro musician of today is earnestly striving to be recognized as an individual. He is proud of the fact that he is a member of the ethnic group that created the definite American music and he is hopeful that his contribution to his musical heritage will be as significant as the contributions of his predecessors. Because he is a sensitive human being he identifies with the "sit-ins" and other movements which are important to his race and expresses his feelings through his music.

His talents take him into areas and situations which are not always open to other members of his race and because of his own experiences with prejudice in jobs, housing, schools and other areas of his personal life he is not as tolerant in his relations with white musicians as he once was. He has seen too many of them pay the same "dues" that he paid, then graduate from the insecurity of "jazz gigs" to well-paying studio and free lance jobs which require personal contacts he cannot get.



Because of economic factors and the realities of show business in this country, jazz has always been divided into two camps, Negro and white. Benny Goodman was crowned "King of Swing" in the 1930's playing Fletcher Henderson arrangements from the 1920's while Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Jimmy Lunceford and other aspirants for the crown enjoyed a much more limited acceptance playing music which was so meaningful that it is still with us in the jazz of the 1960's.

Goodman, of course, was a pioneer in bringing to the general public, music, which was full of the kind of excitement which was at one time only found in after hours sessions or in private gatherings when musicians of many ethnic groups got together to play jazz. However, despite the commercial success achieved by "The King of Swing," jazz remained segregated except for a handful of Negroes who worked with white bands, and an even smaller number of whites who worked with Negro units. Except in the making of records jazz was blessed with token-integration.

This situation has changed considerably in the last few years. Today many integrated jazz groups, large and small, are working and recording together on a regular and frequently profitable basis. Jazz is still a very personal expression and, unfortunately, unless musicians from different cultural and ethnic backgrounds are brought together by chance or economic necessity they are often too busy with their own musical and personal problems to take time to get to know more about others in the field.

For the first time on the American screen, a Negro wins the love of a white girl. Anna's Sin, soon to be released, is an interracial love story with potent interludes. Here, Anna (Anna Vita) is asking forgiveness from John for having doubted his sincerity and love

"ANNA'S SIN"

Film portrays romance between Negro man and white female . . . and he wins the girl.

FROM AN AMERICAN NEGRO'S point of view, it is difficult to say that Anna's Sin, the soon-to-be released (in America) Italian film on interracial romance has bridged a chasm in Negro–white relationships which has not already been successfully done in the English movie Sapphire and the American movies The Defiant Ones and All The Young Men, neither of which had an interracial love angle.

But viewing the film in an Italian perspective, and especially in the eyes of its leading star-author and producer, Anna Vita (Anna Curti), a theater goer cannot fail to appreciate the sincerity with which Miss Vita has attempted to say something for the Negro and against prejudices.

Her Negro lover, Ben Johnson, a Trinidad-born dentist living in Rome, adequately portrays the role of Opera star Othello, who really falls in love with his leading lady, Desdemona, played by Miss Vita.

American novelist William Demby portrays the role of "Sam," another Negro living in Rome who is a friend of Johnson's (and the only person who can clear his name of charges that he molested an American white child years ago and served time in jail for the crime).

Similar to a recent trend in American cowboy-Indian films, where the Indian wins a few battles for posterity's sake, Johnson (in the picture, John Rutherford), wins his true love Anna, after suspenseful interludes of a dramatic chase through the streets of Rome; the diabolical affection of Anna's guardian and hopeful lover, and the traditional sacrifice of material success to win the woman he loves.

"ANNA'S SIN" is indeed a message play with the original role of Othello written for Canada Lee, Negro actor now deceased. It is a Giaguaro Film production (Anna Vita owns half the company) and is being released in this country by Atlantis Films, Inc.

The movie says a great deal and offers a possible rational approach to Europeans and Americans, some of whom are still fighting battles already lost or won in the Civil War.

This is a state of affairs which must be remedied because jazz can never again be music by Negroes strictly for Negroes any more than the Negroes themselves can return to the attitudes and emotional responses which prevailed when this was true.

Jazz now is American music in the truest sense of the word, and regardless of its origins, it is now a powerful influence on the music of the world. Not only have many forms of popular music developed from jazz but one has only to listen to musicians like Toshiko, from Japan, Joe Zawihul from Austria, Candido from Cuba and Arif Mardin from India to get a partial idea of the impact jazz has had on people in different parts of the world with wide variances in language and cultural orientation. Indeed, some jazz is so cosmopolitan that it is understood and appreciated more in Hungary than in Harlem.

With the spread of jazz through records and personal appearances throughout the world it is only natural that it will continue to grow and incorporate features and devices found in other kinds of music and as long as great jazz performers continue to communicate something unique to their audience, jazz will continue to grow artistically and enjoy a marked increase in popularity and acceptance. ■

The idea that Negro musicians have some innate advantage over whites in playing jazz (they do have a slight environmental edge, but that people who have the courage of their convictions. Admirers of jazz can be thankful that jazz has among its ranks such men as Gil Evans, whose highly intellectual product is controlled by an exceptional musical intellect. I cite these as what could be termed the healthy extremes.

The third threat to jazz – the socio-political one – is to some extent involved with the first two. It is inextricable involved with a threat to America's very existence. I refer to the racial situation.

We are confronted today in jazz with an anomalous situation: this is the one area of American life where whites are discriminated against by Negroes – and, curiously enough, also by whites whose championing of the Negro cause has reached a leaning-over-backwards position. Recently, I heard reliably of a white trumpeter who was told by the directors of jazz labels in New York, "We aren't recording white talent."

Discrimination against white musicians is discrimination in the one area where Negroes have found white allies with a belief in the equality of the Negro and a willingness to to fight for it. In other words, it is an attempt to "punish" whites that some indefinable basic difference between Negroes and whites. Is it necessary for me to point out how dangerous that idea is, to Negroes and whites alike?

That is the social danger of this idea. There is a musical danger, is not the same as an innate advantage) leads to the idea that there is too. It is, as I mentioned, connected with the previous two dangers.

I see a danger that jazz will divide into two camps, Negro and white. This has already happened, to some extent. Jazz without its Negro roots would be, I think, a cold, gutless intellectual amuse ment. Jazz without the tradition of "white" western classical music would be an unbounded emotional scream. Neither set of attributes would be sufficient to validate jazz as an art.

Jazz grew out of a cultural cross-pollination. I would not want to see that process halted. On the one side is the cold; on the other is chaos. ■ class. But Wright was aware that the fraudulence essential to successful selling pervades the sellers, making for fraudulence of feeling. Wright knew that you don't have to vanish just to be gone. He knew that in times of great corruption, it is the outcasts who speak truth.

He knew that the stink in the herring begins in the head.

The multitudes of the tin-roofed Hoovervilles of Caracas, the men and women of Johannesburg burning passes that identify them as mere things, the Cuban peasants in the fields, are not overturning the world today because of instructions from the Kremlin, but upon the instruction of their own spirits, which assure them that they, too, belong to the company of men. ▼ what waited for Walter since his eyes opened on the world, and has tried to protect him from it. How can he fail, then, at the age of thirty five, with his wife ageing, and his son growing up, to flail about him like a man in a trap? For he is in a trap. And why, may I ask, and how, should his dreams be more noble than those of anyone else in this sad place? He is not presented, after all, as exceptional, merely as struggling – which is, perhaps, all things considered, quite exceptional enough.

I am not myself terribly worried about color TV and split-level houses, etc., since I consider my life to be already sufficiently compromised by the garbage of this century. My own rather melancholy feeling is that as long as people want these things, they will do everything in their power to get them; when they want something better, they will make it; all I can do in the meantime, it seems to me, is attempt to prove, by hard precept and harder example, that people can be better than they are. I see no point in railing against the American middle class as such. They are a pretty sorry lot, God knows, but they are suffering here in their tawdry splendor. What one has to do, I think, is undermine the standards by which they imagine themselves to live. As for the rise of the Negro into the middle class, I am not certain that what is happening in this country can be summed up quite so neatly. It doesn't look much like a rise to me, it looks more like an insane rout, with white people fleeing to the suburbs of cities, hotly pursued by Negroes. In any case, by the time anything we can comfortably speak of as a 'rise' has occurred, this country will be, for better or worse, unrecognizable.

Well, I think I may be running out of space. But I do not know what Mr. Algren has in mind when he speaks of the right of the Negro to be himself. What, exactly, is this 'self' of which Mr. Algren speaks so boldly? How does Raisin In The Sun deny the Negro this right? There are a great many Negroes in real estate, for example, and there are even a few in advertising. Are they, or are they not claiming their right to be themselves? What are the well-springs of Negro life?

No, I cannot agree that Miss Hansberry has written a play about real estate. Perhaps the real difference between her play and Wright's novel is that twenty-one years have passed and very little, for most of the Negroes in this country, has changed. Bigger died in his trap and Walter walks out of his, into the greater one. There is no other place for him to move. If he has left behind him something of value, it is up to those of us who know what value is to make certain that it is not entirely lost. ▼

CARE FOR BABY

A BABY is an expensive proposition... particularly the first one. Neighbors, friends, or relatives often give you the loan of a crib, a carriage, or playpen, but there are always a lot of little things needed. So when cost corners can be cut, cut them.

Assisting you in such an economy plan are some of your old household staples such as baking soda. Instead of having a single use, as do most of your specialized lotions and potions, baking soda has many, yet the cost of a single half pound box is only seven cents. A few of its many uses: cleanser for baby's paraphernalia — all types of toys, rubber, plastic and wooden that invariably get popped into mouths can be safely washed in a soda solution... a teaspoon of soda per quart of water. The infant's furniture, playpen, crib and high chair, should also be sponged down with a soda solution from time to time. Also, a little dry soda applied with a damp sponge or cloth will nullify the odor and banish the stain from baby's regurgitations on clothes, rug or furniture.

Baby bottles can accumulate until you're ready to wash and sterilize them if you fill each with water and add a half teaspoon of soda immediately after use. Put nipples to soak in a mild soda solution. This practice does away with hard-to-remove milk film and that stale milk odor.

Many of baby's skin problems are relieved with baking soda. Prickly heat and minor skin rashes are soothed by the application of a mild soda solution of bicarb dabbed on the affected area with a piece of cotton several times a day.

And here's a final cost-cutting tip. Add three tablespoons of bicarb to every gallon of water used in the diaper pail to keep odors under control.

Beauty HINTS

by Edith Redd

Is it true that lemon juice is helpful in bleaching freckles? Alicia T., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Yes, pure lemon juice applied to the freckled areas with a small brush. Allow it to remain on for fifteen or twenty minutes each day, and then wash it off in the regular manner with a good mild soap and warm water. Lemon juice has a tendency to be drying, apply a little lubricating cream (night cream) after washing and allow it to remain for an equal period of time.

The consistent use of a make-up base will protect these pigmented areas against added pigmentation, and eventually, with consistent use, the freckles will become minimized. Wear either a cream or liquid cream foundation, but it should not be chosen to match the freckles. Compliment your normal skin tone.

What is the correct way to use a lip-brush? I can't seem to master the use of a brush. Janet M., Boston, Mass.

Handling a lip-brush requires practice. Brace your elbow on your dressing table or place the tip of the little finger against your chin to serve as a brace. Start drawing in the outline of your lips with a brush. Outline the lip first – then fill in the color.

I noticed in the October issue, you mentioned "setting the make-up" to avoid spotty repair work. How do you "set" your make-up? Delores W., San Francisco, Calif.

It is a simple matter to set your make-up. Dip a face towel or cotton square into cold water. Wring out, and press gently all over the facial area, being sure to spread apart the eye-crevices and laugh lines. This eliminates the tense or tight feeling on the skin due to powdering.

WANTED — James Hardie is being hunted for the murder of 19-year-old Geraldine Hunt whom he brought here two years ago from Detroit.

Armed Slayer Kills Mistress, Friend, Flees

Geraldine Hunt, 19, of 8708 S. Central ayenue, was shot through the head and killed Sunday afternoon by the man who had brought her here two years ago when she was only 17 to live with him as his mistress, police said.

Also shot and killed was a friend, Roland H. Hollimon, 29, who presumably tried to intervene to save the young girl's life.

UNHURT, TERRIFIED

The woman friend with whom Miss Hunt was living, Nancy Prout, was unhurt, but terrified as she heard the killer rushing through the house yelling, "Where is the other one? Where is she?" Miss Prout hid behind the half-

Doris Willis' Strangler Gets Life Sentence

Robert Rudolph Willis, 28, who first confessed, then denied, he strangled his attractive distant relative, Doris Willis, last February, again changed his mind Tuesday morning and pleaded "guilty" to the charge in Judge Walter Evans' court.

He was convicted of first degree murder and was immediately sentenced to life imprisonment.

ADMITTED SLAYING

He admitted slaying the popular young woman who was a checker at Thriftimart's Adams and Vermont store, at her home, 5149 W. 21st street, on Feb. 1.

Her body was found lying at the foot of her bed, fully clothed in the white knit sweater, off-white peddle pushers and cream-colored plastic shoes she had worn earlier in the evening while bowling with fellow employees.

EXTRADITED

Willis, a distant cousin of the slain woman, was extradited from Houston, Texas, where he was picked up when he was spotted driving her stolen automobile.

Returned to Los Angeles, police claimed he "cooperated fully," went with them to Miss Willis' apartment where he reenacted the crime, and admitted that he had waited for her to return and then had strangled her with a piece of rope. When he came up for arraignment, however, he pleaded "not guilty." Tuesday he reversed the plea.

Low Salaried City Workers Denied Raises

City Council Monday swallowed a camel and strained at a gnat. It approved wage increases for top salaried officials that will amount to $4.5 million a year—but refused increases to the lowest paid employees that would have added another $266,000 to the annual bill.

Deprived of raises were 1,600 workers, mostly janitors and business machine operators.

Granted increases were 12,751 other workers and officials, including Chief of Police Parker and Fire Chief, Miller, whose salaries were raised from $20,600 a year to $21,750; and City Administrative Officer Samuel Leask, Jr., who gets a hike from $22,800 to $24,050 a year.

The vote depriving janitors of a raise was unanimous; the vote on rises for Leask, Parker and Miller was 10-2, with Councilman Gordon and Councilwoman Rosalind Wyman in opposition.

AND IN MISSISSIPPI—Gloria Laverne Floyd, 9, was lassoed by white youths in a passing car in Jackson, Miss. last week and dragged by the wire around her neck. She suffered a deep gash in her head, cheek bruises, a cut on the right shoulder and burn marks on her neck from the wire.

2 Officers Accused Of Beating Prisoner

Morris Brown, 27, of 1738 Browning street, a salesman, this week accused two police officers of beating him last Thursday while he was being held at the 77th Street Police Station.

Brown, bruised and battered, wearing bandages for a chipped shoulder and other injuries, told the Eagle he was knocked down, stomped, kicked, cursed and dragged downstairs by two jailers. He said, that, as a result, he was coughing up blood and was in great pain.

DENIED TREATMENT

Brown said a sergeant at 77th, after the beating, told him that his treatment was the result of rising tension between the races and that he had best forget it because he couldn't sue the city, anyway.

When a doctor told officers that Brown should be taken to General Hospital for X-rays and treatment, the officers instead took him back to the station and continued to question and abuse him, Brown claimed. The prison doctor gave him some pills for his pain.

He was held, first at 77th then at Lincoln Heights, from Thursday until 9:30 a.m. Friday, when he was taken to General Hospital for treatment.

ASKS PROBE

He was returned to Lincoln Heights, where he made bail.

Through Atty. H. Clay Jacke, Brown has asked for an investigation by the Internal Affairs Division of the Police Department. The district attorney re-

Navarro Seat To Be Filled By Council

The announcement that City Council will begin receiving applications for appointment of a councilman to replace Charles Navarro stirred a new rash of activity among friends and supporters of a half dozen candidates for the position this week. Navarro is a virtual certainty to be elected city controller next Wednesday and must vacate his 10th district councilmanic post.

Councilman Harold Henry, chairman of the Charter and Administrative Committee, said that all applications must be in writing and told reporters that the appointment will be made prior to July 1. The appointee will serve until 1963.

FIVE MENTIONED

Among those prominently mentioned for the position are George Thomas, executive of the County Conference on Community Relations; J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson, business man; Tom Bradley, attorney and police officer; Atty. Elbert Hudson; George Seville, business man and Atty. Vince Monroe Townsend. All except Townsend and Seville are Democrats.

Thomas and Atkinson have both been candidates against Navarro. Atkinson ran a close race against him in 1959 and Thomas was a candidate in 1957. Bradley who has just qualified for retirement from the police department has never sought public office but has been active in the Democratic club movement. Townsend was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for the assembly in the 63rd district last year.

The appointee must be a resident of the 10th district and must have lived in the district for more than a year. The district includes most of the populous Westside community and portions of the Leimert Park district.

Anti-Bias Rider Loses in Senate

WASHINGTON — The Senate Monday defeated an amendment to the $2.5 million school bill that would deny federal aid to school districts that fail to take steps toward integration.

Vote to table—and thus kill—the amendment was 61 to 25.

The vote against the proposal, which had been introduced by Sen Bush (R-Conn.), was regarded as a victory for the Administration. Pres. Kennedy has taken the position that an anti-segregation rider would doom the entire bill.

Frank H. Barnes Gets Appointment as Pacoima Postmaster

Opposition is Still Attempting To Block Selection of Negro

Frank H. Barnes, postal employee for close to 19 years, this week was awaiting official confirmation of his appointment as temporary postmaster at Pacoima.

Sen. Clair Engle last week recommended Barnes for the post, selecting him over three other contenders.

FIRST ON COAST

Barnes told the Eagle Monday that he has not yet received official confirmation of the appointment, but Kenneth Sharp, chairman of the Democratic Central Committee in the 41st Assembly District, reported that he has in his possession a photostatic copy of Engle's letter naming Barnes.

Barnes was the unanimous choice of the 41st A.D. Committee, and received high commendation from other top-ranking Democrats.

If the appointment is confirmed, as seemed virtually assured, Barnes it is believed will be the first Negro postmaster on the West Coast and one of the few Negroes holding such a position in the entire United States.

OPPOSITION RACIAL

Bitter opposition to the appointment, however, is still being voiced, apparently in a last ditch effort to get Engle to reverse his decision.

Part of that opposition purportedly stems from the fact that Barnes lives in Northridge and not in Pacoima, although both are within the limits of the City of Los Angeles. Part of it, however, is plainly and frankly racial.

A letter from the Pacoima Women's Club, which reportedly is in the hands of the Northridge Democratic Club, of which Barnes is a member, declares in forthright language that Pacoima (that is, the Pacoima represented by the Women's Club) wants a white postmaster.

The Chamber of Commerce, also, apparently is not happy over Barnes' selection.

AN INSULT

Its manager, Mrs. Pauline Taylor, reportedly told the Valley Times:

"I think this recommendation is an insult to one of our civic leaders. Out of 70,000 people in Pacoima, a local man could have been selected who met the requirements set forth and a permanent appointment could be made."

The opposition to Barnes seems to center around Richard LeBaron, who is also a postal employee of many years standing.

Barnes, 48, who lives with his wife Marian at 18201 Plummer street, Northridge, has long been active in the NAACP, the Fair Employment Practices Committee and Democratic Clubs. The Barnes have one son who is a junior at San Fernando Valley State College.

Frank Barnes, Frank Barnes, postal worker, has been selected by Sen. Clair Engle as temporary Pacoima postmaster. If the appointment is confirmed, he will be one of the few Negro postmasters in the United States.

BEATEN—Morris Brown, Fuller salesman, accuses 77th Street police officers of beating, stomping and dragging him along the floor on his stomach after he was arrested on a minor traffic charge.

Pacoiman Kills Wife, Shoots Self

Wade Thomas Mills, 40, broke into his 11446 Glenoaks avenue home Saturday and shot his three months' pregnant wife three times, then turned the gun on himself. Dead was Mrs. Virginia Jennie Mills, 37, the mother of five children from 11 to 19 years of age.

The shooting occurred after a week of heated argument. Mills said he did not believe he was the father of the child and suspected his wife had been intimate with a man with whom she worked at the veteran's Hospital in Sawtelle.

At home at the time of the shooting was the couple's eldest son, Wade Jr., and Mrs. Mills' sister, Mrs. Bernice Walton.

Mills is in critical condition from two bullet wounds in a valley hospital. He said he was sorry he had shot his wife.

Terror in Montgomery Told in On-the-Spot Report

SPECIAL TO THE EAGLE
(As Told to Grace E. Simons)

They prayed all night, all night Sunday.

They prayed; they sang; they listened to the speeches of their leaders. Sometimes they cheered.

There were tense moments, too, as the jeering, shouting, threatening, angry mob outside circled the church. These hoodlums were at the main entrance, in the rear, at the sides.

Inside, there was a feeling of panic, a feeling of being trapped. Fear gripped the 1,500 people jammed into the First Baptist Church of Montgomery, Ala., Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy's church, filling every seat, spilling over into the aisles.

PANIC SPREAD

The feeling of panic spread from one to another.

The mob outside hurled tear gas at the church; threw rocks inside. The moment was critical. People in the rear gasped for breath. They rushed toward the front.

The speaker at the pulpit remained calm. He reassured the people before him; his courage spread out to his listeners.

The moment of fear passed. It was probably no more than three or four minutes in all, according to a telephoned report from Wyatt Tee Walker, director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, right-hand man to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

PEOPLE PRAYED

The panic disappeared as quickly as it had arisen. The people prayed.

Outside, the first siren indicating the arrival of police, pierced the air. It was 8:50 p.m.

Walker said that he arrived at the church early. The crowd of threatening whites then was not large, possibly not more than a hundred. It was 7:40 p.m.

There were no city police in sight, only U.S. marshals hastily summoned from surrounding states, who were unorganized.

POLICE DISINTERESTED

A crowd of whites from the nearby park began pressing toward the church, menacingly. As the minutes ticked by the crowd came closer, grew in numbers.

Calls to police brought no response. The desk sergeant said casually he would talk to the chief.

The crowds grew. They were estimated at 1500 or more. Still no city police. The mob had tear gas and was hurling it at the church. They stormed the front

ALABAMA EYE-WITNESS — Edward N. Blankenheim, student Freedom Rider, told newsmen Monday that police joined the rabble in Anniston, Ala., in beating up young negroes.

Eye-witness Tells of Terror Ride in Ala.

By C. MARIE HUGHES

"Y'all ain't in Georgia now. You're in Alabama."

That's the way one of the law inforcement officers greeted Freedom Riders when they arrived in Anniston, Ala., Edward N. Blankenheim, one of the riders, told a press conference here Monday.

Blankenheim told of the white mob that was waiting for the bus when they arrived in the Alabama town across from the Georgia border. He told of the posse of cars that followed them outside of town, surrounded them when two of the tires of the bus blew out, hurled rocks through bus windows, and then threw a fire-bomb inside the vehicle.

GASPING FOR AIR

Fire and smoke filled the bus and the riders, gasping for air, rushed to the windows and door. Girls climbed out the windows, Blankenheim said. The men made it to the exit.

Police, he said, instead of protecting the Freedom Riders, joined the mob and joined in beating up the students, both the girls and the men.

One girl, Mae Frances Moultre, a Negro of Sumter, S.C., was so badly mauled that she was hospitalized for 11 days. Another, a white girl, Genevieve Hughes, of Washington, was even more severely battered. She is still in the hospital, Blankenheim said.

BRUTAL TO WHITES

The thugs, the Freedom Rider said, beat some of the Negroes unconscious, then left them on the ground.

They were even more brutal toward the white riders. The whites they continued to beat even after they had fallen and had blacked out.

Blankenheim was rushed here to fill a speaking engagement at Vermont Square Methodist Church Monday night. James Farmer, na-

Poulson, Yorty Mayoral Race Seen as Close

Los Angeles voters will go to the polls Wednesday (not Tuesday) to make a choice for mayor between Norris Poulson, incumbent and Sam W. Yorty with indications that the race will be a close one in the Negro community. Available figures show that Poulson won a close majority in the primary but Yorty supporters claim to have closed the gap. The election will be held Wednesday this year because Tuesday happens to be Memorial Day.

In addition to the mayor, voters will choose between Charles Navarro, incumbent councilman in the 10th district, and Dan Hoye for the position of City Controller. Navarro, who has never been a favorite of Negro voters may get their ballots this year because his election will result in his vacating his councilman's seat and the hope is that he will be replaced by a Negro.

TWO COUNCILMEN

There are two councilmanic elections, both in the San Fernando Valley where there are comparatively few Negro voters. Ernani Bernardi and Howard "Cap" Hardy are contesting in the 7th district and Norbert Moffett and Tom Shepard in the third

Loren Miller says . . .

WHAT'S IN A NAME

There's no question about it. Cousin 'Lige — that was grandma's half sister's boy by her second husband—never amounted to much. He had made it to the fourth grade when Pleasant Hills school burned down but the board was so long about getting another place built that his parents figured he was too old for schooling by the time they got the building ready. He finally went off to join the army, but got picked up and put in jail for six months before they discovered they had the wrong man.

MILLER

When he got back home his father was dead and his brothers and sisters had divided up the home place. They finally gave him 40 acres back in the hills but the spring rains washed away his crops every year.

With that kind of record behind him, Cousin 'Lige just naturally had it tough. Nobody would take

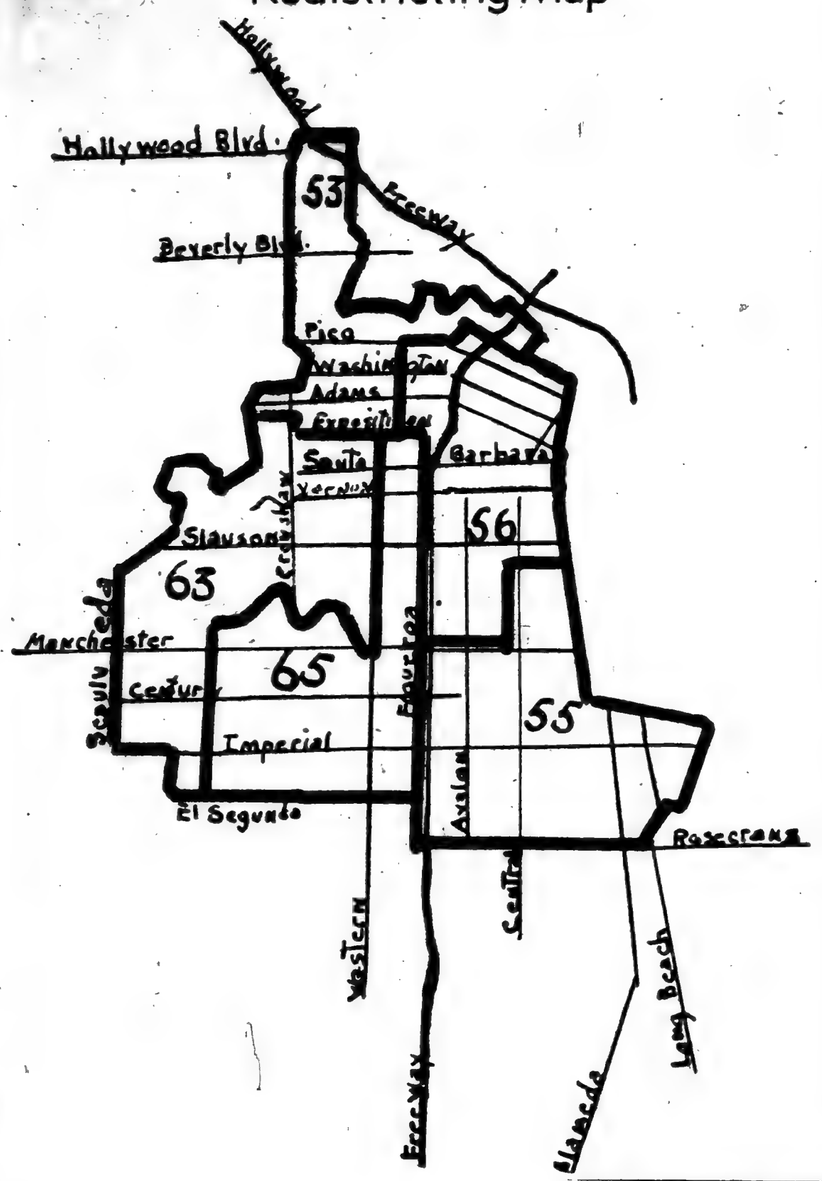
Judge Says Parker Talks Like a 'Red'



Police Chief Parker got a dressing down in Chicago last Tuesday from a Michigan Supreme Court judge who told him his policies are similar to those advocated by Communists.

Addressing 150 delegates to Northwestern University's annual conference of police officials, Parker complained of the curbing of police power. He was particularly bitter over the McNabb-Mallory rule that bars use in federal courts of confessions obtained during illegal detention.

Judge George Edwards, of the highest court in Michigan, took the chief to task.

"Mr. Parker suggests," said the judge, "that anybody who defends the Bill of Rights and the constitutional provisions behind such judicial control is on the side of the Communist Party. But it is the Communists who are in favor of untrammeled power of police."

Redistricting Map

New Districts To Split Negro Westside Vote

Negro voters living east of Figueroa street and those in the South Los Angeles area will be in the majority in two assembly districts—the 55th and 56th—while Negro voters living on the Westside will be split up between three assembly districts — the 53rd, 63rd and 65th—under a redistricting plan approved by an assembly committee last week and almost certain to be approved with only minor variations.

The 56th district is in effect the present 62nd district in the Central Avenue area and has been represented for more than 27 years by Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins. It will be combined with the 55th district now represented by Assemblyman Vernon Kilpatrick lying in the South Los Angeles area to form a new congressional district, the 21st. Hawkins, a Democrat, is expected to make a strong bid to represent the district in Congress next year.

NEGRO VOTERS

The 53rd district lies west of Figueroa street and north of Exposition boulevard with a long finger wandering out to Hollywood. It will be combined with the 40th assembly district to form the 30th congressional district which will have no incumbent congressman. Its Negro population will be about 20 per cent of the total.

The 65th district lies south of Exposition and runs out to include Inglewood but includes an area lying between Western on the west and Harbor Freeway on the east that runs to Adams boulevard. Negro voters predominate in that strip and there are a large number in between Florence and Exposition. It is now represented by Assemblyman Jess Unruh.

The 63rd district, now represented by Assemblyman Don Allen, includes the Westside area living west of Western and in the area between Washington and Exposition boulevards. The district is bounded by Supelveda and San Diego Freeway on the west.

NEW DISTRICT

The 63rd and 65th districts will be combined to form the new 31st congressional district in which there is no incumbent congressman.

The effect of the redistricting plan is to divide the city's more than 350,000 Negro residents between three congressional and five assembly districts. Negro voters will be in the majority in three others, the 53rd, 63rd and 65th. Negro voters will be in a majority in one congressional district, the 21st, will have a small majority in another, the 30th, and a substantial majority in the 31st.

Harvey Aluminum Plant Accused of Biased Hiring

The United Steelworkers of America Monday asked the federal government to check racial discrimination in hiring and employment opportunities at plants of the Harvey Aluminum, Inc., in Torrance.

In letters to Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, head of President Kennedy's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities, the union says that it has evidence that Negroes and other minorities are denied jobs and that there is no promotional opportunity evident for the few minority members who do work there.

LOWEST CLASSIFICATION

The letter, signed by the union's Western Director Charles J. Smith, states that, of the some 300 women employed at Harvey in Torrance, only one is a negro and "she is in the lowest classification—a janitress."

There is but one Negro in the machine operator's classification and none in the skilled groups, the union charges.

In its complaint, the union includes also the company's aluminimum operation in The Dalles, Ore. Both plants are engaged in a substantial amount of government work.

The Division of Industrial Safety of the State of California recently issued over 100 citations against the Harvey Aluminum plant at 19200 Western Avenue for violation of the industrial safety code, the union claims.

It also asserts that Lawrence Harvey, head of the company, is one of the industrialists active in the top echelon of the Democratic Party.

Mrs. Berryman Child Centers Ass'n Delegate

Mrs. Doris Berryman, leader in the fight to prevent the closing of 13 child care centers in Los Angeles, has just been named to a post that will enable her to continue her efforts on the state level.

She has been appointed delegate for the Central Area of Los Angeles to the California Parents Association for Child Centers.

The group will hold a conference in San Francisco Sept. 30, and its annual convention in Long Beach Nov. 11.

Selected as a candidate for county commissioner in Leavenworth, Kansas, Thomas D. Beal said: "I am young enough to know better and dumb enough to be honest."

Gas Attendant Shoots Robber Who Stole $20

A suspected robber was found shot, still clutching a $20 bill in his right hand as he lay on the island between gasoline pumps at Sopp's Service Station, 235 W. Manchester blvd., Saturday morning.

The station attendant, Yates Conkey, told officers that the suspect, William Hayes Webb, 39, brought his car into the station to have the battery charged.

When he returned and was told the cost was $1, he went to the trunk of his car and began fumbling around inside.

Then, with his hand concealed in his shirt, he told Conkey, "This is a stick-up. Be quiet or I'll blow your brains out."

He marched Conkey into the office and made the girl give him a $20 bill.

As he turned, Conkey grabbed his gun and held it to the man's back, saying, "You've had it."

The thief swerved and Conkey shot him.

Police said Webb had a combination tire iron and lug wrench concealed in his pants.

Negroes in Harlem Boo NAACP Rally

NEW YORK — The NAACP—perhaps for the first time in its history—had one of its meetings broken up by boos, catcalls and shouting of a group of Negroes.

Halfway through the program, the NAACP called off an outdoor rally in Harlem celebrating the May 17th Supreme Court school integration anniversary.

'INTEGRATION, NO!'

The disruptive claque hooted, shouted, chanted, booed and howled. They carried signs reading, "Africa, Yes — Integration, No!"

A flying egg hit the Rev. Thomas Kilgore, a Baptist minister, in the mouth as his head was bowed in prayer.

Little Rock heroine Daisy Bates was heckled and booed.

Rev. L. P. Ladson, a Baptist clergyman, was drowned out as he attempted to give the invocation.

Baritone Richard Kirby rendered the Star Spangled Banner twice but was shouted down each time.

LUMUMBA'S PHOTO

Percy Sutton, president of the Harlem NAACP branch, who was presiding, was constantly heckled by the claque of about 40 young people, believed to be members of one or more African Nationalist groups.

No positive identification was possible, but the group carried placards containing photographs of Patrice Lumumba, who was assassinated in the Congo last January.

Working on what seemed to be pre-arranged signals, the hecklers systematically denied platform speakers freedom of speech and thereby inflicted their will upon the entire assemblage of 2,000 persons.

They blocked out Actor Ossie Davis, Singer Joe Williams and sit-in leader Amos Brown of Jackson, Miss. Rumors had circulated around the Metropolitan area for over a week that splinter groups would "break up" the rally.

The rally was called off before Linda Brown, plaintiff in the Topeka, Kan., school integration case, one of five leading to the 1954 Supreme Court ruling, was able to speak.

Also skipped was the wind-up speech, "May 17th — Seven Years After," by NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins.

Senator Oren E. Long asked Episcopal Bishop Harry Kennedy if he had ever been to Tahiti. "Yes," said the bishop sadly. "And I have only one regret—that I didn't visit Tahiti before I joined the church."

Unity Awards Program Held Controversial

By MAGGIE HATHAWAY

Last Sunday we attended the controversial Unity Awards Concert given by the Hollywood Race Committee at the AME Church at 8th and Towne Avenue.

Leon Hardwick opened the program by announcing that he and Caleb Petterson stumbled upon the idea of forming the Hollywood Race Committee two weeks ago. The printed program, however, stated that this was the "Fourth Annual Awards" affair given by the committee.

The first we heard of the Hollywood Race Committee was a week after the International Artists, a group of Hollywood actors, had won their fight to change the Negro actors' casting from E. 99th street to Hollywood boulevard.

Caleb Petterson contacted the president of this group to see if it would picket the Academy Awards presentation because, he said, he had met with a group of Hollywood producers and was not happy over the amount of segregation he had observed in the various departments of the studios. His request was refused. He later called to say that he found that he could get results from the studios by telling them that the "Awards" were going to be picketed by the Muslims, and he did not need the International Artists.

Edward Warren, president of the NAACP, expressed the opinion, prior to the Unity Awards concert, that this was not the time to honor anyone in Hollywood while segregation remained in almost all departments of the industry.

The program was a long, drawn-out affair. It seemed as if everyone came to advertise a business, solicit votes or publicize a picture.

Among the few well deserved awards were those given to Sammy Davis, Jr. and Bert Lancaster, who has been casting Negroes in his productions. Others receiving awards were John Cassovetes and Ella Fitzgerald.

A white woman, after the concert, stated that her husband was a set decorator for "A Raisin in the Sun," but that studios refused to hire him because, she said, "he is a Negro."

TYPING EXPERT — Douglas Sykes, 17, of Dorsey High, test-typed a perfect 75 words per minute, to rank among the top 10 contestants and to win a trip to New York City where he will compete in a nation-wide contest Saturday.

Purse Rifled At Party on Vernon Ave.

Alvesta Eaves, a 22-year-old sewing machine operator, told police Friday night that a man hit her in the face with a gun and knocked her down twice after she had accused him of taking some money from her purse at a party.

His two sisters then got into the battle and started beating up another woman, Phyllis Johnson, who had come to her rescue.

The party was held at the home of Gloria Tonsill and Elaine Joyce, 1731 W. Vernon avenue.

The unidentified assailant reportedly is Miss Tonsill's brother.

Miss Eaves said the man took some money from her purse and that after an argument she left, but forgot to take her pocketbook with her.

The man and several others then left the apartment and got into an automobile. When she called to them asking about her purse, her assailant got out of the car and the fighting began.

Prosecute Alabama's Eichmans

Alabama's Gov. John S. Patterson greeted federal marshals sent to his state to protect Negro interstate passengers with the stereotyped southern response: they weren't needed; their presence violated constitutional guarantees; the state had the situation well in hand.

Only the last statement is true and it is true only in the cynical sense that state authorities deliberately planned for, facilitated, and encouraged the assault of the freedom riders.

The mob had been waiting at the station for more than an hour before the bus arrived from Birmingham. Everybody knew the bus was on its way; everybody knew what the mob was prepared to do.

Montgomery's commissioner of public safety told newsmen that he had not sent any police to the bus station because he had "no intention of standing guard for a bunch of trouble-makers coming into our city and making trouble."

Gov. Patterson knew the bus was on its way. He had already told the federal government that he was unable to guarantee the safety of the passengers. Even the president of the United States could not find him when he tried to call the previous day.

There were no state troops at the bus station when the freedom riders arrived —because Gov. Patterson didn't want to prevent a minimum of difficulty for the so-called trouble makers.

The sheriff also knew that the bus was on its way and that the passengers were going to be assaulted. He did nothing. His deputies arrived more than an hour after the rioting began.

The attorney general of Alabama knew all about the bus and its passengers. His answer, as chief law enforcement official of his state, was to get an injunction purporting to prohibit American citizens from riding on a public bus! — And to secure warrants for their arrest after they had been beaten almost to death.

The evidence is overwhelming that Alabama officials — city, county, and state—acted in concert, not to protect the bus passengers but to expose them to every possible danger and to insure that they would be roughed up by the mob.

It may be true that none of the officials expected the mob to get as far out of hand as it did: to beat up an assistant to the U.S. attorney general and to almost kill both men and women bus riders. The officials probably expected and would have been satisfied with a minimum of violence and a few bruises for the freedom riders.

When the mob got too far out of hand, and with the eyes and ears of the world on the scene, law enforcement officials did try to curb violence. But they were too late. Nobody can keep a mob in bounds.

We approve of the attorney general's action in sending marshals to the scene. We hope he can curb further violence. But he ought to go further. He ought to go to federal courts and grand juries and seek indictments against Alabama officials from the governor on down, as well as mob leaders. All of them are guilty of violating federal laws.

He ought to prosecute Alabama's junior grade Eichmans as a warning and as proof that the federal government won't tolerate racial violence.

Sam Yorty's Our Choice for Mayor

Our choice for mayor in next Wednesday's municipal election is Sam W. Yorty.

That choice is based on positive factors.

Mr. Yorty is well known to Negro voters. As an assemblyman he had a substantial number in his district and as a congressman he represented most of the Negro voters in the state.

In both instances in which he served as a legislator, Mr. Yorty was an unflagging advocate of civil rights measures. His voice and his vote were always registered on the right side.

We believe that Mr. Yorty would give positive leadership in municipal affairs. On the other hand, we believe that the incumbent is stalled on dead center, especially in the matter of human relations.

The most important municipal commissions as far as we are concerned are the civil service and police commissions. The mayor never did get around to naming a Negro to the civil service commission and dropped the Negro member of the police commission in what amounted to appeasement of the police department.

Outside the Board of Public Works, the mayor's appointments to municipal commissions have been two unimportant and ceremonial positions.

Almost from the time he took office, the mayor was importuned to name a human rights commission. He did nothing until the passage of state legislation had made the appointment of such a commission a matter of relative unimportance.

The critical issue of redistricting has been before the city twice during the mayor's incumbency. In neither instance did he do anything. A deliberate gerrymander still bars Negroes from city council.

On his part, Mr. Yorty has made a forthright pledge to grapple with the redistricting issue and has taken note of the fact that the present plan deprives Negroes of a voice in city government.

Negroes now comprise almost 14 per cent of the city's population. Los Angeles needs some long range planning to provide adequate housing and representation in civic affairs for that rapidly growing minority. Nothing has been done in those areas. We can't resist the unhappy belief that a return of the incumbent to office will only return us to the policy of drift that has obtained during his previous terms in office.

We agree with the majority of voters who cast their ballots in the primary that it's time for a change. We urge the election of Sam W. Yorty as mayor next Wednesday.

Who Speaks for the Congolese?

At our last count a half dozen large metropolitan dailies were on record with the demand that the Congolese government free Moise Tshombe — the Mirror was one of them.

In case you've lost count, Tshombe is the man who tried to deliver the mineral rich Congo province of Katanga back into the hands of the Belgians. He even hired a squad of white South Africans to help him. And he is the man whose police murdered Patrice Lumumba.

We've checked into the files of those same newspapers and not a one of them raised its voice to demand that Tshombe free Lumumba even after it was apparent that he was marked for murder. There's a moral to this sequence of events, so obvious that we're just going to leave it to you.

The Evils of Seniority System

The evils of the seniority system by which senators succeed to the chairmanships of committees without reference to merit and solely on the basis of time served in the Senate were never better illustrated than in the case of Senator Eastland of Mississippi.

He is on record with the flat statement that all members of the United States Supreme Court ought to be impeached! Why? Because of their civil rights decisions. We can't think of a better way to alienate friends and repel people of the world than by keeping Eastland at the head of his committee.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

There is bound to be a great deal of yip-yap over the fact that President Kennedy's decision is against support for civil rights legislation "at this time." In a certain sense the outcry — which will be of short duration — is justified by the expectations which the skillfully worded Democratic platform aroused in the last campaign.

It was a platform that promised largely, and if its promises were extremely vague where precise language was in order—well, who expects a political platform to be precise, except when denouncing the opposing party?

In another sense the outcry is mere petulance, having nothing to do with either the structure of a Democratic Congress or with the civil rights record of the incumbent President. Only the veriest political innocent would expect — seriously expect — a Democratic president to make a stern effort at effective civil rights legislation when sacrosanct seniority rules place reactionary, vindictive and racist southern legislators in control of the most important committee machinery of the Congress.

HE'S DEAD

Let a president who is dependent upon a Democratic majority for passage of his "must" legislation defy this reactionary bloc at its most sensitive point—civil rights bills — and then let him come back for help on defense, tax, social security and other bills of moment. Whenever he comes back, he's dead. Just like that.

One of President Eisenhower's assistants, in discussing the same subject from the standpoint of that administration remarked plaintively, "The President's trick in getting action from Congress is to make the Democratic leadership mad, but not too mad. If he doesn't make them mad about something, he doesn't get enough done; if he makes them too mad, then he won't get anything done. I tell you, it's a mess, getting along with a Democratic Congress, if you're a Republican President."

Well, President Kennedy, being a product of that Democratic Senate majority, didn't need to learn this lesson the hard way. He had been on the instructor's side while in the Senate. And he had made his comfortable deals on the subject of civil rights — as for instance when he voted to return the 1957 civil rights bill to the tender mercies of the Eastland Committee, where it would be strangled to death. Or, when he later voted in favor of the jury trial amendment to the bill, which would have thoroughly emasculated it.

GIVE A LITTLE

It wasn't that John Kennedy was anti-civil rights; there's nothing in his record to suggest this. It was simply that he was a member of the Democratic majority in the Senate, a majority controlled in the final showdown by a minority of race-baiting southern Democrats. If he wanted to take a little here, he had to give a little there. And that is the history of success in American politics. A cynical point of view, you say? I answer, Not at all. It's only a realistic appraisal. It's the story of every President's record in controversial affairs — from George Washington, through Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt and up to the present Administration.

One of the reasons why the dark-brown American voter is constantly being surprised and heartbroken at what he considers betrayal of campaign promises is that he seldom reads his history of campaigns in the past — and never reads the small print in the campaign promises of the present. The small print isn't in the contribution of the platform-writers; it is in the history of the party over a 20-year span, and in the record of the candidate over the past five, 10 or 15 years.

NO WHITE HORSE

No one, for instance, who had familiarized himself with the Eisenhower record in military leadership or as president of Columbia University could have expected Ike to become what the average Negro voter wanted him to be — a flaming crusader mounted on a white horse, using denunciatory epithets as devastatingly as a sword in wiping up the dirt with the infamous Faubus of Arkansas.

For Eisenhower had always been exactly what he was throughout his term in the White House — an amiable, lovable personality with a deep conviction of what was decent and fair, and an immense capacity for yoking conflicting opinions into a temporarily-workable compromise. So far as civil rights were concerned, this method brought some improvement but no solution.

"Well, it's barely possible that President Kennedy will come through with a sternly-determined drive for stronger civil rights legislation, but it's doubtful. When a man backs off from a predetermined course on the ground that "the time is not ripe," the chances are that he'll never find the climate change. For in matters like these, the climate is induced from within. And the President is perfectly right in holding that there remains plenty to be done through executive action by the White House — that is, if the Congress doesn't scare him off.

him seriously and he couldn't get any credit at the feed stores or the bank even when it looked like he might make a crop. The only person in Thurmond county who ever took up for him was grandma. She claimed that his troubles weren't his fault at all and blamed his mother. Grandma said it stood to reason nobody could ever make it in this life burdened down by a name like "Lige." Grandpa said there wasn't much to that argument because his name wasn't 'Lige at all. It was Elijah. Grandma said, well she would just like to have seen how much better off he would of done it his pa hadn't started calling him 'Lige in the first place.

Think of 'Lige Poole

I got to thinking about that the other day when I was loafing around and reading about Elijah Muhammed and his Muslims. The man's name isn't that at all, you know. He started out in life as Elijah Poole. Just think that over. Suppose he had picked up the nickname of 'Lige and had tried to start a movement all his own under the name of 'Lige Poole. I'll bet he wouldn't have a big home in Chicago right today, to say nothing of a group of hot and bothered followers. If, for example, Mrs. Pat Alexander had to trumpet out the great tidings that 'Lige Poole had advised Negroes to form a state of their own her sheet would be booted off the street.

As it is, she can give off the news that Elijah Muhammed has said that Negroes ought to give up the fight for integration and retreat into segregation and get a respectful hearing . There's something about the name that gives off the impression that 'Lige—I mean Elijah Muhammed —knows what he's talking about. Or you take a rather bright young fellow named John Morris: I'm as sure as can be that Johnny would have laughed himself almost to death if a man named 'Lige Poole had walked up to him and told him to call himself Johnny X. The way it is now, Johnny breaks his neck hollering Amen every time 'Lige opens his mouth.

He's Got Mother Wit

Or, to get down to cases, how far do you think 'Lige Poole would have got if he had called his organization the "'Lige Poole Back to Africa Society"? My own guess is that the organization would have been snickered off of Central Avenue. And who do you think would have submitted to being searched in order to gain admittance to the "Johnny Morris Chapter of the 'Lige Poole Separate State Club"? And one more thing: I'll get you anything you want to wager that you couldn't get the "Ladies Auxiliary of the 'Lige Poole Order of the Amalgamated and Independent Order of Descendants of Africans of the World" to sit in anybody's balcony, as the "Muslim" women are required to do.

Any way you want to look at it, you have got to give 'Lige Poole some credit. Here's a poor boy who started out with a handicap and turned it to an advantage by simply changing the name 'Lige Poole to Elijah Muhammed. No telling how far he can go with that kind of ingenuity. In some ways he's like Grandma: he may not have had much education but he's sure got a lot of mother wit when it comes to names.

open door of her bedroom as she heard the shots and the thud when Hollimon fell to the floor a few feet from where she was hiding.

The suspect, James Earl Hardie, 27, made his getaway.

Police said that Hardie and Miss Hunt came here in September, 1959, and that he reportedly had threatened her many times and that on at least one occasion he had pointed the gun in her direction and warned:

"If you ever make me mad, I will kill you, and I don't care how many people I take with me."

According to authorities, Miss Hunt, a laundress, had been living with Hardie since they came here together until a week ago, when she moved out and went to live with Miss Prout.

Sunday afternoon Hardie came to see her and quarreled with her. He wanted her to come down to his car with him, but she refused.

He pulled her out of the front door.

Miss Prout ran to her bedroom to call police. She heard what sounded like a shot, and then a second shot.

'NO, JIMMY, NO!'

Holliman, she said, rushed into the bedroom where she was hiding, shouting, "No, Jimmy, No!"

She heard two more shots, as Holliman sank to the floor, mortally wounded.

Miss Prout said she remained behind the door for what seemed a long time, perhaps five or 10 minutes before daring to move to go to the telephone and call police.

When police arrived, they found the body of Miss Hunt, lying in a pool of blood in front of the doorway. A bullet had entered her head behind her left ear.

district. The 7th district includes Pacoima and Hardy is the favorite of Negro voters.

There are three propositions on the ballot. Proposition 1 would grant cost of living increases to about 400 retired and disabled policemen and firemen while Proposition 2 would give similar aid to some 2100 already retired general city employes. Some of the pensioners now receive less than $100 per month. Proposition 3 is a procedural change in the Harbor Commission powers.

Mayor Poulson's campaign has been in technical charge of Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins who has been in Sacramento at the legislative session. His brother, Ed Hawkins, has been in active charge, assisted by a large number of other public figures. Poulson adherents are certain of a majority, according to Rev. Maurice Dawkins, one of the most active campaigners.

Atty. Everett Porter who has been managing the Yorty campaign is just as certain of a victory for his candidate. He points out that Yorty has promised a thorough overhaul of city affairs, including a look at districting practices which have left Negroes without representation in City Hall. Yorty is a former assemblyman and congressman who has a wide acquaintance in the Negro community.

First-Hand Report On Montgomery Mob

entrance. The U.S. marshals tried to ward them off, but the crowd greatly outnumbered them.

It was at about that time that the people inside the church experienced their few moments of panic.

GETTING 'OUT OF HAND'

When the city police did arrive at the scene, they began to split up the mob into smaller groups. But the violence continued. A car was overturned, set on fire.

Shortly after 9 p.m. Walker and the Rev. Abernathy were urged by Alabama Highway Patrolmen to help them with a group of Negroes in the nearby housing project who were "getting out of hand."

Walker and Abernathy fought their way through the crowd. At the project they found 20 to 30 Negro men, milling around, armed with sticks, bottles, bricks. They talked to them, reasoned with them, and were able to convince them to return to their homes.

CLUBBED ON HEAD

As Walker and Abernathy tried to get back to the church, they were stopped by two of the State patrolmen. They explained why they were there, but were met by insults and obscenities.

"They said we needed our damned heads split open," Walker reported. One of the officers hit Walker on the head with his club.

They managed, however, to get back to the church.

King and Walker telephoned Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy in Washington on a three-way hookup, told him of the critical situation, asked his assistance. He advised the Negroes to remain in the church all night.

MARTIAL LAW

They followed that advice.

It was shortly before 10 p.m. when Gov. Patterson finally declared martial law and the state militia moved in in force.

The hoodlums began to drift away.

At 3:30 a.m., the Negroes, under protection, began to leave the church for their homes.

By late Tuesday, the militia were still patrolling the entire city. Special armed guards, with tear gas, bayonets, guns, were guarding tension spots such as the home of the Rev. Abernathy.

The air was still tense. There had been two or three bomb scares, but no bombs.

TO RIDE AGAIN

No one could tell when an incident might set off a new wave of terror, a new race riot.

The Freedom Riders, whose entry into the city Saturday morning had unleashed the white attacks against Negroes — beating them, clubbing them, knocking them to the pavement, stomping on them until many of them were unconscious—were determined to continue their ride through the South for "Freedom."

They would resume their journey and head, as originally planned, straight to Mississippi.

The Rev. King conveyed that decision to a press conference Tuesday morning.

tional director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), sponsors of the Freedom Ride, had been scheduled to speak, but had hurried back to Montgomery, Ala., after the race riot broke out there Saturday morning.

LEADERS DEDICATED

Blankenheim, 28, a former student at the University of Arizona who is now working as a carpenter in Tucson to get enough money to complete his education, was unhurt, he said. In the melee, however, his glasses were knocked to the ground. He was still without them when he appeared at the news conference.

Asked by newsmen how Negroes can maintain an attitude of nonviolence in the face of mob outrage and assault, Blankenheim said, the leaders are dedicated and committed to non-violence. They believe this is the best way to win the rights of equal opportunity and first class citizenship.

He said he was prepared to join the Freedom Riders again, though he is not a member of CORE.

VIOLENCE IN S.C.

A native of Minnesota, he lived for a while in North Carolina and his reaction to discrimination was influenced by what he saw there.

Blankenheim said that on May 4, the original 13 Freedom Riders, seven Negroes and six whites, left Washington on a test tour of the Deep South.

The first violence was encountered in Rock Hill, S.C. There two of the riders were set upon by hoodlums in the Greyhound waiting room. Genevieve Hughes, who was later hospitalized in Alabama, was given her first taste of mob action as police disbursed the attackers. She was knocked to the ground.

The first arrests occurred in Charlotte, N.C., but James Perkins, Jr., who was accused of trespassing, was later acquitted.

Prophecy Fulfillment Is Noted

"Long before our time, 20th century events were recorded in Bible prophecy," Theodore Jaracz stated, as he spoke before a packed house at the Embassy Auditorium Sunday on "The Twentieth Century in Bible Prophecy." "So accurately has Bible prophecy matched the physical happenings since the outbreak of World War I that further fulfillment is now keenly anticipated."

Referring to Matthew, chapter 24, the speaker discussed the features of Jesus' great prophecy on the end of the world. "The famine, earthquakes, increasing lawlessness, failure of human schemes for peace and the worldwide announcement of God's kingdom as the only hope of mankind, mark this generation as the one that will not pass away until all things occur. Prophecy yet to be fulfilled is 'the time of trouble such as has not occurred from the world's beginning till now nor will occur again.' That tribulation will bring an end to this system and pave the way for a new world of peace, security and eternal life in a paradise earth," the speaker said. He is the New York representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society.

Griffith arrived in town last Saturday, and is living and training in Santa Monica. He drills at the new Santa Monica Athletic Club on Second street off Santa Monica blvd. Ortega is continuing his training preps at the Main Street Gym. Though he has met the greatest in his class and beaten three welterweight champions Kid Gavilan, Tony De Marco and Benny Paret, this is the slick punching Latin's first world title shot.

Pro Players Creeping into Softball Loop

By Edw. "Abie" Robinson

The Bar League's softball teams heading into the second round are stacking their teams with professionals and experienced softball players.

The idea of the fun league is no longer. Such players as George Hymer, Benny Lee, Society Red are now fans. The early morning Sunday crowds have dropped considerably and the bistros aren't humming in the early a.m. as they did when the new loop bowed.

However, games went on as scheduled last Thursday and Sunday. G. G. Penland's Red Carpet, playing heads-up softball, edged King's lounge 2 to 1 in a thriller. King's drew first blood scoring 1 run in the 3rd inning; Red Carpet bounced back to tie it at 1-all. In the last inning, in a close play at home, Red Carpet scored the winning run. Again Elihu McGee, manager of King's lounge, blew a fuse because he didn't like the call at home plate.

Chuck Hollaway fashioned a onehitter at the Town Tavern at So. Park and aided his own cause with a home run in the 6th frame as the Caribbeans notched their 11th straight victory with a 2 to 1 win over Town Tavern.

In the showdown game between Lee Roys and Tommy Tucker's Playroom, Alvin Sayles went the route for the Playroom shutting out Lee Roys 6 to 0, allowing only three hits. Rufus Payne was the aternoon's batting star for Lee Roys, bagging out two big hits in four trips to the bat. Clark Hotel was nipped by Collins 5 to 4. Marty's Lounge after dropping nine straight, came back to win their second straight with a 16 to 5 rout of the Intermission Rome. Mac's Cstle and Dynamite Jackson waged a war with Dynamite coming out on top with a 14 to 12 win.

John Thomas Accepts Bid To Jump in Compton Meet

JOHN THOMAS

The great John Thomas, world record holder in the high jump, has accepted a bid to compete in the 22nd annual Compton Invitational Track Meet Friday night, June 2, meet director Herschel Smith announced.

Thomas, holder of the world mark of 7-3¾, showed he is back in top form by clearing 7-2⅛ on May 13. His coach, Ed Flanagan, told Smith via phone that the Boston University junior now is in the "finest shape of his life."

The 6-5½ Thomas has cleared 7 feet on 61 occasions, more than all other 7-footers combined.

The Compton meet will be the only Western appearance for the record holder this year. His big goal is to gain revenge on Russia's Valery Brumel in the United States-Russia dual meet in Moscow this summer.

West District Nabs Playground Track Laurels

One record was broken, another tied, and marks established in two new events when the 10th annual city-wide Boys' Track and Field championships were staged last Saturday at Rancho Cienega Playground.

Speedster Curtis Clarkson, from Vineyard Playground, hot-footed to a win in the junior division 75-yard dash in 8.1 seconds, thus shattering the old record of 8.2 seconds.

Eugene Joshua Jr., Rancho Cienega Playground, nabbed first place in the senior division 100-yard dash and tied the mark of 10.5.

Records in new events were established last Saturday by Brian Wilson, Westchester Playground, who won the senior division ball-put by tossing the five-pound pellet 65 feet, 9½ inches, and Willie Crawford, Slauson Playground, who heaved the iron ball 65 feet, 3 inches.

The West District's Thinclads walked off with team laurels with 69 points, the South District was second with 66, and the Central District finished third with 35 counters.

Medical, Dental, Pharmaceutical Exciting Eighth Annual Variety Show to be Top Event

TIME STEP—Rehearsing for the Can Can number in the forthcoming Medical Variety show this Saturday night are Dr. Herbert Sheen, Dr. Roy Johnson, Clifford Prince, Dr. William Chichester, Dr. Andre Tweed and Dr. Roy Andrew. Frances Dabney, choreographer for the show, is shown giving pointers to the cast. (Smith)

The eighth annual variety show, that has come to be regarded as the leading show in Los Angeles, will be held this Saturday night in the Embassy Auditorium. Curtain time is scheduled for 8 p.m., under the sponsorship of the Medical, Dental, and Pharmaceutical Association and its Auxiliary.

Dr. Robert Woods, general chairman, and Mrs. William Chichester, co-chairman, are anticipating a capacity crowd for the annual scholarship fund-raising project.

According to ticket chairman Mrs. William Cochrell and publicity chairman Mrs. Robert Woods, advance reservations have indicated that this year's show will enjoy the largest audience to date.

"Anything Goes" is the theme of this year's show, under the direction of Berlie Dixon and Frances Dabney, with music under the supervision of Eddie Beal.

The tentative program indicates that the opening scene will feature group singers which include: Dr. Herbert Sheen, Dr. Ted Evans, Dr. Roy Andrew, Mrs. Elaine Chichester, Marilyn McCoo, Mildred McCoo, Barbara Dumas, Mrs. F. Peterson, Mrs. L. Smitherman, Mrs. M. Frederick and Dr. W. McCoo.

Special songs will feature Elois Davis, Georgia Hardimon impersonating "Pearl Bailey," and Dr. F. Engelman. Mrs. A. Corbin will serenade on the piano. Dr. William Madison will be featured in the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical band along with Drs. R. Bledsoe, S. White, H. La Branche, F. Peterson, C. Woods and R. Tweed.

Scholarships will be presented during the intermission.

Assisting with the arrangements for this year's show are Mrs. La Mont Cranford, Mrs. Nathaniel Fearonce, Mrs. Ted Jackson, Mrs. Fred Griffin, Mrs. George McLeod, Dr. Nat Fearonce, Dr. Frazier Moore, Dr. Ralph Bledsoe and Dr. Herbert Sheen.

The association and its auxiliary have planned a very exciting show and urge the entire community to attend.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST — Members of the New Frontier Democrats are shown with Jean N' Sele, delegate to the United Nations from the Congo visiting in the city. He was entertained with a reception in the home of Mary Batiste and attended a command performance at the Metro Theatre of the exciting musical comedy, "Fly Blackbird," last Wednesday night. Byron Webb on the not-so-well list. Margurite Belafonte jets in during Saturday's daylight and will be met by a welcoming committee of NAACP-ites. Alice and David Cunningham have their travel plans all set: they'll be off to Detroit in mid-June.

BOULE IN BIRMINGHAM?

Sunday (28) will be one more birthday for Dr. Cato Robinson. San Diego's Atty. Al Montgomery was in town over the weekend. Doce Amigas gather Thursday over bridge and lunch at Ida McCullan's. Dr. and Mrs. George Washington had their son, Gregory George, christened Sunday at Price Chapel, his god-parents being the Augustus Arterberrys. Horace Gayton, due here, is extending his current stay in SF and will be amongst us later on.

Jean and Raymond Walls bid fond adieu to our town Saturday and will be eastbound for a month or so. The Leonard Bluetts (Justine) chalk up another anniversary Tuesday (30). Sudden Thought: With all the ugliness in Alabama one wonders if Chi Eta Phi, the sorority of nurses, will go through with their planned annual boule which is to be a six-day conference in Birmingham. Friday (26) is anniversary time for Emma and Robert Taylor.

off's. Jessie Mae Curry will be leaving for Nashville to attend the Meharry exercises (on the first) which will see her son, Nolan, get his M.D. Busiest visitor in town is New Yorker Laura Prescott who touched down at Inglewood airport via a gay visit up north at the Colemans; she is basking in the hospitality of Dr. and Mrs. Wayman McCoo and family, here, before winging home to Gotham.

The Dianes gather, meeting-wise, at Helen Lane's Friday night. Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Howard's house guest until Friday is New Yorker Don Pasquall, who is a specialist with the Air Force: He's Betty's nephew. For the past two years he's been a student of the Chinese language at Yale and now is enroute to Okinawa at his Uncle Sam's bidding. But right now is he living it up while in our town? Of course.

Robbie and Jimmy Lucas had happiest of mid-week reunion with a dear friend of old, New Yorker (another one? Such gadabouts, my!) George Dykes who was enroute to Honolulu for an indefinite stay; George, bless his heart, believes fully in living life and proved it when he arrived here with nearly $200 over jet baggage minimum, even with two dogs! NYC will surely be desolated without him for his parties are something out've this spinning world. Sunday is cocktail party time for the Twelve Links at Victoria Hall and their invitations deserve an award in cleverness. Darn clever, in fact.

37th Street PTA Elects Officers

The following officers were elected at the last meeting of 37th Street PTA, Mmes. John H. Owens, first vice president; John Moore, second vice-president; John A. Johnson, third vice-president; Eugenia Douglas, recording secretary; Newman M. Dumas Jr., corresponding secretary; Burney Warfield, treasurer; Francisco Calderon, auditor; Vicente Grizelle, historian; and Charles Mecon, parliamentarian.

CHEERLEADERS HONORED—Men of Kappa fraternity entertained with their annual Interfrat basketball party honoring players, cheerleaders and special guests. Pictured are cheerleaders being presented with trophies by Eagle's Sports editor, Edw. ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA CHAPTER SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED SUN.

Approximately 60 attractive and enthusiastic graduating high school seniors met at the home of Wynola Kerry for the annual Alpha Kappa Alpha Chatauqua for high school girls on Sunday afternoon. At this time the members of Alpha Gamma Omega presented their scholarship awards.

Soror Cleopatra Johnson was mistress of ceremonies. After a few get-acquainted games, the girls were divided into groups according to their vocational interests for workshops.

Workshop leaders were: Bernice Wright, social service work; Beulah Marks and LaVerne Parks, elementary education; Clarice Hernandez and Georgia Payton, secondary education; and Audra Barnes, medical services.

Vivian Strange spoke briefly of Alpha Kappa Alpha, telling of its history and ideals—the promotion of finer womanhood.

Alice Long, basileus of Alpha Gamma Omega Chapter, presented the scholarship awards to these outstanding young women, all possessing an A-minus average in school: Roberta Turner of Gardena High, Katherine Owens of Centennial High, Dorothy Taylor of San Fernando High, and Bobbie Allen of Fremont High. The Las Madrinas Scholarship was presented to Diane Henderson of Los Angeles High. Anita Glasgo of USC and Sallyann Payton of Stanford University received scholarship renewals.

Brenda Lakin, who went to India last year as a student ambassador, was the recipient of the scholarship presented to the undergraduate member of Alpha Gamma or Sigma with the highest scholarship average.

Marguerite Hodge, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, and members received praise for a job well done.

VISITING — Essie Payton Benson left by Jett to visit her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Payton in Phoenix, Arix.

Serving on various committees are Willie Jones, Barbara Whiting, Theodore Campbell, Lillian Allen, Perline Williams, Emma Smith, Laura Harris, Vera Cheeks and Gladiola Spencer.

Mrs. Josephine Davis is school principal and Maurice E. McGeehee is school counsellor.

New York Scene

It is sunny and warm and beautiful here today, after a series of days and nights of showers, fog and generally unpleasant weather, and we welcome this wonderful change.

The benefit show sponsored by the Knoxville College Alumni Club of N.Y.C. at the Bon Soir, for the benefit of the United Negro College Fund, was a huge success. There was a near-capacity house of enthusiastic fun-goers, and it was my pleasure to handle the emceeing chores.

FUND SHOW NOTEWORTHY

The music for the show was in the very capable hands of talented Randy Weston and his trio, while Dave Lawyer handled the incidental music during intermission.

Among those appearing on the show was lovely and good-singing Margie Dodson (who had just closed a successful engagement at the Blue Angel), Tommy Arlene (2 excellent dancers from the Belafonte T.V. shows and from the Broadway musical, "Jamaica"), baritone singer Bill Jones from Missouri, pop singer Mark Hannibal of Octave Records (new label with only Mark and Errol Garner), and last, but by no means least, folk-singer and entertainer Leon Bibb and his guitarist.

(Leon is currently at the Blue Angel with comedian Dick Gregory.) The show was delightful throughout, and when I had to leave I was able to turn the proceedings over to the capable hands of Jimmy Daniels. A good time was had by all.

DRIFTERS CAPTURE MANHATTAN

On Friday the 19th, it was May in Manhattan, as The Drifters hit the road at Riviera Terrace, with music by Reuben Phillips and the orchestra and a full house of pretty girls and dapper gentlemen. I saw piano playing, disc jockey Billy Taylor and spouse, Dizzy Gillespie and a host of in and out-of-towners, among the guests.

The show was emceed by WNEW disc jockey Dick Partridge and singing was in the domain of The Cleftones, who provided the theme background for The Drifters traveling from all over the country routine. This bit was clever and well done by the girls to the complete delight of the audience. This was a fun affair in gingham and denim, and it was like old home week seeing all the friends and classmates.

VICTORIA PARK AFFAIR

The twenty-five year old artist, no stranger to Southern California music lovers, brings to this performance, ". . . a voice well trained and naturally lyrical in its quality." So states Robert Lomax, President of the Victoria Park Community Music Association, sponsors of the concert. "Leonardo Watts is an artist who never fails to thrill and excite his audience. We are more than proud to present him as an outstanding vocal talent and a gentleman who adds great dignity to his race."

PRODIGAL RETURNS — The man who opened and closed doors on the finest recording artists in the business, Bass Harris, has recently returned from an extensive sojourn in the northwest. Bass is readying something completely new and different which he will introduce to his vast listening audience in the future.

BEST ACTOR — Sidney Poitier has been nominated as the best actor of the year at the Cannes Festival for his stellar role in "A Raisin in the Sun," also nominated as the outstanding motion picture of the year.

AT GREEK — [illegible] criticisms and piquant piano pieces bring a series of new surprises to Victor Borge's renovated "Comedy in Music" program, with which the hilarious musicomedian will open the season at the Greek Theater of Los Angeles on weekday evenings, June 23 through July 1. Jose Greco and his Spanish Ballet, Harry Belafonte and the brilliant New York City Ballet are the next items in the colorful season.

PEOPLE & PLACES

UNITY—Understand that operation 100,000 letters will be opened to the members of the City Council urging them to appoint a Negro to fill the vacancy coming up—and the name suggested is that of Tom Bradley!

ELOIS DAVIS—A national mag interviewed her for a story concerning looted, lonely widows. The looted business is okay but that lonely jazz is for the birds. In the last 30 days she has rejected 30 suitors!

ALICE WILLIAMS — Ex-San Luis Obispo drum majorette and now a clerk at Golden State Mutual has taken upon herself to get the clerks to write letters urging the appointment of a Negro to the City Council!

RADIO WEAK — That station which boasts about the many awards it earned piping Rock 'n' Roll music to its vast Negro audience isn't telling us that it snubbed Negro leaders during its Salute to Radio Month!

GUSSIE TUCKER—Just before she moves into her spacious Wellington Road home, she'll have a new kitchen from the offerings of the Home Show, which opens Wednesday at the Sports Arena!

HOUSEWIFE — When that shapely mother tells neighbors she's going shopping at the Iowa Pork Market near her Compton home, what she really means is, she's meeting a couple of fellows there to take her shopping!

AREZELIA WILLIAMS—Leggy shipping clerk for a Slauson manufacturer of racks for novelties is also one of the popular members of the La Jovia Junior Social Club.

BARBARA DALE — Newest member of the Rinkeydinks, won the grand sweepstakes prize at the Urban League Guild annual ball last Friday. Her club sponsored her!

DELORES BROWN—L.A. City College coed was the shapely captain of the Kappas' cheerers during the recent interfrat basketball series!

'Hospitable' Blanche and C.L. Duke Share 'The Living Room'

WELCOME TO THE CLUB—The Living Room's owner, C. L. Duke, toasts his entry into club circles with pert Pat Hearn, co-owner of Memory Lane, and Willa Jo Will, charming customer, who were among the scores of well wishers who attended the preview opening of the 2636 Crenshaw Blvd., at West Adams site. Uniquely decorated, exteriorly and interiorly, the cozy Living Room is intimate and inexpensive. Choice cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, ample free parking and the unequaled hospitality of Blanche and C. L. Duke assure you of pleasure beyond measure.

WHERE LIVING IS EASY—Plush furniture, ankle deep, wall-to-wall carpeting, indirect lighting, paneled walls, giant size television, hi-fi, stereo and soft sounds all around surround a compact corner of Co-owners Blanche and C. L. Duke's 'Living Room' where service to the customers, their paying guests, are the proprietors and proficient personnel's most important responsibility. Photo viewed from left: Mickey Solomon, Blanche Duke, Ollie Matson of the Sea Food Grotto, and Gertrude Gipson of the Nite Life.

L.A. Welcomes Westside's Newest Taste Place

In an unpublicized sneak preview Claude and Blanche Duke opened their "Living Room Lounge" on May 12th.

Located in the heart of the greater West Adams business district on South Crenshaw Boulevard, the Living Room has drawn the complimentary plaudits from an ever increasing horde of pleased patrons. The Living Room is decorated in muted modern tones with burnt copper and turquoise leather the predominating colors which are carried out in the bar furnishings.

HOMELIKE ATMOSPHERE

Beige and brown wall to wall carpeting and pale pink draperies round out the color scheme. The elevated corner of the room, from which the title "Living Room" is derived, is a comfortable lounge area done in pink leather, with couch and matching chair fronted by a mahogany coffee table and a spiral floor lamp.

TELEVISION EQUIPPED

Living plants and artistic wall pictures add to the general atmosphere. A giant TV screen has been installed for the amusement of the patrons, particularly the sports minded.

As a further hospitality gesture, the glass, portable hors d'ouerve cart is continuously filled with choice snacks, hot and cold. Telephone plugs are conveniently located to facilitate the reception of calls.

Managing bartman, Webster Washington, is assisted by Marsden Thompson and Gordon Simon.

DUKE'S SERVICE FAMOUS

The Living Room is the realization of a dream. C. L. Duke, owner, is a man who knows service and has the enviable record and reputation for having served some of our most famous citizens. A former chef cook on the New York and Illinois Central railroads for a period of 33 years, Duke was the chef in charge when Al Smith made his dential campaign during World War II, while serving in the Navy, Duke distinguished himself with the highest ranking Nahistoric whistle stop campaign in 1928.

Later with FDR on his presival officers. Upon his release from the Navy he returned to the railroad and worked until an accident brought about his retirement.

CONVERTED 'NATIVE'

On a visit to Los Angeles in 1951 Duke fell in love with Angel town, but it wasn't until 1956 that he established roots by purchasing the 36 unit Crenshaw Arms Apartment building and the neighboring house which was re-

BIRTHDAY PARTIES—Frank Evans and Jerry Harvey were honored by host C. L. Duke when he tendered them a joint birthday party complete with all the festive trimmings. Blanche and C. L. Duke feted Frank and Jerry as the first customers celebrating their first day on earth at the all-new and completely different Living Room. Available by either West Adams or the Crenbusses. The Living Room is convenient for all.

THE TASTE TELLS—Tommy Millhouse had the distinction of contributing the first dollar toward the success of The Living Room. Bending elbows toward the success of Blanche and C. L. Duke's beautiful bistro were Si Jones, stellar salesman; Duke, owner; Bob Carlisle and in the background, Louis Cook. These important gentlemen are greatly responsible for keeping The Living Room well supplied with your favorite liquid

HARRISON—ROSS...A SYMBOL of THE FINEST

A BEAUTY THAT INSPIRES is the Fleet of "Dawn Gray" and "Chamlot"—air-conditioned CADILLACS pictured above being inspected by LEON HARRISON, president of HARRISON-ROSS MORTUARIES, and LESLIE U. KING, JR., secretary-treasurer of the firm. Color decor of the cars, hearses and flower cars were designed to lift the spirits of the sorrowful who usually are further depressed by the traditional black or dull-colored funeral cortege. In right background is the Radio Tower atop the Communications Room which houses the wireless "2-way" radio hook-up to all vehicles in the modern fleet. HARRISON-ROSS FUNERAL HOME is the only funeral home West of Chicago that has GE Radio Dispatch cars which make possible constant communication at all times with any member of the HARRISON-ROSS' large and growing staff. Photo was taken outside the CHAPEL of SACRED MEMORIES. At the Compton Home is housed the CHAPEL OF REMEMBRANCE. Top insets to left are Mr. Leon Harrison, Mrs. Lucille Yerger Harrison, Mr. Leslie U. King, Jr., and Mrs. Fannie R. Benjamin.

HARRISON-ROSS MORTUARIES' SERVICE MEASURED NOT BY GOLD BUT BY THE GOLDEN RULE . . .

TO BEST SERVE THE NEEDS OF the community, Mr. Leon. Harrison, president of HARRISON-ROSS MORTUARIES, affirms that: "In time of sorrow, it is comforting to know that every detail of final arrangement will be handled with the geatest care and consideration . . . and with a beauty that inspires."

"Regardless of the cost," states Mr. Harrison, "HARRISON-ROSS steadfastly maintains the same high standard of service for every one . . . from the minimum to the very finest, for they are ever heedful of the wishes and circumstances of the bereaved family to the end that the best service is available to all — and with financial hardship to none.

The thoroughly modernized facilities enable sympathetic understanding counselors to provide a maximum of personal assistance at time of greatest need.

No detail is overlooked that will contribute to the beauty and dignity that will be a worthy tribute to the memory of the departed.

. . . Long after time has softened the sorrow, the memory of a beautifully conducted memorial service will remain as a source of deep spiritual inspiration.

"No one is ever turned away by HARRISON-ROSS for lack of funds," declares Mrs. Fannie R. Benjamin, managing directress.

HARRISON-ROSS is only a phone call away . . . in Your Time of NEED. At any hour of the day or night, they are as near as your telephone . . . ready instantly to assume full responsibility for all final arrangements.

Kicked Out of UCLA, Ron Lawson Claims

By EDW. 'ABIE' ROBINSON

Is Ron Lawson being pilloried?

Is he being forced to leave school under a cloud that will haunt him the rest of his life not for something he did, but for something he didn't do? Something that under ordinary circumstances would be dismissed as trivial?

Is he being made to pay a heavy price—loss of a promising career, loss of school credits, loss of prestige—as a scapegoat?

LAWSON BITTER

There are many who think that is just what happened.

Lawson, himself, is reported as bitter over what he considers a low blow.

Although UCLA athletic director Wilbur Johns claims that Lawson was not expelled, both Lawson and his mother, Mrs. J. R. Lawson, reported from their Nashville home that UCLA officials had demanded his withdrawal.

DIDN'T SNITCH

The maddening part of the whole affair, say Ron's friends, is that he isn't even accused of doing anything crooked or unethical. All that happened was that he didn't snitch.

He didn't tell the coach or anyone else in authority that someone had approached him to shave points in one or another of the college basketball games.

He admits he should have, but says, "I just didn't think much about it."

Those who know him best say they believe that is what happened. It just didn't seem important.

OPEN SEASON ON LIBERALS

If what I heard on Open End the other night is any indication of the temper of the times Negroes have declared war on white liberals. Every one of the half dozen participants on the program upbraided the liberals for their timidity, and worse, in the developing crisis on race relations. The burden of the complaints was that the liberals are too quick to compromise on racial issues and that when the going gets tough they yell for Negroes to compromise.

There is merit in the complaints but I thought that the Open End speakers only skimmed the surface in probing for the reasons that lie behind liberal timidity. The core of the problem is that Americans have a double standard by which they judge human rights; there is one standard for whites and another for Negroes. For example, nobody would even dare to suggest that a state school system which barred Catholic or Jewish children should get a penny of federal aid; liberals are quick to cry out that Negroes should not even suggest barring federal aid to state schools which

Dentist Named As Father of 3-Yr.-Old Boy

Dr. William Mack Madison, prominent local dentist with offices at 1935 W. Adams blvd., was named this week in a paternity suit brought by Nora Newton, 38, of 1117½ W. 17th street.

Miss Newton claims that Dr. Madison is the father of her 3½-year-old son, William Kyle Madison, born Dec. 18, 1957.

ASKS SUPPORT

She asks support and medical expenses for the child, support for herself, reasonable attorney's fees and court costs. She is being represented by Atty. Walter Gordon Jr.

Dr. Madison, queried by the Eagle, said he knows nothing about the suit or the alleged facts contained therein.

SEEKS CUSTODY

An order to show cause has been issued, however, returnable June 21 at 9 a.m. in Dept. 8 of the Superior Court, at which time Dr. Madison will be asked to state why he should not pay the monies requested.

Miss Newton, in addition to asking support, also seeks custody of the child.

She lists her expenses as $239 a month and claims she has no job but is prepared to do any kind of work offered to her.

Rev. King to Speak Here On Freedom

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of the South-wide nonviolent assault on second class citizenship, is coming to Los Angeles to give a detailed report on the convulsions that have rocked Alabama, Mississippi, and the rest of the South.

He will tell the full story of the heroism of the Freedom Riders, the unrestrained brutality of the mobs, the trumped up arrests by the police and the chain-gang sentences of the courts.

AT SPORTS ARENA

He will be here Sunday, June 18; for an afternoon rally at the Sports Arena. His sponsors, the Western Christian Leadership Conference, are confident the hall that seats upwards of 12,000 will be filled.

They want everybody to hear Dr. King and to learn from an eye-witness participator and leader just what it's like to stand up and demand your rights in the land below the Mason-Dixon line.

The Board of Supervisors has confirmed the date and the time —3 p.m., June 18—and the Rev. L. Sylvester Odom, president of the WCLC, spoke with Dr. King by telephone Monday to get his assurance that he would be here on that date.

KEEP U. S. MARSHALS

In the conversation, Dr. King urged all ministers in California to urge their congregations to protest the announced withdrawal of the federal marshals that were sent to the hate-ridden areas of Alabama after the one-sided race riots in Anniston, Birmingham and Montgomery—one-sided, because the violence came only from the white rabble.

Rev. King said further that "to expose Negro people to the hostility and abuse and violence of the mob while hostile national guardsmen sympathize with the mob rather than with those they

Custodians By-Passed as Supervisors Vote Raises

Custodians of Local 1599, State, County and Municipal Employees are understandably miffed and bitter because the Board of Supervisors in a 3-2 vote last Thursday passed them by while voting pay raises for 37,218 other employees.

The 1750 custodians and elevator operators — the lowest paid group of workers in the county — were given no increase at all, while all others were given a 5½ per cent increase.

REVIEWING DECISION

Supervisors Hahn and Debs voted to include custodians in the wage adjustments.

Following protests by the workers involved, the Supervisors decided to review the decision this Wednesday, provided some source of revenue could be found to cover the slightly over half a million dollars ($527,000) required for the additional salaries.

Apparently there was sufficient in the till to provide the much larger sum needed to cover increases for the higher paid employees.

The union was quick to point out that in 1959-1960 the County introduced a new scientific cleaning system that has already saved taxpayers many thousands of dollars, the implication being that the money thus saved would more than meet the custodians' payroll increases.

Wilbert Torrence, vice president, and Marvin D. Johnson, secretary of the union, told the Eagle that starting salary for custodians is $303 a month, with a maximum of $375 reached after four years.

A family man with children, they pointed out, cannot make out on $303 a month.

The union claimed that it is the "duty and moral responsibility" of taxpayers to pay a living wage to Los Angeles' lowest paid workers.

On January 1, 1961, classification of the then janitors was changed to custodians, but no increase in wages accompanied the change, the union states.

Lockheed in Georgia Agrees to Drop Bias

WASHINGTON — In what was hailed as a "milestone in the history of civil rights in this country," Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the federal government signed an agreement last week in which the company agreed to drop all discriminatory practices at its Marietta, Ga., plant.

Among other provisions the agreement calls for maintenance of non-segregated facilities at all Lockheed plants, including eating and recreational facilities; for admission of Negroes to apprenticeship programs; the recruitment of workmen on a nondiscriminatory basis and elimination of racial designations on employes' time cards.

FAIR REFERRALS

The agreement also provides that the Georgia state employment service will make referrals to the company without reference to race and that Georgia educational institutions will integrate vocational training programs used by the company but administered by the Cobb County school board.

The agreement was in the form of a joint statement made by Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who heads the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities, and Lockheed President Courtland Gross. Johnson

Academy Award Actor Marches On Picket Line

OKLAHOMA CITY — Charlton Heston, Academy award winning actor, arrived in Oklahoma City Saturday and almost immediately hoisted a sandwich sign to his shoulders and joined about 80 marchers in an anti-segregation picket line.

His sign read, "All Men Are Created Equal."

He got a friendly reception from passersby.

The picket line was protesting segregated lunch counters in downtown Oklahoma City.

Tennessee Pastor, Prisoner on Miss. Road Gang, Beaten

Wearing black-and-white prison striped uniforms, 22 Freedom Riders were shipped back from the road gang outside of Jackson, Miss., Tuesday to the County Jail, after one of the men, a Negro minister from Chattanooga, was beaten up by guards.

Another batch of 17 were arrested Monday when they arrived at the Jackson bus terminal—but still others kept coming. Groups of riders were criss-crossing the South, from New Orleans to Jackson, Miss., and from Tennessee through Alabama.

BY BUS, BY TRAIN

They came by bus and, for the first time, by train, as the demonstrators ignored the plea of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy for a "cooling off" period.

In Montgomery, Ala., the Rev Ralph D. Abernathy, head of the Montgomery Improvement Association whose church was the scene of an all-night riot 10 days ago, and a group of other Freedom Fighters were lodged in jail there.

They were arrested when they joined a bus load of students entering the bus station restaurant.

The attorney general, meanwhile, took steps to attempt to force compliance with federal regulations on interstate travel. Kennedy asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to take control and proposed that interstate passenger buses henceforth carry a sign conspicuously placed, reading:

SIGNS IN BUSES

"All seats aboard this vehicle are by law available at all times to any passenger without regard to race, color, creed or national origin."

Similar signs were requested

Negroes in South Reported Arming

MIDDLETOWN, Conn.—John D. Maguire, 28, professor of religion at Wesleyan University, one of the Freedom Riders in the bus that caused a race riot in Montgomery, Ala., May 20 reported here Sunday that Negroes in the South are arming themselves.

"They are scared," he said, and are arming to protect themselves in the event of more outbreaks.

Prof. Maguire added that unless attempts to break down segregation are non-violent; there will be a bloodpath throughout the South.

JAILED—The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, whose First Baptist Church in Montgomery was beseiged all night a week ago Sunday by a violent white mob, was arrested Thursday at the Montgomery bus station restaurant. He and others may remain in jail until June 16.

City Council Race Attracts New Entrants

Although other contestants were entering their names almost daily, political observers said this week that the contest for appointment to an expected vacancy in City Council is rapidly developing into a race between George Thomas and Tom Bradley. Both have filed applications and petitions are being circulated by their supporters.

Thomas is the executive of the Los Angeles Community Relations Council and Bradley is a police lieutenant and lawyer. The vacancy is expected to occur after the incumbent councilman Charles Navarro, is elected as city controller this Wednesday. He still has two years left to

Brown Names Atty. Fielding To Calif. FEP

Atty. George L. Fielding, who has earned an enviable reputation for hard work in the NAACP and numerous other civic organizations, was appointed last week by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as assistant chief of the California Division of Fair Employment Practices.

He was sworn in Thursday by John Anson Ford, chairman of FEP, and immediately plunged into his new duties.

YALE GRADUATE

A graduate of Yale University and of Yale Law School, Fielding, 35, came to Los Angeles in 1953, passed the State Bar and took a position as deputy city attorney. In 1956, he left that post to enter private practice.

Fielding, who lives at 1638 E. 48th street, is a member of the American Bar Ass'n., the L.A. County Bar Ass'n., Langston Law Club and the Western Avenue Business and Professional Ass'n.

He is secretary of the board of trustees of Holman Methodist Church, a member of Town Hall, Arlington Heights Democratic Club, the Urban League, County Conference on Community Relations and past president of the local graduate chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha.

NATIVE OF ARKANSAS

A former member of the board of the NAACP, he headed its Freedom Seal drive for two consecutive years.

Born in Hot Springs, Ark., in 1926, Fielding spent one year at Morehouse College in Atlanta before entering the Army in 1944.

BROADWAY FEDERAL IMPRESSES STUDENTS — Students of Edison Junior High who visited Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n. recently seemed impressed with Mrs. Dorothy Barrow's (center) demonstration of one of Broadway's self-typing machines. Mixed Classes Held Beneficial at Dorsey

Dorsey High School has received a number of pats on the back as a result of a three-day inspection tour and conference by the Visitation Committee of the California Association of Secondary School administrators, according to Clark Beardsley, principal.

The inspection followed a year-long self-evaluation study of the school by staff and students.

MAJOR STRENGTH

Winning praise were the administration, the teachers and the student body.

A point of "major strength" at the school was found to be the "cosmopolitan nature of the student population."

Only 27 out of 638 students questioned wanted a change in the school's racial composition.

In response to the question, "What do you like best about the school?" the answer given by the largest number of students was "the friendly spirit of the school."

MORALE HIGH

Morale of the students was also found to be high. This was attributed to an active student government program and a high [illegible] interest, service and honorary organizations.

Both the administrative and certificated staffs received high commendation, the former because of its efficiency in organizing a multiplicity of duties and because of its ability to establish mutual confidence and rapport with the teachers.

Teachers were found to have a high degree of competence, with almost all of them teaching in the fields for which they were specifically trained.

CREATIVE WORK

Both teachers and students were commended for the creative type of work that was found to be present to a high degree.

Dorsey was found to place heavy emphasis on academic studies, to maintain a comprehensive program with special attention being given to the needs arising from the community make-up, and to have achieved a cooperative program with community groups.

SOME WEAKNESSES

The report, however, pointed out some weaknesses both in plant and in operation, and contained suggestions for improved functioning.

The physical plant was found to be inadequate, having been built in 1927 for a student body of 900, whereas today it houses some 2800 students.

Suggestions were made for expansion of the curriculum to include more technical and vocational studies, increased use of student evaluation and achievement testing, certain changes in student activity procedures, wider community participation in planning and evaluation programs, and changes in the counseling set-up.

Hill Named To FHA Job

WASHINGTON—Oliver W. Hill, a Richmond, Virginia, attorney, long active in the civic and organization life of Richmond and the Commonwealth of Virginia, was officially appointed Wednesday assistant for intergroup relations to the Federal Housing Administration Commissioner.

In announcing Hill's appointment, Commissioner Neal J. Hardy said that his "vast legal and civic experience make him a valuable member of my staff and an asset to the effectiveness of our effort to provide adequate housing for all Americans."

The Intergroup Relations Service is primarily concerned with housing and related problems affecting minority and ethnic groups.

A graduate of Los Angeles Valley College, he is a member of Blue Key honor fraternity, Phi Epsilon Kappa, national physical education society, and Kappa Alpha Psi social fraternity.

SUPERIOR

Watts' Markham Junior High School Boys' Glee Club, host to Southern California's first All Boys Glee Choral Festival last Tuesday morning, received the festival's highest rating of "Superior."

Senior Citizens Find No Bias During 2nd Annual Convention

Negro senior citizens attending the second annual convention of the National League of Senior Citizens in Fresno May 19-20 reportedly found no evidence of discrimination because of race during their stay in the community. They were afforded every courtesy and accommodation in hotels, cafeterias, and elsewhere.

There were some 60 Negroes among the 800 delegates registered from 29 states who discussed the legislative problems facing the elderly. They voted to oppose the relative responsibility law for those on pensions. A complete inspection tour was made of the newly built but as yet uncompleted Fresno Senior Citizens Village.

Europe, Ala. Papers Bitter Over Rioting

The United States this past week has been the recipient of scathing criticism from its allies in Europe because of the treatment Negroes have been receiving from white bullies in Alabama.

Significantly, also, even the newspapers of Alabama itself have roundly condemned the attacks on Freedom Riders.

ANGRY OUTCRIES

The angriest outcries abroad came from Berlin, where both western and Communist publications viewed the Montgomery crisis as a manifestation of the racism that brought Hitler to power.

"People are chased like wild beasts," said the pro-American B.Zm. "They are spit upon and bloodily beaten only because they are colored.

"Where? In the United States of America, in the heart of the free world. That's a glaring contradiction.

"This affects us, too," it said, "for one reason: The policy of the United States in Asia and Africa becomes incredible, when it can't stop race agitators at home."

DECISIVE BLOW

The communist East German news service ADN said that "since Abraham Lincoln, Washington hasn't made a serious attempt really to solve the racial problem and curb the Ku Klux Klan and the race agitators . . ."

In Paris correspondent Jean Pierre Cornet of Combat said that "either the American government will puts its integration program energetically into execution, whether Montgomery wants it or not, or the prestige of the United States, delivered into the hands of the racists, will suffer another decisive blow that will compromise the future of its African policy."

In Copenhagen, the newspaper Information wondered editorially what U. S. allies could do to "demonstrate there are some American states we don't like to be allied to."

POT AND KETTLE

In Alabama, the Montgomery Advertiser, looking at the brutalities in Birmingham just before the outbreaks on its own doorsteps, had this to say:

"Always the basic truth of these violent convulsions is that no matter what, baboons committing violence must be collared, jailed, tried and generously punished.

"The evidence is that the police in Birmingham, under command of a course and rash antic with the title of police commisisoner, spat on their duty and looked the other way from murderous assault.

"And sad to say, the Governor of Alabama seemed to be fitting the seal of Alabama into the ring on the baboon's tail. For the Governor said he could supply protection for the white and colored agitators to reach the state line but could not otherwise protect them."

AND IN BIRMINGHAM

The Birmingham Post-Herald didn't like what it saw, either. It said:

"Too bad a group of misguided hoodlums along the Anniston highway and here in Birmingham gave them the propaganda weapon they were seeking. We can be sure they will use it throughout the country to stir up anti-South sentiment and to raise money to keep their propaganda and their professionals going."

"Many blunders marked the eruption of violence Sunday. The biggest was that of Gov. John Patterson in announcing officially in so many words that, though he was the state's chief executive, though he had many state highway patrolmen at his command, though he had the National Guard which he could have called out, he could not guarantee protection to a group of race agitators."

The Anniston Star bemoaned the economic ills that stem from racist violence.

"Anniston, Birmingham and other cities here in Alabama often wonder why it is that Atlanta grows in population and in industrial progress to such a greater extent than do our own cities and counties that are blessed with natural resources far superior to those of Georgia.

And one of the answers to that fact is that in Georgia, although as much opposed as are the people of any other state in the Union to forced mixing of the races, does not try any longer to solve her problems by resort to cave man practices by way of protecting the people's human life and property."

Audience Fills Hall at NAACP Fashion Show

BY C. MARIE HUGHES

In the interest of the Association's Freedom Fund, the NAACP presented Margurite Belafonte as the star model in a "Fantasy of Fashions" Sunday afternoon at the Zenda Ballroom.

The ballroom was filled to capacity when the show got under way and the first model stepped on the runway. Couturier elegance was displayed during the showing by star models. Mrs. Belafonte was assisted by Joyce, Charity, Harriet and Associates of Chic Inc. and Maxine Goff.

MALE MODELS

Esquire male models were Bob Thomas, coordinator, and Wallace Wade, with Harriette Terry in the role of fashion commentator.

Mrs. Belafonte's fabulous collection of originals, created for her by world renowned designers, was elegant from casual daytime wear to formal splendor.

Mrs. Belafonte, special project director of the NAACP, arrived in Los Angeles Saturday morning from her home in New York City for a busy two day schedule.

She told representatives of local newspapers at a press conference Saturday afternoon in her suite at the Statler Hotel that, during her recent travels as project director she had covered all 50 states and discovered that no area escapes discrimination, segregation and intimidation.

She said the million dollar goal set by the NAACP for '63 will help significantly in the struggle to obtain freedom and democracy for all.

Presbyterians Deny Drinking Is Sanctioned

By BARBARA MOUNTS

Rev. St. Paul Epps, pastor of Bel-Vue Presbyterian Church, a member of the governing body of the United Presbyterian Church, said Monday that the "misconception about the resolution of the church was most unfortunate.

"The newspapers," he continued, "printed only portions of the resolution which included a report of a factual study made by a committee in regard to the use of alcohol."

MUCH DISCUSSION

Considerable discussion has been caused throughout the nation by reports that Presbyterians were letting down the bar against "moderate drinking."

The statement drawing most criticism asserted: "There are many persons who in all honesty and sincerity choose to drink moderately. Those who drink and those who abstain . . . should respect each other and work together constructively with the problem of alcohol."

The resolution further stated, "The practice of abstinance is imperative under certain conditions and to be encouraged in any situation . . . All drinking must be evaluated not in terms of one's right to drink or not to drink, but in the light of Christian responsibility for our fellowman and society."

CONDEMNS ALCOHOL

Rev. James E. Jones, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, said that the resolution further stated, "The church unequivacally condemns the use of alcohol, that drinking is an act of irresponsibility and a social evil." He also remarked that anyone who understands anything about theology could not possibly condone drinking, because it is against the principals of the scriptures.

He, along with Rev. Epps and Rev. W. S. Brinkley of the Hope Presbyterian church, said that the resolution had been misquoted in the newspaper articles.

Rev. Epps was one of 50 Negro clergymen attending the General Assembly in Brooklyn last week. The church passed a resolution also urging complete integration of all presbyteries in the country. All are desegregated now except one in Athens, Ga., according to Rev. Epps. The church body commended the Freedom Riders. In addition it requested pastors to take positive action in making community contacts with people, regardless of race, creed or national origin.

Keep Out of Cuba, Historians Demand

Nearly 200 historians at 41 colleges throughout the nation have protested to Pres. Kennedy against further intervention in Cuba and against attempts to censor discussion on Cuban policy.

The protest, in the form of an open letter, was initiated at the University of California in Berkeley and at Stanford. The letter bore 193 signatures.

NO RESUMPTION

"The ill-starred intervention in Cuba is ended," the letter read in part. "It should not be resumed openly or covertly. At worst, it could bring the world closer to general war.

"In any case, it would weaken the position of the United States in countries determined to pursue their own development, free of great-power control."

The historians said further:

"In less than 100 days, in dealing with Cuba, our government has in effect fallen back on the old cliche: 'The only thing they understand is force'."

WANT NO CENSORSHIP

The letter also took strong exception to Administration attempts to "fabricate" a "facade of national unity," and to attempts to get the press to muzzle itself.

"You called for self-censorship of the press in the national interest," the history professors reminded the President.

"Were it not for truthful reporting in the press, the American people would not realize the dimensions of our failure in Cuba . . . The national interest, especially at this critical juncture, can only be found in open debate."

The report of the protest, which appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle, gave only the names of Bay Area faculty members who signed the letter.

This letter was in addition to another open letter protesting U. S. intervention in Cuba that appeared as an advertisement in the New York Times. That protest was signed by a group of Eastern professors, many of whom were from Harvard, Kennedy's alma mater.

Bay Area history department signers were:

Thieves Steal Wardrobe from Actor's Auto

Using his automobile for a wardrobe proved to be an expensive practice for Ardie Stokes, 31, who works as an entertainer.

Last Sunday evening he parked his "wardrobe car" in front of 3516 McKinley avenue around 9:30 p.m. The next morning around 11:30 a.m. he returned to find that a window in the car had been jimmied open and that his wardrobe valued at $916 was missing.

The loot included six suits, two sport coats, 50 shirts, three pair of pants and several tuxedos.

FEP to Hold Hearing on Bias Charge

The State Fair Employment Practice Commission announced this week that it will hold its second public hearing in a case involving charges of racial discrimination in San Francisco June 13 and 14.

John Anson Ford, FEPC chairman, said the case involves a complaint by Clarence Ramsey, of Berkeley, against the T. H. Wilton Company, 1155 Front street, San Francisco. The firm deals in photographic supplies and equipment.

"This will be the second of 850 cases filed to be brought to public hearing," Ford emphasized. "All the others in which investigation revealed unlawful job discrimination have been resolved through conference and conciliation."

Ramsey charges that the Wilton firm denied him a job as shipping clerk because he is a Negro. He answered an employment agency's newspaper advertisement and was referred for an interview.

Ramsey, 33 and married, has had more than five years' experience in similar work.

Murrow Raps Snubs To African Envoys

WASHINGTON — Edward R. Murrow, in his first major speech in Washington as head of the U.S. Information Service, portrayed this country as "two faced" in its treatment of African diplomats.

"It is bad enough," he said, "that they read headlines of . . . bus burnings and beatings. It is even worse that they find it near impossible to live in the capitol of our nation.

WON'T RENT TO THEM

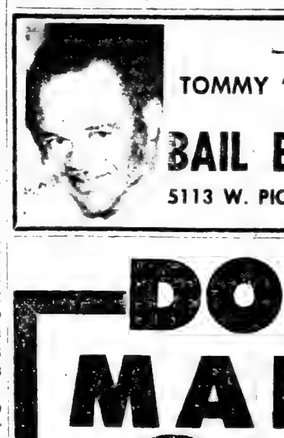
"Landlords will not rent to them; schools refuse their children; stores will not let them try on clothes; beaches bar their families."

Murrow made his stinging attack on Washington customs at a National Press Club luncheon.

"This is not something the Communists did to us," he continued. "We do it ourselves in our own capital. Is it possible that we concern ourselves too much with outer space and far places, and too little with inner space and near places?"

$100 MILLION A YEAR

The USIA spends some $100 million a year trying to combat Communist propaganda abroad.



Murrow said there are now some 30 African representatives in Washington "with what is euphemistically called 'unsatisfactory housing.' Fully one-third of these are termed emergency cases. There will be some 50 more families arriving in the next six months, 100 in the next year."

He added that the U.S. wants the African envoys to join in the fight for human freedom and dignity, but denies them full dignity.

Don't Cool Off Freedom Rides

Atty. General Robert Kennedy's appeal for a "cooling off" period on the part of the Freedom Riders was not only an unfortunate plea for acquiesence in defiance of the constitution; it displayed a total miscalculation of the temper of the Freedom Riders and of Negro sentiment.

The Freedom Riders are not trying to change existing law. They are trying to exercise rights guaranteed them under the constitution and affirmed by a long series of Supreme Court decisions. The law breakers are the southerners who refuse to accord Negroes the rights guaranteed them and no matter how it was intended the attorney general's suggestion was at bottom a plea in favor of the lawlessness.

The only remedy for southern lawlessness is an active and continuing challenge to southern custom which exalts racial prejudice above the constitution. Neither Alabama nor Mississippi would move any closer to compliance with the Constitution during a so-called cooling off period; they would only be confirmed in their determination to hold on to old ways and old attitudes.

The patience argument which bottomed the appeal for the cooling off period has lost its attraction for Negroes who have been patient almost beyond human endurance.

William Lloyd Garrison put the case well more than a hundred years ago when he was importuned to have patience and show moderation in his anti-slavery campaign: "Tell a man whose house is on fire to give a moderate alarm," he cried out, "tell him to moderately rescue his wife from the hands of the ravisher; tell the mother to gradually extricate her babe from the fire into which it has fallen;—but urge me not to use moderation in a cause like the present."

Of course, the Freedom Riders' actions have provoked a crisis but it is apparent that nothing can be done except at the point of crisis; the South will not yield even then but out of crisis the nation must act.

The attorney general has only one thing to do: he must live up to his oath and office and continue to faithfully execute the laws of the United States. Those laws are on the side of the Freedom Riders.

A Time for Soul Searching

Nobody would have guessed seven years ago when the Supreme Court handed down its school decisions that the NAACP would have been unable to hold a public meeting commemorating that decision in the heart of Harlem in 1961. That very thing happened last week when an NAACP meeting was broken up by a small band of determined Negro opponents.

The disrupters were not followers of the Muslim group; they were members of a fanatical sect which calls itself the African Nationalists. Their banners bore the legend "Africa Yes, Integration No." Their opposition was based on the fantastic proposition that Negroes must abandon their fight for acceptance as Americans and bend all of their efforts to fighting for a return to the "African Homeland."

The dismaying part of the affair is not that there are people who oppose the NAACP program with Back-to-Africa sentiment but that the people of Harlem were apathetic enough to permit a small band of hoodlums to break up an NAACP meeting. We're sure that a poll of Negroes would show an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the NAACP program of integration.

That overwhelming majority of Negroes who favor the NAACP program were so unconcerned with a meeting to commemorate the school victory that they stayed home, tending their run-of-mine chores. A sparse five hundred showed up at the meeting and it was easy enough for the clique of thirty or forty persons to disrupt the meeting.

The question is why there was this show of apathy. Why didn't the people who support the NAACP show up at a meeting when one of the original plaintiffs in the school case was billed to speak along with Roy Wilkins, and other leaders of the NAACP?

The apathy of the people is reprehensible but we can't escape the uneasy feeling that the NAACP has fallen down on the job in its public relations program and has lost touch with the people whom it serves and has served so long and so well.

The Harlem debacle should cause a great deal of soul searching on the part of those charged with conduct of NAACP affairs. They should ask themselves if their program itself is deficient and if it is not why enthusiasm for it has dimmed to the extent that only a faithful few showed up for its commemoration program in a city of a million Negro inhabitants.

The events in Alabama and Mississippi demonstrate that the need for the NAACP is greater than ever. Something's wrong when public response is so weak at a time the need is so great.

Negroes Can't Make All Sacrifices

It is apparent that the federal aid to education bill is going to leave the way open for southern states to apply whatever aid they get to support of Jim Crow schools. Negroes are being asked to acquiesce in this arrangement on the ground that unless the South is permitted to pursue its own course it will not tolerate the passage of any such law.

Something of the same kind happened in the minimum wage law fight. The wage law finally won the approval only when laundry workers were excluded from its provisions. The majority of laundry workers are Negroes who needed the protection of minimum wage laws but the argument was made, and sustained, that Negroes ought to sacrifice in order to permit the passage of the bill.

Of course, insistence on a non-discriminatory provision in the aid to education bill or inclusion of laundry workers in the minimum wage act might lead to defeat in the former case and might have prevented passage of any law in the latter situation but we think it's time for Americans to stop asking Negroes to make all of the sacrifices.

Negroes are the worst educated of all Americans and lowest paid of all workers; their needs are greater than those of other sections of the population. The continued passage of laws which exclude them from assistance constantly widens the gap between them and other Americans.

Their situation is then pointed to as reasons for their continued oppression. It is said that their lack of education prevents their acceptance at schools because they would drag down the level of learning. Their lack of industrial skills is pointed to as a reason for their exclusion from employment. Yet they are denied decent education and kept at wage levels so low that they lack means to acquire skills. They are caught in a vicious circle and are told that they must not try to break that circle lest their insistence harm the nation.

Congressional action of the kind contemplated in the school bill and enacted into law in the minimum wage act is destined to keep the Negro at the bottom of the heap. Negroes ought not be asked to voluntarily accept that position.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

If I were close enough, at this time, to one of Pres. Kennedy's trusted advisers to drop a word of encouragement into his shell-like ear, I would whisper that when the taste of continuous frustration or defeat is rancid in your mouth there is nothing that gives so much inspiration as the sweetening of a small, limited victory.

And heaven knows that the unceasing grinding of small and large defeats, niggling deadlocks and contemptuous betrayals must have the whole Kennedy entourage rising each morning with the taste in their mouths seeming like the great-great-great grandaddy of all the hangovers that ever were. It's ironic that only one of the group seems thus far to have an inkling that a "small, limited victory" is available to the Kennedy Administration, and even he is probably not quite sure what it is.

TOO LITTLE

Baleful events in Alabama have come to pass in quick succession —to the point where the past weekend witnessed the dispatch of 400 U. S. marshals to Birmingham. Montgomery and other high-tension points, presumably to insure protection of the civil rights of Negro and white "freedom riders." The marshals will wear armbands, will carry revolvers and will be provided with night-sticks and tear gas bombs, we were told.

Well, this is all well and good as far as it goes but it doesn't do much more than walk around the corner and come back again. A quick question might be whether the Attorney General thinks this is enough; a quick answer would be that he is too intelligent to think so. Alabama mobs composed of escapees from Tobacco Road and the vomit of filthy mill-town slums have been reinforced by idlers of the high school-and-better level of training, are being advised by chamber of commerce types, have been given open license to slug helpless victims while the police look on with amusement and are defended in the nation's press by their governor and other "spokesmen for law and order." Under these circumstances, what can 400 or even 4,000 half-armed marshals in civilan clothes do?

IKE SENT TROOPS

The answer, of course, is not much. There was a time (remember when, 'way, 'way back?) when the threat of "the federals" coming into a southern area was enough to make moonshiners and such small-fry law violators jump and scurry off. But this was before 'nice people'' organized publicly to defy the federal law; it was before their womenfolk gathered like squalling harridans in front of schools to howl hatred at nine-year-olds and to spit on their parents. Their state governments protected them and the Federal Government did nothing effective to intervene—and defiance gathered momentum.

Then came Little Rock—and Eisenhower's dispatch of troops to put down rebellion. There was a lot of shouting and shocked expressions that the President should never have let things go that far. (Though nobody yet has suggested anything else he could have done.) But the fact is that the use of Federal troops broke the back fo the Faubus rebellion, and from that point Little Rock began its march back into the ranks of civilized communities. Today Little Rock may still be unreconstructed, but at least it is no longer uncontrolled.

UNIFORMS AND BAYONETS

The use of troops in Alabama may come harder for Pres. Kennedy. He condemned their use by Eisenhower; Alabama's Gov. Patterson (who was a principal Kennedy backer) declares that the President promised him "never" to send troops into any southern city to enforce civil rights. But there comes a time when victory demands swallowing one's words. And by the same token, any governor who violates his solemn oath to obey and enforce the laws of the land would look pretty silly demanding in public that a promise allegedly made in private be kept so that he can continue to violate the law.

So I have a very friendly and earnest hope that the attorney general has recommended to the President that troops be readied for their use in Alabama. The President would not find a Solid South ranged against him on this issue. Some of Patterson's fellow chief executives in the South have already expressed their disgust and resentment—not over the Alabaman's support of mob violence, but over his public endorsement of it. And there's nothing more apt to quell the mob spirit than the sight of uniforms and bayoneted rifles carried by men who mean to use them if necessary. This is the kind of language that mobs will understand.

Here are the makings of that "small, limited victory" to which I referred at the opening of this column. It won't solve the race problem. It won't civilize Alabama, which is about 50 years away from civilization, but it will set the pattern—if followed to its conclusion—for protection of the "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" of Americans. And this would be a marvelous inspiration as we turn back to problems of the world.

Loren Miller Says . . .

close their doors to Negro pupils.

A LONG HISTORY

The American double standard is one of long standing and draws its strength from ingrained tradition. The signers of the Declaration of Independence who wrote correctly that all men are created equal did not include the Negro in that estimate. Many of them were slaveholders. The constitution makers who wrote the great guarantees of that document and bolstered them with the Bill of Rights did not include Negroes in their propositions that all persons have the right to trial by jury, or freedom of speech, or press, or assemblage. They meant white persons.

Whatever correctives were intended by the Civil War Amendments were quickly vitiated by the Supreme Court, which permitted classification of citizens on the basis of race and thus restricted the plain meaning of the 14th Amendment and gave the states the right to limit the franchise under the terms of the 15th Amendment. What the court did was to enact into fundamental law the proposition that the double standard of treatment for Americans had survived the abolition of slavery.

THE RIGHT TO DISCRIMINATE

American institutions of all kinds operate on the double standard. Industry claims the right to apply one standard to white applicants for employment and another to Negro job seekers. Unions may organize Negro workers but insist on the right to apply a double standard when selecting officials—even the liberal United Automobile Workers union repels the idea of electing a Negro vice president on the ground that the time isn't ripe. Most churches maintain a double standard for admission of members. Nowhere does the Negro get equality of treatment.

Long continued practice of inequality toward Negroes has birthed the idea that there is a "right" to discriminate. The Negro's claim is weighed in a double scale: his right to equality as against the "right" to discriminate. The Negro who wants that complete equality of treatment envisaged by the Christian ethic and the democratic tradition of equality is called an "extremist" and the same phrase is used to describe those who insist on their "right" to discriminate.

TRAPPED LIBERALS

The liberal is trapped between these two ideas. He deprecates "extremists on both sides." He seeks for compromise. His undoing, and the reason why he was under attack on Open End, is that compromise demands that Negroes admit that they are not entitled to the full blessings of equality. Negroes can't admit any such thing without giving their whole case away.

That's the way things are these days. Negroes are all out for complete equality. They're tired of a double standard by which the white man's rights are weighed in one scale and theirs in another. Liberals can't run with the hare and hunt with the hounds much longer. The rabbits have turned on them.

are assigned to protect would be a tragic error and a travesty of justice."

The Rev. King is being brought to Los Angeles by the People's Independent Church of Christ, of which the Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins is pastor, to speak at its 45th annual Men's Day, at both the morning and the evening services.

Wendell Franklin is coordinator of the Men's Day arrangements, and is being assisted by Gilbert Lindsay and William Goward, civic and fraternal leaders, who are co-chairmen.

One of a man's major problems, says an expert, is how to fall into a woman's arms without falling into her hands.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor:

You say that you are for the Negro having freedom, justice and equality. Yet you jump on and try to whitewash the only so-called Negro leadership in America, the Muslims.

By whitewash I mean mess it up or deliberately slander those who not only teach freedom, justice and equality, but also practice it.

Maybe you are not what you claim to be. You not only attacked Mr. Malcolm X, you went so far as to attack our God (Almighty Allah).

In reality you are attacking, mocking and slandering not only the Muslims of America, but the so-called Negro and all black mankind. I don't know what you are supposed to be, but I know what you should be called. You show yourself as the damn fool that you are.

How can a person like you say you are for the so-called Negro getting his rights as he should? You say one thing and do another. I am writing pertaining to your articles of the California Eagle, Thursday, April 27, 1961, pages 1 and 4.

If you are to call yourself a newspaper woman, then print the facts you keep your personal opinion to yourself. You are playing with something hot and you have not a good knowledge of (it), judging from your writings.

And to say the least, but not last, you have no control over it whatsoever. I would suggest you do your job by sticking to the facts and leave your opinion out.

Eugene (2X) Johnson Jr.

(Mr. Eugene 2X addressed his letter to Mrs. Loren Miller, but apparently was referring to the column on the Muslims written by Atty. Loren Miller, publisher of the California Eagle.—Editor)

To the Editor:

We would like to point out the attitude of most Negroes with respect to the highly controversial problems of Reapportionment, particularly as it affects the Negro citizens in Los Angeles.

There is no question nor doubt that any American should have an opportunity to be elected to public office. When these rights are denied through political chicanery by State Legislatures as has been done historically to the Negroes, it is an attempt to frustrate the American concept of democrary. When this undemocratic approach to redistricting is compounded by deliberately placing a specific racial group only into a district, as is the present plan of the Crown committee, it becomes a hideous apartheid type of political racial gerrymandering. This the Negro despises.

As other communities of Los Angeles have done, we also insist upon electing representatives on the basis of their program and not to their race. Every lesson shows that when districts are created solely because of racial consideration, be they white or Negro (as has happened in some Eastern and Southern areas), demogogues are inevitable. Such demogogues are usually elected because the constituency they come from was created exclusively out of racial consideration and therefore such politicians reflect this fact.

The NAACP, a non-partisan civil rights organization, favors no particular plan for reapportionment in Los Angeles County. We have pointed out to all citizens and to hundreds of leaders of both parties that the NAACP is opposed to any plan that creates a segregated electorate. In our statements, we have compared this to segregated schools. We have informed our officials that the NAACP will with every instrument we possess, fight this type of political segregation. We have told our officials that the 2-4 Plan is a plan that, if adopted, would create muti-racial districts rather than Jim Crow districts, and to this extent we consider it a democratic plan.

In summary, the Negro citizen wishes that districts were so drawn that it would become possible to elect worthy Negro citizens to public office. But on the other hand, the NAACP is not willing to condone segregation in reapportioning the South Los Angeles Area. Local segregation in any realm of American life can only create bad conditions for Negro and white alike. We therefore urge our fellow citizens to deeply consider any segregated political boundaries which might be established by the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee.

NAACP Political Action Committee

The county has followed the pattern set by the city which, while granting increases to 12,751 workers, including more than $1000 a year for the fire and police chiefs and somewhat more than that for the city administrator, also left out the janitors, elevator and business machine operators.

Deprived of the raises granted by the city were 1600 workers in these categories.

for all facilities maintained in connection with interstate bus travel, including waiting rooms, rest rooms, eating and drinking facilities and windows for ticket sales.

In Alabama, Gov. Patterson lifted martial law that was established May 21 after Freedom Riders were brutally beaten at the bus depot in Montgomery. Earlier federal marshals had been withdrawn.

TURN DEAF EAR

Patterson, whose failure to enforce the law has brought widespread attacks upon him even in his own state, warned "outside agitators" to stay out of the state and "mind their own business."

Hearings on an injunction sought by the federal government against the Ku Klux Klan, other segregationist groups and police chiefs and officers in Montgomery and Birmingham were continuing in Montgomery.

Eyewitnesses told of refusal of officers to stop the white mob from beating up Negro and white riders in Montgomery. An ex-paratrooper testified he was told, when he asked three officers to stop the beatings, to "get away from here."

MINISTER SHOT

Another witness who tried to intervene said he was told to "get the hell out of here." A girl Freedom rider told the court she saw the only policeman at the station drive away as the bus pulled in.

Prior to the arrests in Montgomery last Thursday, the Rev. Solomon Seay reported that he was shot in the wrist by a young fellow who fired at him from a passing car.

The minister who was beaten at the Hinds County Prison Farm Monday was identified as the Rev. C. T. Vivian, 36.

DIDN'T SAY 'SIR'

Vivian reportedly was clubbed when he failed to address a prison guard as "sir."

Penal farm director Max Thomas said the minister refused to cooperate. Thomas said his back was turned at the time of the beating.

When he turned around, he said two guards and Vivian were scuffling.

Rev. Vivian and 21 other Freedom Riders had elected to serve out a 60-day suspended sentence rather than pay $200 fines each levied against them in a 15-minute court hearing on charges of breach of the peace.

The 20 men, including two white men, were put to work on road gangs. The two women, both Negroes, were given farm kitchen and similar duties.

WE'LL FILL THE JAILS

The 17 convicted in the second batch in Jackson Monday were given the same sentences—$200 fines and 60-day suspended jail sentences.

When Atty. Gen. Kennedy called for a "cooling off" period, Rev. Abernathy replied that the Freedom Riders had decided to "fill the jails" of Mississippi and Alabama, if necessary.

In New York Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive, rejected the "contention that Negro citizens should voluntarily declare a moratorium on their efforts to challenge the denial of their rights and should permit segregation-as-usual in the interest of lessened tension.

"Never," he continued, "have the segregationists been asked to alter their customs or operations, even briefly, in the interest of lessened tensions."

Friends Back Ron Lawson

charge of Juvenile Division at the Newton Street Police Station, is one of those who had a good opportunity to observe Lawson.

Green is polemarch of Kappa Alpha Psi, and Lawson was one of the fraternity's pledges. He played in the local Inter-Frat Basketball games both last year and this. And there's no money in that.

"He played his heart out," said Green. "He gave it everything he had."

"He's a fine young fellow," Green continued. "Clean cut. Honest. Diligent. He put out all the time.

DIDN'T MISS A GAME

"He didn't miss a game. He was there for every practice."

Lawson was one of the most promising stars in the UCLA firmament.

He was the highest scorer on the team last year with 356 points in 26 games for a 13.7 average. He was second in rebounds with 212 and fourth in freethrow shooting with a .716 percentage.

Lawson was dropped from UCLA a few days before the end of the school term—or left by mutual consent—after he had testified before the New York Grand Jury that is investigating bribery and the throwing of games—or points—in a college basketball scandal that has rocked the East Coast.

ANONYMOUS CALL

The accusation against Lawson was the first instance of possible involvement on the part of any West Coast team.

Lawson isn't accused of accepting a bribe, or of throwing points. All he is accused of is not reporting that someone had approached him.

He said in Nashville that someone called him late in February, didn't give any name, but asked him how he would like a summer job. Then he asked Lawson how he'd feel about "shaving points in a game."

Lawson said he replied, "No! I won't do it!"

About a week later, he said, the same man called him again. This time he gave a phony name, and once more asked him what he thought about shaving points.

FORGET IT

Lawson said, "I told him, 'No. I don't want to do it.'"

When the man said he was going to check "on that summer job for you" that he had mentioned in the first talk, Lawson said I told him, "Forget it. I'm going home this summer."

That's all there was to it. He never heard from the man again.

But last Thursday he left UCLA. Perhaps that's the end of his basketball career, a career with a brilliant promise, a career that started when he was a youngster who loved the game, dreamed about the game, went to sleep at night with his beloved basketball next to him in his bed.

and Gross signed the agreement in the president's office while President Kennedy beamed approval.

Significant Advance

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive, hailed the agreement as a "significant advance" and said that the Association was gratified that the report made by the Air Force "has substantiated the charges of racial discrimination made by the NAACP." The Association had protested the award of a billion dollar contract to the company on the grounds that its discriminatory policies violated federal policy.

The Lockheed Georgia plant has been under fire for almost three years because of its policies but had steadfastly refused to make any changes until its right to the contract was challenged.

At the same time the NAACP warned that it would not consider the hiring of a few workmen or technicians in token compliance with the policy as satisfactory and said it will keep an eye on the plant in order to see that thorough changes are made.

Kennedy Statement

In a comment on the agreement, President Kennedy said:

"This program is a long-range commitment by the Lockheed Corp. and by the United States government to work together in improving and expanding the job opportunities available to members of minority groups.

"I believe that this plan is a milestone in the history of civil rights in this country."

Mr. Kennedy said Lockheed is "setting a pattern which can open new doors and expanded employment opportunities for members of minority groups throughout this country.

Tolerance is merely an uncomfortable suspicion that the other fellow may be right after all.

Europeans Ask Choir to Sing Spirituals

The Capella Choir of Hamilton Methodist Church sang spirituals in a command performance for distinguished visitors to Los Angeles last week. The royal guests from Europe included Mrs. L. Fouche, wife of the governor of New Caledonia, and her three daughters; and the sister-in-law of General Charles DeGaulle of France.

The group accompanied by their host Captain A. Reagan of TWA, requested the spirituals and came to the church for the performance of the choir under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew.

Mrs. Bilbrew told the story behind each spiritual to the fascinated guests. Requested spirituals included: Roll, Jordan, Roll, My Lord, What a Morning, Steal Away, Every Time I Feel the Spirit, and Swing Low, Sweet Chariot.

Adventists Open Hospital For Navajo Indians

Members of the 54th Street Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1975 W. 54th street, are marking the opening of a major medical facility for the Navajo Indians which they have helped to build.

The new facility is a 23-bed ultra-modern hospital in colorful Monument Valley area of southern Utah and northern Arizona. Its opening has been made possible by gifts of local Adventist churches.

According to Pastor Dwight Herbert, the new hospital is the only one in a 100-mile-either-way area some 600 miles from Los Angeles and located on the Arizona-Utah border near the "Four Corners area where Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico meet.

Often desperately ill Indians would die in the clinic's ambulance during the 100 mile race to the hospital in the past. Now it is expected many of these deaths will be prevented because of the new facility.

In the swirling desert sands below these monuments live thousands of mal-nourished Indians, many of whom have died in the past because no hospital has been available.

Baptists Aid NAACP With Substantial Gift

JAMAICA, N. Y. Dr. Walter S. Pinn, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church here, turned over his 15th Anniversary Sunday collection May 7 to the NAACP.

The special anniversary offering, which normally would go to the pastor on such an occasion, amounted to $1,207.75, covering both memberships and contributions.

$100 PER YEAR

Rev. Pinn, who came to Calvary when it had only 71 members, has built his congregation to 2,000 and has now a beautiful church edifice free of any mortgage. The growth has been such that a new educational building will be started shortly and attached to the present building.

Calvary Baptist Church has given not less than $100 to the NAACP each year since Rev. Pinn became the pastor and in 1959, upon the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the NAACP, the church gave $1,000 to the Silver Jubilee Freedom Fund, making it an NAACP Life Member. $500 NAACP Life Member.

In the first three months of the fund raising drive, launched among the members of the Tabernacle of Faith Baptist Church, 114th street and S. Central avenue, more than $10,000 was reported recently by Mrs. Esther Nash Ferrel, chairman of the drive.

The next stage of the drive will be closed on July 30. For this section of the "Let's Get It Done in '61," slogan will be, "Four or More Will Open the Door."

Rev. Douglas F. Ferrell, pastor of the church, has demonstrated his ability to have successful fund drives in his church through tithing and pledges by the membership.

He was supported in this service by the Senior, Youth and Cherub choirs, with Mrs. Velma Stewart and Mrs. Ruth Moore as accompanists.

Youngsters attending the District Association meeting recently at Providence Baptist Church were interested in finding the answers to the problems they face as Christians in this atomic age. Among the questions asked were many concerning dating non-Christians and the right are for marriage, going steady, the use of lipstick and if the church would permit dancing.

Probable solutions were given from the floor by adults and youth and by ministers. Rev. L. M. Curtis Jr. led the discussion.

Rev. E. V. Hill, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, preached the sermon on the Centrality of the Cross. "The Cross," he said, proves that God loves us and that Christ willingly died that all men might have salvation.

"It is the emblem of man's faith in God and is the center of all procedures. It symbolizes the willingness of head, heart, health and hands to serve in the spirit of Christ.

MOMENTS OF DECISION — John and Vermya Phillis will enhance early morning spiritual listening with their Moments of Decision broadcast each Sunday at 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. over radio stations KTYM, 1460 on AM, or KTYM-FM, radio 103.9 on the dial. Snow Valley Basketball School, located in the beautiful San Bernardino mountains 85 miles east of Los Angeles, is a summer camp designed for boys age 10 to high school graduation interested in a basketball career. A boy can attend the camp for one week for a total of $87.50.

This school is patterned after the famed Conifer Basketball School in Washington, which has proven highly beneficial to young athletes. The enthusiasm was so great last year that the camp is being enlarged this year to accomodate the increased demand from boys who have a tremendous desire to become proficient basketball players.

This camp at Snow Valley is not only a treat for any youngster but it is also an excellent opportunity for him to learn the fundamental skills, strategy and knowledge of the game.

They will be taught by experienced and successful coaches and will be counselled by well-known college coaches. The program includes individual daily instruction, training and game experience for all boys on outside courts.

This is intermingled with first-rate movies, horseback riding, swimming, hiking and fishing close to the school, baseball and golf hitting, plus other outdoor activities. It gives our youngsters a fine chance to make new friends with similar interests from other areas.

Professional instructors at the school include Elgin Baylor, of the L.A. Lakers, and Showboat Buckner, of the Harlem Stars. Buckner will be a full-time instructor. The fine staff of college coaches includes: Dr. Franklin Lindeburg, of U.C.; Lee Fulmer, of Redlands; Rene Herreria of U.C., Berkley; Jim Sells, U.C., Davis; Dr. Art Gallon, U.C., Santa Barbara; Dr. George Ziegenfuss of San Diego State. Also Bill Donovan, of Loyola; John Wooden, U.C.L.A.; and Howard Dallmar of Stanford.

Organizations wishing to send a boy to camp certainly should consider Snow Valley. In addition to providing them with a wonderful camp experience, the youngsters will, as a result, be of greater service to their school teams and will also be better students in the class rooms. Seven organizations could easily sponsor a youngster from L.A. High, Dorsey, Manual, Jordan, Jefferson, Fremont and Centennial. Drop coach Joe Moses a line at Morningside High in Inglewood if you are interested.

Jefferson Wins All City Title

Jefferson High amassed 64 points in the 27th annual All-City finals last Saturday afternoon at East Los Angeles College Stadium before 11,000 prep fans to win the varsity title, and set their sights on the State meet on Saturday, June 3 at ELAC.

Jefferson's Arthur Brownlee sizzled to a 9.7 hundred, came in the 220 to run a dead heat with Vernon Jackson of Roosevelt in 21.4 and picked up 25 yards anchoring the mile relay in which Jeff won in 2:57.2. Larry Miller, Jeff's ace pole vaulter, was upset by Vern Williams of San Pedro who leaped 13 ft. 8¾.

Paul Turnquits, defending 880 champion from Van Nuys, set a new half mile mark of 1:53.5. Fremont won the B-team title with 62¾ and the C-crown with 67 points.

FINAL SCORES—Jefferson, 64; San Pedro, 33; Manual Arts, 28; Fremont, 27; Los Angeles, 22; Franklin, 21; South Gate, 19; Roosevelt, 18½; Gardena, 17; Canoga Park, 14; Dorsey, 14; Cleveland, 11 1-6; Van Nuys, 11 Venice, 8; Polytechnic, 8; Marshall, 8; Birmingham, 7; San Fernando, 6 1-6; Narbonne, 6; Jordan, 6; Grant, 6; Granada Hills, 4; Hamilton, 3¼; Banning, 3; Washington, 2⅔; Fairfax, 2; University, 2; Verdugo Hills, 1 1-6.

PICK CHAMP TO RETAIN WORLD BELT

Emile Griffith, regarded as one of the best to wear the welterweight crown in recent years, remains a firm 12-5 favorite over Mexico's Gasper Ortega as they go into the final week of training drills.

They clash Saturday night in a 15-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium. Though the fight will be carried on national TV, there will be a 150 Southern California TV blackout.

Griffith captured the title last April 1 with a sensational 13-round knockout over Benny Kid Paret in Miami Beach. Prior to that the 23-year-old native of the Virgin Islands, defeated Luis Rodriguez, Denny Moyer, Florentino Fernandez and Ortega.

The Griffith-Ortega brawl was held in February of last year in Madison Square Garden with Emile the winner on a split decision.

Ortega, 25-year-old Mexican campaigner, has beaten three world welterweight titleholders—Kid Gavilan, Tony DeMarco and Paret.

A tireless non-stop puncher, Gaspar has never been stopped in 79 pro starts. The only man to have him on the floor was hard-hitting Florentino Fernandez.

A special 10-round bout has been added to the title card by matchmaker George Parnassus. Jose Lopez, a bright new bantamweight prospect from Mexico, will meet Abe Villa. This will follow the Griffith-Ortega scrap.

Tickets are on sale at the Olympic and are priced at $25, $20, $15, $10, $7.50 and $5, tax included.

The card will start at 6:30 p.m.

Volleyball Tournament Scheduled

Thirty women's teams from the Southern California area will put their skill on display Thursday, June 1, when they meet at South Gate Park in a fifth annual championship volleyball encounter exclusively held for the fair sex.

The Women's Volleyball Tournament, a twice-yearly extravaganza, is under the sponsorship of the Southern California Municipal Athletic Federation's Women's Sports committee.

The 30 adult women's teams that make up the four divisions represent many southern communities from San Fernando to San Diego.

Summer Tryout Camp Scheduled By L.A. Lakers

The Los Angeles Lakers have announced the completion of plans for a unique summer tryout camp, to be held the week of June 12 in Los Angeles. The camp will be for the purpose of giving the Laker coach a good look at various rookies from the draft list.

Said Coach Fred Schaus, in announcing the camp, "We will invite a limited number of boys who have never played in the NBA to come to Los Angeles and will spend a week working them out in closed sessions. This will give us an extensive opportunity to look at rookies without the distractions of the usual basketball training sessions. Those boys who look like solid prospects for NBA basketball will then be invited back to the regular Laker training camp in September."

The closed sessions will be held twice a day at Pepperdine College Men's Gym, under the personal supervision of Schaus.

Compton Invitational Draws Nation's Top Track Stars

Traditionally one of the world's finest invitational track meets, the 22nd renewal of the Compton Invitational Friday night, June 2, should uphold its lofty record. Field events start at 7:30 p.m. the first race at 8 p.m.

A big share of the nation's greatest stars will be on hand, along with such imports as Canada's Bruce Kidd and the West Indies' George Kerr. Several world records are in danger.

John Thomas, back in shape after a slump, meets another 7-footer — SC's Bob Avant — in the high jump. Target for the evening is Thomas' world record of 7-3¾.

Records are threatened in the shot and discus. Parry O'Brien has returned to competition in the shot to battle world leaders Dallas Long and Jay Silvester.

The discus field is headed by Rink Babka, who shows signs of breaking the world mark.

The first Western appearance this year of Frank Budd of Villanova will be watched with interest. Budd has tied the world record of 9.3 in the 100 and has the world's fastest 220 clocking in '61—20.2.

Brad Pye Joins L.A. Angels Staff

Los Angeles Angels' general manager Fred Haney this week announced the addition of Brad Pye, Jr., veteran local sports writer, to the club's public relations staff.

Pye, who is sports editor of the Los Angeles Sentinel, the largest Negro newspaper in the West, served in a similar capacity for the Los Angeles (San Diego) Chargers.

The addition of Pye to the Angels' public relations department gives the club a "Little United Nations" staff, declared Haney. The PR staff is headed by Irv Kaze, Jewish; it includes George Goodale, an Indian; Jimmy Maynes, a Mexican, and Pye, a Negro.

A product of the Los Angeles city school system, Pye was an honor journalism student at East Los Angeles Junior College and Los Angeles State College.

He is 29 and is married to the former Eunice Robinson of this city. The Pyes have three children, including twins.

Ralph Boston Jumps 27 Feet

Ralph Boston, the Olympic broad champion from Tennessee State, was redhot in the California Relays at Modesto last week.

The sensational Boston leaped 27 feet ½ inch for a new world record and in six jumps he never leaped less than 25 feet.

He built up to his record shattering leaps with jumps of 26 5 3/4; 26 9 3/4; 26 5 1/4; 27½.

SOFTBALL TEAMS IN BAR LEAGUES RESUME ACTION

No regular games were scheduled in the Bar League last Sunday. However last Thursday Lee Roys and the Caribbean, leaders in the Elbow Benders and Hangover loops, battled to a 1-all tie.

Fatman Pinson put Lee Roys out in front again with a home run, but in the 6th Town Tavern went out in front 6 to 5. In the 7th Lee Roys iced the game with two runs.

Biggest attraction this week will be the Clark Hotel game against Kings Lounge at Ross Snyder. The loser will have to buy all the rounds following the games and the fans will be included.

Sigma Fraternity and Zeta Sorority Holds Sparkling Annual Orchid Formal

INFORMAL GATHERING—Among the more than 2500 guests attending the annual orchid ball was the impressive foursome above. They are Joe Lewis, John and Mrs. Hutcherson and Tom Bradley. Mr. Bradley, incidentally, is one of the top candidates for appointment to the vacant seat in the City Council. (Adams)

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc., and Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., pooled their efforts to hold their annual Orchid Ball Monday night in the spacious International Ballroom of the plush Beverly Hilton Hotel and attracted well over 2500 guests.

Highlighting the evening's affair was the introduction of Dr. Debora P. Wolfe, Grand Basileus of Zeta Sorority who flew in from New York City especially to attend the annual dance.

Lovely Miss Gwendolyn Yates reigned as queen of the ball. She was selected "Miss Zeta of the Pacific Region" and was entered as that area's representative in the national "Miss Zeta" contest, staged annually by the sorority.

The strictly formal affair attracted many notables from as far away as San Francisco, Oakland, Fresno, San Diego and San Bernardino. Peppy Prince and his band provided the evening's dance for the affair that got under way at 10 p.m. and lasted until 2 p.m.

Rev. H. Belfield Hannibal served as master of ceremonies on a split second's notice when the scheduled master of ceremonies suddenly became ill and could not attend.

He introduced H. A. Howard, dance chairman, and his co-chairman, Vera Cleaver, Dr. Tom Anderson, Jackie Moore, John Hutcherson, Ruth Brown, Jordan Daniels, James Anderson, C. Prince, T. Haynes, M. Matson, Rosetta Holt, Stephney Addison, Howard Holt, Charles Martin, president of Phi Beta Sigma; Nellie Render, Basileus of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, and Dr. Debora P. Wolfe.

Sorority members and Men of Sigma were presented corsages and boutonieres as they entered the huge ballroom for an evening that was devoted to fun and frolic.

Delta Sorority Draws Cream of Crop Crowd at Annual Jabberwock at Ebell

RUTH O' LAY—Mercury Records' singing star is shown giving out with an excellent performance during the Urban League Guild's Fairyland Fantasia ball. (Adams)

A capacity crowd attended the annual Delta sorority's Jabberwock held recently at the Wilshire Ebell and watched Tom Hawkins, master of ceremonies, introduce eight lovely high school seniors and college freshmen beautifully gowned in white formals carrying red carnations as the curtains unfurled for the 1961 affair.

Carol Thomas was seated upon the throne representing the 1958 Jabberwock queen.

With the announcement that Marsha Williams had been proclaimed 1961 queen, the Jabberwock was on its way.

As promised, this was one of the Deltas' greatest shows. Sparking professional and amateur talent were: The famous Little Angels, the swinging Marv Jenkins Trio, vivacious Juanita Crews, and the popular Curlee Dinkins, who were in the line-up to open the show.

Other special attractions between the competitive skits were: Bob DeCoy, presenting "Face on the Bar Room Floor"; vocalist Hugh Bell; Clarice Jones' Dance Co.; Renee Bell, vocalist; comedian Johnny Lee; vocalist Lawrence Stone; Eunice Cain Dancers; LaParisienne Dancers, Ricky and Joyce.

The Deltas presented the Prologue and Epilogue which sent the viewers on an "Interna-

CONCERT AT CARNEGIE

This busy week started on Sunday at Carnegie Hall when with my charming and gracious hostess, Mary Countee, I attended the Nina Simone and Miriam Makeba joint concert for the benefit of the Church of the Master.

It was a 2 hour concert, with each artist contributing her half, and both were extremely effective in doing excellent jobs and in complimenting each other. Miriam, the South African songstress, opened the concert and pleased the near-capacity house with a variety of songs from "Where Did the Naughty Little Flea Go?" to "Wimoweh," from the Zulu book.

NINA SIMONE SWINGSATIONAL

Then Nina Simone did her fine job the second half of the program as she sang many tunes from "One More Sunday in Savannah" through "The Chain Gang Song" and a clever novelty tune called "Forbidden Fruit."

GORDON WINS AGAIN

Monday night the Camp Fund affair was at the cozy "La Famille Cafe," and with a packed house there to have fun and to honor Frankie Bizell of Four Roses, a good time was had by all, and I won some beautiful cocktail glasses.

APOLLO FAVORITE GO-PLACE

Saw the Joe Williams, Carmen McRae, "Sweets" Edison, Ray Bryant Trio & Co. show at the Apollo Theatre, and this was a good show, thoroughly enjoyed by a full house. This week it's been Jocko and his Rocketship Revue, headed by Lloyd Price, and starting tomorrow (2nd), it will be twisting, Chubby Checker & Co., to be followed next week by a big Eartha Kitt Revue, featuring Slappy White and Lonnie Sattin.

MAKING THE SCENES

Wednesday night I attended a very nice party in Englewood, N. J., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchins, given in honor of Urban Leaguer Betty Jayne Everett and her very charming traveling companion (also from OUTSTANDING APPOINTMENT—Daniel G. Kean, veteran employee of Gulf Oil Corporation, has been appointed liaison officer and director of studies and inquiries that may be required in the maintenace of a public relations program affecting America's largest minority's market.

FINE NUMBER—There may be more exciting ways of spending free time than reading telephone directories. but Pacific Telephone's Frances Hartsman apparently prefers ot spend her leisure browsing through the new Los Angeles Exchange directory. Distribution for the new edition begins Monday (June 5) and continues through Saturday.

POKER — Those so-called friendly society poker games in a plush View Park pad turned into a real serious matter when that society sister dropped $1200 the other eve!

BETTY PLEASANT — A journalism major at East L.A. College and currently city editor of the college paper, will become managing editor next semester!

BUDDY DE FRANCO—One of the greatest clarinetists in his field, will present a jazz concert Friday, June 2, in Ingalls Auditorium at East Los Angeles College!

JERI SPENCER — Wifie of Prince Spencer of the famed Four Step Brothers, in town from Chicago for a week renewing old friendships!

BARBARA CLAUSELL—Training under the capable supervision of Barbara Westbrooks to become a doctor's assistant should develop her into a proficient operator.

BIRTHDAY — Dynamite Jackson, Luis Rivera and Sammy Cole will be toasting each other in the West-Adams lounge this week!

DRUMS—Those snooty women who were ashamed to pose by a set of drums in a large assembly during a gay cocktail party really failed to get the message. Drums are the oldest musical instrument in history and were used in the olden days to attract such an assembly as the Sunday eve mob!

BILLIE IVES — Easily among the best dressed women in the Southland showing off her charming sister, Erma L. Holly, in the Playroom the other eve!

H. Belafonte CBS-TV Guest On June 11th

Harry Belafonte, who has been "mystery guest" on "What's My Line?" a number of times, joins the program as guest panelist for the Sunday, June 11th, show (CBS-TV, 10:30-11:00 p.m.).

SOMETHING NEW

Belafonte, seen on video at well paced intervals in his own specials, is making his "panel debut" on the famed weekly vocation guessing format.

WAX WORKER

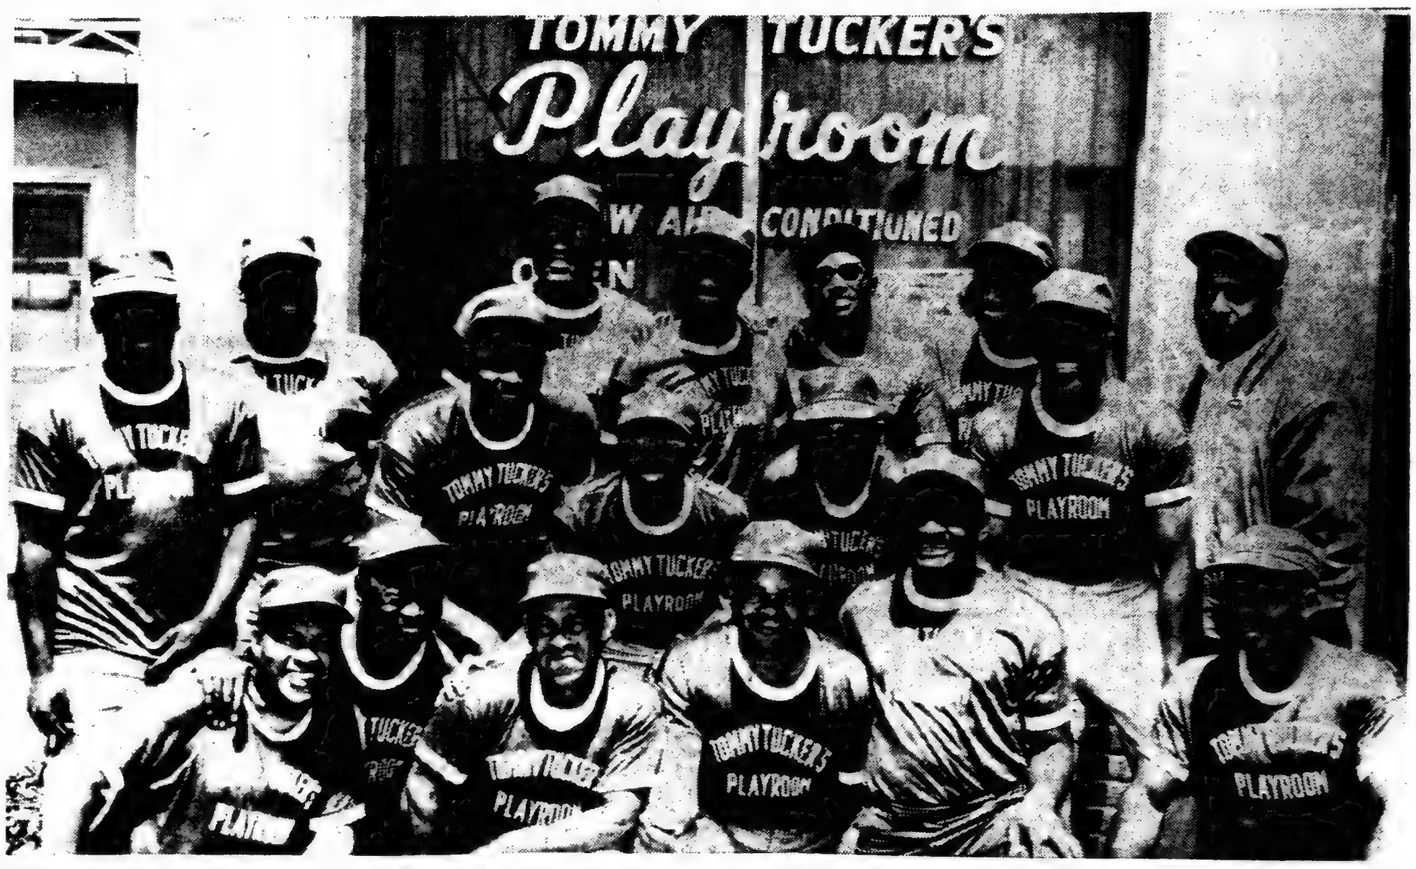
Harry Belafonte's parent production organization, Belafonte Enterprises, Inc., has formed a recording division, which will independently produce all of Belafonte's LP's and singles and that of other artists under contract to the parent company, with only distribution of the product reverting to the hands of already established recording companies.

LEN WEINRIB THE MOST POPULAR ASHGROVE ACT

"Nothing's too new to be superceded" might easily be the motto for our century. And the motto may be given further proof when Len Weinrib's broad approach to humor shows up the limitations of the "New Comedy."

A renowned television, theatre and radio star, creator of every imaginable kind of role; co-star of the Billy Barnes Revue and the Billy Barnes People; accomplished singer, musician, photographer, comedy recording artist, innately gifted story-teller; a young man of broad education and interests, Len steps on to a stage with the belief that anything is possible if it is presented with skill and understanding. And he has no lack of either quality.

HIGHLY VERSATILE



Flexibility of material and presentation is of prime importance to Len. "If I want to switch from a dialect story or comic pantomime to a recitation of T. S. Eliot, Ill do it.'

Daring? Of course, but for a young man of Len's creative and interpretive genius, it's the kind of daring that insures enormous success.

Through four weeks the Ash Grove is presenting Weinrib in his premiere club engagement. Hilariously funny, warmly captivating, Len's sketches, pantomimes, monologues, dialect stories and dramatizations create an unprecedented experience in humor and human-ness.

PRESCOTT MAKES SCENE

On this same bill will be the Oranim Zabar, Israel's most outstanding musical trio. Among the many popular press personalities ringsiding at the preview opening Tuesday were Laura Prescott, the California Eagle's co-correspondent from New York.

SETTING THE PACE—Between tastes Tommy Tucker's Playroom Playboys have found time to lead the race with a nifty 10 wins and 2 losses in the Elbow Benders League of the Bar Loop Softball League. Before taking on Mac's Castle Swinging nine tonight (Thursday) at the Rancho playground, Tommy Tucker's crew went in training at the popular Playroom in order to capture the spirit of the occasion. Bracing themselves, from left to right at bottom of photo are: Hymer; Cole; Keys; Tommy Tucker, sponsor; Sullivan and Blue. Making the shot in the middle row, from left: Evans; Atterbury; Henry; Warren; Hale; Johnson and Banks. Leading their support in the back row, from left are: McCowen, Anderson, Gary and Stafford. For the greatest act in show business you owe it to yourself to catch these characters in action. Friends, well-wishers and sponsors are invited to join their favorites afterwards at Tommy Tucker's Playroom's post game

A BRILLIANT GALAXY OF TOP STARS—all first luster luminaries in their own orbits—will shine in the Greek Theater of Los Angeles during the famous outdoor amphitheater's ninth consecutive summer season under the general direction of James A. Doolittle. Victor Borge, upper left, opens the festivities on a jocular note when he presents a completely new version of his "Comedy in Music" to surprise his auditors, June 23 through July 1. Jose Greco, lower left, the most sensational Spanish dancer in history, heads his vividly colorful Spanish Ballet Company in a program that includes the world premier of his own ballet, "Tiempos de Goya," July 2-8. Harry Belafonte, upper right, the most individual of folk singers, returns with a new show featuring the noted African song stylist, Miriam Makeba, for three weeks, July 10-29. America's most renowned dance organization, the New York City Ballet Company, brings its roster of notable Artists to offer a full-length "The Nutcracker," with its alluring "Waltz of the Flowers," bottom center, August 4-9, and West Coast premiers of three stirring Balanchine ballets, "Electronics," top center, "Liebeslieder Waltzes," and "Don Sebastian Variations," on each program, August 10-12. Proffering the best in pop, jazz and folk music in a novel show created especially for the Greek Theater, is "Music for Tonight," featuring pianist Roger Williams, right center, trumpeter Al Hirt and the Belafonte Folk Singers, August 14-19. Famed Nat King Cole, lower right, has devised a delightful "Summer Songfest" to enthrall his listeners, August 28 through September 2. And in a climax of historic importance, the Greek Theater Association brings the Greek Tragedy Theater Company from Athens to perform Sophocles' immortal "Electra" exactly as it has been done there for two thousand years, giving Californians their first opportunity to view it, September 5-9.

'Ballet Jazz'

Afro-American rhythms, from the Congo to Basin Street, unfold in the all-new second edition of "Ballet Jazz," west coast sepia revue which proved a European sensation two seasons ago, and which is being revived by Irwin Parnes for a second international tour. The show will be previewed the weekend of June 9, 10 and 11, with a Sunday matinee June 11 at 2:30 p.m. in the Assistance League Playhouse of Hollywood.

Jimmy Fields, a Katherine Dunham protege whose last stage appearance here was in the memorable Civic Light Opera production of "Show Boat," has choreographed the Las Vegas and Hollywood night club acts of many top personalities, among them Dinah Washington, Cab Calloway, and Sugar Ray Robinson. Singing stars of the new "Ballet Jazz" are Dalyce Curry, last featured in the Pearl Bailey Show, and John Hawker, whose many film appearances include "Porgy and Bess" and "Elmer Gantry."

CONTEST WINNERS—Columbia Records awarded duplicate prizes to the two winners in the "Big" Miller contest. No one guessed his correct weight (346 lbs.) and height (6' 3¾") exactly, so the company went by the closest entries. Winners were: J. W. Johnson (Came closest to correct weight) 3689 Fourth Avenue, Los Angeles, 18, Calif.; and Victoria Jackson (Came closest to correct height) 3408 20 St., Gulfport, Miss.

Indefatigable LIL CUMBER FISHER has left Permanente Hospital on Sunset and is now recuperating at home following the loss of her baby. It would have been a girl. We talked with Lil on a few occasions before she left the hospital and she was pulling through strongly with her "show must go on" built-in philosophy. We visited her home Saturday and the popular gal has been flooded with flowers and cards from well wishers.

During Lil's recuperation she has been given a dozen or more pints of blood. And she can use more. If you would like to be a donor for Lil, you may contact us at AXminster 3-3252 daily. And we certainly won't mind being bombarded by calls from the many among you who are numbered among her pals! . . .

Actor BOBBY JOHNSON inked his contract to accompany the CLAN to Utah for the location filming of "Badlands . . . BOBBY has a combination ACTOR-STUNTMAN pact and will take all the spills and chills for SAMMY DAVIS in the flicker. This yarn is really a remake of GUNGA DIN with Sammy playing the role the Jewish actor played in the original. SINATRA, DINO, JOEY BISHOP and the CROSBOYS are all in the cast. Should be a gasser.

Luscious GEORGIA CARR has been set for an Australian tour . . . Fly Blackbird, the most widely discussed play among Negroes and whites alike in many sets of seven, is now ticketed for an Off-Broadway showing . . . Entertainer FOSTER JOHNSON'S new bride is the former JEAN LOUISE KING. They held a swank reception a fortnight ago on Berkeley Square, and we were too bushed to make it.

Got a chuckle out of drummer TEDDY LOUPE'S answer to our inquiry on the merits of a new gal vocalist. Said Teddy: "If she can sing, I can make a watch!" . . . CLARENCE "Frenchy" LANDRY VERDELL BRADLEY (both formerly of the HI-HATTERS' dance team) are now doing the soft shoe as song and dance waiters on the MARK TWAIN riverboat at DISNEYLAND.

Vocalist BARBARA TUCKER who was warbling with JOE LIGGINS and his HONEYDRIPPER band until JOE finally decided to quit the business for good in favor of his lucrative shoe salesman business motored out Saturday to open as a single at a niteclub in Great Falls, Montana! . . . We sort of like the phrase our good buddy PAUL ROMAN, an Italian actor on his way to stardom, describes actors who have passed on. Paul says they are just "on location" . . .

HOWARD MOREHEAD'S "Miss Bronze California" sweepstakes may be the best this year since the inception of the annual event or so the prophets say! . . . He has some real choice contenders! . . . Piano-vocalist KELLY LEMAIRE describing a bad talking, always squawking female vocalist to us: "She's just too collard greensy for me" . . . Kelly likes 'em like EARTHA KITT, with that champagne touch! . . . STARS OF THE FUTURE: Watch for little RODNEY McMICKEN'S debut on "ADVENTURES IN PARADISE" soon. He's a little Korean boy who was selected to portray a Polynesian lad for the series . . .

And if you want any more news, like the feller says, turn on the radio!

Negroes Angry at 'Lynch' Charge in Griffith Park Melee

Sentiment this week was running high in the Negro community because of the inflammatory handling of the Memorial Day outbreak in Griffith Park — and because of the excessive charges of "lynching" and "assault with intent to commit murder" filed against three young Negroes.

A few days after the Griffith Park incident, which involved about 200 Negroes, one of the worst riots in local history, according to police, broke out in Zuma Beach. The youth there were predominantly white. The papers played that riot "cool." Nor were there any reports in connection with the Zuma Beach affair of charges involving intent to commit murder or lynching.

NO RACE RIOT

Spectators who arrived at the Griffith Park scene a few minutes after police rushed to the area in force and ordered the whole park sealed off, claim there was no race riot, as some news accounts reported.

While most of those in the area were Negroes, there were some whites, some Mexican-Americans. None of them were molested. Nobody bothered them.

It was also noticed that while Police Chief Parker has admitted that his department has been

Gene Hawkins Takes Stand, Denies Attack

Eugene "Rough Lover" Hawkins took the stand Tuesday in Superior Judge H. Ziemann's court and emphatically denied that he choked, gagged or robbed Mrs. Eileen Eaton last January 14, or that he robbed Mrs. Mira Gris, of 2927 Gilmertan avenue, two days later.

Last week Mrs. Eaton, boxing promoter and wife of Cal Eaton, operator of the Olympic Auditorium, testified that Hawkins and two other men, who have not been arrested, overpowered her, attacked her from behind and robber her of jewelry and other property worth $3000.

Hawkins is represented by Attorney Frank Duncan, with Dep. Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz handling the prosecution.

Hawkins has often been on trial for rough treatment of women but each time previously he has been freed.

Mrs. Eaton gave positive identification of Hawkins, as did also Mrs. Gris.

The trial started last Thursday, with Mrs. Eaton as the first witness. With Hawkins taking the stand Tuesday, it was expected that the trial would be over this week.

Supervisors, County School Supt. Seek Aid for Hungry Tots

The County Board of Supervisors and the County superintendent of schools this week both demonstrated concern over a report that a number of children in Los Angeles schools habitually go hungry — and were prepared to take steps to bring this situation to an end.

Last Wednesday the supervisors passed a resolution calling upon the Los Angeles City Board of Education and the County superintendent of schools to conduct a survey to determine how many school children in Los Angeles County are hungry and underfed and to recommend positive steps to remedy the situation.

MOTION BY HAHN

The motion, introduced by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, was approved unanimously.

In calling attention to the situation that is known to exist but about which little is being done at the present time, Supervisor Hahn read into the record an editorial called "Children Are Hungry" that appeared in the May 11 issue of the California Eagle.

On Tuesday, Dr. C. C. Trillingham, superintendent of the county schools, advised the Eagle that he had been informed of the supervisors' resolution by phone and that on Tuesday morning he had discussed the situation with his administrative cabinet.

CONSIDER SURVEY

Tentative plans envisage, said Dr. Trillingham, a conference between one high executive of city schools and one of county schools to try to determine what can be done to conduct a survey to find out how many children actually do not have breakfasts or lunch.

That information, he said, might be more difficult to obtain than finding ways of providing whatever food is required.

Dr. Trillingnam suggested tentatively that the county might assign Dr. C. C. Carpenter, assistant superintendent in charge of field services and special assignments, to cooperate with the city in making a survey.

ACTION FOR FALL TERM

The County School Board meets Monday and Dr. Trillingham said he expected that the question would be brought up before the Board at that time.

Since there is only one week more of school, little can be done this term, but steps can be taken so that the problem can be dealt with when schools open in the Fall.

The city, so far, has taken no action on the supervisors resolution. James Edwards, clerk of the Board of Education, advised that he had not as yet received a copy of the resolution. As a result the matter was not placed

Leader Booked; Protested 'Gestapo Tactics' of Police

Edward D. Warren, president of the Los Angeles branch of the NAACP, was thrown into the paddy wagon and hustled off to jail early Sunday morning when he protested what he called "gestapo tactics" on the part of officers arresting two women at Central and Santa Barbara avenues.

He identified himself as head of the Association, but that didn't impress the officers. They carted him and the two women to Newton Street Police Station, then transferred him to Central Jail downtown and booked him on a charge of interfering with an officer.

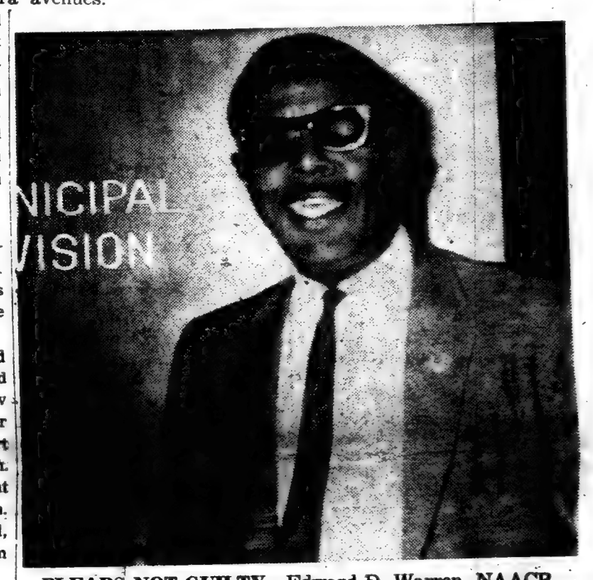
PROTESTED TREATMENT

Bail was set at $525 and he remained in custody from 1:30 a.m. to about 4:30 a.m. before he was able to obtain the money for the bail bond.

Warren said he was attracted by a crowd that had gathered around four squad cars and saw officers grab one woman by her shoulders and hips and start tossing her into the police wagon.

He said he protested that that was no way to arrest a woman. Instead of heeding his appeal, however, the officers placed him under arrest, also.

On Tuesday afternoon, Warren appeared in Division 59 of Municipal Court at Lincoln Heights for arraignment and pleaded "not guilty." Trial is set for July 5. He is being represented by Attys. Herman Smith and M. M. Moten.



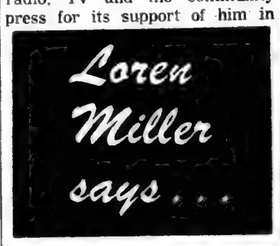
REFUSED TO MOVE

Capt. Whitaker of Newton gave the following version of what happened. He said that officers got a call to go to Santa Barbara and Central where some drunken women were fighting.

In order to effect the arrest, Capt. Whitaker stated, the officers found it necessary to handcuff the women.

Warren, they said, interferred, identified himself as president of the NAACP and said he was "sick of gestapo tactics."

The officers, Whitaker continued, ordered him back onto the sidewalk. When he failed to move, they placed him under arrest.



PLEADS NOT GUILTY—Edward D. Warren, NAACP president, pleaded "not guilty" of interferring with an arrest at arraignment Tuesday. (Adams).

Yorty Wants Parker To Curb Complaints

Mayor Elect Sam W. Yorty wants Chief of Police William H. Parker to "enforce the law and stop making remarks about minority groups," he told reporters as he outlined plans for his new administration which will begin on July 1.

Yorty said that the police have "very bad public relations with the minority groups." He praised radio, TV and the community press for its support of him in his bitter campaign.

POULSON SURPRISED

Mayor Norris Poulson professed surprise that he had not carried minority districts as he did in the primary and was inclined to blame the Griffith Park flare-up on Memorial Day for his loss.

If present police commissioners make good on their promise to resign, one of Yorty's first appointments to that body will be Atty. Everett Porter, he indicated. Porter managed the new mayor's campaign in this community. He is a former member of the state prison board.

"Absolute fairness" in making appointments to city commissions was pledged by Yorty who said that he would try to find the best men for the positions. "The minority groups know me and I know the minority groups," he said in accounting for his victory in those communities.

Yorty and Porter expressed sincere thanks to all those whose support gave Yorty an upset victory in the May 31 election.

"This is a personal victory for me and for the people who were trying to get the truth," Yorty said.

"I promise a new day for this great and beautiful city with all the advantages a city can have."

"To the many, many volunteer workers who contributed their time, talents, funds in support of my candidacy, I am deeply gratified," the new mayor declared.

"I am humbly appreciative and pledge myself to represent all the people in Los Angeles all the time."

NEGRO CONGRESSMAN

Los Angeles is going to elect a Negro to Congress next year. It is going to do that because Negro voters will be in a majority in a new congressional district that will include the so-called Central Avenue section and the South Los Angeles area. The new congressman will come from that district. All other districts will follow the old pattern of electing white congressmen, whether Democrats or Republicans.

That doesn't mean that all Negroes with the requisite ability to make good congressmen live in a single district. My guess is that some of the most talented Negroes actually live in other parts of the city. Some of them deserve well of their re-

Riders Concentrate On Attack on Miss.

U. S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., in Alabama, dealt with an equally heavy hand Friday against Freedom Riders, Negro groups and individuals who are demanding rights guaranteed by the constitution, on the one hand, and the Kan and negligent police on the other.

The judge banned further organized, sponsored freedom rides through Alabama to challenge racial barriers; and granted a restraining order against four Negro groups sponsoring the Freedom Rides and five of their leaders. The five included the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., of Atlanta, and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy of Montgomery.

WILLFUL FAILURE

Judge Johnson also charged Montgomery police with "willful failure" to head off mob riots two weeks ago, enjoined the force and a former reserve policeman against permitting bus violence, and extended a ruling prohibiting the Ku Klux Klan and three individuals from further violence against bus riders.

Freedom Riders, however, refuse to be deterred by a federal injunction. Barred temporarily from proceeding in organized fashion through Alabama, they have shifted their tactics but are continuing their rides.

They are also planning appeals from Judge Johnson's ruling.

The Riders have turned their main attention to Mississippi, where Jackson is the focus of interest. Riders planned attacks by land and by air, even while Jackson authorities threatened the stiffest penalties permitted by law.

On Tuesday seven more riders left New Orleans for Jackson, where 13 others were convicted Monday, bringing the total in custody there to 65.

Students, meanwhile, were planning rides through every state in the South and into every hamlet as universities and colleges brought their school year to a close.

2 Local Golf Meets Slated; PGA Cancels

By Maggie Hathaway

PGA Long Beach professionals have arranged to hold an integrated tournament in July of this year to replace the PGA sponsored invitational that was cancelled several weeks ago following a ruling of Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk.

Reason for cancellation was PGA's refusal to remove the "Caucasian only" clause from its constitution, backed by a PGA announcement that Negro professionals could not enter their tournaments because of this clause.

The L.A. Jr. Chamber of Commerce, which was co-sponsoring the 1962 PGA tournament at the Brentwood Country Club, pulled out when Mosk issued his order.

The LAJCC announced that they are going to sponsor their 1962 $50,000 LA Open (that they had cancelled in favor of the PGA Invitational) at Rancho.

The local tournaments were re-scheduled when PGA president Lou Strong of Rochester, N.Y. and John F. Kimberling, president of the L.A. Jr. Chamber of Commerce made an announcement recently that under present conditions in California, the PGA did not feel it would be possible to conduct a successful tournament of the magnitude of the PGA championship in that state.

The executive committee of the Professional Golfers Assn., met subsequently in Hollywood, Florida, and recommended the elimination of the association's all white clause. The committee's resolution will be again voted on at the annual meeting in Florida Nov. 2-10.

Last year this same committee voted to issue Charles Sifford a player's card, stating that he would be eligible to join the PGA organization in 3 years.

Last month the president issued a statement that if they remove the clause Sifford cannot become a member for 4 years.

Mother Finds Baby Daughter Dead in Crib

Two-month-old Marashiel Kiz Fortson was found by her mother last Sunday morning around 8:30 a.m. dead from suffocation.

Upon arising Mrs. Maxine Fortson, of 2817 San Pedro street, discovered her daughter's body. Sometime during the night the baby's head had become wedged in between the slats of her bed face down and entangled in her blanket.

According to the coroner's report, the baby had been dead for several hours. Death was listed as accidental.

Service Denied

TRINITY, N. C.—About 40 Negro youths reportedly attacked a dozen whites and kidnapped one of them here Monday night.

Robert Parris, 20, operator of the Trinity Grill, who had refused to serve the Negroes earlier in the day, disappeared.

It was believed the Negroes may have taken Parris with them when they fled in two autos after the fight.

Ruby Goodwin Services Set For Saturday

Ruby Berkley Goodwin, writer, actress and California's 1955 Mother-of-the-Year, died in San Francisco last Wednesday, where she had been resting after her strenuous stint in the still unreleased picture, "Wild in the Country," which stars Elvis Presley.

Christian Science memorial services are scheduled for this Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Angeles Funeral Home, following burial in Berkeley last Monday.

SON DIED

Relatives advised that the prominent and popular author suffered a severe shock three weeks before her death when one of her sons, Philip Goodwin, who was also a writer and who collaborated with her, died of a heart attack.

Best known in the literary world for her Commonwealth Award-winning book, "It's Good to Be Black," Mrs. Goodwin earned her journalistic spurs on the California Eagle where for some 10 years she wrote a column, "Hollywood in Bronze."

For 16 years, she was secretary to Hattie McDaniel, and later was secretary to Ethel Waters before she, too, became a screen actress in the late forties.

ON TV

Her first picture was "A View from Pompei's Head," followed by appearances on TV in the "Loretta Young Show," DuPont's "Ralph Bunche Story," "Wagon Train" and many others.

Her books included "A Gold Star Mother Speaks," "From My Kitchen Window," and "Twelve Negro Spirituals," written in collaboration with William Grant Still. She leaves two unfinished works, "Beat Small the Mountain" and "Pure White."

Mrs. Goodwin, who lived here at 1654 W. 39th place, came here in 1920 from her birthplace in DuQuoin, Ill. She was a member of Delta Sigma Rho sorority.

She is survived by her husband, Lee; her mother, Sophie J. Berkley of Los Angeles; three sons, James C., Robert L., and Paul; a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Jordan; an adopted son, Robert Trijillo; four brothers, Braxton, Cecil, Charles Clifford and Thomas L. Berkley; two sisters, Helen Peters and Frances Melton; and grandchildren David Leah, Robert Jr., Craig and Stephanie Goodwin and Brenda Beverly, Carolyn, Judy, Carmen and Leonard Crawford.

Marine's Dad Denies Riot at Beach Party

Five young men and one juvenile who reportedly thought they were admitting that they had been in a free-for-all at an interracial beach party a week ago pleaded guilty when they appeared in Judge Bernard Lawler's court last Thursday.

What they pleaded guilty to, however, was a charge of riot—a count that carries a two-year prison term or a $2000 fine.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Five others pleaded not guilty and are scheduled to stand trial June 19, in Division 61 at 9:15 a.m.

Charges against two youths were dismissed.

The father of one of the young men told the Eagle that there was a fight, yes, but there was no interracial riot, no gang war, nothing that would warrant a riot charge. The fracas occurred at Cabrillo Beach Saturday, May 27.

His son, Constine Neal Ferguson, a marine stationed at Camp Pendleton, pleaded not guilty. The father, Joseph Harper, of 729 W. "C" street, Wilmington, said that all those attending the beach party were friends of long standing who had gone to school together and who frequently spent an evening at the beach.

3 CARLOADS JAILED

Harper said that three carloads of the youths were carted off to jail. All, he said, were Negroes.

He said also that the entire group was kept in jail from Saturday night to Thursday, given little legal counsel, given no opportunity to take baths, obtain clean clothes, or shave themselves.

Harper claimed, however, that when the young men were brought into court they faced three charges: assault, disturbing the peace and 405 P.C.—which is causing a riot.

HELD IN JAIL

The first two counts were dropped and, according to Harper, the five who pleaded guilty thought they were admitting participation in a minor misdemeanor.

The five are being held in jail and will come up for a probation hearing and sentencing on June 30.

They are: Frederick Don Harrison, Marshall Crisp Jr., Roy Hubert Whiteside, Clarence Montgomery Jr., and Freddie Jean Clinton.

Those who pleaded not guilty and who asked for a trial are, in addition to Ferguson, Conan Cox, Maurice R. Barnett and Ronnie DeGerald Anderson. They were released on $500 bonds each.

Charges against James Johnson and Herbert Richardson were dismissed.

Police, however, claim that about 30 Negroes attacked five whites, and say that the attack was apparently unprovoked.

A group of Negroes, according to the police, came from Compton, saw the whites on the beach, took their record player and records and jumped them.

Other Negroes from San Pedro joined in the fight.

Police did not believe any gangs were involved.

Officers explain that at the San Pedro jail, which does not customarily keep prisoners for more than two or three days, baths and shaves are allowed only twice a week. Those arrested at the beach, it was asserted, were held longer than usual because of the intervening holiday.

DENY FAKING PRESCRIPTIONS—Pharmacist John D. Gardner and his wife Eddie denied last Wednesday that they were guilty of submitting forged prescriptions to the county for payment. Trial has been set for July 6.

Pharmacist, Wife Deny $50,000 Drug Swindle

John D. Gardner, his wife Eddie and Garland Whitehurst all pleaded "not guilty" last Wednesday to charges of bilking the county out of sums for prescriptions that may have totaled as much as $50,000.

The three were accused of an alleged plot to forge prescriptions for elderly customers on relief, and of then presenting them to the county for payment.

HIGH BAIL

They were indicted on conspiracy and forgery charges. Gardner operates the Imperial Pharmacy, at Imperial Blvd., and Wilmington avenue in Watts. Mrs. Gardner and Whitehurst are associated with him.

Gardner and his wife were arrested last April 7. The pharmacist was released on $26,500 bail: his wife on bail of $2,625. Whitehurst was arrested later.

The authorities claimed that the trio faked names of both doctors and patients on prescriptions that were neither prescribed nor issued. The county, through its Bureau of Public Assistance, annually expends some $3 million for drugs for the poor.

TRIAL JULY 6

In all some 5000 prescriptions had been billed from the Imperial Pharmacy to the county. Initial checks by investigators showed that if the charge of fraud is proven, the amounts involved could reach many thousands of dollars.

Superior Judge McIntyre Faries set trial for the three for July 6.

Lynch Charge Filed On 2 in Park Melee

"aware of a potential problem in Griffith Park for some time," and although 10 officers had been sent to the park because of the continuing situation, there was not a single Negro officer among the 75 or more who flocked to the scene.

'STEALING' RIDES

Reports that Negroes have "preempted" the area around the merry-go-round, where the fighting occurred, were denied. It was pointed out that when Negroes are attracted to a recreation area, whites begin to move out.

According to reports which seem reliable, the teenagers who were committing the "crime" of "stealing" rides, were doing what most youngsters, regardless of race, habitually do at merry-go-rounds. They were hopping on at one side of the carrousel, hopping off again when they came around to the spot where the collector was picking up tickets.

'FREEDOM RIDERS'

There was one difference. The youths were shouting exhuberantly, "We're Freedom Riders."

When police moved in and grabbed one of the teenagers, there were other shouts: "This is not Alabama!"

The tension that erupted following the slugging by racists of the Freedom Riders in Montgomery while that city's police were conveniently absent has spread to Los Angeles and is undoubtedly reflected in the mood of Negro youngsters here, as elsewhere.

When police arrested the one youth, the crowd pressed forward. They overturned one empty police car. They hurled rocks, tomatoes, potatoes, fruit at other police cars. They grabbed bats and bottles.

RIOT CALL

A riot call went out. In the melee, the arrested youth slipped from the grasp of the officers.

Arrested after police reinforcements arrived were Andrew McLemore, 18, of 4201 S. Normandie avenue, and Willie F. Jones, 22, of 5118 W. 20th street. Taken into custody by juvenile authorities was 16-year-old James Edwards, of 811 E. 46th street.

All three are Negroes. All three were charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

LYNCH CHARGE

In complaints filed Thursday against McLemore and Jones, the charges were changed to violation of the state's lynch law and assault by force liable to do great bodily injury.

The "lynch" charge stemmed from the contention that the two youths had taken a prisoner from officers—that is, the 17-year-old youth who escaped.

Possible penalty for conviction under the lynch statute is 20 years in prison.

So far as could be learned, the charge against Edwards still remains as assault with intent to

CONGRATULATIONS, MAYOR — Celestes A. King III, left, and newscaster George Putnam were on hand at Yorty's headquarters Wednesday night to offer congratulations when Mayor Norris Poulson conceded defeat. Yorty wears a victory button and a victory smile.

Atkinson Leader in Race for Councilman

With 15 candidates in the race, an overwhelming majority of persons who have taken the trouble to write have urged the appointment of J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson or Tom Bradley to replace Charles Navarro in City Council from the 10th District. He will resign on July 1 to become city controller.

City hall sources said that mail urging the appointment of a Negro to the position has been heavy and that seven out of the ten applicants are Negroes. There is one Japanese and two white persons who have let it be known that they're interested.

UNEXPIRED TERM

An applicant must have lived in the district for two years and must make formal application for the job. The person selected will serve out Navarro's term which is due to expire in 1963.

Atkinson, successful business man and a member of one of the city's oldest families, ran against Navarro in the 1959 election and garnered more than 15,000 votes in a close race. He is a graduate of Loyola University and one of its all time football greats.

POLICE OFFICER

Bradley is a police officer who is now eligible for retirement and has also been admitted to the California Bar. He is a UCLA graduate who has been active in civic and community affairs.

The appointment can be made by city councilmen from among the applicants. However the City Council can call a special election to pick Navarro's successor or it can leave the position vacant. Reliable sources said that the council will make an appointment and that the person chosen will be a Negro. The district includes most of the West side of the city.

In addition to Bradley and Atkinson, other canditates for Navarro's chair include:

Louis L. Litwin, attorney, 4108 Santa Rosalia Dr.; Dr. J. A. Somerville, 2014 Virginia Rd., former police commissioner; Miss Augusta L. Glover, 3022 11th Ave.; Kango Kunifsugu, 242½ W. 23rd St.; George L. Thomas, community relations conference director, 1205 W. Jefferson Blvd.; Lloyd W. Tabor, 5706 Coliseum St., public relations director; Cage S. Johnson, restaurant supervisor, 4427 Victoria Park Dr; Raymond L. Johnson, biochemist and attorney, 2013 Spaulding Ave.; Joe E. Doctor Warns Women About 'Peeping Tom'

A "telephonic Peeping Tom" is on the loose again and women were urged to hang up if he calls, Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer, announced.

His warning was prompted by a rash of complaints voiced to the city health and police departments by women who have been insulted by the questioner.

Senate Gets Housing Bill

The fate of the Hawkins Fair Housing Bill is expected to be decided today (Thursday) on a vote of the Senate's governmental efficiency and economy committee. It went there after a close vote got it out of the Assembly on May 16. Luther Gibson, committee chairman is opposed to the measure.

Only the votes of five Republican assemblymen who joined with 37 Democrats saved the bill from defeat in the lower house. Five Democrats and 27 Republicans voted against it and four other Democrats were listed as "abstaining or absent." Two Republicans were also absent. The final vote on the bill showed 42 for; 32 against; and six not voting.

Among Democrats listed as "abstaining or absent" were Don Allen of the 63rd and Vernon Kilpatrick of the 55th districts. Both represent many Negro constituents. Assemblyman Carley Porter of the Compton district voted against the measure. No Los Angeles county Republican assemblyman voted for the bill.

Almena Lomax Says Ghandism Is 'Almost Useless in South'

Almena Lomax, who formerly edited the Los Angeles Tribune, writes of the soul-seering and stifling climate of her present home in Alabama, in the current issue of Frontier Magazine.

In an article entitled, "Adventure in the South," Mrs. Lomax says that while all of the efforts on the part of Negroes to beat back discrimination "may be said to help," no fundamental change can be brought about except through "massive help in the form of voting facility and voting protection from the federal government."

The "love" methodology of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Mrs. Lomax finds "almost useless to the Negro in the South, except in a state of mobilization such as the bus boycott (of Montgomery in 1956), where it might be considered desirable to keep outbursts of hostility at a minimum."

"The injunction to 'resist in love,'" she writes, "somehow has a confusing, a weakening, even, I suspect, a debilitating effect in a situation in which it takes the adrenalin of righteous indignation to carry one past intimidations backed by Hitlerian tactics on the part of authority."

Mrs. Lomax' article was written before the Freedom Riders last month undertook their nonviolent challenge to Jim Crow bus facilities.

Mrs. Lomax is at present writing a book while living, with her family, at Tuskegee. She went South to find out for herself if "what they say about Dixie" is true, and she adds that, "Now I know."

$108 Taken by Shotgun Bandit

According to Thomas Wyatt, 44, of 2106 Longwood avenue, he and a few friends were visiting in a house at 2903 S. Normandie avenue, last Friday night. About 2:30 a.m. the party was interrupted by a man who unlocked the door and confronted them with a shotgun cocked for action.

"All you men get in the corner. This is a stick-up. Put all your wallets and money on the table," he told us, Wyatt said.

Among those so instructed were Robert Bowie, of 1704 W. 38th street and Roosevelt Tell. Approximately $108 was taken in cash.

The suspect was recognized by one of the men who remembered seeing him on W. Adams blvd. several times.

The AME Ministers Alliance last week passed a resolution condemming the racial gerrymandering which brings about political segregation. Rev. W. M. Jacks is president of the group.

Daddy's Estate Pays $2 Million In Back Taxes

The disciples of Sweet, Sweet Daddy Grace lost a $2 million battle with the Bureau of Internal Revenue last week.

The G-men said that Daddy had somehow overlooked paying income taxes on money received by his House of Prayer for All People for quite a few years, and that the total, including penalties, mounted up to a whopping big $4,459,924 when he died Jan. 12, 1960.

The government placed a lien against property owned by Daddy's organization, estimated as worth $5 million, but relented and agreed upon a settlement of $1,940,000 for taxes due.

Among Daddy's many holdings throughout the country was his No. 4 Berkeley Square mansion that contained 85 rooms, 21 baths, a swimming pool, a huge ballroom and fabulous paintings. It was there that the religious leader died.

When in Los Angeles he held services at 1029 E. Vernon avenue, where he sat on a white satin throne, resplendent and benign.

Anything Goes—Market Owner Provides Proof

James Crimmins, owner of a supermarket in Trumansburg, N. Y., wanted to prove that "people will buy anything if it is presented to them right," according to an article in the National Guardian.

So Crimmins took 35 quart bottles, filled them with tap water and pasted typed labels on them reading: "Instant Water — just add hot coffee."

He tagged the bottles at 85 cents—and sold five bottles in one day.

Crimmins reported: "One woman bought a bottle and asked me what kind of coffee I recommended to use with the 'instant water.'"

Court Curbs Cops in False Arrest Cases

Persons who complain to the police department about alleged police brutality won't have to fear prosecution on false arrest charges if the investigating officers turn down their claim.

That was the gist of an opinion by the Appellate Department of the Superior Court last week in a case hailed as a "milestone" in civil rights. Atty. David Lee represented winning litigants in the case. In his opinion the court said that arrest of complainants deprived them of their right of petition as guaranteed by the constitution.

The case arose when Marco D. Johnson was arrested on a drunk driving charge in Sept., 1959. On October 13, he complained to the police department charging that the officers used undue force in making the arrest.

ATTY.... CALLED

The complaint was taken and investigated by the Internal Affairs Section. It found against Johnson and he was subsequently arrested on a charge of making a false arrest report.

Johnson attempted to represent himself and Atty. Lee was called in at the request of the NAACP after most of the evidence was in. The lawyer secured a reversal of the first conviction on technical grounds.

In the re-trial, Johnson was again convicted of making a false report and his attorney appealed again. It was on the second appeal that the Appeals Court rendered its opinion last week.

Edward Warren, president of the NAACP, hailed the decision as an important one. "The effect of this case is to permit the filing of a complaint when the arrested person believes he is in the right," he said.

Atty. Lee said that he believes the case stresses the necessity for an independent police review board.

25 Arrested at Cincinnati Pool

CINCINNATI, Ohio—A total of 25 persons, including the president of the local NAACP, was arrested recently in three separate attempts to integrate this city's Coney Island Amusement Park.

Branch President William Bowen was among eight members of the NAACP and the Congress of Racial Equality arrested on May 23 on charges of trespassing when they sought to use the swimming pool.

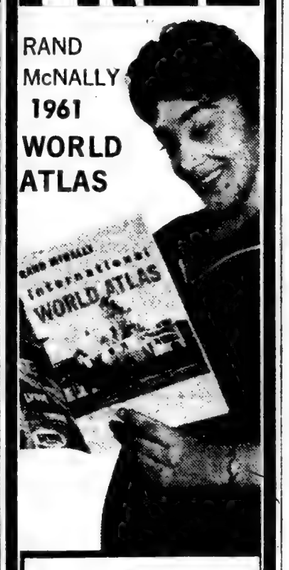
Beta Pi Sigma Sponsor First 'Youth Accent'

The Beta Pi Sigma Business and Professional Women's Sorority Alpha Chapter, of which Soror Louise Glover is basileus, sponsored its first program, "Accent on Youth," Sunday, June 4, at the Golden State Auditorium. This event was in line with similar affairs held nationally.

Some of the most outstanding youth throughout the city, who were presented by their instructors, were: Catheryn Wallace, Isaac Shyra, and Cheryl Brooks, Faye Cheatham, Carol Washington, Edwina Dunlap, Michael and Edris Moore, Sarah Fowles, Edward Aubrey, Debbie Gould, Janice Hill, Faith Douglas, Lorrane Johnson and Davette Thompson. They were featured in modern dance, ballet, piano, voice, violin, saxophone, guitar and marimba.

Soror Essie M. Robertson, national supreme basileus, presented each program participant a tiny jewel souvenir clef in behalf of Alpha Chapter. The committee chairman Soror Roberta Austin and co-chairman Soror Nicola Fowles thanked the youth who served as ushers and Gorilla Jones who handled refreshments.

NAACP Meet Is Postponed to Aid King Rally



The monthly meeting of the NAACP will be held Sunday, June 25, at 3 p.m. at Rev. Cornish Rogers' Calvary Methodist Church, 5268 W. Adams blvd., instead of a week earlier as previously announced.

Branch Pres. Edward D. Warren said the meeting was postponed so that all NAACP members can give full support to the Martin Luther King mass meeting at the Sports Arena June 18.

LIMBO COMBO — Theodore Robertson and Loretta Young, two of the many talented students of Irma Webster of the Donnji Dance Studio, will perform the "sexciting' Limbo Dance during the fifth annual Children's Dance Work Shop and Fashion Show, "I've Got Rhythm", Saturday, June 24, at 7:00 p.m. at the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company's Auditorium. Let Freedom Riders Alone

Federal Judge Frank Johnson's order restraining the Freedom Riders from further tests of segregation policies in Alabama bus stations springs from the shopworn desire to be "fair to both sides" and to restrain "extremists of all kinds."

The mistake in his reasoning is that there is only one side to the constitutional coin in this case. The Supreme Court has made it plain that Negroes have a right to ride the buses without segregation and have a right to use any eating, or other, facilities in bus stations without reference to Jim Crow signs or practices.

The Freedom Riders who set out to test the practice of this law are not "extremists" at all. They're simply trying to exercise the rights guaranteed by the Constitution.

The Ku Klux Klan, the White Citizens Councils and others who insist on segregation are law breakers—that and nothing more. What Judge Johnson does by his decree is to shield them in their lawlessness.

There is no merit in the judge's claim that the Freedom Riders are burdening interstate commerce. They're not. Those who put the burden on commerce are those who disrupt service rather than serve all persons without reference to race or color, as the Supreme Court has directed.

If the Freedom Riders stop all activities tomorrow the bus stations won't halt their Jim Crow practices. They won't use the respite to train their personnel and the general public to accept and obey the law. They'll utilize the time to whip up more sentiment against any person who wants to exercise his constitutional rights.

The judge is dead wrong on the law. No court has a right to restrain any person from the exercise of a right vouchsafed by the Constitution. If the exercise of the right stirs up trouble it's up to the state involved to exercise its police power and restrain the trouble makers.

We hope that the Freedom Riders, and the ministers who have been supporting them, will continue to exercise their right to demand service at bus stations.

New Manager And New Deal

As we predicted two weeks ago, Los Angeles will have a new mayor on July 1. We not only predicted his election; we supported him and it's our belief that Sam W. Yorty is going to make one of the best mayors this city has ever had.

Mayor Elect Yorty is the first mayor in a long time to assume office with a thoroughgoing understanding of the problems of minority groups. His forthright stand on civil rights as an assemblyman and as a congressman convinces us that he has the vision to chart a new path and break away from the fumbling and stumbling of the past two decades.

The Negro population of Los Angeles stands at about 14 per cent; another 14 or 15 per cent are persons of Mexican extraction. Together these two groups with the substantial Oriental population constitute almost a third of the city's population. All of them are subject to discriminations of various kinds. None of them has been thoroughly integrated into the city's civic life.

Los Angeles can't fulfill its destiny or reach its rightful place in American life without reversing old practices and old customs that have adversely affected these minorities. We believe Mr. Yorty understands that simple fact and that he's ready to act.

We hope that when the new mayor gets around to naming commissioners he will name outstanding and vigorous members of these minorities to the police, fire and civil service as well as to lesser commissions.

Despite formal denials civil service commissions have winked at discrimination in hiring and upgrading of civil servants. The police and fire commissions need the services and the watchful eye of a Negro to see that each functions properly and in the interest of all people.

We know that Mr. Yorty can't remake Los Angeles in a day but we hope he starts on the job the first day he takes office.

The Chief Misses Boat Again

Police Chief William H. Parker is at it again. He's shouting that the flare-up at Griffith Park last Memorial Day was a "racial disturbance." The basis of the chief's hysteria is that the handful of people who were embroiled with the police were all Negroes.

By that definition every defiance of police authority is a "racial disturbance" of one kind or another when the persons involved all happen to belong to one racial group. It's just as reasonable to yell "race" when a group of white youngsters gets in trouble with the police as it is to blow the racial whistle when the wrong doers are all Negroes.

The trouble with Chief Parker is that he has an obsession about race. He collects crime statistics on that basis. He uses those figures to insinuate that certain groups are more prone to lawlessness than others.

A great justice of the United States Supreme Court once said that the law is color blind, that it takes no account of the race of those who stand before the courts. Chief Parker needs to learn that lesson.

The people who created the disturbance at Griffith Park were Americans who took it on themselves to violate laws and park regulations. The guilty should be punished, not because they are Negroes, but because they are lawbreakers.

Gratuitous injection of the racial issue into the incident won't solve the problem confronting the community. It will only excaberate racial tensions and make the job harder.

Atkinson For City Council

Our choice for City Councilman from the Tenth District is J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson.

We're not against anybody else. We have no alternative choice or choices. We're for Atkinson.

The reasons for our choice are simple. We believe that he is the best man to replace Charles Navarro when the latter takes office as city controller.

Atkinson's stand on municipal issues and on questions of particular interest to the District are well known. He made them plain two years ago when he ran for Council and when he got upwards of fifteen thousand votes for that office.

We're sure that if City Council were to take a sampling of public opinion Atkinson would lead all other candidates by a wide margin.

However, the choice will be made by the councilmen. The Charter leaves it up to them to pick Navarro's successor.

The only way they will know how the people stand is for the people to speak out. That can best be done by a letter to Harold Henry, chairman of the committee that will recommend somebody to replace Navarro.

A letter in this instance will replace the ballot that you could cast if the issue were to be settled at the polls.

Everybody complains about representation, or lack of it, in City Hall. Here's a chance to get that representation and to get one of the best councilmen the city ever had.

Write today. Say you want Eddie Atkinson in the council.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

The word "integrate" really comes in for a tremendous beating during these hysteria-packed days of bewilderment. The word up to now has meant to unify a situation by bringing separated parts together to make a whole. This is what the school integration movement aimed at doing, and integration meant the extreme opposite of segregation.

Then some began to use the word "integration" when what they meant was "desegregation" — which is something far different; it is only a way station on the road to integration. Then the advertising field took up use of the word, and when that happened it opened the way to almost ludicrous misuse of a fine word of Latin ancestry.

I am reminded of this when I pick up the real estate section of one of the New York newspapers and see a headline, Vacation Areas are Integrated. This seemed like a good story, so I read it in hopes that Southampton and Easthampton, and Atlantic City and Asbury Park, and the Adirondacks and the Poconos and the other popular centers of vacation enjoyment had finally caught up with the twentieth century and had realized that—as Dixie Walker put it—"Negroes are here to stay."

NEAR, NOT IN

But not so; the subheadline told more of the truth: "Two Sites Near Atlantic City Open To Home Buyers." Not in, but near Atlantic City. The story itself told the real facts even more explicitly. A wide-awake development company which has built subdivisions on Long Island for several hundred Negro families has cast a longing eye on the "thousands of Negroes in the New York and Philadelphia areas" who "can afford vacation homes, but are prevented by restrictive practices from buying them in most communities."

These good-doers (not to be confused with do-gooders) have taken over the old Apex Country Club near Pomona, together with the former country estate of an old Philadelphia family, and have produced two vacation subdivisions with 1,000 lots apiece. Each subdivision will be centered around a swimming pool and other concomitants of middle income vacationing.

This is "integrating" vacation areas? If my memory of South Jersey's geography is half as accurate as my knowledge used to be, Pomona lies between 15 and 20 miles inland from Atlantic City on the old White Horse Pike. The country is flat and sandy, and is covered with chicken farms and jerry-built housing developments. The building lots of this "vacation and retirement development" are a third of an acre apiece, cost $2,500, and will carry two and three-room houses priced at $5,000 and $6,000. Fifteen hundred of the 2000 lots are reported sold, with four-fifths of their purchasers described as "Negroes and members of other minorities." However, the promoters hope that "eventually" the communities will produce a more even balance between Negroes and whites.

VAIN HOPE

This is a vain hope, if we go by the record. I do not know of a single housing expert anywhere in the country who would back up this wistful expectation that a white minority of such small proportions will increase in the future. More likely, it will disappear almost entirely; for if the development thrives attractively other colored families will bid generously for salable properties. If it does not thrive, the whites will more easily do better elsewhere. Either way, the white minority will shrink and the development will become, to all intents and purposes, one of "Negroes and other minorities." And while we are on the subject, that's a quaint phrase that has crept into euphemistic use. Who are the "other minorities?" They are never named. Are they Puerto Ricans, Chinese, Japanese, Indians, Armenians, Hungarians, Poles, Catholics, Jews, Primitive Baptists, Southern Republicans, Westchester County Democrats — who are they? Next time some one talks to me about "and other minorities" I am going to stop him right there and make him spell out just what he means. Chances are, he simply tacks the phrase on because Negroes alone seem so lonely.

NOT INTEGRATION

To get back to Pomona — if you want to go that far — this development is a perfect example of what is not integration. There's nothing new about the idea, (as hundreds of little vacation communities spotted throughout the North and South will attest) of going far from the center of competitive community living and setting up a little escape area for rest and recreation. Nor is there one single thing wrong with it, if you like the area and your neighbors. But we should not allow those who promote the idea to distort a sacred cause into a setting up a little escape for making the promoters a profit.

For that's what true integration is for Americans of color — a sacred cause. It is a cause in which we have invested millions and millions of dollars, and work and prayers and — and yes, human lives. When I think of those gentle, courageous, death-defying young Freedom Riders in Alabama — when I think of them, this news story makes me just plain sick.

spective parties, too. They've stuck to the Republican or Democratic party, as the case may be, year in and year out. Some of them have political ambitions and would like to go to Congress. Los Angeles needs some of them in Congress.

STUBBORN TRUTH

The stubborn truth is that the time hasn't yet arrived when a Negro can go to Congress from California on his merits when he lives in a district in which Negroes are in a minority. I think that's a pretty well known fact. I suppose that it is equally well known that Negroes are huddled together in our city because of long standing policies pursued by city, state and federal governments and by builders, developers and lending institutions.

The existence of Negro ghettoes in our cities, Los Angeles included, is a political fact. They're there. They're going to be there for some time to come. Political districting has to come to terms with their existence. One of two things can be done: those who do the districting can pretend that there are no concentrations of Negroes or they can recognize the fact that there are such concentrations.

NEED NEW START

If the politicians take the first course they can slice up the city without reference to the racial characteristics of the inhabitants of the ghetto. If they do that, Negroes won't get to Congress. If the politicians take the second course they can draw district lines with a frank recognition of the fact that the residents of the ghetto have certain problems in common, arising out of their racial identification, and that, put in the same district, they will choose a Negro congressman.

If we could start all over I would certainly favor elimination of all racial ghettoes. I've put in half a lifetime battling against residential segregation and shouting for the right of people to live where they choose without reference to race. But we can't start all over again. We've got to go on from where we stand in 1961.

WE NEED THEM

I'm persuaded that it's important to have Negroes in Congress in sizeable numbers so that we will have spokesmen to work and vote for non-discriminatory provisions in federal aid to education and minimum wage laws, to pick two examples. I also think that there's important symbolism, both to whites and to Negroes, in the presence of Negroes in Congress.

You can guess where I'm going and what I'm driving at. As long as residential segregation persists it will play a part in politics. I see no advantage in slicing segregated districts up and keeping Negroes out of Congress, or the state assembly. Segregated districts ought to be abolished. They will disappear as fast as America abandons residential segregation. When that good day comes the color of a candidate won't make any difference anyhow.

Shooting Ends Drinking Spree

Junior Witcher, of 781 E. 54th street, and Elsie Todd, of 3619 S. San Pedro street, had been together all day last Friday on a drinking party in two motels. While in an apartment at 1541½ E. 43rd street, they became loud and the landlady asked them to leave.

Outside, they were standing on the parkway in front of the apartment, the argument continued and Miss Todd took a gun from her dress and fired twice at Witcher. One bullet went astray, the other sent Witcher to the hospital. The gunwoman ran toward Compton avenue and is being sought by police.

HEARING JUNE 14

A hearing has been set for McLemore and Jones on June 14 before Municipal Judge Louis W. Kaufman. They were being held in lieu of $3000 bail each.

Two more youths, also Negroes, were jailed Wednesday after admitting that they were in Griffith Park at the time of the incident. They are Vernell L. Reed, 19, of 155½ W. 51st street, and John Daniels, 18, of 1245½ S. Main street.

On Friday, two other youths were picked up; again both were Negroes. They were Leroy Wheaton, 17, of 4150 S. LaSalle street, who was accused of having egged on the crowd to attack the police.

Wheaton denied being involved and claimed the fighting was all over when he arrived at the merry-go-round. Wheaton reportedly was identified by police photos and by an eye-witness.

Also arrested was Ozell Carroll Rillera, 17, of 1342 W. 41st place. Police said he was the suspect who escaped from the officers when they were rushed by the crowd.

Rillera denied being in Griffith Park on Memorial Day. He said he and his brother were in Exposition Park. Authorities said Rillera also was identified from police photos.

Pickets Protest Token Hiring at Baltimore Plant

BALTIMORE, Md. — The NAACP branch here announced it will resume picketing of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company until the company agrees to hire more than a token number of Negroes in upgraded jobs.

The decision followed a meeting with company representatives which NAACP leaders termed "wholly unsatisfactory."

Spokesman for the branch, Clarence Mitchell III, stated that of 900 operators employed by the company less than 15 are Ntgroes and that other Negroes are relegated to inferior, un-skilled jobs.

On Way Home, Students Set to 'Ride Integrated'

NEW YORK—College students returning to their homes in the South from 123 schools in 33 states will "ride integrated," if they follow an appeal launched here this week by the NAACP. Many are expected to follow the proposal.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
Dear Sir,

I wish to thank those individuals who have expressed their support of the "Freedom Riders" and the good they are trying to accomplish, and those who have deplored the barbaric behavior exhibited by certain factions in the South. However, I also wish to take this opportunity to reply to those individuals who have termed the "Freedom Riders" as "publicity seekers" and "incitors to riot" and who have inferred that their behavior provoked rioting and violence.

First, the only purpose of the "Freedom Riders" was to test the Boynton decision of the Supreme Court in 1960 which ruled that any establishment serving passengers traveling in interstate commerce cannot discriminate. In all other parts of the country, with the exception of the South, the decisions of the Supreme Court have been accepted and obeyed, even though it may have offended local social customs. All the publicity given the "Freedom Riders" and those who have followed in their footsteps has been as a direct result of the South's refusal to accept the rulings of the highest court in the land, and of its refusal to realize that Negroes are Americans who have the constitutional right to travel and to receive the same treatment and accommodations accorded to other Americans.

Secondly, when one applies the term "inciting to riot" to individuals who have been attacked by a mob, it implies that those individuals took action to provoke the mob and to urge it into action. Certainly the behavior of the riders does not fall into this category. At no time has it been reported that they were disorderly, boisterous, or that they behaved in any but a quiet, dignified manner. From the arrests in Jackson, Miss. and Montgomery, Ala. it would appear that under Southern legal definitions, "inciting to riot" and "disturbing the peace" apply only to those seeking equal service at lunch counters, restaurants, etc.

Finally, let those critics of the stand taken by such leaders as Rev. Martin Luther King, who refuse to take a moratorium in the struggle for human rights, remember that the continued existence of racial segregation in America furnishes fodder for Communist propaganda. Only by taking positive, forceful and direct action to stamp out the evils of racial discrimination, can we stop the Communists from writing their propaganda.

To the Editor:

A serious situation exists involving the living and right to earn a living of a section of our citizenry—members of my union—which is a blot on our liberal city and state. What goes on in Los Angeles is worse than in New Orleans or other parts of the South.

In all of Los Angeles there are only three Negro waiters employed on a permanent basis—except the six at Negro restaurants.

This denial not only of their civil rights, the flaunting of our FEP, all but actually forcing them into a state of being unable to earn a living—pointed at my Negro fellow waiters and fellow union men—is a shame and a disgrace.

The picketing at Ciro's about four months ago will be revived at all hotels and restaurants and taverns that do not hire Negro waiters and other workers in dining rooms and bars.

We appeal to the public, press and people of our city to support our fight. Eat only at and patronize only integrated dining rooms, bars and hotels.

BRAVE MEN CHOOSE

BY DR. FRANK N. D. BUCHMAN

This address goes to the world through press, television and radio from the Moral Re-Armament World Assembly at Caux, Switzerland on the occasion of Dr. Buchman's 83rd birthday, June 4. At this Assembly leaders from every continent are meeting to plan a global strategy to answer corruption, Communism and war.

FORTY YEARS AGO THIS MONTH there came to Oxford a man who had some knowledge of life, some insight into the ways of East and West, who had spent days with Gandhi in India and Sun Yat-sen in China. In what is now Kerala he met an English Bishop who said, "You must go to Oxford. They need the experience you have found."

During those forty years, the conviction he brought to Oxford has been a live issue, rousing men and nations through those who have chosen or rejected his challenge.

It was an Oxford man, a Member of Parliament, who had been Parliamentary Private Secretary to Mr. Macmillan, a man who had a key part in the Cyprus settlement, who this week spoke up for this conviction in public debate. A week before, the head of a college spoke boldly of it in introducing that great African film, "Freedom," to an Oxford audience. These men, and many others, are in the line of those who in Britain's history have brought integrity into national life by their decision. The title of this speech, "Brave Men Choose," is taken from a book by an Oxford man on this very theme, that brave men turn the course of history.

One such man in Oxford was Professor Streeter. The message rang a clarion call to this great scholar. It challenged him. It touched him. In Oxford Town Hall, before many members of the University, he said, "I have been watching this work with what diplomatists call 'benevolent neutrality.' Tonight I have decided...During these last years I have felt the world situation becoming more full of depression, more full of despair. There is a great deal of goodwill, but there is not enough of it to solve our tremendous problems—war, class war and economic breakdown." Later he said, "Modern civilization can only be saved by a moral awakening. It can happen in Britain. It will happen if those who lead Britain learn to find in God their inspiration and direction. And Britain thus led would save the world."

"I have decided." There is the key.

A REVOLUTIONARY FAITH

Eleven distinguished members of senior Oxford paved the way for Dr. Streeter's decision, among them the Master of Balliol, the Master of University College, and others who later became heads of colleges. They stood for justice and fair play for this message. It captured a wave of men in Oxford. Oxford became a voice to the world of a revolutionary faith.

It was another great Oxford man, the late Marquis of Salisbury, who speaking in the House of Lords said, "The cause of the world's state is not economic. The cause is moral." He echoed Dr. Streeter's conviction when he said, "If I may use a phrase which is common in a great movement taking place at this moment in this country and elsewhere, what we want are God-guided personalities, to make God-guided nationalities, to make a new world. All other ideas of economic adjustment are too small really to touch the center of the evil."

He, too, decided, and to his home invited this man to meet with the leaders of British life to see how they could unitedly give a moral and spiritual leadership to a world on the brink of collapse. Under the Hatfield trees he walked with friends old and new, among them Lord Lytton, who was later to say that that walk had left an indelible mark on his life.

In East London, in the cradle of the British Labor movement, where Moral Re-Armament was launched, there were also brave men who chose. There was Tod Sloan, Keir Hardie's fellow fighter from the docks. He wrote, "Chaos cannot obtain if we work, live and practice Moral Re-Armament. It is a really laughing, living, loving obedient willingness to restore God to leadership. This to me is the only revolution that matters—the change of human nature—and it does happen."

There was Ben Tillett, pioneer of the dockers' unions across the world. From his death bed he sent this word, "Tell Frank Buchman to go on fighting. You have a great international movement. Use it. It is the hope of tomorrow. It will bring sanity back to the world."

The Earl of Athlone, who first met this message in 1929 when he was Governor-General of South Africa, speaking in a radio broadcast to the British Commonwealth in the early days of the war, said: "The call for Moral Re-Armament has encircled the world, and become a source of fresh hope to millions of men and women. Heads of states, national, civic and industrial leaders of all classes, creeds and parties have welcomed it as the cure for that deep disease of the spirit from which civilization is suffering.

"Moral Re-Armament stands for a change of heart, for that new spirit which must animate all human relationships. It calls on us to make the will of God the guiding force, as for individuals, so for homes and nations."

As the ideological struggle intensified across the world, a growing multitude caught the fire of these pioneers. For only men ablaze for the right can ever hope today to win men who burn for the wrong. "Fire from Heaven," that is how Don Sturzo, patriot-priest of Italy, described Moral Re-Armament in a message sent to the world assembly on Mackinac Island. His thinking inspired the Christian Democrat parties of Italy, France and Germany, which have given three great Europeans to the world—Prime Minister de Gasperi, Prime Minister Schuman and Chancellor Adenauer.

Prime Minister de Gasperi expressed his conviction that Moral Re-Armament by going "to the root of the world's evils will bring about the understanding between men and nations for which all people long."

Prime Minister Schuman wrote, "What Moral Re-Armament brings us is a philosophy of life applied in action. It is not a question of a change of policy. It is a question of changing men. Democracy and her freedoms can be saved only by the quality of the men who speak in her name."

Chancellor Adenauer knows the value of Moral Re-Armament. He says it has played "an invisible but effective part in bridging differences of opinion between negotiating parties in important international agreements."

These brave men chose. Now a world-wide army is surging forward on every continent.

LATIN AMERICAN OFFENSIVE

Four weeks ago there arrived in Brazil, a focal target of the Kremlin for Latin America, a force of 150 from twenty-four countries. Thousands flocked to see the Japanese play, The Tiger, showing the answer to the Tokyo riots. Thousands more who could not get in saw films giving the answer to conflict of race, class and ideology.

The President summoned this force to the capital, Brasilia. Led by General Bethlem, former Ambassador of Brazil in Pakistan and Bolivia, the man whose decision had brought them to his continent, there came to meet the President a modern group of men and women ablaze with conviction. The President heard from the grandson of Mahatma Gandhi, a former Mau Mau fighter from Kenya, a former top Communist student leader from Kerala, an American educator whose experience of Moral Re-Armament had led him to give his life to Negro education in America, the son of an American Ambassador to Brazil and Peru, an Indian chieftain from Western Canada, a Nigerian nationalist, a member of the great Mitsui industrial family of Japan, a Frenchwoman who was a member of the central committee of the Socialist Party and leader of the three million Socialist women of France, and a British admiral, descendant of the Lord Cochrane who helped liberate Chile, Brazil and Peru.

The Corriere Della Sera, carrying this news to Italy, wrote: "President Janio Quadros received today a delegation of Moral Re-Armament at his residence. He gave them a cordial welcome and said, 'I have followed the activities of Moral Re-Armament now for several years. I am convinced that the world as it is today cannot survive unless men stand for the ideals for which you are fighting. The disorder in the world today—economic, social and political—is due to the fact that men have stopped being concerned about spiritual and moral forces. I have listened with deep emotion to your convictions. I want to let you know that as far as I can I will do all that is possible so that we in Brazil will understand better the moral values of our civilization.'

"Responding to the invitation to come to the conference for Moral Re-Armament which opens in Caux, Switzerland, on June 1st, Quadros said, 'I will send a personal representative.'

"When he learned that the Japanese play, The Tiger, was available, he telephoned to the General in charge of his Military Household and said, 'Provide all that is needed to bring The Tiger to Brasilia. Instruct the Mayor to obtain the theater, provide transport in the city and, further, have the Air Force put at their disposal so that this work can be known in city after city through all the centers of Brazil.'"

COMMUNISM CONFRONTED

General Bethlem, describing in the press the impact of this force, writes, "For the first time on this continent Communism has been confronted with a positive alternative and for the first time it is being made to retreat. I have found a real revolution in MRA. We Brazilians are being challenged to give this to Communists, non-Communists and anti-Communists alike. Many of us have been confused through our moral compromise. I have found clarity through change. We need to wake up. The ideological war is already here. Which way Brazil goes, so goes Latin America. The situation is deadly serious. A former Minister of Foreign Affairs told me, 'Cuba has brought us to the brink of war. MRA may be the last hope. If Brazil gets it the world will get it.' The Minister of War said, 'We will do everything we can to make Brazil the capital of the answer. You have the winning idea in MRA.'

"In the Catholic University of Sao Paulo where, it was stated, eighty percent of the students were pro-Castro, one professor-priest said, 'Since you have given your films and plays and held an assembly in our university, there have been no political demonstrations. Moral Re-Armament is being talked about everywhere.'

"A missionary monk, who had come down from North Brazil where the Communists are training small armies and guerilla bands in the hills, said, 'Brazil is just like Spain was before the Civil War. Can you fill my truck full of your literature so I can distribute it through all the cities up and down the Amazon?'

"The owner of a national newspaper said to me, 'Many of us have lost faith. We have regained it again through MRA.' The president of the largest newspaper of Latin America said, 'MRA is not only an idea on the march. It is a force on the march. Our newspaper is at your disposal. Everyone must be reached with this idea.'

"The inescapable choice for Latin America," concludes General Bethlem, "is Moral Re-Armament or Communism. We will never succeed in this fight unless we change men. We are out to clean up the nation and the world. I have committed my whole life to this fight."

General Carpentier of France, servant of his country in many campaigns and former Commander-in-Chief of the Central European Ground Forces of NATO, who flew to Brazil to join this force, spoke to a vast audience in Rio de Janeiro. "From the heart of the best men," he said, "must come this tremendous wave of Moral Re-Armament which will win over Communism. In this ideological war we must confront Communism with another ideology—that ideology is MRA. It is because I am convinced of that that I am here to conduct a war.

"We need tactics, strategy and means. Some people think that strategy can come from a meeting of men who are responsible in the political field, but I do not believe it. I have read in the newspapers for the last ten years accounts of men who meet in Washington, Paris and other great countries. But it is from all free men who fight for Moral Re-Armament that the answer will come."

FOR GOD OR AGAINST GOD

Workers and military find unity in this ideology. Damasio Cardoso, militant dockers' leader of Rio, told all his fellow-workers and their families, "I pray to God that what happened in my family will happen to every family in the docks. We are either for God or against God. The choice for all of us is MRA or Communism."

The Catholic priest in the docks, who before Cardoso's change could not enter the quarter where six hundred dockers and their families lived, added, "By their fruits ye shall know them. MRA is a tree. You can see its fruit. Moral Re-Armament has become a much more powerful weapon than any military weapons of Russia or North America. The most powerful weapon is absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness and love. I want to declare here that in me MRA has a friend, admirer and fellow worker."

That gifted artist, Louis Byles, from Jamaica, ninety miles from Cuba, speaks for many in Latin America and the Caribbean when he says, "We have very little time left." He starred in that film, The Crowning Experience, as the man who plays the part of a convinced Communist captured by the fire of a superior ideology. He has just shown this film to the leadership of his island. Said one of the government officials, "This is not a film. It is God. We must get this out immediately to Jamaica. It is exactly what we need."

It will take brave men to free, unite and save the continent of Africa. Philip Vundla, who represents 600,000 Africans in Johannesburg and was a founder of the gold miners' Union, says, "There is great bitterness in our country. South Africa is being used to divide East from West on the basis of color, but the real issue is not color but character. It is not only the white men who have to change in South Africa. We have to change too. We need it, and I wish everybody to know that."

Vundla chose the ideology that brought unity and rejected division. His choice almost cost him his life at the hands of extremists, but his steadfastness has won him the respect of friend and foe alike.

In Kenya, threatened again by bloodshed and chaos, the branch secretary of one African party faced the choice between two ideologies. He said, "I had an airplane ticket to the Communist conference of African leaders. Instead I came to the Moral Re-Armament Assembly. I did not know there were such people committed to eradicate hate, fear and selfishness. Our leaders went to the other conference with a calabash filled with the waters of freedom. The Communists punctured it, and our freedom is pouring out. MRA will seal the holes so true freedom can be maintained. I must bring the light of this answer to our country in darkness."

THE CROWNING EXPERIENCE

A woman former Mau Mau leader, detained for eight years, said, "Here my hatred of the white man has ended. We women played a big part in leading our nation in the wrong direction. Now we must play the fullest part in rebuilding the country." Calling her children to stand beside her, she said to each in turn, "Forgive me. I have been full of hate and have led you into hatred."

Another former Mau Mau district secretary said, "Bitterness has been the disease in our land. From my heart and home it spread like fire until there was bloodshed and chaos everywhere. God give us all new hearts to put right what is wrong in time."

At the recent conference for heads of African states in Monrovia, great applause greeted the special showing of The Crowning Experience. "We are your debtors," said President Tubman. "Everyone in the country must see this film." He added, "I will make every possible effort to meet Dr. Buchman in Caux this summer." Two out of the six pages in the conference edition of The Liberian Age printed the news of Moral Re-Armament, underlining the statement that "Africa can be lost in the sinking sands of the materialism of East and West. Leaders of Africa welcome Moral Re-Armament because it is the solid ground on which a hate-free, fear-free, greed-free continent can be built."

President Tubman shares the view of the Maharajah of Mysore, who said at a showing of The Crowning Experience, "The only hope for mankind is to give no quarter to the powers of evil, internal or external. Human nature is so constituted that it cannot be taken for granted that good will automatically prevail over evil in an indolent or uninterested world. It is of the utmost importance that we carry on this task of Moral Re-Armament with ceaseless vigilance. The armament of morality is invisible, but it is of matchless power, and its army includes, or should include, the whole of mankind. Let us all, both individuals and nations, enroll ourselves in this army."

From Geneva, where the fate of great portions of the Asian and African continents is being discussed at the conferences on Laos and Algeria, a Swiss editor spoke over one of Europe's most powerful radio stations, reaching millions on both sides of the Iron Curtain. He said, "Through all the confusion caused by many different meeting places, press rooms, delegation headquarters and police-bodyguards, move the men and women of Moral Re-Armament who have come down from Caux, high above the lake of Geneva, and with a very compelling sense of dedication are making available to friend and foe alike their Whitsun message. This, too, speaks of overcoming difficulties in the meetings of politicians from East and West and I quote Robert Schuman's word that it was only in Caux that he found encouragement and hope."

The future of Asia may well be decided by which idea wins the Buddhist nations. Leaders from Japan, Laos, Cambodia, South Viet Nam, Thailand, Burma, Ceylon and India are convinced that Moral Re-Armament is the ideology with the answer. Buddhism has just been made the state religion of Burma. Five senior abbots from that country have come to plan at Caux for the mobilization of the Buddhist world in the ideological struggle. These revered leaders were seen off at the Rangoon airport by a hundred monks and senior officials. They have just been received in Oxford by the Warden of New College, by the Mayor of the city, and the President of the Union. They were shown the rooms in Christ Church, where this work had its beginnings forty years ago.

CONDITIONS OF SURVIVAL

This is the word of a man on his eighty-third birthday who has spent a long life up and down the world meeting and knowing men, who in 1915 paid the first of eight visits to Japan and was there the guest of those who laid the foundation of modern Japanese finance and industry, Baron Sakotane and Viscount Shibusawa, whose grandson, a minister of finance, his great-grandson, and even his great-great-grandson, are working with this force today. They come with former Prime Minister Kishi and other leading Japanese to Caux this summer to forge a unity of statesmanship among the free nations. They carry forward the work of which General Ho Ying-chin, former Prime Minister of China, says, "More unity has been created between the nations of Asia at one Moral Re-Armament assembly in the Philippines than in ten years of post-war diplomatic activity."

It is the word of a man who has known the personal friendship of Viceroys and Governors of India and of the men who opposed them, and brought them together; who knows the problems of Africa at first hand since 1929, and these statesmen of Europe and the Americas for more than fifty years. He has seen the development of two materialist ideologies and the devastation of two world wars, the retreat of freedom, and now the advance of a mighty answer.

We are facing world revolution. There are only three possibilities open to us. We can give in, and some are ready to do just that. Or we can fight it out, and that means the risk of global suicide. Or we can find a superior ideology that shows the next step ahead for the Communist and the non-Communist world alike. What we shall never do effectively is to patch things up by pretending that basic differences do not exist or do not matter; nor by supposing that an ideological challenge can be met by economic, political or military means alone. Absolute moral standards are not just questions of individual conduct today. They are the conditions of national survival. We need to scour out the dirt in our national life, our political life, our economic life, our school life and our home life through a change in men. Wherever men give man the place in their lives that God alone should have, slavery has begun. "Men must choose to be governed by God, or they condemn themselves to be ruled by tyrants."

There is no neutrality in the battle between good and evil. No nation can be saved on the cheap. It will take the best of our lives and the flower of our nations to save humanity. If we go all-out for God we will win.

"Then it is the brave man chooses,
While the coward stands aside,
Till the multitude make virtue
Of the faith they had denied."

Henri O'Bryant Enlists Lay Group Aid in Honoring Community Fathers

Church uniform manufacturer, Henri O'Bryant, Jr., recently issued a call to all Lay groups to unite in making Fathers Day, June 18, a day of honor. "Giving honor to Father will prolong our days on earth and will glorify our heavenly Father who commands us to do these things," O'Bryant said.

As field director for Lay work throughout Los Angeles County, O'Bryant urged all lay groups to select a Father of the Year from their respective churches and give him special prayerful honors at the 11 a.m. church services on Fathers' Day.

Responding to the request were usher boards throughout the city which are making special preparations to greet fathers at all church services Sunday, June 18.

First to unite behind O'Bryant's efforts were:

Wattie F. Moore, district president of the Usher Board Union, and Mrs. Mary Alice Gordon, president of the Usher Board Union of California. Both leaders concurred in the view that "giving honor to Father on his day is in keeping with the Biblical passage "honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days will be long upon the earth!"

MARY GORDON WATTIE MOORE

SEEK 100 FATHERS

Many usher boards will single out the oldest male member of the church. Some will select fathers with the largest families, while others are choosing their pastors or some father of the church who has made a notable contribution to the spiritual growth of the community.

Pilgrim Baptist Church, at 950 E. 45th street, is seeking 100 fathers to attend its 11 a.m. service. Each will be honored and given a boutonniere from the Pilgrim Laymen's group, headed by Redmon Sumlur.

Pentacostals Return from Jerusalem

By EARNESTINE RITTER

Pentecostal believers who attended the Sixth Pentecostal World Conference held recently in Jerusalem, Israel, returned Saturday, May 27. More than 25 Angelenos of the Church of God in Christ and the Pentecostal Assemblies of the World were among the 2,592 delegates of 40 countries who attended the conference, held during Pentecost, the Christian holiday which is basic to the Pentecostal faith.

The Government Tourist Corps in Jerusalem has stated that "this event is the largest international conference ever held in Israel."

FIRST PENTECOST

Binyanci Ha'ooma center, head quarters for the conference, provided ample facilities for the 3-day sessions of prayer, singing and addresses. Bishop S. M. Crouch of Emmanuel Church, 33rd and Compton, offered prayer for the sick and Bishop D. L. Williams of Norfolk, Va., delivered a stirring address on "First Century Pentecost."

The first day all delegates were presented with a striking medallion to commemorate the conference, which Mayor Ish-Shalom distributed during the afternoon session.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion did not speak as scheduled because of the pressure of his trip to Canada and the United States, but the letter he wrote in Hebrew was read in English and Swedish and was heartily applauded. Both the mayor of Jerusalem and Mr. Abba Eban, minister of education, received rousing approval for their addresses of welcome.

SITUATION DESPERATE

Conference sermons and addresses emphasized the need for Pentecostals to keep the experience God had given and to maintain the testimony of Christ. Dr. Donald Gee, editor of the movement's magazine, "Pentecost," read a statement from the conference which said:

"As we look around the world today, we see fear, unrest and perplexity in all spheres of life. The situation is desperate. But this very world is that which 'God so loved' that He gave His only begotten Son to save it.

"The world itself has no answer to this spiritual crisis. The Christian church has not had sufficient power to guide and save either individuals or communities from this grave dilemma. This situation has arisen because Christianity has not preached the Gospel in all its fullness.

TO PLANT TREES

"The only way is a renewing of the Pentecostal Power of the Holy Spirit with all believers. A personal experience of the baptism of the Holy Spirit with His manifestations, operations and administrations, according to the Scriptures is the great need of the time."

In a resolution of appreciation, the conference thanked the Israeli government for the many favors and kindnesses extended, with special mention of the department of special events. Funds also were raised by the conference to plant 10,000 trees in Israel.

Delegates attending the conference combined sightseeing with meeting. Sites in the Holy Land of biblical significance gave added inspiration to the conference. The conference closed with a provocative address by Rev. Thomas Zimmerman, Assemblies of God, U.S.A., admonishing each one to "keep alive in his heart the fire of Pentecost."

The next conference will be held in Helsinki, Finland, in July, 1964.

LT. GOV. GLEN ANDERSON

ORGANIST — Fannie Evelyn Benjamin will be one of the guest artists at the Sunday Afternoon Musical art the Church of Christian Fellowship, next Sunday.

Mt. Calvary To Hear Young Boy Preacher

The "Wonder Boy Preacher," Rev. Thomas H. McMasters, will preach for the Youth Day activities at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, 6110 S. Main street, next Sunday, June 11, at 3 p.m.

Harold Johnson of Harmony Baptist Church will be guest pianist and the "Little Fire Balls" will sing. Juanita Hicks will be the featured soloist and Mrs. Margaret Bonville will be director of the program. Rev. Eddie Ray Thomas is pastor of the church.

My Sacred Opinion

By OMNI G. INFINITE

I come not to blame the sheep nor to judge the shepherds but to give you a clearer conception of a truth which will set you free; to imprint heart, soul and mind with one thought — that just as surely as God is life and light is His shadow, as surely as you live, move and have your being in His everpresence and eternal allness, as surely as deep calls unto deep and eternity is eternal, God is.

And as long as God forever is, you are; and not the shortest period or an inch in measure can separate you from His almightyness. For you are rooted in His eternal allness, the oneness of His Holy Trinity, the everlasting unity of the whole.

So I come not to say woe be unto you, but with love and understanding, to endorse the goodness of God to raise you higher in Godly aspiration by serening the mind, lifting the heart, and perfecting the soul in spiritual and cosmic awareness, by expressing the allness of God and His one divine purpose—Love.

So love you one another and the heavens of prosperity will open up and pour out upon you blessings in abundance. For God is able to provide for all, and so it is done unto you.

All Churchmen To Attend

All churches, representing every race and creed, will be present at the Martin Luther King rally at 3 p.m. in the Sports Arena on Sunday, June 18.

A special section for ministers will be set aside within the area reserved for VIPs.

Ministers will enter in a formal procession before meeting opens.

State Officials To Speak at Award Banquet

Lt. Governor Glenn Anderson and Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins will be featured speakers at the seventh anniversary banquet to be given in honor of Rev. Maurice A. Dawkins by the People's Independent Church, tonight, Thursday, at Temple Israel, 7300 Hollywood blvd., 7:30 p.m. Because of his ministry to church and community especially in the field of Human Relations, Rev. Dawkins has received this year the 1961 George Washington Carver Award, which was presented by Chancellor Murphy of UCLA last week.

Similar awards have also been presented to Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, Eleanor Roosevelt, Jackie Robinson and others.

In addition to church membership, community leaders and friends are expected to attend this banquet.

Adventists Penalized by Sunday Law

"The United States Supreme Court decision upholding the constitutionality of Sunday laws will bring economic penalty and social ostracism to members of the Seventh-Day Adventist faith," is a statement issued by Cree Sandefur, president of the Southern California Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, in Glendale recently.

He said that his group felt that Justice Douglas, in casting the major dissenting opinion, touched the heart of the matter when he questioned why one faith should be favored by the state above another. That the first and fourteenth amendments repudiate such favoritism.

Sandefur said further that his concern grew from the probability that the decision would result in stepped-up enforcement of Sunday laws. This would make it difficult for all observers of another day of worship than Sunday. If keeping the Sabbath and refraining from business forbidden by the state on Sundays means hardship, then our choice as good citizens and honest Christians must be to endure that hardship, he said.

Divine Strength Over Fatigue is Science Lesson

The mental nature of fatigue will be explained at Christian Science services in the Lesson-Sermon on "God the Preserver of Man." The Golden Text is from Joshua (1:9), "Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest."

In correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy affirms, "The scientific and permanent remedy for fatigue is to learn the power of Mind over the body or any illusion of physical weariness, and so destroy this illusion, for matter cannot be weary and heavy-laden." "The consciousness of Truth rests us more than hours of repose in unconsciousness." (pp. 217, 218)

REV. AND MRS. W. L. ROBINSON

Faithful Central Baptists to Honor Rev. W.L. Robinson

The members of Faithful Central Baptist Church, 6100 S. Hoover street, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Beatrice Carter will honor their pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Robinson on the 8th anniversary, June 8, 9, and 11, of his leadership of the church.

The program will include several prominent ministers and their congregations.

On Thursday, June 8, at 7:45 p.m., the Rev. W. H. Wofford, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church and Rev. A. E. Williams, pastor of Friendship Baptist Church, will be guest participants.

Rev. W. L. Robinson has made great strides in a comparatively short time. The recently acquired church home of Faithful Central, valued at nearly one-half million dollars, is one evidence of his ability as a leader.

His leadership has not been limited to his congregation. He presently serves as executive secretary of the Los Angeles District Association; a board member of the National Baptist Sunday School Publishing Board a member of the Executive Board of the local NAACP, and is active in many civic affairs.

A banquet will be held in their honor on June 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The "Roaring 20's" will be the theme of the Youth installation program at Hamilton Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. next Sunday, June 11. The Candlelight ceremony will be conducted by Rev. J. N. Doggett Jr.

Tenth Annual Shrine North-South Game Set

Southern Californians will get their annual preview of collegiate football in the making on Wednesday, July 26, at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum when the 10th annual Shrine North-South Football Classic and Pageant is unfolded, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Net proceeds from the game will be devoted to the Los Angeles unit of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

Tickets are on sale at the Shrine Football Office, 655 W. Jefferson, at $5, $3, and $1.50. Sales are also being handled by individual Shriners through the uniformed organizations and Shrine clubs.

Preceded by an hour and 15 minutes of pageantry, parades, bands, and special events, kickoff for the game will be at 9 p.m.

Fifty players, representing Northern and Southern California, were selected last January by two committees of sports writers to participate in the classic.

South coaches will be Gene Vollnogle of Banning High, Wilmington, and Sam Cathcart of Santa Barbara High. North will be coached by Hart Fairclough of Concord and Joe Marvin of Redwood City.

UCLA authorities, in expelling Ron Lawson for not reporting two phone calls earlier this year when an anonymous caller attempted to get him to shave points during games, made a grave mistake that has put every college athlete in a state of peril. It has left the door wide open for crack-pots to make all sorts of upsetting calls to an athlete before a game.

In my opinion, since UCLA acted so hastily in Lawson's case, we shouldn't be surprised if coaches, and fans don't get into the phone calling act, and as harmless as the calls may be, they could result in the difference between a win and a loss.

Lawson acted as any 19-year-old lad would act who has been in the habit of minding his own business. Since they expelled him, school authorities are now saving face by saying Lawson was hard to coach, that he didn't take to drills as seriously as they would have liked, and that he stayed much to himself.

It could be that Lawson just didn't fancy himself as a superstar of the Hollywood variety and instead of seeking headlines he sought to become the best basketball player through the method he knew best — by playing the game and snubbing the fancy stories usually written about super-duper stars.

Despite the fact that the school authorities would have you believe Lawson was a loner, he was just one of those normal guys who didn't run off his mouth and when he spoke he spoke very intelligently. He came from a wonderful background. His father is a professor at Fisk University; and as smart as gamblers are, they would be pretty foolish to pick the likes of Lawson for their plot. In the basketball scandal which has been disclosed in several colleges, most of the players had one thing in common — they needed the money. Lawson didn't need money that bad. Granted it was an error on Lawson's part not to report the calls, it could also have been that Lawson figured whoever was making the calls didn't know his people — and just didn't give the caller any serious thought.

What the authoritiese have done by expelling him is to make him bitter and take a sour view of the slogan, "Honesty is the Best Policy." He might add — but not always.

This business from the authorities that he was uncoachable is for the birds. Lawson had improved his playing since his first year to such a degree that basketball experts were tabbing him for All-American honors. UCLA authorities acted as though the National Collegiate Athletic Association were breathing down their necks and to avoid any scandal they threw Lawson to them at the first hint of possible trouble, instead of standing by him and defending him.

Centennial Track Team Wins Crowd

A crowd of 15,000 saw Centennial High School track and field team repeat the sensational performance of its 1955 squad when it ran off with the 1961 State title at the 43rd renewal of the meet held in the spacious East L.A. Stadium last Saturday.

The Apaches compiled 11 points, enough to win the prep school's biggest trophy, but the star of the meet was Forest Beaty, a junior from Glendale's Hoover High. He won both sprints . . . in the 100 he churned it in 9.5 and officials say he was aided by the wind; he came back and set sail in 21.5. This time the officials said he was hampered by that same wind.

Beside Beaty there were others who came up with sparkling marks. Bill Mackey of East Bakersfield skipped the 180 lows in 19.2. Compton's Ulis Williams breezed through the 440 in 47.8, Fremont's Robert McKeever broad jumped 24.3 and Richard Jones of Bakersfield leaped 6-8½ for the best in the state.

Team scores:

Centennial of Compton, 11; Glendale Hoover, 10; McClymonds of Oakland, Compton and Los Altos, 9 each; 9 each; Los Angeles Fremont, 8; Burbank Burroughs 7; Torrance and San Francisco Lincoln, 6 each; Oakland Castlemont, 6½; El Rancho, Fowler, East Bakersfield, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield, La Habra and El Cajon, 5 each; Los Angeles Jefferson and San Pedro, 4½ each; Alhambra of Martinez, Arnilo, Fairfield Cubberly, Palo Alto, Muir of Pasadena and Long Beach Wilson, 4 each; San Marino, 3½; Leuzinger of Lawndale, El Segundo, San Bernardino, El Centro Taft and Culver City, 3 each; Long Beach Poly, North Bakersfield, Arcadia and Orange, 2½ each; Fremont of Sunnyvale, Downey Carimont, Delano and Riverside Poly, 2 each; San Diego, San Mateo, Monrovia, Los Angeles, Menlo-Altherton, Hanford, Santa Fe and Manuel Arts of Los Angeles, 1 each: La Puente Grossmont and Lowell of San Francisco 1/3 each.

Softball Team In Big Test

Action in the Bar League tonight (Thursday) finds the Red Carpet taking on New Orleans Seafood at Baldwin Hills at 7:30 p.m. Living Room squares off for its do-or-die battle against Tommy Tucker's layroom. This game is getting the 5-10 action.

King's Hotel, sporting 11 wins, 4 losses, takes on the tough and dangerous Intermission Room at Rancho. Town Tavern travels to Ross Snyder to meet Dynamite Jackson.

Lee Roys, second place leaders in the Hangover loop, will attempt to hang one on Collin's Nine at Rancho. Clark Hotel tangles with Mac's (No Spending) Castle, and Marty's All Stars draw the league's leading Caribbean Lounge.

On Sunday, June 11, games are scheduled as follows: Living Room vs. Collins at Baldwin Hills, 10 a.m.; Kings vs. Town Tavern, Baldwin, 10 a.m.; Tommy Tucker vs. Marty, South ark; Mac's Castle vs. New Orleans Seafood, Rancho. Dynamite Jackson vs. Caribbean, Clark vs. Intermission, both games at Rancho.

CLASS — Emile Griffith, ruler of the world's welterweight crowd, displayed a tremendous amount of class in knocking out Gasper Ortega, one of the most polished welterweights in the game, last Saturday night at the Olympic Auditorium.

Archie Moore Faces Rinaldi In Title Bout

This Saturday night in New York's Madison Square Garden veteran Archie Moore will make his ninth defense of his often-stripped light-heavyweight title against Giulio Rinaldi. "Often stripped" refers to the many times that the NBA has threatened to take away Archie's crown.

Rinaldi outpointed Moore in Rome last Oct. 29, but Moore is a solid 13-5 favorite over the muscled Rinaldi and is being guaranteed $100,000 and $12,000 training expenses, while Rinaldi picks up a check for $25,000. The Saturday title bout can be seen over Channel 7.

Should Moore successfully defend his title, there is talk of a second Moore-Patterson world heavyweight bout. If Moore is not successful ,then Rinaldi may get a crack at Patterson, which is the reason why Rinaldi is taking the bout and the short purse.

"THE TEE" with MAGGIE HATHAWAY

PGA Long Beach professionals have arranged to hold the controversial PGA integrated tournament in July of this year to replace the PGA sponsored invitational that was cancelled 2 weeks ago following a ruling of Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk.

Reason for cancellation was PGA's refusal to remove the "Caucasian only" clause from its constitution, backed by a PGA announcement that Negro professionals could not enter their tournaments because of this clause.

The L. A. Jr. Chamber of Commerce, which was co-sponsoring the 1962 PGA tournament at the Brentwood Country Club, pulled out when Mosk issued his order.

The LAJCC announced that they are going to sponsor their 1962 $50,000 LA Open (that they had cancelled in favor of the PGA Invitational) at Rancho.

The local tournaments were rescheduled when PGA president Lou Strong of Rochester, N. Y. and John F. Kimberling, president of the L.A. Jr. Chamber of Commerce made an announcement last Wednesday that "under present conditions in California, the PGA did not feel it would be possible to conduct a successful tournament under the magnitude of the PGA championship in that state.

The executive committee of the Professional Golfers Assn. met last Wednesday in Hollywood, Florida and recommended the elimination of the association's all white clause. The committee's resolution will be again voted on at the annual meeting in Florida Nov. 2-10.

Last year this same committee voted to issue Chas. Sifford a players card, stating that he would be eligible to join the PGA organization in 3 years.

Last week the president issued a statement that if they remove the clause Sifford cannot become a member for 4 years.

Medical Group Presents Three $500 Checks

Due to the wonderful support given the eighth annual Variety Show of the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association and Auxiliary held recently at the Embassy Auditorium, the popular organizations were able to again turn over three $500 checks to medical schools in Southern California.

The 1961 Variety Show theme was "Anything Goes," Dr. Robert Woods was chairman; Mrs. Berlie Dixon, director; Mrs. Frances Dabney, choreographer and Eddie Beal, music director, and their wonderful job resulted in a very entertaining show.

Because of the wonderful cooperation of the community this year's show matched the attendance record of the first show eight years ago.

Les Dames last weekend presented a very entertaining sixth annual comedy hour before a capacity crowd at the Moulin Rouge.

The girls worked hard for this year's show under the guidance of Cleopal Jolevette, their president.

Despite the fact that the affair fell on the same Sunday afternoon on which there were at least three other big affairs, including the NAACP fashion show featuring the irresistable Marguerite Belafonte, the Women's cocktail invitational and the entertainment Daughters of Isis offered by the Les Dames were still able to pack them in at the Moulin Rogue, which indicates the members and their various committees went out and worked.

Audrey Scott was chairman, assisted by Juanita Jones, aided by ideas from La Parisienne Studio, Eunice Cain and Rikki Brown they came up with intriguing dance routines and settings for the show, "Terpsicore Moods in Miniature."

The Society Troubadours provided the music. Guest artists appearing on the show were Joyce Clayton, Norma Bertrand, Dona Brown, Fannie Wakefield, Bonnie Henderson, Willa Martin, Dorothy Thomas and Jewel Akins.

Les Dames members are: Cleopal Jolevette, Diane Render, Juanita Jones, Leola Reese, Elwood Sellers, Louise George, Audrey Scott, Gertrude Askey, Katherine Alexander, Melba Griffin, Irene Parks, Bernice Warren and Hester Cavalier.

TRAVELING WITH A TYPEWRITER: Here in St. Louis, the very first Angeleno we're asked about is Breita Chavis who once taught here. Nice, being able to report she got a coveter teachers' summer scholarship to USC and that her sparkle and dash are gloriously undimmed. To an art exhibition preview at Forest Park, and Bootsie and her Joe Howard and Tommye Berry are asked after almost in the same breath by a vivacious young slip of a thing just in from Kansas City. Mentioned, too: Herb Duckett, whose name is usually recalled in these parts.

While saying hi to a buddy on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, we are shown a full page of Cal Bailey's caricatures which he did years ago while shacked up at the local YMCA; Phil Moore was around here at the same time. We were able to add the news that Phil's son is now at Yale. Met a Fred Russ who pondered, chin-pulling, over the idea he has a cousin in LA whom he's never met; at our suggestion of Lewis Russ he brightened, if yet undecided. One of the nicest salutes given to track stars and coaches participating in the Compton Invitational track and field meet last Friday night was the after-the-meet party hosted by Jesse Robinson, post office executive, and Dr. James Witmore in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Robinson.

Some 55 guests attended and enjoyed tasty barbecue prepared by S. J. Hill, retired postal employee. Cocktails were served by Dr. Witmore and Jesse Robinson who acted as bartenders.

School Marms Entertain With Invitational Dance

By Barbara O'Neil

The plush atmosphere of the Knollwood Country Club in Granada Hills was the setting and gaiety was the mood as the charming and vivacious School Marms entertained their friends with an evening of dancing last Monday.

The members of the group acted as hostesses and were easily identified by their headdresses, complementing the Egyptian motif of the evening. A conversation piece was a wall plaque designed by Grace O'Neal depicting the members of the club in hieroglyphic-type writing. Grace also designed the attractive invitations.

Ella D. Lewis, president of this swinging group, stated that the club is composed of teachers in the city. Its purpose is both social and educational. The social angle is well known to friends of the group, but the educational service is also important. They are financing a student through school. The recipient of their scholarship is Joyce Walton, a junior majoring in education at UCLA.

Jean Johnson, chairman of the dance, and the committee members did an outstanding job of giving the guests an evening to remember.

Hold Club Meet

The Bacchante Social and Charity Club held its regular meeting in the home of Anna B. Jackson, 2006 W. 80th street, last Sunday afternoon.

The recital was heard by a capacity audience at the Westside Jewish Community Center. (Adams).

Mrs. Evans is one of the loyal supporters of all Doll League affairs. Members are Fannie De Mann, Brenda Davis, Silhoutte member; Nellie Brown, Irene Sharp and Marguerite Chapman. (Adams).

Doll League, Silhouettes Hold Colorful Affair Sun.

The well-planned "Kotten Karnival" presented by the Doll Leaguers and Silhouettes on June 4 at the L.A. Breakfast Club was a true carnival setting for the many guests who dined on "dogs" and coffee.

The guests also danced to the bands of Onzy Mathews and McNiles calypso artistry.

Gay cotton dresses and white sailor hats with matching ribbons carried out a theme long to be remembered. Camille Howard, who was introduced by popular Joe Adams, rendered a few selections in her own classic style. Door prizes were presented to four lucky ticket holders.

This years chairman of the affair, Mrs. Emma Adams, who also serves as the club's vice president, is credited with the overwhelming success. The proceeds of the event will be applied toward a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

But gee there sure were a lot of sharpies and their sleek lady friends gaining entrance to the club as well as the ball players in their regalia. We thought of running back to the "party house," grabbing a sweat shirt and coming in discussing our "batting average" but who would believe us. Anyway, Tommy's team must be leading the league by now. Tommy, being the congenial guy he is, probably wouldn't have minded our intrusion in dungarees, but we decided to make it back to where we were partying. It was a beat-

BIG APPLE CLASS ACTS

The highlights of my past week were several, with my visit to Basin Street East perhaps the most outstanding. It was my pleasure to escort the charming and lovely daughter of Dr. C. C Pettit (affectionately known as "Jackie" to his offspring, Paula Anne Pettit)

Paula Anne is now 21 years old, a graduate school student at the University of Oslo, in Norway, where she has lived for the past ten years or so, and she is in fab-

Irma Webster Famous Limbo Dance Teacher

The most talked about dancers around Hollywood are, Theodore Robertson, Loretta Young and Sylvia Jackson who did a terrific Limbo Dance recently at Cafe De Paris on Sunset Strip with the dancers starting under the pole at shoulder length and working their way under the 15" off the floor. These dancers, who have trained their bodies for months to master this skill, are from the Donnji Dance Caravan Group.

WELL WORTH SEEING

Irma Webster, director of the Donnji Dance Studio, 3843½ S. Western Ave., is also a terrific professional dancer, but spends most of her time doing a magnificent job of teaching students from 18 months old to 70 years young. Miss Webster stated: "Of all the dances I have seen and have also done, there is no other dance that could keep an audience in so much tension and suspense as the limbo. It is just like watching a fight. If the dancer falls to the floor, as he is going under the pole, he feels as though he has disappointed his audience, but his advantage over a fighter, is that he may try again and nine out of ten times he will make it the second time, which leaves his audience sexcitingly happy."

SPIRITED PERFORMANCE

The dance was first originated years ago by the Creoles of the British West Indies, which was a dance of mourning.

seriously ailing, incidentally. Chums of Alex Dumas, who surely must have friends in every city and hamlet from coast to coast, were surprised to learn he's in LA; he'll soon be leaving there for his Atlanta home. Schoolmarm Alice Bowles, a St. Louisan whom we particularly love in the role of hostess with unabashed charm, ticked off names of Californians to whom we must take her greetings; she and her two sisters were debating an LA summer trip but picked Europe instead. It will be Alice's fourth trip.

Rev. Walter Bryant's name comes up here; he's expected here in mid-summer after Chicago and Manhattan and back to Manhattan again before returning to Pasadena for the winter months. Dr. and Mrs. Bill Smiley (Della) ever start the ball right of by inquiring but very fondly of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Howard (Elizabeth) and family. Della remains one of St. Louis' more dashing; meant to ask her hw her golf game is doing.

BACHELOR ELIGIBLES

John Cousins and Dr. Larry Nicholson are a pair of bachelor eligibles, here, who have a regiment of cronies on the coast. Finger-snap: Why didn't we think to ask John of Bea Taylor, giving to her the very best regards of Adolph Angelus. Seems to me she was in LA last summer.

A quick brandy 'n soda at the Chase Hotel while bear-hugging Lydia and Thad Herriot who were in town from Oklahoma to see Thad's favorite uncle before they jetted to San Francisco and onto the home of the Dodgers, then Mexico City. They have enough golf clubs with them to stock any clubhouse, Allah knows. Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Turner (she was Yvonne Lyons from here) left St. Louis (he finished interning at Homer hillips) for LA; just before takeoff, they revealed their secret marriage since Nov. He's a Californian, his mother is Mrs. Mattie Jackson of LA.

Blasted: The high hopes we had to have tea and meet Pat Onwuachi, a Nigerian graduate student in sociology and anthropology who just won a fellowship for further Ph.D. studies at St. Louis Univ., but Indianapolis and Columbus and Wilberforce beckon, so off we go.

nik affair there! . . .

By the time you digest this diatribe, we will have visited Chicago city's satirical "Second City" revue at the IVAR theater that opened Wednesday. The satirical revue was responsible for the likes of SHELLY BERMAN and NICHOLS & MAY. They tell us the small cast pulls no punches in their satire, and even has a scene with a white actor in blackface who doesn't know how to scrub it off after his scene, meaning he's left to face second class citizenship. But then, that's no laughing matter. Somehow, I wanna cry. But then, maybe I'm too emotional. As the feller says, one gal says she'll cry when the lights are against her . . . MIKE CONNOLY, the columnist, states that BROOK BENTON has been accredited with saying he doesn't understand how a writer can steal one line from another writer and be accused of plagiarism and if he steals from a whole bunch of them, it's research. But hell, that's not original. The late J. T. GIPSON said that a long time ago in one of his columns.

GOODBYE RUBY!

It has been hard for any newspaper man or woman on any sheet (the dailies or the weeklies) to put RUBY BERKLEY GOODWIN away decently print-wise, because there have just been so many facets to her illustrious career and lovable personality, that if you mentioned some of them, you probably missed a lot of the others. Ruby died the other day as you may know, but no one knew exactly how to tell her life story the way they do in the obituaries. She had been Mother-of-the-Year, a writer of great books, columns, an advisor and companion to illustrious Negro stars such as HATTIE McDANIEL and others.

OUR LOIS TO WED — Lois Anita Russ, Belmont and City College graduate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Russ, will marry Joseph J. Celestain, former Marine corporal, Manual Arts graduate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Celestain of New Orleans, in the Fall. Both bride and groom will continue their present schedule of work and study after their marriage. Lois Anita's mother, Calme, is the Eagle's business manager.

Jury Weighing Guilt Of Eugene Hawkins

Speculation was running high in the community Tuesday as to whether or not the luck of Virgil Eugene "Rough Lover" Hawkins was still holding out.

The jury that had for 10 days listened to testimony and argument in the assault and robbery case on which he is being tried in Judge J. Howard Ziemann's court retired for a second night, still unable to reach a verdict.

NO CONVICTIONS

The jury had received its instructions late Monday afternoon.

Hawkins, who has been accused by many women of beating them, assaulting them and robbing them, but who has never been convicted of any major crime, is being tried for attacking and robbing Mrs. Eileen Eaton, boxing promoter wife of Cal Eaton, operator of the Olympic Auditorium, last January 14.

He is also accused of attacking and robbing Mrs. Mira Gris, of 2927 Gilmertan avenue, two days later. Mrs. Gris said that her attacker, when he started to scream, thrust his thumb into her mouth. She bit down, hard.

DENIED BEING BITTEN

When arrested, Hawkins had a bandaged thumb. He denied that the wound resulted from a bite.

Mrs. Eaton, who was the first to testify, said that Hawkins and

JEFFERSON'S HAMERMAN

One of these days as soon as I can get around to it I am going to do a little piece about Jefferson High School Principal Sam Hamerman. He deserves it. As nearly as I can figure it out he has been Jefferson's principal for seven or eight years and has improved each shining little minute of that time trying to make Jeff a better school and attempting to make its pupils better students. He has had a measure of success on both scores.

You can take a dim view of all that and pass it off with the remark that whatever Principal Hamerman has done is what he's been getting paid to do. It's not quite that simple. I've been around Los Angeles a long time now and I know first hand that there are many principals, and teachers, who regard an assignment to a school in a Negro community as a sort of sentence to exile. They either bear the sentence as nobly as possible and hope that their bitter cup will soon pass away or become time servers who put in perfunctory days and years without much worry about results.

STUDENTS, NOT PROBLEMS

What impresses me about Principal Hamerman is his firm grasp of the fact that students entrusted to his care are individuals, and not problems. Nobody wants to be a problem and if you saddle a youngster with that handicap he's more apt than not to do his best to show you how big a problem he really is. Of course, individuals, particularly high school students, have problems and some of Jeff's students have the king sized variety. The gimmick is to get them to tackle their own problems and hold out hope that they can win if they do.

I'm not a school teacher but it's my observation, for whatever it's worth, that one of the Court Critic Wins Freedom

JACKSON, Miss. — The Mississippi supreme court agreed with Medger Evers, state NAACP secretary, this week and reversed a $100 fine levied on him for his criticism of a heavy fine and jail sentence levied on a Negro charged with theft.

The court said that any citizen has a right to criticize a court once a trial is ended and observed that courts are no more immune to criticism than any other government officials.

Man Stops to Kiss Wife, Finds Her Dead

Miles Dunn, of 11157 Monitor street, leaned over the bed to kiss his wife Rose goodbye before leaving for work about 4 a.m. Friday morning. The apparently sleeping woman was cold. When he could not arouse her he called police.

Investigating officers found the 52-year-old Mrs. Dunn was dead. An autopsy report said death was due to natural causes.

Negroes Voted for Change at City Hall -- Want a 'New Deal'

AN EDITORIAL

Mayor Elect Sam W. Yorty who won his election against Mayor Norris Poulson by a majority of some 16,000 votes got a majority of almost 14,000 in the 8th, 9th and 15th councilmanic districts. A substantial portion of that majority came from Negro voters who want a change at City Hall.

They voted for a change because they were tired of eight years of do-little or do-nothing about the problems which affect them.

The new mayor can begin to effect that change by instituting, and announcing for all to hear, a policy against any racial discrimination anywhere in any city department.

He would do well to begin with the Police Department which clings to a policy of never assigning Negro and white police officers to work together when officers work in pairs.

He ought to take a look at a police system which nets only small time Negro gamblers and lets others off the hook, to such an extent that more than 70 per cent of all Los Angeles gambling arrests are Negroes.

He ought to devise some machinery to investigate complaints against police lawlessness and do away with a system where policemen investigate other policemen charged with violating the rights of citizens.

Of course, Los Angeles needs a responsible Negro on the police commission but it needs more: It needs the same kind of representation on the Civil Service Commission, on the Fire Commission, on every commission whose acts and actions affect the welfare of members of minority groups.

The Fire Department could stand some close inspection. Alderson is gone but his legacy lingers on; there's still too much of snide racial discrimination in practices and policies; there's still too much truckling to outworn prejudice.

But commissions only oversee city departments. It's what happens in those departments that is of primary importance. A look at some of them will show that there's discrimination in hiring and upgrading, that the Negro gets short shrift when he applies for a job or seeks a promotion.

The Civil Service oral examination has been, and still is, a booby trap for many Negroes who get high grades on written tests and flunk, or nearly flunk, oral exams that do little more than give the examiners an opportunity to weed out the unwanted.

Then, of course, there's the matter of gerrymandered councilmanic districts, carefully carved out to keep Negroes out of City Council. There's little hope that the Council will cure the situation without the kind of push the mayor can supply. Mr. Yorty said he was going to look into this matter. He ought to put it near the top of the agenda so Los Angeles can practice the democracy it preaches.

These are some of the Number One problems that will confront the new mayor. The new administration is going to take its cue from what Mr. Yorty does and says about these problems. As mayor his voice will be taken to be the voice of Los Angeles.

The people who wanted a change and voted for a change are looking to Mayor Elect Yorty to make some changes, some vast and thorough going changes. The quicker those changes are made the better for Los Angeles.

Council Sifts Bids of 20 for Navarro Post

With more than 20 hats in the ring, City Council was sifting applications for appointment of a councilman to replace Charles Navarro of the 10th district, who will become city controller on July 1. It will make the selection some time after Navarro assumes his new office.

Heading the list of those seeking the position is J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson, who ran against Navarro in 1959 and received more than 15,000 votes. Other top contenders are George Thomas, executive of the County Council on Community Relations, and Tom Bradley, attorney and police lieutenant.

NEGRO INDICATED

Although the council can call a special election to fill the vacancy if it desires to do so, political observers said that it was certain that the council will exercise its appointive power, with indications that the new councilman will be a Negro.

Atkinson, a well known business man in the community, is a member of a pioneer Los Angeles family who has long been active in civic and community affairs. He has received city-wide support in his bid for the appointment.

Thomas, also a former candidate for Navarro's post, is now an inheritance tax appraiser. Bradley, who is still serving in the police department, is eligible for retirement.

Senate Report Hits Muslims, Okays NAACP

The "NAACP has firmly and consistently resisted" all efforts at Communist infiltration and is "just the opposite" of a Red front organization, the State Senate Fact Finding Sub-Committee on American Activities said in a lengthy report issued Monday. At the same time the committee took a rap at the Muslim movement which it described as "based on force and violence."

The committee warned that efforts should be made to distinguish liberal organizations from Communist front groups and cited the NAACP as an example of a group which "is actually older than the Communist Party" and opposed to the party's position.

"The indoctrination and recruiting of Negroes into the Communist Party has always been one of the principal parts of the party program . . . Firmly and consistently the NAACP has resisted this effort, and despite the fact that it is regarded in the deep South as a Communist controlled organization, it actually is just the opposite."

MUSLIMS RAPPED

The Muslim group must be distinguished from the Communist party, the report said, but it should not be shrugged off. It described the Muslim movement as competing with the Commu-

Reporting of Miss. Arrests Draws Blast

The slanted reporting of the arrests of Freedom Riders in Mississippi drew a welcome blast Thursday from Averill Berman in his "Big Story" broadcast on Radio Station KDAY.

What particularly angered Berman was the upside-down manner in which the report presented the Freedom Riders as the bad law-breakers and the Mississippi authorities as the righteous defenders of justice.

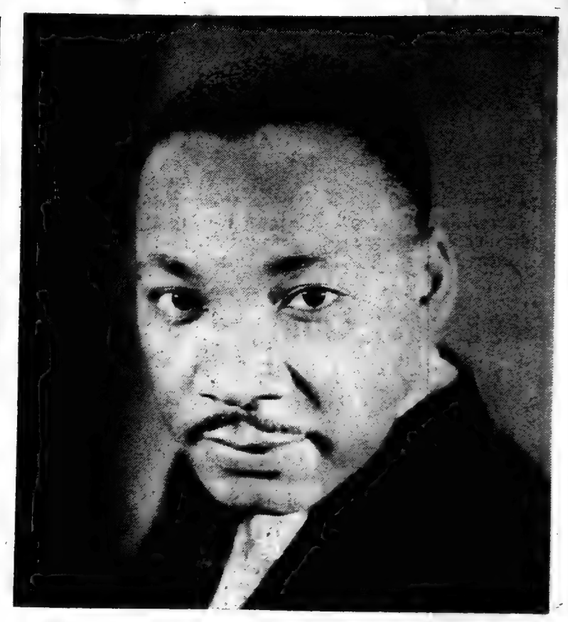
'DEFIED' LAW

Berman's comments follow:

"The biggest story in the United States today is that which concerns the fight of the Negro people for dignity . . . decency . . . for that which makes human beings feel they are human beings.

"The ultimate results of racial and religious prejudice are symbolized by that dreadful story coming out of Jerusalem — the story of Adolph Eichmann.

"Now just this morning I was reading a news story from a national news wire. Here is how the story read: 'Five more so-called Freedom Riders arrived in Jackson, Miss., by train this morning and were promptly arrested. The four whites and a Negro girl were taken into custody when they disobeyed a police order to leave the white waiting room of the Illinois Central Station. That brings to 98 the number of integrationists arrested in Jackson for defying its segregation procedures.'



'SO-CALLED'

"Now the total effect of this story as I have just read it is to convey the idea that the Free-

Ban on Rides For Freedom Lifted in Ala.

The ban against Freedom Riders in the State of Alabama was lifted Monday by the same judge who imposed it a week ago, as waves of riders continued to drift through the South, to end their travel momentarily in Jackson, Miss., jails.

By Monday the total of arrests in Jackson had climbed to 110. Six arrested Sunday were from Minnesota, all white, four of them from the University of Minnesota, led by a blonde coed.

QUICK "JUSTICE"

Another batch of about 30 riders was scheduled to leave Washington this week.

Some of those arriving in Jackson, entering the rest rooms or the restaurants and promptly arrested, arrived by bus; others came by plane or train. All were given the same sentence, the stiffest allowable under the statute—$200 fine, four months in jail. All were convicted in a matter of minutes of breach of the peace.

The NAACP, meanwhile, has made it clear that it supports all assaults on southern Jim Crow, whether NAACP-sponsored or not.

NO ROADBLOCKS

Speaking in Jackson, Miss., to a meeting of 2000, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, declared that the NAACP will not throw roadblocks in the way of other organizations "just be-

Chief, Group Meet On Police Problems

What Chief of Police William Parker describes as a meeting to "discuss problems involving minority groups" was held in the chief's office last Friday, the Eagle learned this week. Present at the meeting were George Thomas, executive director of the Community Relations Conference; Atty. Thomas G. Neusom; Milton Senn of the Anti-Defamation League; and Jack Moore, chairman of the Mayor's Inter-Group Relations Committee.

The chief said the meeting was held Friday in advance of his meeting with Mayor Elect Sam W. Yorty who has been critical of Parker's "public relations" with minority groups. The meeting had been requested by the Community Relations Conference following the Griffith Park incident last Memorial Day.

Chief Parker said:

"We discussed the problems involving minority groups. We attempted to explore the problem generally so we could be certain we had the same understanding of it.

"We don't want the same situation to develop here that has developed elsewhere in the United States. We all agree on that."

"Yorty is aware that this office is working with the conference to eliminate any misunderstanding.

"We will work with this group to alleviate any situation creating public disorder, but no adjustments will be made at the expense of the security of the community.

"It was the feeling of all of us that it was a free and open discussion. We decided we could continue to work together now that each understands the position of the other."

The chief said meetings are being planned to discuss specific points of friction.

Elderly Companions Face Death Together

Tragedy struck twice last Thursday at 636 W. 30th street, where two elderly women, Mrs. Ruth Collins and Mrs. Marjorie Norton, lived together and kept each other company. Mrs. Norton, 78, was outside in the yard hanging out clothes. Suddenly she fell over, lifeless.

When police arrived to investigate, they found Mrs. Collins, 60, greatly shaken by the loss of her companion. They sat in the dining room and, as the officers made notes of what Mrs. Collins was reporting, they heard a sudden gasp.

Mrs. Collins, apparently suffering a stroke, fell over onto the floor.

She was rushed to Central Receiving Hospital, where she died.

Mrs. Collins' sister, Mildred Mathews, lives in San Antonio, Texas, and was notified of the death.

Mrs. Norton had a niece who lives here, Mrs. Mildred Paul, 4712 W. 162 street, Lawndale.

Wounded Man Seeks Relief, Gets Arrested

Police officers nabbed Maxie Thomas Smith last Wednesday at a hospital at 5860 S. Avalon Blvd., where he was attempting to get treatment for a gunshot wound.

Jacqueline Jamison, 24, of 1116 W. 31st St., told police she shot at Smith last Tuesday because he had been molesting her, but apparently didnt hit him. Knowing her boy friend would return, she was carrying a gun for self-defense, she said. She further stated that when she got into her car the following day, she spotted Smith with two rocks in his hands as she was backing out of her driveway. As soon as she saw him she shot through the window of the car. He was knocked to the ground.

Seeing him lying on the ground, she continued to back the car out, but told her baby sitter to call the police. When the officers arrived Smith was gone.

Smith claimed that when Miss Jamison saw him beside her car, she pulled out a gun. He knew he was shot when he felt something strike him in the chest. He said when he was finally able to get up he took a taxi to the hospital.

The suspect was transferred from the hospital to the main jail downtown and booked. His wounds were minor.

Breakfast Club Celebrates Its 9th Birthday

A decorative birthday cake commemorating the ninth anniversary of the Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club was on display at the head table Sunday at the club's regular meeting.

Principal speaker, Arthur J. H. Clement, Jr., manager of the recently opened Los Angeles branch office of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, said he was so inspired and stimulated last Sunday at the Clark Hotel by the club's many accomplishments, he would save the address he had prepared for a later date and speak on new ideas that had been suggested at the breakfast.

The breakfast audience applauded the specially prepared birthday program. Guest artists were Zena Ayo, soloist, and Davette Thompson, talented marimba player, who was accompanied by her younger sister.

Presented to the overflow crowd were 20 girls who are vying for the coveted honor of becoming "Cinderella for 1961" at the club's fund raising event of the year, the Cinderella Ball, which is to be held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel July 1.

FEPC Holds Investigation

SAN FRANCISCO — Charges that a San Francisco firm was guilty of discrimination because of refusal to hire a Negro shipping clerk was scheduled for argument here Tuesday in a public hearing that was expected to take two days.

The hearing, second in the 20-month history of California's FEP law, was being held before the State Fair Employment Practice Commission, 455 Golden Gate avenue.

The case involves a complaint by Clarence Ramsey, a resident of Berkeley, against the T. H. Wilton Co., 1155 Front street.

Ramsey claims his application for a job was turned down after he had been referred to the firm by an employment agency.

Investigation of the complaint was carried out under the direction of Commissioner C. L. Dellums.

The FEP Commission has investigated and closed out 632 cases.

452 Stanford Students Back Freedom Rides

ATLANTA — A petition signed by 452 Stanford University students and professors condemning Alabama justice was received here last Thursday by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

"We believe the actions of Alabama Officials," said the petition from the California university, "encouraged aggression against racial minorities, spurred mob violence and contributed to the degeneration of even the most primitive moral decency."

An accompanying letter encouraged the Freedom Riders to continue their struggle against the South's Jim Crow.

nists "for the Negro minority."

"It, too, is based on force and violence and class hatred. It, too, operates in secrecy and is based on a fanatic adherence to a potent ideology. It, too, advocates the forceable overthrow of our government, indeed, of the entire white race.

"Every real or fancied act of discrimination drives more Negroes into the Muslim ranks—and our survey discloses considerable sympathy among Negroes who have no connection with the movement, but who are being stirred by the fact that this group is implementing its resentment with action," the report declared.

FOUNDED IN 1933

The report said the movement was founded in 1933 by Wallace Ford in Detroit and for the last 15 years has been headed by Elijah Poole, his six sons anl his son-in-law, Raymond Sharrieff.

There are now about 32 Muslim temples scattered throughout the country, including chapters in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento.

Poole, known as Muhammed, the Messenger of Allah, writes columns for several publications of the order, including the Los Angeles Herald Dispatch.

Los Angeles is headquarters for the Muslim national movement in California, the report said.

The Muslim ideology preaches complete separation from the white "slave master" and building by the members of their own social and economic system, "for the deliverance and salvation of the Negro peoples," according to the report.

Valley Group Quiets Home Owners' Hate

When a Negro family moves into a "white" neighborhood, an explosion of hate can be expected. That's what happens in Los Angeles all too frequently, as the files of the Eagle amply demonstrate.

But it need not happen that way; not if some sane individuals in the community have organized to prevent it.

PROTEST 'NEGRO HORDES'

A typical neighborhood "protest meeting" was held in the Sunkist Gardens of the Platt Ranch in Woodland Hills the first week in June.

A Negro family had moved into the area a few weeks earlier. The meeting was called by whites who were incensed at the thought of "Negro hordes"—that's what they said—moving into Woodland Hills.

Some 70 to 80 people attended. Several people harrangued the audience, which was getting steamed up, ready for action.

There were, however, in the group some members of an organization formed about six months ago called the San Fernando Valley Fair Housing Council.

'DON'T PANIC'

A member of the council took the floor, scoffed at the idea of panicking because a Negro family had appeared in the midst of the lily-white precincts, explained the law, emphasized the fact that property values would not go down, urged the people to reject the proposal to act hastily or to put up "for sale" signs.

The wiser counsel prevailed.

"Might as well face facts," commented some.

"Guess it's inevitable," said others.

At the end of the meeting, steps were taken to form a Woodland Hills Human Relations Committee.

The Negro family has met no open hostility, according to Mrs. Helen Wakefield, chairman of the Clearing House Committee of the San Fernando Valley Fair Housing Council. Frank Barnes is the council's chairman.

HOUSING AVAILABLE

Some 100 individuals and organizations have now joined the Fair Housing Council, Mrs. Wakefield said. A referral system has been set up to assist minority group buyers and renters of houses or apartments.

The council, with headquarters at 18201 Plummer street, Northridge, states that it has found many people willing to sell on an open occupancy basis.

Mrs. Wakefield pointed out that with the expansion of the freeway and urban redevelopment programs, many minority families will be affected and suggests that they consider moving to San Fernando Valley where good housing is available.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The four city-owned swimming pools were closed Monday when an attempt was made to integrate them.

Senate Kills Hawkins Fair Housing Bill

Hopes for strengthening of the state's fair housing legislation died last Wednesday when the Senate committee on governmental efficiency and economy refused to report the bill to the floor and referred it to an interim committee for a year's study.

The bill would have placed enforcement of existing laws against discrimination in publicly assisted housing under the state's FEPC commission. Present legislation permits the person who claims discrimination to file a suit in superior court and provides for damages of not less than $500.

As originally drawn by Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins, the bill prohibited discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing, publicly assisted and private, but it was trimmed back to include only publicly assisted housing by the assembly.

Publicly assisted housing includes all housing built with state, federal or other public funds, including housing built under the FHA and VA programs.

Ban on Rides

cause we do not agree with them down to the smallest detail on plans and procedures."

Wilkins made it clear, however, that the NAACP still believes that the "way to test a law is to set up a test case . . . We do not believe you can test a law . . . by staying in jail. For after one spends 30 or 40 days in jail, the law is still on the statute books."

SEEK INJUNCTION

At the same time, on June 9 the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund filed a sweeping federal suit in Jackson, seeking an injunction against Mississippi officials to prevent them from enforcing segregation in bus, railroad and airline terminals.

In Montgomery, Ala., Federal Judge Frank M. Johnson dismissed the ban against Freedom Riders in the State of Alabama due to a "technical" error.

In the haste to clamp down equally on those who were exercising their Constitutional rights and those who sought to take the law into their own hands and enforce it by means of violence, someone had forgotten to serve the pro-integration organizations with the necessary papers.

Judge Johnson therefore lifted the ban he had placed on the riders, several Negro organizations and five of their leaders, including the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy.

Miss Thigpen, who scored in Europe with the "Porgy and Bess" company, will also be heard in a first performance of Paul Schoop's orchestral fable, "The Wishing Tree."

Pastor Claims Mistreatment by Police Officers

Rev. Earl Graham Jr. of 417 Paseo Los Alisos, associate pastor of the Greater Ebenezer Baptist Church, 53rd and Denker streets, told the Eagle a sad tale of persecution that started last Tuesday when he went to bring his wife and three-day-old baby home from General Hospital.

Following a series of altercations with officials at the hospital and plainclothes detectives, Rev. Graham ended up handcuffed and facing a charge of assault with a deadly weapon—attempting to run over an officer with his car.

That charge was later dropped to breach of the peace, but not until he had been held in jail for two days, during which he claims he was grieviously mistreated. Trial is set for July 7.

CREATE A WORLD OF YOUR OWN WITH YEAR 'ROUND ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL!

WHAT IS ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL?
Electric Climate Control is like "a world of your own," with the temperature you desire, as warm or as cool as you like, controlled humidity and complete air filtration...all year 'round.

WHY INSTALL ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL?
Electric Climate Control provides comfortable heating for winter and cooling in summer ...all year long it dehumidifies and cleans the air of dust, dirt, pollen and insects. Electric Climate Control helps you feel better and avoid minor ills. In stores, offices and factories, Electric Climate Control assures customers' comfort, improves employee morale, raises productivity, reduces absenteeism and fatigue.

METHODS OF ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL
The modern electric heat pump is a single, compact unit offering complete year 'round climate control.
Other methods of Electric Climate Control are combinations of electric space heating and cooling. In heating, for example, you can choose radiant heating cable...baseboard heating...radiant-convection heating panels...and circulating air heaters. Every electric heating system has individual room control for the exact degree of warmth you wish in each room.

For a complete Climate Control system, cooling must do more than lower air temperature. It must also dehumidify and filter. Electric cooling systems offer these advantages and are available for use in conjunction with new or existing heating facilities or as separate systems.

SELECTING AN ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL SYSTEM
No general rule for selection can be made for every type and size of home, office and factory. There are, however, some overall guides, which can help you estimate your needs. This information is contained in a free brochure offered by your Department of Water and Power. Complete details can be obtained from Department of Water and Power representative.

HOW MUCH DOES ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL COST?
Electric Climate Control may actually save you money. For example, with proper insulation, a modern electric heating system in your home probably will cost no more—and may cost less—to operate than your present heating system.

FREE ADVISORY SERVICE
Without cost or obligation a DWP representative will inspect your home, store, office or factory and help you select the proper Electric Climate Control system for your needs. Call today for an appointment.

FREE—COMPLETE INFORMATION ON ELECTRIC CLIMATE CONTROL
If you are interested in Electric Climate Control when building or remodeling, send for the free brochure on Electric Climate Control methods. Telephone for your free copy today or fill in and mail the coupon below.

WHAT'S DOING

Ever wonder how a criminal can be picked up quickly — hundreds of miles from the scene of his crime? The police Teletype network helps make it possible. Set up and maintained by telephone people, the network links hundreds of law enforcement agencies in this and adjoining states.

When a crime is committed, police quickly send a description of the criminal over the network. This way, law enforcement officers are alerted to be on the lookout for the suspect.

Teletype service for police, as well as newspapers, business and the military, is just one of the many kinds of communications telephone people provide for this fast-moving world.

Moments count when a doctor is treating a child who has swallowed something he shouldn't have. And usually that something is of unusual composition. Today the physician can pick up a telephone, call the nearest poison control center and get immediate information on the treatment.

The centers are manned 24 hours a day by qualified technicians who answer emergency calls from doctors. They have extensive files on drugs, household products and other substances.

In the last few years hundreds of centers have been organized throughout the country. They are ready to help your doctor and hospital. It's the telephone that has made possible the poison control centers, one of the fastest growing new developments in the public health field.

There Ain't No Hiding Place

Things are busting out all over, as the teenagers have it.

The sports writers had hardly got over the shock of twenty Negro track athletes refusing to take the field in Houston as the result of a dispute over segregation than Archie Moore, ageless Archie as Abie Robinson would put it, announced that one thousand dollars of his purse would go to the "brave Freedom Riders" with another five hundred dollars each to the NAACP and the B'nai B'rith.

It was only a few weeks ago that Floyd Patterson made Miami promoters guarantee him that there would be no segregation at his championship fight and then gave the NAACP a check for ten thousand dollars.

What all this courage on the part of athletes adds up to is that the fight for freedom has seeped into every nook and cranny of Negro life. Athletes are just as conscious of the responsibilities they bear as labor leaders or lawyers.

This new spirit augers ill for the moderationists and the preachers of go-slow. This generation has caught hold of the truth that a civil right delayed is a civil right denied, and the fact that every compromise only encourages proponents of Jim Crow.

We hope that Atty. General Robert Kennedy read the Houston reports and heard Archie Moore on the TV or radio. If he did he will understand that there can be no cooling-off period in the Freedom Rides.

The sound of freedom is in the air.

We Don't Want Police Censorship

News that the Los Angeles Police Department tried to discourage the appearance of the Rev. Martin Luther King at the Sports Arena next Sunday is shocking.

The excuse for the Department's attitude was its fear that "trouble" might develop if he spoke.

In the first place, there never has been any difficulty of any kind in connection with the Rev. King's appearances in Los Angeles and there isn't the slightest reason to expect any at this late date.

Even more important is the fact that the Police Department doesn't sit as a board of censors. It has no business telling the people of Los Angeles who they can hear and who they can't hear. Its function is to keep the public peace.

There was a time when the Supreme Court was warned that "blood would run in the streets" if it interpreted the Constitution in a manner to extend civil rights. The Court's answer was short and to the point: it is the duty of the state to protect its people in the exercise of their rights and not to use the excuse of trouble to deny those rights.

The voice of the Rev. Martin Luther King is one of the most important in the nation. What he has to say will have a profound effect on the course of history. Los Angeles has a right to hear him and we are glad that he is coming here.

We hope that the time will never come when the Police Department will have any say-so about who can appear at lawful public meetings in Los Angeles.

An Important Right Vindicated

The right to petition for redress of grievances is an ancient one in our law. Boiled down, it means that the people have the right to complain about the conduct of their elected and appointed officials.

The Appellate Department of the Superior Court vindicated that right as far as the Police Department is concerned when it overturned the conviction of a man who was facing jail because he tried to protest against the manner in which he believed police had violated his rights.

The Department has long been using one of the most unfair gimmicks ever dreamed up to stifle protest. When a person went to the police to complain of police conduct he was invited to sign a paper under the promise that an investigation would be made.

An investigation would then be made by police officers. If they determined that the complaint was unfounded the signer of the complaint was hauled into court and prosecuted for filing a false arrest report.

The practical result was that none but the uninitiated would file a complaint. It was better to bear one wrong in silence than to invite another and even graver wrong.

The Appellate Department now says that the police will have to stop using their time tested booby trap. A citizen who merely petitions for a redress of his grievances can't be thrown in jail for his good faith attempt to vindicate his rights.

The decision is an important one and the community owes a vote of thanks to Atty. David Lee for his successful attempt to secure a right that should never have been denied.

Keep the Public Schools Open

The argument of the Department of Justice that the states must keep the public schools open is a sound one and in keeping with the changing times.

No state can expect its citizens to be able to participate in the modern functioning of civic and industrial life unless they have, at least, the equivalent of a high school education. As the Department observes, they can't be expected to vote intelligently unless they can get schooling.

Beyond that, the closing of public schools in order to preserve racial segregation is a punitive measure that seems to be directed at Negroes but which cuts as deeply against white citizens as it does against Negroes.

There is a kind of madness about public officials who try to meet the challenge of the space age by closing the public schools.

Sauce for Goose; Sauce for Gander

Sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander and we hope our eager beaver district attorney's office will be as quick to file "lynch" charges against the teenagers who precipitated trouble at Zuma beach as it was to lay those charges against those who caused difficulties at Griffith Park last Memorial Day.

We aren't holding any brief for any person who may have violated the law at Griffith Park but we do believe in equal protection of the law.

Equal protection means equal prosecution for identical offenses.

We Still Need Fair Housing Act

The Hawkins Fair Housing Bill got rough treatment from the Senate Committee on Governmental Efficiency and Economy. It was referred to an interim committee for study.

California has lost the opportunity to get in stride with such states as New York, Massachusetts, and a half dozen others including Oregon and Washington.

We'll just have to dig in and make fair housing an issue in next year's election. We can't afford to be without it.

--- L. A.'s Finest ---

By ST. MARK

Not too long ago another lie was propagated.
That the L.A.P.D. was worldly "top rated"
That through one man this came to be Overly publicized from sea to sea.
Who said it was so, can it be recalled?
Why are we malignantly enthralled
By a propaganda and philosophy we fought to refute?
Neitzcheism reigns without dispute.

The L.A.P.D. is no greater than the rest
And its man power utilization renders it less than best.
In its multi-million dollar building, floors one to eight,
Negrophobia lends pillars of hate.
Deployment of men is not on a manpower basis,
But rests on color of the varied races.
Policemen are not used as policemen per se
But as (Negro), (Mexican-Oriental-White) day by day.

How can it be ultimate in enforcing law
When segregation prevails in every wall?
Condoned by leaders, practiced by men,
Bigots for protectors, the L.A.P.D. trend.
Why! Why! The question is now! Let's ask,
"Why discriminate in a policeman's task?"
In a city reputed to be Negro-criminal prone,
There is no Negro cop-chameleon.

Why are sworn Negro personnel at 150 North L.A.
Restricted to uniform-first level bay?
And non-sworn Negroes pass through the door
But never work above the second floor.
No Negroes in Robbery, Burglary, Narcotics or Homicide.
No clerks, steno or secretaries above the second floor divide.
None in Personnel, Training, S.I.D. or Administrative Vice.
White only is made clear and held precise.

The man will say right away, "there are none qualified."
Reverse his hand and then show the other side,
Saying that the L.A.P.D. has the best men around.
One out of twenty-five; each man perfectly sound.
If this is so, then all policemen are relatively equal
And deployment by race is an arbitrary sequel,
Illogical, undemocratic and without scientific basis,
Nazism with appeasement rules the L.A. races.

How can this be in a system of check and balance?
Because the Commissioners, Mayor and City Council are without valence
To offer recourse or even attempt to regulate Against the unfair policies of the "Police Prelate."
How can it be in a metropolis of this size
That even the press will not criticize
This known and obvious prejudiced tone
. . . Perhaps the city does condone.
Cities of comparable size and the one metopolitan great
Have effective police forces and they totally integrate.
Would a dying man care about who saved his life,
The color of the hand that removed a knife?
The victim of a robbery would not show spite
If he were rescued by black and white.
A criminal should be justly arrested
By whomsoever can attest it.

On any given day, without effort you can find
At any given station, policemen on their behind
Simply because one is black and the other is white
Voids unified employment in a criminal fight.
They sit there, maybe all day, on a salary of tax
Leaving sometimes exposed to criminal attacks
In a "black & white" car they separately patrol.
Segregation, discrimination; a police control.

Observe the appeasement, the eyewash is plain,
No quote from Hollywood, Highland Park and a few elsewhere.
Why Negro motor officers only number two
And work far apart, just to fool you.
The boldness of supervisors when a Negro inquires
Why he isn't assigned by needs or desires.
The reply is swift and quite coldly intent:
"It's against the policy of our Department."

In University Division the captain declared it heaven
Compared to treatment in Division Seventy-Seven.
In a predominately Negro area, Seventy-Seven does preside
Disallowing Negro officers to work administratively inside.
Central Division gives Negroes "X" car assignments for tantamount
Till a lieutenant declared, "X cars really don't count."
No quote from Hollywood, Highland Park and a few elsewhere
Because, you see, Negro officers aren't even there.

The Accident Investigation Division will let you see
A Negro complement totalling three.
Two working nights and one through the day.
No partner at night means sit for pay.
At the Police Academy where the training is done,
Negroes on the staff again total none.
Often the class high via civil service exam
Exits dead last on an attitude sham.

Negro sergeants in uniform are found where?
Two in the jail will not cause despair.
Such obvious authority would mean "supervise"
And this is a faculty Negroes can't realize.
Juvenile Division marks "N", "M" and "W" on Juvenile cells.
Negroes work only Watts and Newton and gang details.
Discrimination prevails in each and every division
And the Police Building is A-1 in supervision.

Yes! Yes! The Man will certainly now scream and bark
"Negro lieutenants — B.O.D., Wilshire and Highland Park"
Appeasement! Appeasement! That's all it signifies,
Cover for discrimination quilted from lies!
The Man will state that white officers will resent and quit
But this is another lie to completely omit.
These excellent policemen, you've heard him so say?
Well, seventy-five per cent can't earn comparable pay.

The Grand Wizard will use statistics to regain a firm hold
But statistics only show what one wants told.
Disregard the zipatone, big charts and such.
Take a look around and snap the statistical crutch.
And if the "Protective League" intervenes in this fight for right,
Bear in mind that its rulers are all lily white;
The same that placed minority organizations in one prism
And then declared them all members of communism.

There are approximately three hundred Negro policemen in L.A. at best,
Each fed-up with malpractices and willing to attest
In an investigation that will guarantee survival
From the Wizard's practice of economic reprisal.
It's sad but true; some Negro policemen are afraid to be black
And lack the courage to rise up and fight back:
Alter these injustices and never allow the fight to retire
Less the L.A.P.D. revert like Department of Fire.

As a citizen and taxpayer are you concerned
Enough to reflect upon what you've learned?
That often your property is without police cover
Because they will not assign black and white brother
To surveil, apprehend and generally work together
Toward service and protection — the police endeavor?
Don't be disconcerned about a cancerous cause,
For one never knows the breadth of its claws.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, one of the great gentlemen of the U. S. Senate, recently sent me pages from the Congressional Record carrying an excerpt from the debate on Senate Concurrent Resolution 25, which Mr. Douglas sponsored along with Senators Javits of New York and Clark of Pennsylvania. The resolution was intended to put the Senate on record as supporting the President's action and various statements by Administration leaders regarding Alabama attacks on Freedom Riders.

I read the excerpt with great care, not because there was anything new in the very sound statements made by Sens. Douglas and Javits but because I was curious to note how their distinguished colleagues from Northern and Southern states would respond. What I expected to happen did happen. After Sens. Javits and Douglas has made their points in support of the resolution with cogency and eloquence, who should rise to defend the name of "our fair South?" Why none other than old Mushmouth Thurmond, senator from South Carolina and one of the more scrofulous defenders of racial segregation elected from a politically scrofulous area of the country.

QUAINT CUSTOM

And how did Brother Thurmond get the floor? Why, through the courtesy of Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, pride and joy of northern liberals and majority leader of the Senate. Under the quaint Senate custom, Mansfield "yielded" ten minutes to Thurmond so that the latter could read into the record a most curious assortment of irrelevant quotations from newspapers—quotations intended to "prove" that the South was just as law-abiding as New York City.

Just what this had to do with Alabama and Missippi race riots tolerated by local police, defended by the governors and participated in joyously by male and female hoodlums representing the white flower of the South—what this had to do with the subject of the resolution was not quite clear.

But this was not Sen. Mansfield's fault, for when the presiding officer declared that the Thurmond ten minutes were up, Twin Brother Mike helpfully "yielded" him another five. This gave the South Carolinian all the time he needed to run through his clippings on what he called "race riots" in New York, but which turned out to be cases of juvenile gangs battling, and unruly crowds being dispersed by the police. But Thurmond and Mansfield had achieved their joint purpose—to put a phony case for the South into the Congressional Record, so that it could be printed and mailed at Government expense to hundreds of thousands of voters throughout the country.

A 'GOOD' LIBERAL

When I mentioned this strategy to a friend who esteems himself as "a good liberal," he dissented strongly from my characterization of Sen. Mansfield. "Mansfield's a good liberal," he insisted, "and you oughtn't to make loose statements like that. Why should Mansfield be pro-South? He's from Montana!"

I didn't bother to tell him that Montana, with Wyoming, and the Dakotas, had been called the Deep South of the Northwest, because of the virulence of race prejudice out there. Nor did I cite the fact that Confederates who started running during and after the Civil War never stopped, in many cases, until they reached those northwest states where they could lynch and segregate Indians.

I didn't need to state this to make my point. I had only to cite the publicized racial record of Sen. Mansfield in several civil rights debates and votes. First, he was among the "liberal northern Democrats" who voted in 1957 to kill the civil rights bill by sending it back to the Judiciary Committee of Mississippi's Eastland.

'LIBERAL' SKUNK

Second, when this maneuver failed Mansfield voted for the jury trial amendment which would have cut out what few guts the bill had. Third, only a couple of weeks ago Mansfield had supported the South's effort to hang an amendment onto the bill for federal aid to education that would prevent any federal funds being withheld from states refusing to obey court orders to desegregate their schools.

I told my friend (I hope he is still my friend) that I didn't give two hoots in Hades what the Mansfield record might be in labor legislation, medical aid to the aged, and other so-called "liberal" legislation. I referred to a saying of my father: when a man hugs up to a skunk, he is going to smell like one. And a man who smells like a skunk is debarred from decent society.

Can there be a "liberal" skunk?

Jail 'Liberalists' In Bar Gun-Play

Four young men were arrested Saturday after sheriffs found revolver ammunition and black Maltese cross arm bands, emblems of the anti-Communist, anti-Negro "National Liberalist Party," in their car.

The four were jailed on a charge of firing two bullets into the front of a bar at 9434 Whittier blvd.

Loren Miller Says . . .

toughest hurdles in the education of Negro youngsters is that of imbuing them with the hope, and belief, that what they're doing and learning in school is important. They're pretty cynical sometimes and it is a rare student who has to go outside of his own family to cite an example of somebody who got an education and never had a chance to use it. I don't suppose that Principal Hamerman claims he's found the complete answer. The point is that he's working at it.

YOUTH LEADERSHIP

One of the Jefferson activities that intrigues me most is its Youth Leadership Camp, a yearly affair in which 50 of the students take time out at a camp to talk over their problems and try to find some answers. The principal doesn't handpick the participants. He lets the students select them. The participants learn a great deal that isn't found in books and come away understanding that responsibilities go hand in hand with opportunities.

Jefferson has a large quota of students who should go on to college but whose chances are more than slim without a little push. Principal Hamerman has a program for them, too, called the College Aid Fund. The idea is to provide modest assistance for those who can benefit from higher learning but who aren't quite able to get the scholarships offered to the geniuses and near-geniuses. I don't know how many youngsters have been helped but I do know the program has been effective. It could be more effective with a little more help. Frankly, it hasn't had enough boosters who are willing to put up a little cash.

LEND A HAND

As I was saying in the beginning, the Jefferson program isn't aimed at problem students; it's geared to help students solve their own problems. I'm sure that Mr. Hamerman would want me to insert a note here to the effect that one of his chief helpers has been Opal Jones of the Avalon Community Center and that both of them could use a lot more assistance.

Sometimes I think that if half the energy that goes into bewailing the shortcomings of today's youth went into trying to help them we could cut the problem down to size. I hope Mr. Hamerman can get a little help in what he's trying to do.

Reporting of South's Racism Angers Critic

dom Riders were in the wrong—that they are law breakers and disturbers of the peace.

"There isn't the faintest intimation that it might be the State of Mississippi which is in opposition to the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, the Sixth Article of the Constitution, a score of Supreme Court decisions, the rules of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the Declaration of Independence and the Charter of the United Nations.

"The Freedom Riders are always referred to by the same source as so-called Freedom Riders. When we called to protest we were given the explanation that the term 'so-called' is used merely to replace quotation marks—that it represents an attempt at fair and objective reporting. And yet any fair-minded person with an IQ of 60 knows that the term 'so-called' is used in a derisive manner, as the youngsters say to 'rank' someone.

'EMOTIONAL'

"And when one calls to state his case he is accused of being 'emotional and subjective.' This is as though the racists were really the presenters of cool, dispassionate reporting. The truth is that racism cannot be offered as such after the horrible Eichmann business. Men of such mind have no choice but to take refuge behind a kind of spurious objectivity.

"Racism is dynamite. It can erupt in irrational ways none of us want. The time is long past overdue for honest presentation in this area. Most Americans are decent people. It is only a handful that besmirches our good name in the world. It is clearly the responsibility of men of goodwill to meet the problem of racial prejudice courageously and humanely to the end that rational, peaceful, lawful solutions may be found."

Henri O'Bryant Enlists Lay Group Aid in Honoring Community Fathers

Church uniform manufacturer, Henri O'Bryant, Jr., recently issued a call to all Lay groups to unite in making Fathers Day, June 18, a day of honor. "Giving honor to Father will prolong our days on earth and will glorify our heavenly Father who commands us to do these things," O'Bryant said.

As field director for Lay work throughout Los Angeles County, O'Bryant urged all lay groups to select a Father of the Year from their respective churches and give him special prayerful honors at the 11 a.m. church services on Fathers' Day.

Responding to the request were usher boards throughout the city which are making special preparations to greet fathers at all church services Sunday, June 18.

First to unite behind O'Bryant's efforts were:

Wattie F. Moore, district president of the Usher Board Union, and Mrs. Mary Alice Gordon, president of the Usher Board Union of California. Both leaders concurred in the view that "giving honor to Father on his day is in keeping with the Biblical passage "honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days will be long upon the earth!"

MARY GORDON WATTIE MOORE

SEEK 100 FATHERS

Many usher boards will single out the oldest male member of the church. Some will select fathers with the largest families, while others are choosing their pastors or some father of the church who has made a notable contribution to the spiritual growth of the community.

Pilgrim Baptist Church, at 950 E. 45th street, is seeking 100 fathers to attend its 11 a.m. service. Each will be honored and given a boutonniere from the Pilgrim Laymen's group, headed by Redmon Sumlur.

At Morning Star Baptist Church, some 300 fathers are expected to hear the Rev. P. J. Ellis, pastor and president of the Baptist Ministers Union, deliver a special Fathers' Day message.

Dear Mr. Robinson:

I am writing you in regard to your article on Ron Lawson. I feel you have a responsibility to your readers to print facts not rumors. I have followed athletics for a good many years and it's hard to believe a school such as UCLA which has helped such Negro athletes as John Moore, Morris Taft, Willie Naulls, Walt Torrance, Dick Banton and Cliff Brandon would all of a sudden demand Lawson's withdrawal. In your article you mention Lawson's friends say he didn't do anything wrong, why don't you tell us who his friends are supposed to be? You also say it was reported that Lawson said he was forced to withdraw. Did you talk to him or take this from some other paper such as the L.A. Mirror?

This Robert Green of the fraternity league says Lawson never missed a game or practice and played his heart out. I followed the fraternity games and he missed the first game of the series. Also I saw him smoking before and at half-time and after the playoff game.

Is that playing your heart out?

Your story of how he was talked to sounds like the L.A. Mirror, which is known for distortion of facts.

All I can say is when the full story is out on Ron Lawson's involvement in the basketball scandal all I hope is you are man enough to write a retraction about Lawson being victimized by a school that has helped so many of our people, but apparently you have a short memory.

—DWIGHT GREEN

P.S. Did you bother to call the school to get their side of it?

ED: NOTE: It's obvious Mr. Green didn't think much of our reporting of the Ron Lawson story and his letter seems to reflect a little bitterness and personal dislike for Mr. Lawson. So don't look for his vote to do away with the Gas Chamber in College Sports. But in all fairness to my feeble memory, we can trace back to the years when a couple of lads by the name of Woody Strode and Kenny Washington put UCLA on the football map; Bill Lacefield, track and basketball; Jackie Robinson, football, basketball and track and baseball; Jimmy LaVal, track; Bob Mike, football; Don Barksdale, Dave Minor, basketball. Some more — Henry Thompson, football; Dave Williams, Jim Wynn, Ted Bartlett.

We don't think UCLA or you should be ashamed of Lawson's misdeeds. It is also safe to say that because Lawson happen's to be a Negro, not all Negro athletes will suffer. Negro athletes have had some good breaks at UCLA, but on the other hand UCLA owes them something, too, we think.

Moore to Enter Milk Business

Archie Moore's easy victory over Italy's Giulio Rinaldi marked the ninth time he has successfully defended his world light heavyweight championship. He was so confident of winning, according to his personal photographer, William Lanier, that he didn't insist on a rematch clause.

Moore, who is seldom lost for words, told a vast national TV audience that he would give the NAACP $500 for a Life Membership from the purse, $1,000 to the San Diego Blind Foundation and another $500 to a San Diego charity.

He also asked the Herald and Express columnist Bud Furillo to advise Mrs. Opal Jones, executive director of the Avalon Community Center, to have 20 kids picked out for summer camp. He will take them to his Salt Mine Training Camp in the Ramona mountains.

Moore is considering plans for a European tour and possibly a title bout at Stockholm against Lennart Risberg and a non-title match with former heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson. These bouts Moore hopes will lead him to a second shot at Floyd Patterson's title. He is due in San Diego this week for a month's stay before heading for Europe.

Light-heavyweight champion, Archie Moore, the aging battler who seems to have an exclusive patent on adding or shedding pounds at will, has signed a 25-year pact to enter the milk and dairy business in California, it was disclosed here.

The veteran ring champion will market milk in Los Angeles, beginning Aug. 1, under a new label, known as "Archie Moore's Milk." Present plans call for immediate packaging of milk in quart and half-gallon sizes with later expansion to include ice cream and a complete line of dairy products.

The exclusive contract was negotiated by the marketing-merchandising-publicity firm of Fortson, Tubbs, Clayton & Harper Company, Inc., which will secure placement of the new label in Los Angeles stores. Manufacturing for the new company will be done at the $3 million plant of Beverly Franilla Dairies in Los Angeles.

Archie's decision to venture into the dairy business might have been prompted by his own family's high consumption of milk. His San Diego milk bill is always in excess of $100 monthly, and Archie once laughed: "My three children alone can drink up that much milk."

Significantly, too, he might be letting the public in at least on his secret magic for controlling weight, for it is known that his reducing diet does contain milk—eight ounces of buttermilk each meal.

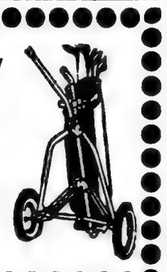
Compton Dons Drop 7-6 Tilt

The Compton Dons and the Angles Scouts hook up in an important game this Sunday afternoon at Creccy Park. The winner of this game will take over undisputed leadership in the Pioneer League.

Both squads are tied with 4 wins and 1 loss apiece and both are strong contenders for the district championship and a crack at the National Championship.

Last Sunday the Dons dropped their first game in five starts when they played Rosemead. Ezell Singleton, the great UCLA star, drilled a 1-on homer in the 7th inning to tie the game at 6-all.

With two outs, two strikes on a Rosemead batter, a Rosemead base runner stole home for the winning run to give them a thrilling 7 to 6 victory. In that game Singleton took over at the catcher position and caught a beautiful game. Since joining the club Singleton has played just about every position on the diamond, including pitching.



To Open Grid Camp

The Green Bay Packers will open training camp at St. Norbert College in De Pere, on July 17.

'Tee Time' — WITH — Maggie Hathaway

California Eagle Golf Editor

There is a very interesting intergrated group of organized golfers in Gardena on 190th street. That group is promoting a 9 hole course known as the Golf Rancho.

The course professional is Ji mMcBean a very interesting and militant man. He is militant because he had the courage to include a Negro in his organization and that Negro is Gene Hinds. Gene holds the office of Tournament Chairman in this group.

We met this interesting group of business men last week at Western avenue. They came in the sandwich shop celebrating the miracle in golf (a hole-in-one) Gene Hinds had made a hole-in-one on the Western Ave. 152yd. number 10 hole with a 9 iron.

While Gene was buying drinks for every one he asked if there had been any progress in integration at Western avenue. We were happy to inform him that the Western avenue Women's and Men's golf clubs had integrated. In fact it was a relief to show this Gardena group our new parking lot at Western which was badly needed. This golf course is having its "face lifted in more ways than one, especially in the club house.

There is a new manager in the club house (H. C. Siler) that we had the pleasure of meeting when the Western Avenue Women were fighting to intergrate the Caucasian clubs at Western Avenue Siler was appointed to "get the women to-gether" by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn (who did every thing in his power to end segregation at this course) but after several attempts Silas had to give up. Since he has been manager there is a "family and togetherness" atmosphere in the club house, (especially the bar where one could witness a battle between the races on any cloudy day.) We notice that Mr. Siler is thoughtful enough to even send his guest golfers an occasional drink "on the house." (In the past the only thing that had happened "on the house" at Western was segregation in any form.)

We were sorry to inform our inquiring visitors that the Pro-Shop was still segregated. This is a tragedy (seventy-five percent of the paying customers at Western are Negroes) and the only person responsible for this situations is Earl Martin, course professional.

Earl intergrated his locker rooms and showers after receiving a request from the county. He also donated the Western Avenue (Negro Women) several trophys when they were made the "county club" by Supr. Hahn. They in turn honored Earl Martin with a banquet. This was 5 years ago.

Since then, every year, every month, every week, we have reminded Earl that he promised to hire a Negro to work in his pro-shop. (He has hired at least 7 men in the past few years. His first excuse was that he could not find a Negro pro (or amateur) with the qualifications and asked us to recommend several.

To-date we have recommended, "Bill Spiller, Steve Crain, Henry Barbin, Chas Sifford, Teddy Rhodes, Willie Jefferson, Joe Roach and many others. We even sent Earl the light, blue-eyed Joe West (thinking maybe he just did not like the "darker types") still Earl gave us the same excuse "He just does not think that these men are qualified." If any one else can think of any new ideas that we can present to Earl will you please meet us any Wednesday in Earls office. Maybe we have been using the "wrong approach."

Angels Face Top Clubs In 15-Game Home Stand

An exciting two-week home stand featuring the Los Angeles Angels against five of the top clubs and biggest stars in the American League will open at Wrigley Field on Tuesday, night, June 20th, when the Angels open the 15-game stand against the Boston Red Sox.

All ladies will be admitted free Thursday, if accompanied by an escort buying a reserved seat.

Links Introduce Debutantes

By BARBARA O'NEIL

Twenty-eight poised and attractive young ladies, with their mothers, were introduced by the sponsoring Links as debutantes for 1961 last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Cecil Murrell, president of the Los Angeles Links Chapter.

The Links will present their 11th Cotillion on Nov. 18. Each year the Links strive to present those young ladies whom they feel are the "cream of the crop" socially, and they appear to have chosen well.

The young ladies themselves are looking forward to the affair for varied reasons, but they all agree that it will be an important milestone in their young lives. Mrs. Ouida Williams, chairman of the Cotillion, and the members of her committee are working hard to be sure that the Cotillion lives up to the expectation of each girl.

I'm a Trave'ling Man: In Indianapolis, Dr. Fernie King asks to be remembered to Dr. Ennis. Mary and Grant Hawkins, whose showplace home near Butler U. is our base, remain the town's busiest and most popular couple; Grant is that town's most prominent Negro, I'd say, being the first and only Negro who has been a Board of Education Commissioner and a business tycoon as well.

Ernestine and Joel McCree, whose glowing jewel box of a home is our other base, have friends galore along the West coast; one whose name I now recall is Harriet Gillespie what's-her-new-name, whom I haven't seen in a decade. Ernestine is head of the art department at Attucks High School and Joel is a court bailiff; travelwise, their first love is Mexico. Ex-Indianapolisans, living now in LA, will be delighted to learn that town is making tremendous leaps and bound forward in community relations.

Ohio Odyssey: All roads lead to Central State College's Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Woolfolk, youthful, attractive, personable and in love with each other (Norma is sister to Florence Atkinson); they and their sons will be in LA next summer to visit the Atkinsons. Arletta Fry Johnson especially wanted to send "hi-there" to Hilda and Howard Allen, Della and Paul Williams, Judge Griffith, many others.

COLLEGE AID PROGRAM AT JEFF. AWARDS FIFTEEN SCHOLARSHIPS

Fifteen students from Jefferson High will enter their favorite junior colleges next fall, thanks to a scholarship policy instituted by the school's principal.

Since Sam Hamerman came to the popular eastside senior high school 10 years ago, his idea has been to stress the need and provide the opportunity for more of his students to continue their education.

The trend among this year's scholarship winners ranges from UCLA to East L. A. College, L. A. State and Harbor.

Recognizing the fact that this calls for money, Mr. Hamerman enlisted the service of Mrs. Opal Jones, executive director of Avalon Community Center, to help set up a College Aid Program. The program was established to encourage average students to go on to junior college by giving them assistance from funds donated by community groups in the form of $50 and $100 scholarships. Students who fail to maintain a "C" average are not allowed further help from the program. However, if a student maintains his average and runs into financial trouble he can request additional help by presenting a record of his grades.

Since the College Aid Program was initiated it has helped some 60 students.

Mr. Hamerman revealed that three students attending college on a College Aid Scholarship had just received word from their colleges that they were declared winners of college scholarships. This indicates how valuable Mr. Hamerman's program is because without that program those three students might never have had the chance to enter college.

So, if your club or organization is planning to make a donation, might we suggest the College Ail Program of Jefferson High School (See editorial, Page 4.)

COLLEGE AID PROGRAM—Through Jefferson High School's College Aid Program these young graduates will attend school next fall. They will be headed for UCLA, USC, Harbor, L.A. State, East L.A. College and City College. Scholarship winners are front from left: Lois Lawrence, $100 from Business and Professional Women's Association; Martha Irons, $100 from Golden State Insurance Co.; Sentelle Rucker, $50 from Girl's League; and Jimmy Garrett, $75 from Alpha Phi Alpha. Second row: Koji Morimoto, $50 from Civic Meat Co.; James McGlothan, $50 from Alumni Association; Wayman Walker, $50 from Avalon Community Center.

EASTERN STARS PLAN EVENT — Committee members above are busily engaged in preparation for the gala commemorative day in honor of Brother Albert A. Record, to be held on Sunday, June 25, 5 p.m. until 7 p.m., at 1480 W. Jefferson. He will be honored by the members of Rose of Sharon No. 46, Order of the Eastern Stars, and Civic Center Masonic Lodge No. 52, F&AM, Prince Hall Adoption for his philanthropic, civic and fraternal contributions. Seated from left: Mignon Braxton, co-chairman; Lindsey C. Smith, chairman; Juanita Watts, Zadie Breckenridge, Lula Bridge, Marjorie Bruce, Florence Hunt and Lois V. Jones. Standing: Henrietta Kearney, worthy matron, and Nathaniel Watts, associate patron. (Johnson)

250 Jefferson Seniors Will Receive Diplomas Fri.

AT HOME — Chuckie Davis returned to city after completing a year at Morehouse College in Atlanta. He is the second son of Mrs. Elois Davis and was an outstanding member of the colleges Debating Team. He is preparing for a nine-year study in Paris, France. He leaves for New York Aug. 10.

Superior Court Judge Bernard S. Jefferson will confer diplomas on some 250 graduating seniors of Thomas Jefferson High School Friday afternoon at the 5 o'clock Commencement Exercises to be held on Jefferson's Fulton Field.

Parents, relatives, faculty and friends will witness this memorable occasion when the members of the graduating class, the Juvenes Audaces, write "finis" to their high school careers.

Graduation speakers will be Earl Davis, Nellie Harris, Martha Irons, Frederic Lee and James McGlothan.

Members of this class elected to the Ephebian Society are Booker Washington, student body president; Jacqueline Collier, Sentelle Rucker, Nellie Harris, Gwen Johnson and George Scott.

The invocation will be given by Rev. Mance Jackson, a graduate of Jefferson High School, and music will be furnished by the Senior Choraliers and the Jefferson High School Band.

Delta Pyramids Schedule Dance

The Delta Pyramids will sponsor an invitational semi-formal dance at the Zenda Ballroom on June 30 from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.

The theme of the dance will be "Stairway to the Stars," and the Junior Rodgers Band will play.

Fans of Gaiety Breakfast Set

Among the many wonderful talents of the members of the Fans of Gaiety Club are their culinary arts, which accounts for the fact that their annual breakfasts have always been a big hit with the community and their friends.

On Sunday, June 18, from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. they have scheduled their annual breakfast at 1323 W. 40th place in the home of Ruth Watson and for $1 you won't find a better breakfast in town.

The club completed plans for its annual affair at a regular meeting held in the cozy home of Mary Ann Bayliss. Attending members agreed it was one of the nicest meetings of the club year.

SUMMER VACATION TIME

Well, this has been a week of many comings and goings: like the return from a California vacation for lovely Laura Prescott, the return to Detroit of model Eva Pride and her aunt, Della, the ending of her New York vacation and attendance of a Beautician's convention, by Bermuda's Mrs. Elleen Robinson, the arrival by train of young Miss Ruth Coleman, from the Emma Willard School for Girls in Troy, N.Y., her overnight stay with my aunt, DoDo, and then boarding a jet for San Francisco and her summer vacation with her family, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. RINKYDINKS SCORE

The Rinkeydinks third affair at the Riviera Terrace Ballroom was most successful, with their "Jump-Up Carnival Theme," quite outstanding, as the show was most effective, starting with Al "Pee Wee" Cobbs and the orchestra, providing the dance and show music, Leroy Myers, M.C. and dancer, kindly filling in for me to start the show, Mantan Moreland, playing the role of an unmoved Carnival King, the fine dancing of the Lester Wilson group, with drums and native rhythms, the dancing and Calypso antics of the girls of the Rinkydinks, with

Among the performers who made the scene and left their plates clean were: Dizzy Gillespie and Ray Charles' bands; Norma Miller's group, who flew in from the Big Apple for this great date prior to their opening at the Cocoanut Grove in the Ambassador Hotel; Tiron Wilson; Norma Washington; Frances Nealey; Dave Newton; 'Tangerine' and Julius 'Stuff' Crouch. Errol Garner With Gregory At Crescendo

By MARY THOMPSON

Errol Garner, fascinated fans and admirers Thursday night, July 8, at the Crescendo, 8572 Sunset Boulevard, and charmed a celebrity-filled opening night audience with the grandeur of his genius.

ACCOMPLISHED ARTIST

The gentle Garner piano mirrors many moods and expresses the ecstacy of love and romance. Except for occasional warm response to resounding applause, Garner concentrated on his art and thrilled onlookers with Garner versions of "When Your Lover Has Gone," "It Was Just One of Those Things," "My Funny Valentine," "Sweet and Lovely," "The Lady Is A Tramp," and Garner-written "Misty."

Living Room Most Hospitable Club

TOAST WITH THE HOST A MOST — Celebrating her first day on earth day, Nadine Coles, in from her Lake Elsinore home, drinks a champagne toast with owners of The Living Room, Blanche, left, and Claude Duke, center, along with well wisher, Peggy Searcy. Unique birthday remembrances at this popular location, just south of Adams on Crenshaw Boulevard, have already made it one of the most widely discussed places of enjoyment.

Club Opening Long Awaited By Customers

By MARY THOMPSON

Following a gala three day grand opening celebration, Claude and Blanche Duke's "Living Room Lounge" is off to a better than running start. The opening, which adhered to all of the customary giving of flowers to the ladies and souvenirs to the gentlemen, suitably launched L.A.'s newest sip parlor. Possibly getting things on the road in a little more grand manner than usual were the stemmed Cymbidium Orchids (clipped by the bud per customer) and the ball point pens that delighted the recipients.

At regular intervals, an assortment of delectable hors 'd 'ouerves prepared by the Fawn Caterers, were wheeled through the establishment on the glass topped tea cart and served the customers by charming hostess Jerri Harvey.

MASTER MIXOLOGISTS

Manager - mixologist Webster Washington and his assistant, Marsden Thompson, with "Spaghetti" Zapata, handled all of the dispensing chores with ease.

Beginning Wednesday, June 21st, Ladies Night will become a feature of the "Living Room." This will enable the little woman to filch enough from the family budget to have her own evening among the bright lights and at depression prices. This feature will start at the evening hour of 6.

Wini Orr is publicity and public relations woman for the "Living Room," 2636 Crenshaw Boulevard, where parking is no problem in the rear.

'Chazz' Crawford

Television actor WILLIE BRYANT, former Mayor of Harlem, peeled off 50 pounds. Doctor's orders! . . . Willie also shed his agent in favor of a new one . . . MARL YOUNG may make his debut as a high level comic. He would do patter along with his piano stylings . . .

JAMES EDWARDS may go to Africa for a film role. Part is too irresistible to reject . . . ARCHIE MOORE reportedly will purchase the film rights to a fictional story called "The Champ" . . .

JOE ADAMS who recently completed a 33 day stint as Maestro-of-Ceremonies with RAY CHARLES may go to Europe with Mr. Soul. Incidentally, Joe is also being nudged for a moom pickcha role on the continent! . . . Winsome JOY ANDERSON is the new decorative and efficient legal secretary toiling for Atty. AUDREY JONES! . . .

MITTIE LAWRENCE was called back for additional film work on "POCKETFUL OF MIRACLES" at Paramount, as Producer FRANK CAPRA was just that pleased with her recent assignment . . . The living is easy at the LIVING ROOM where our gal pal WINI ORR is doing a swelluva promotion job! . . . TRELLIS YANCEY is one of the decorative waitresses there!

Actor JIMMY PAYNE arrived back in town from Gotham with a new tomato red Lancer! . . . MAGGIE HATHAWAY'S new burst of energy is in favor of the NAACP membership drive. Nice going, gal! . . . NAT COLE signed a new 10-year contract with CAPITOL. He's been with the label since 1943 . . .

Did RAFAEL CAMPOS make a reconciliation try with QUEEN DINAH??? . . . COUNT BASIE & BAND have been set to play for the Artists & Models ball at the Palladium Oct. 23! . . . IKE JONES will produce "The NAT KING COLE SHOW" at the Greek Aug. 28. And there's a bit of speculation as to why Nat has forsaken the Hollywood Bowl in favor of the Greek Theater this year . . . We are wondering if DORIS DAY ever sent her Pop and the new Missus a congratulatory wire . . .

We didn't catch his opening, but by the time this article reaches the newsstands, we will have checked out Negro comic sensation DICK GREGORY, paired with ERROL GARNER at the Crescendo . . . But we had a really BIG night at the opening of the satirical show "2nd City" at the Ivar. If you check this, prepare to be fractured with laughter. It's a regular riot! To make things even more swimming, we were beckoned to come backstage afterwards for a "little pawtee" in the cocktail lounge that is directly behind the theater. The cast of seven invaded our booth somewhere in the middle of the jubilee and kept us in stitches narrating bits of business they hadn't included in the revue. We finally said goodbye to STEVE ALLEN,

PEGGY CASS (this chick really swings) and the other customers as well as that wild cast and made our way home wearily to a righteous couch . . .

Anl oh yeah, like we had a swinging chat with columnist MIKE CONNOLY of the Hollywood Reporter who is a real down guy who kept taking notes during the conversation. Hey Michael, what's with the notes, huh? . . . Speaking of Mike, he recently itemed in his pillar that ETHEL WATERS has dropped 80 pounds, with 50 more to go and has signed to do "Member of the Wedding" in Monterey. That's welcome news!

Looking back on that RAFAEL CAMPOS reconciliation try with DINAH item, some columnist mentioned that Rafael had just returned from NY and Washington. Hope you won't fail to see the humor in that bit! . . .

That was SANDRA SUNDY from WASHINGTON Dee Cee who took marital vows Saturday at the Sojourner Truth Home with JOAN DOUGLAS' son. We're real sorry we couldn't make it. Joan, who was the former prexy of the BVA's, called to invite us, and so hey Joan, if you will give us another call with all the info, we will be glad to inform our readers as to how the nuptial affair went off. Okay? . . . And GENEVA and EDWARD KELLY celebrated their 7th Anniversary last week with more than a hundred well wishers! . . . And our executive editor Gracie just yelled "Cut" the same way they do in the movies, so we'll halt right here and get back to you next week. Okay?

ROYAL FILM FAN

They met during his visit here in April at a party at Photog Wally Seawell's home (4/21) at which time he confided to Dorothy that he had run "Carmen Jones" seven times at the palace for himself and friends, and has made a request for a print of "Porgy and Bess."

DICK GREGORY UNIQUE

Dick Gregory, currently sharing billing at the Crescendo features comedy geared for moderns and his brand is sensational and superb. Unique in his field, Mr. Gregory cleverly quips on controversial subjects from race-relations to American foreign policy. The man is wise, witty and well-read; the comedy is clever, hilarious and direct. The Crescendo, one of the most popular Strip niteries, is featuring Gregory in his first West Coast appearance.

Eulogy for Mother Gives Solace to Daughter, Family

Mrs. G. Yvonne Hamilton Session uses this opportunity to thank the many friends of the family for the kindnesses and expressions of sympathy at the time of the death of her mother, Gertrude Mitchell Hamilton, who died last May 31 in her home at 1342 E. 43rd Street.

Mrs. Hamilton was the widow of Samuel Hamilton who worked for many years for the California Eagle. At the time of his death in May, 1956, he was employed by the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were married in 1924 and enjoyed more than 30 years of married life and the romance which began in their college days at Clark University in Atlanta continued until Mr. Hamilton died. To this union was born one daughter, Yvonne.

Abide With Me

Mrs. Hamilton received her early training in the grade and high school division of Wiley and Bishop College of Marshall, Tex. She was a progressive woman and after her marriage she opened a children's clothing store on Central Avenue. She closed this business and opened a contracting firm in the garment industry, which she operated until about three years ago. Shortly after the death of her husband she retired.

Her early life was spent in teaching in the Louisiana school system. When her parents died she resigned to care for her minor sisters and brother.

An ardent community worker she joined the Congregational church but later transferred her membership to the AME Zion church. She was never too sick to go to church or work with young people whom she loved. She could never say "no" when asked to use her talent for singing "Abide With Me." She attended church on May 28.

Large Family

Her family believe she may be singing it in the Holy City even now. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wm. Coleman Jr. at the Second AME Zion church on June 2, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Hamilton is survived in addition to her daughter by 5 sisters, 2 brothers, nieces and nephews. Her sister, Mrs. Jessie O. Thomas of Atlanta, came west for the funeral. Other sisters are: Mrs. Mable Parrott of New York City; Mrs. Lucille Mitchell of Los Angeles; Ruby Kelly of Marshall, Texas; Mrs. Louis Ewing of Newark, N. J.; and brothers: Nelson Mitchell, of Tougoloo, Miss., and Cyrus Mitchell of Los Angeles.

tin on drums and Buddy Catlett on bass—and they make with refreshing soul sounds!

BUZZING — Since that school teacher-musician packed his horn and went east, wifie engaged a Beverly Hills broker to sell her plush pad and got such a bad deal that she is now renting a Leimert apt., the big flashy caddy is gone, also most of her phony friends—it hasn't been a year since he left, and he's doing great with a new band!

ASA T. SPAULDING — President of North Carolina Mutual Insurance Company will be greeting guests at the new West Coast branch office on Sunday, June 18, at 1716 Santa Barbara when the company will hold open house!

POLYTRIX — Since some 20 names are on record for the Tenth District Council seat, mostly Negroes, write to Council members to prevent them from coming up with the excuse that because of the large number of Negroes seeking the appointment they couldn't decide which one to choose so that the likes of Don Allen get the nod. Do this now — submit two names — Tom Bradley and Eddie Atkinson. This is a job for that strong C.D.C. district director who worked with both of them in the 10th!

CULTURE — We watched a group of serious minded young women attempt to lure 1000 of their friends to an art show one Sunday afternoon. The idea was to raise $1,500 for Jefferson High's College Aid Project. Only a handful showed; reason was it was held on the Eastside!

Last Rites Held

Funeral services for Esther Espree, of 865 E. 55th street, was held at 10 a.m. at the New Life Baptist Church, 4020 Paloma street, on Wednesday. Rev. Ellis Ross was in charge of the services. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery was under the direction of Angeles Funeral Home.

Mrs. Espree died at a local hospital on Saturday after complications following surgery. She is survived by one son, Elmo Espree and a sister, Helen Davis, a well known interior decorator and several nieces and nephews.

Preface

AFRICA'S MARCH into the sunlight of freedom is part of the ferment of our times. It foreshadows a new era for the benighted Negro race and may yet prove a gale that would sweep the debris of racial injustice and intolerance into the sea.

TONE presents this historic march in its broad and multifarious compass. The eminent Africanist and social anthropologist, Professor St. Clair Drake details a historical and social background to this great revolution with an insight and piquancy that has rarely been equalled. Congressman Barrett O'Hara of the House Committee on Africa, in what is a concurring sentiment, compares the birth of the United States with that of the newly independent African states and prophesises promise for the future.

Against these American views is the voice of the new Africa—a voice which in all its divergences bespeaks a commonality of purpose, to "revive the stature of man." While it urges social and spiritual improvement for the African it is naked in its moral virility in a world that has grown too wise for morality. The various African leaders chosen represent as wide a diversity of views and problems as possible. Yet the new Africa is more than a political and economic entity. The cultural facet is represented by her music, art, sculpture and literature. In this, Ben Enwowu, Fela Sowande, Leopold Senghor and David Diop are exemplary.

TONE hopes that, by its presentation of Africa, readers would see Africa and her problems as the Africans see it and that by this approach understanding would further be enhanced.

If we have succeeded in this attempt, then the credit in large measure is due to TONE's distinguished foreign editor, young (28) Nigeria-born Dr. Babatunde Williams, assistant professor of government and economics at Northern Illinois University and secretary of the African Students Union of the Americas. ■

Adventures in African History

Who was Chaka?

Chaka was one of the greatest Zulu chiefs. He lived during the 18th century and led his warriors in conquests and rappage over what is now South Africa. So great was his discipline over the Zulus that this fearsome ruler, during his reign, fought and defeated the Boers many times. He revolutionized war in South Africa, invented the Asagai (the short stabbing spear) and developed a new military formation, the Pincer movement, which the Germans perfected during World War II. Chaka, like Dinga Moselikatze and other great Zulu warriors, believed in selective breeding. Through this, the Zulus became the most warlike and feared tribes of Africa.

Who was Gabriel Tarik?

Gabriel Tarik was an African Moslem general who, after the rise of Islam made an onslaught against Spain. He conquered Gibraltar, which incidentally, is a corruption of his name.

Do you regard the ruins of Zimbabwe at Monomopata (Southern Rhodesia) as one of the wonders of the world?

Certainly, yes. The ruins of Zimbabwe are one of the most spectacular ancient architectural feats. These magnificent structures, which consist of several monuments and statues, attests to the genius of its creators and compare in their splendor with the Sphinx and the Pyramids of Egypt. Although an attempt was first made to credit this great feat to Arabs or some other groups, it has been definitely established that it was erected by one of the Negro groups in South Africa.

Is it true that the Ethiopians once ruled Egypt?

Yes. The Ethiopians conquered Egypt and maintained its reign over her for a long period. The Ethiopian empire which emerged covered a considerable part of what was then known as Numibia.

Is it true that there were great universities in Africa before many of the oldest European universities?

Yes. The University of Sankore in Timbuktu (Mali), and Al-Azhair University in Egypt were among the oldest in the world. These centers of Islamic learning and law predated some of the oldest European universities such as Oxford, Paduah, Cambridge, and Bologna, which began in the middle of the Middle Ages.

The Greek and the other ancient peoples spoke of the great continent, the Lost Atlantis. What relationship had this to Africa?

According to some scholars, particularly the German, Leo Frobenius, Yorubaland (Western Nigeria) was possibly the lost Atlantis.

What were the names of the great African medieval empires?

The great African medieval empires were located in what is now known as Sudan—upper West Africa from Morocco to Northern Nigeria on the fringe of the Sanara Desert. The empires of Mali, Ghana, Songhai, Goa and others flourished and were resplendent in administrative and scientific achievements. These were ruled by some very powerful rulers; among these, Asikia the Great and Mansa Musa were most noted. ■

"To Revive The Stature Of Man"

"... The challenge of Nigeria as a free State in twentieth century Africa is the need to revive the stature of man in Africa and restore the dignity of man in the world. Nigerians believe passionately in the fundamental human rights. We regard all races of the human family as equal. Under no circumstance shall we accept the idea that the black race is inferior to any other race. No matter where this spurious doctrine may prevail, it may be in Lodwar or Sharpville or Decatur, we shall never admit that we are an inferior race, because if we accept the Christian or Muslim doctrine that God is perfect and that man was made in the image of God, then it would be sacrilegious, if not heretical, to believe that we are an inferior race...

We cannot concede that it is in our national interest to fraternise with such nations which practise race prejudice and we must not acquiesce in such an outrageous insult on the black race. In fact, we must regard it as a mark of disrespect and an unfriendly act if any country with whom we have friendly relations indulges in race prejudice in any shape or form, no matter how it may be legally cloaked...

We in Nigeria are non-plussed and we cannot understand why many member-States in the United Nations look with disfavour at the idea of promulgating an international convention on human rights, but are not prepared to sign a binding international convention much more to ratify it in their Parliaments?...

If respect for the rule of law and individual freedom must be used as a yardstick to gauge the progress of civilisation among nations, then the world should be in position to appreciate why we in Nigeria, have refused to inherit the prejudices of older European nations by making the basis of our foreign policy, the principle of non-alignment with any power bloc ...

As members of a mal-treated race, it would be the height of folly for us to hob-nob with those who regard the members of our race as inferior. As firm believers in the principle of the brotherhood of man, we would be foolish to pretend that we are happy when the rights of our fellow human beings are wantonly trampled upon by by irresponsible rulers and government agencies of undemocratic countries...

Having passed through the crucible of political bondage in the furnace of colonial tutelage, how can any reasonable world statesman expect Nigerians to associate in an alliance of mutual security with countries which still regard Africa as a colonial pasture fit for safaris and cattle-grazing and not for the enjoyment of basic human rights...

Let us bind the nation's wound and let us heal the breaches of the past so that in forging our nation there shall emerge on this continent a hate-free, fear-free and greed-free people, who shall be in the vanguard of a world task force, whose assignment is not only to revive the stature of man in Africa, but to restore the dignity of man in the world..."

"The Human Pretext Our Only Pretext

"... When an African people resolves to act as Africans, taking into account Africa's own circumstances and means, in order to satisfy purely African aspirations, they are sometimes viewed with astonishment and even with suspicion...

But Africans should not delude themselves. An enormous effort will be required of them if they are to overcome discrimination.

While humanity moves toward a unified, universal society, enriched by the sum of all human endeavors, Africa offers the spectacle of a land in chains, deprived of its most basic rights and robbed of its very 'raison d'etre'...

It was a little more than a century ago that Abraham Lincoln made his famous anti-slave speech, a speech which clearly and implicitly condemned the colonial conception...

In today's world, what universal voice will take up Lincoln's theme and affirm that 'a world divided against itself in which one part is enslaved and the other part is free, cannot stand and cannot long endure'?...

But instead of a 20th century Lincoln, what do we have? We have a world in which many complicated theories and false pretexts are brought forward to try to make of an entire continent, a continent of proletarians. Impatience, disordered ideas, lack of skills, and the necessity to maintain such and such an influence, all of these and many more false pretexts are used...

But whatever the pretext, whether it be economic or cultural, strategic or financial, tactical or practical, we look in vain for the only pretext that interests us, the only one that concerns us – the human pretext...

Nevertheless, the cause of man will win out finally and with it, Africa, despite its vicissitudes, will also win out over obstacles thrown into its path by man's egotism, incomprehension, false pride and stupidity...

The Africa which is emerging into universal life goes to its rendezvous with the world not as an antagonistic element, but rather, with the whole-hearted wish to be a participant and with the pre-occupation of adding something that will broaden the world's opportunities and increase its resources...

It is in this spirit – with faith, with confidence and with determination – that the people of Guinea go forth to meet the world..."

...AS AFRICA GOES...

SO GOES THE WORLD!

"ANYONE WHO QUESTIONS THIS IS EITHER TOO COMFORTABLY COMPLACENT OR TOO HOPELESSLY SILLY."

BY BARRETT O'HARA

AS CHAIRMAN of the Subcommittee on Africa of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs it is my job to know Africa. I do not mean to imply that I or anyone else can say that one can completely know any country, even his own. But people all over the world are pretty much alike. I measure the new nations of Africa by the measure of our land when it was a young emerging nation. Just as the United States in its formative years was going through the period of birth pains, so now are the new countries of Africa.

It elated the wiseacres in Europe no end when the soldiers with Washington at the surrender of Comwallis, a few years later, neglected and shabbily provided for in a camp near Newburg, New York, marched on the Congress to protest and were dispersed by threat of gunfire. The European wiseacres said that this was proof positive that the American yokels were not capable of self-govemment. It was merely a birth pain. New govemments have a lot of territory to cover, and until there is time for organization there will be spots of neglect.

I have not been too much disturbed about the Congo. There, of course, have been incidents of deep regret, tragedies I am sure as abhorent to most of the people of the Congo as they are to our own people. But one should bear in mind that when the Belgians left the Congo the Army was left with no trained leaders as the Congolese soldiers rarely had been advanced above the grade of corporal. The fact that has been overlooked is that even in the worst times there was no large uprising of the people and, on the whole, a pretty general restraint.

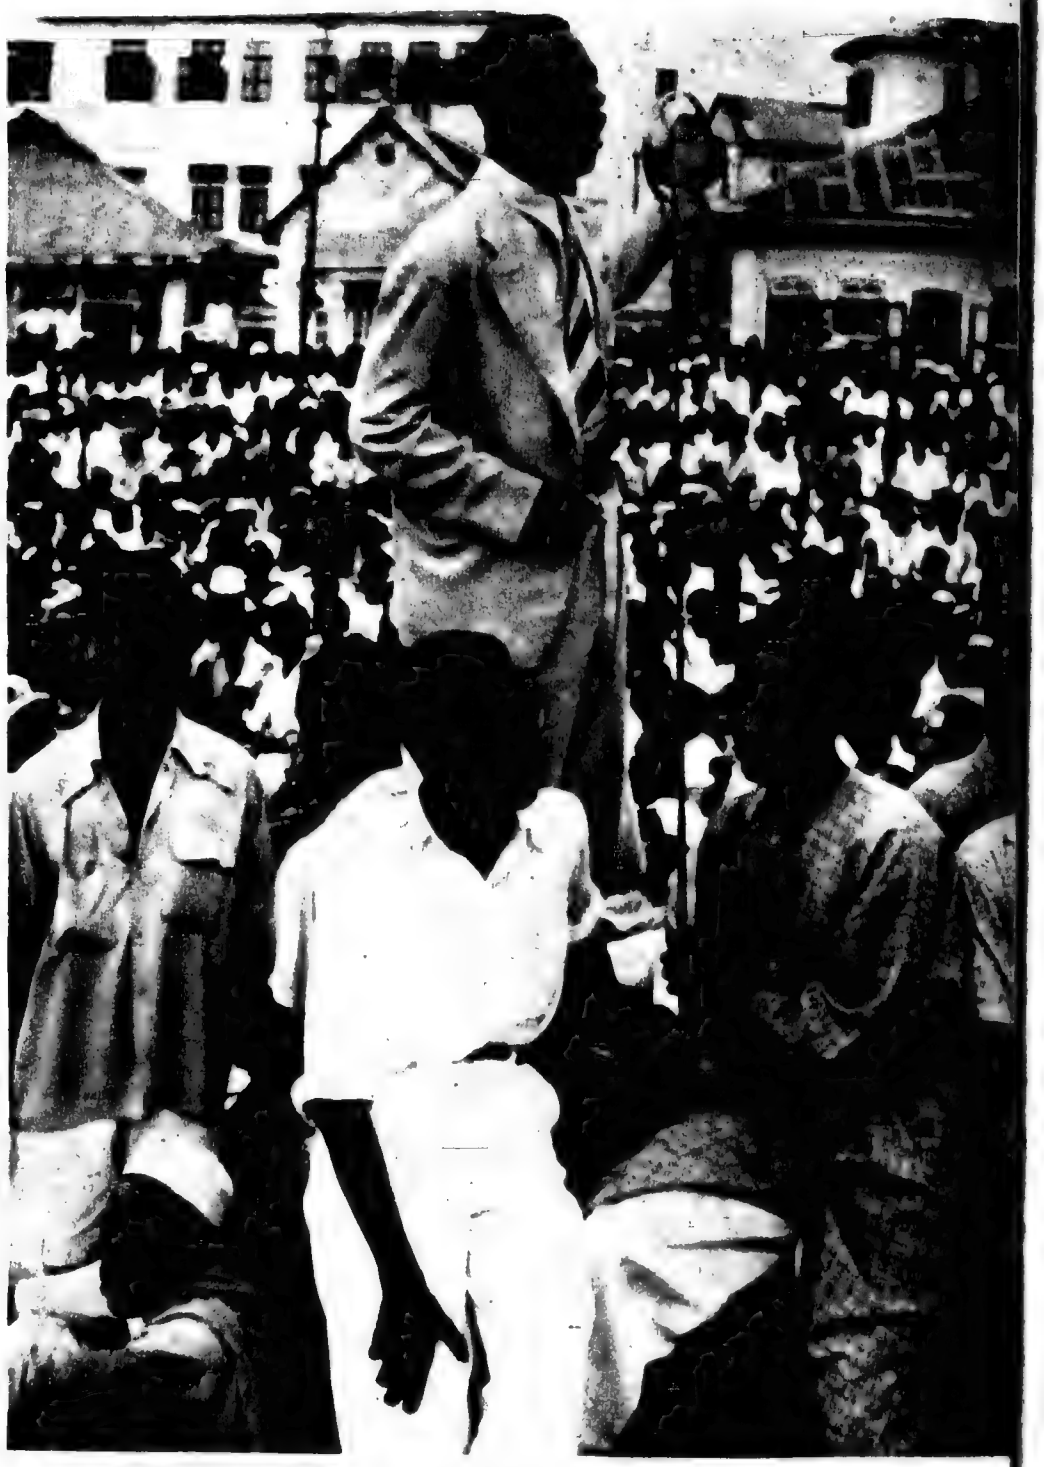
We must apply the same measure to the Congo as we applied to Chicago when a young woman from England, sitting quietly on a park bench in Chicago's lake front, was the victim of an attack. No one, however, was unfair enough to say that this regrettable incident was proof that the people of Chicago lacked the ability to govern themselves and to protect life and property.

The fact is that even in the most advanced countries, and under the best police protection that can be devised, there will continue to be occasional murders and rapes. The trouble is that when they happen in the older nations they are taken as a matter of course as rare exceptions and when they happen in new nations they are magnified all out of proportion.

Let us get back again to the matter of birth pains. When I was in Ethiopia three years ago there was much concern because occasionally some workers building new highways were set upon, robbed, and occasionally killed, despite the best efforts of the govemment troops to protect them. This only reminded me of the birth pains when we were opening up the West. Anyone who has watched the Western movies on television knows what I am talking about!

I have faith in the people of Africa and I have confidence in the future of Africa. I have facing me on my wall in my office in Washington, a large map of the United States, showing how from the territory of the original 13 States we spread westward in 1803 by the Louisiana Purchase from France and southward in 1845 by the annexation of Texas and westward again in 1846 by the establishment of the American title to the Oregon territory and in 1848 by the large dominion ceded by Mexico and southward again by the Gadsden Purchase in 1853, until finally our boundaries were fixed, one people and one nation, extending from the Atlantic all the way across the continent to the Pacific.

Ultimately that will be the pattern in Africa. It will not come immediately, and when it does come it may be a cluster of two or three confederations. It is a goal of destiny. It is the goal toward which most of the leaders in Africa now are looking, even though at the present time theirs is the job of doing their level best to get their own countries on a sound economical and political basis.



As Africa goes, so will go the world. Anyone who questions this is either too comfortably complacent or too hopelessly silly.

The developments in Africa should be, and I know they are, of interest and of strengthening inspiration to the millions of Americans whose ancestral roots are in Africa.

I have had long conversations with most of the African leaders and I have had the sense that all were dedicated to their mission. When I have swapped observations with African leaders occasionally I have been goodnaturedly thrown back on my heels. For instance, during my recent visit in Uganda I spent a most agreeable evening with King George of Toro. He is the Hereditary Chief of the Baganda tribe in that area, and he was objecting to a federation in Uganda that would take away his authority. When I asked him how a nation could be created unless authority were given to the central govemment, as had been done in the formation of the American union, he needled me by asking how well the American tribes had fared when the federation divested them of their authority. I had to admit that the tribes of American Indians had been so shabbily treated that now at long last, after all the Indians of the period are dead, we are voting huge sums to their descendants as conscience money.

One of the things we did to make amends was to pass a law providing vocational education for Indians on the reservations who desired to prepare themselves for industrial employment. This was early in my service in the Congress. Some years later, when we were suffering a great housing shortage in my district, I received a telegram from Dr. Sol Tax of the University of Chicago informing me that 5,000 of the American Indians, having completed their vocational education courses, had come to the Second District of Illinois, and that we had the responsibility of finding for them both employment and lodgings.

The moral in this is: don't judge a new nation by any measure except that of your own nation. When there are no longer problems to be faced, whether the nation is old or is new, mankind will have reached the millenium and its job will be over.

THE ART OF AFRICAN SCULPTURE

BLACK HANDS ON THE CHISEL

Painter-sculptor Ben Enwowu held his first exhibition – a one-man show – at Lagos in 1943. Five years later, he again staged a one-man show in London, first at the Hartley Galleries and then at the Heal's Mansard Galleries. When he returned to Nigeria, as Art Supervisor for the Information Service, he carried on his creative work and helped to expand arts in Nigerian schools.

AFRICA LIVES IN PERPETUAL rythm – the rythm of the dance and the rythm of the ritual. The endless flow of life is punctuated by deep emotions that well from the soul of herageless peoples. Joy and sorrow, death and birth, fear and security comingle in the African as a spirit that is at once pathetic, exuberant, but always human.

This is the broad meaning of African art. It is an art that flows spontaneously and abundantly as a life expression, beautifying the commonplace and touching profoundly on the subtle and varied essences of the African world. It propitiates the ancestors; commemorates the memories of venerated chiefs; and comments on the many anxieties that torment the living.

But of all art forms, none is more exalted in Africa than sculpture. For ages, African sculptors have carved objects of ritual and princely worship with wizzardly mastery. The ivory and bronze heads of Ife by the Yorubas of Western Nigeria manifest a beauty that awes the soul with its effortless simplicity. Executed in the cire-perdue medium or the lost wax system, these attest to a highly developed art form that could well have started before the 5th Century. The later ivory and bronze sculptures of Benin, with their mosaic, Assyrian-like quality, provide a good contrast to the naturalistic and realistic works of Ife. These two great traditions make Nigeria one of the most important art centers of Africa.

Although colonialism has deflected the course and the natural development of African sculpture, this gained enormous prestige in the past half century as a result of its influence on Picasso, El Greco and other modern impressionistic and surrealistic masters.

What does the future hold for African sculpture? Will the present drive for freedom in Africa lead to a cultural renaissance that would further enhance its prestige?

The promise of African sculpture is symbolized by the variety of modern African geniuses. Contemporary African sculptors are now torn between traditional African and modern Western art. The traditional group is represented by Justus Dokuma Akeredolu and Lucky Wadiri in Nigeria and Dr. Oke Ampofo in Ghana.

Akeredolu is a master of the figurine and miniature carving. Even in Nigeria, where carvers abound, he is extraordinary for most of his models are under three inches high and are carved from the thorns of cotton trees. Through these little emblems of life, he replicates the ancient and rare sculptures of his country for museums. But a remarkable synthesis of western and traditional forms has been achieved by Vincent Akwete Kofi in Ghana, Aroun Kabasia in Congo and Felix Idubor in Nigeria.

However, the most celebrated African sculptor is Ben Enwowu of Nigeria. Born in Eastern Nigeria in 1921, Enwowu got his first training in Roman Catholic Schools. Although yaws affected his hands as a youth, he had shown a remarkable love for sculpture at the age of six and studied under his father's tutelage. Later, he was offered a chance to study art in Britain at Chelsea and Oxford.

But Enwowu emerged into international prominence after the exhibition of his paintings and sculptures at the Galerie Apollinaire in London drew considerable attention and received a great deal of praise. He later took the same exhibition to New York, Boston and Washington where it enjoyed a still more enthusiastic reception. In 1957, Hammond Foundation and Fisk University cooperated in a display of Enwowu's work. It is a tribute to this great artist that his own country has rewarded his efforts by many important commissions. He has carved figures for the Broadcasting House in Lagos; doors and panels for the Nigerian House of Representatives; and the Speaker's throne in the same legislature. In addition, he was responsible for the maze of the University of Ibadan, and for a most dazzling sculpture group for the University chapel, "The Risen Christ."

Acclaimed as a great sculptor even by the famous English sculptor, Sir Jacob Epstein, Enwowu has won many laurels. But his greatest thus far was the commission he received in 1957 to do a bronze portrait of Her Majesty The Queen, Elizabeth II. This beautiful work, which now adoms the entrance to the Nigerian Parliament, is a living testimony to the vitality of African sculpture and the great future it promises.

Sculptor Enwowu was ridiculed by some Western artists who charged he Africanized English Queen's features.

Nigeria's modernist Felix Idubor.

A RENDEZVOUS WITH THE WORLD

African Leaders SPEAK!

NKRUMAH

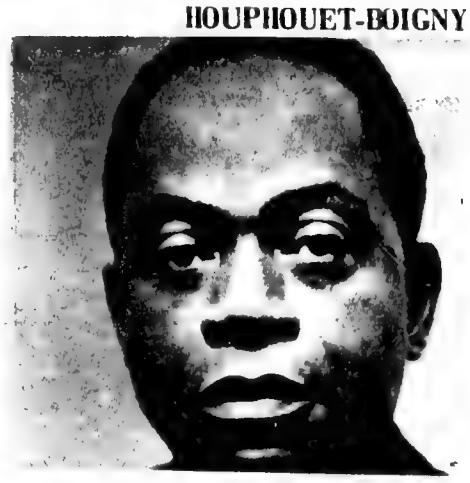
"Our emphasis upon Africa bespeaks neither chauvinism nor isolationism. We who pioneered the development of Pan-Africanism have done so with a vision. History has described to us the tragedies which have beset every other continent upon this planet—the international wars, the rebellions and revolutions.

We must be determined that this continent of ours shall not repeat that dismal history. The continent of Africa has been drenched with blood in the past, it has been raided for slaves, it has been partitioned and exploited and looted. Precisely because it has had this kind of past it is determined not to have that kind of future. If we succeed, and succeed we must, the whole of mankind—not Africa alone—will reap immense benefits.

We welcome men of goodwill everywhere to join us, irrespective of their race, religion or nationality. When I speak of Africa for Africans, this should be interpreted in the light that I do not believe in racialism and colonialism. The concept 'Africa for Africans' does not mean that other races are excluded from it. No, it only means that Africans, who naturally are in the majority in Africa, shall and must govern themselves in their own countries.

Africa is marching forward to freedom and no power on earth can halt her now. Our salvation and strength and our only way out of these ravages in Africa, lies in political union. Those who doubt the feasibility of such a union appear to have forgotten their history lesson too soon."

President Kwame Nkrumah,
Ghana, April, 1960



YAMEOGO

"It is into a world long seen from the perspective of another dimension that the young African nations are making their entrance today as full partners; but if history makes them belated Wise Men, the gifts that they bring to the cradle of the new world are no less costly, for they are made of age-old wisdom and the will to construct. Their dynamism, long buried within, will be devoted to the reconciliation of the worlds in behalf of the only worthwhile cause—that of man himself...

Africa, land of age-old wisdom, must, on the contrary, bring to the world the new dimension which, up to now, has been lacking and has kept it from finding its equilibrium; the source of this contribution is in its traditions of brotherhood, of solidarity and, also, in the depths of its philosophy conceived on the scale of man. The age-old wisdom to which I refer will hold surprises in store; all that remains is to allow time to do its work."

President Maurice Yameogo,
Voltaic Republic, August, 1960

HOUPHOUET-BOIGNY

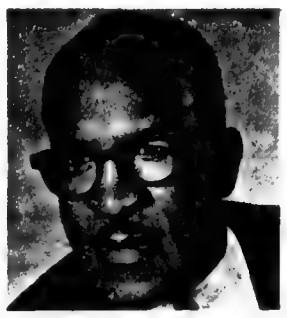
"If we know how to unite, if we know how to prove to the world our political maturity, if we know how to meet the new responsibilities that are ours, if we know how to keep the friendships that are precious for our development—then the future will indeed be, as is the earnest wish of all of us in this beautiful Ivory Coast with such great potentialities, a radiant future, in harmony with the fiery sun of our beautiful country."

President Houphouet-Boigny,
Ivory Coast, July, 1960

SENGHOR

"The great problem of African people who have achieved their independence like the people of Senegal is not only that of the acquisition of influences, but one of a synthesis between Contemporary European civilization and Traditional Negro-African civilization.

In other words, the African ought to return to the sources of Negro-African civilizations; thus, there ought to be a new Negro of the twentieth century acquiring some of the values of European civilization.



President Leopold Sedah Senghor,
Senegal, May, 1960

This is africa

by St. Clair Drake

FOR OVER 400 YEARS Africa was robbed, raped, and pillaged, carved up and preyed over, by white men for the sake of God, Gold, and Glory. All of that is over now!

For over 300 years the sons and daughters of Africa were kidnapped and scattered throughout the New World, giving their unpaid labor so that cotton and cane could provide the wealth out of which the factories of America and Britain grew. All of that is finished now!

During the last 150 years, Britain, Portugal, Spain, France, Italy, Belgium, and Germany drained off the riches of Africa while disease and poverty, ignorance and subjection held sway over the Black Millions. That day is done!

By the time the Second World War had ended, the people of Africa who had been forced to work and fight in a war they did not start and for a cause which was not their own decided they'd had enough. They boycotted, demonstrated, rioted Mau Maued, and took part in non-violent civil disobedience campaigns. They were illiterate but they knew what they wanted. They made their voices heard and their strength felt.

By 1955, the European powers began to throw in the sponge. First France, in Tunis and Morocco; then Britain, in Sudan and the Gold Coast. The political shackles fell off. These four were free. Ethiopia, Liberia and Egypt went through a renaissance becoming fully independent instead of half free. These seven, along with Libya which had secured its independence through the U. N. after the defeat of Italy, now came together – The Original Eight – and in April of 1948, assembled in Ghana at the call of Kwame Nkrumah, and organized themselves as the Conference of Independent African States.

They pledged themselves to jealously guard their own freedom; to broaden the base of their unity; and to give all-out aid to their brothers not yet free. That is the origin of AFRICA FREEDOM DAY, April 15th, which they proclaimed as an annual Day of Dedication.

The self-sustaining chain reaction of African liberation had begun. Within two years, by July, 1960, 25 independent African states were on the map. Over 155,000,000 of Africa's 220,000,000 were now living under African governments rather than under colonial administration. Over half the continent had become free-soil.

The Congo Crisis broke and African liberation movement stood at the cross-roads. The tasks of the future made themselves brutally and painfully clear:

. . . . . To smash forever the power of Belgium in the Congo and of white settlers in the Union of South Africa and the Central African Federation who were trying to defy the tides of history, to set the clock back, and to organize a counter-attack against the Independent States –

. . . . . To insulate the continent from the East-West conflict, to keep it from becoming a cockpit of the Cold War –

. . . . . To get much needed capital for developing each and every one of the new states without becoming captives of Big Business from the West or Total Govemment from the East –

. . . . . To keep a constantly rising standard of living at home – new schools, roads, hospitals, and higher wages – so that the hopes of those who fought under the slogans of "Freedom," "Uhuru," "Ablode" would not be dust in their mouths.

. . . . . To wipe out all vestiges of past humiliation, to assert the dignity of Africans, to "project the African Personality," to make peoples of African descent everywhere proud of the Great African Revolution and its fruits.

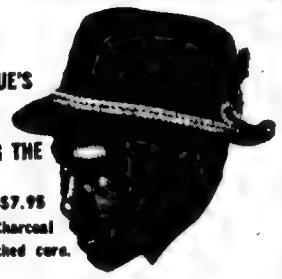
This unfinished business – These uncompleted tasks – These goals of the hour – require LEADERSHIP, DISCIPLINE, ASTUTENESS, and HARD WORK. Above all, they require UNITY within each new African state, and of all of them working together. Every African leader knows that the whole battle can be lost and Africa can sink into the apathetic and pathetic state of the Latin American Republics if there is not unity within each and between all.

Nkrumah and Sekou Toure, Bourguiba and Sidi Mohammed, Nasser and Lumumba, Jomo Kenyatta and Azikiwe, did not find it impossible to inspire unity when the main job was fighting The White Man. Old and young, rich and poor, educated and illiterate, all stood together in their strength to throw off the shackles of colonialism. These great and inspiring leaders were the symbols of the people's fighting will. Neither the old tribal leaders of the past nor a small minority of the educated who allowed the colonial powers to seduce and bribe them into rear-guard action against independence, or who quailed with timidity and fear, could prevail against those who cried in the colonial wilderness, "Seek ye first the political kingdom and all other things shall be added unto thee!" In the eyes of the masses these men are still heroes. No Tshombes or political Uncle Toms in the new states can brainwash the people, in the long run, against the magic of these names.

These men and their parties feel that they must guard and cherish and retain this Pan African loyalty, and strengthen the image of themselves as symbols of Renascent Africa for the tasks that lie ahead. Where once the pictures of an English Queen or a French Govemor-General was plastered inside every hut – a black or brown face has taken its place, the image of a new leadership. Where once an African knew that the money was good because a white man's head was on the coin, he now has to be trained to know its equally good with a black man's head. The big houses where govemors once lived must now be occupied by black leaders and brown leaders or the people will not be really sure that anything has really changed. Black leaders must take the salutes when a guard is mounted just as white dignitaries used to do. This is an important aspect of projecting the African Personality. Such symbolic acts are necessary to restore lost confidence to build new pride. The dangers implicit in a "cult of the leader" are risks that have to be taken.

All Africans are members of tribes. They are born into them and in some places the tribal chiefs are spiritual leaders as well as temporal rulers. Most chiefs are provincial and illiterate – though not all. Many chiefs kept their posts by bowing and scraping before the colonial bigwigs. As their reward all received privileges from the masters and some were accorded the titles "Sir" and "Honorable" before their names. If African nations are to unify themselves, one of the first tasks of the new leadership is to show uncooperative chiefs "where power lies." There can be no national unity in any African state if tribalism is allowed to place itself above patriotism. The Westem press, which baits African leaders as being arbitrary and dictatorial, and those who criticize them for holding a tight rein, forget that the Nkrumahs and Sekou Toures have no Golden Stools and other symbols of magic and religious power to hold nations together such as chiefs have to weld together the tribe. It is a rare African state in which more than ten out of a hundred people can read and write. Leaders must improvise and sometimes they must get rough. No African leader will sit by and watch the new states fall apart while tribalists spread disorder, or the defenders of privileges of the past disrupt the movement into the future.

African nations are poised hopefully for the industrial takeoff. Their people are pressing for the full economic benefits of independence now. The "payoff" cannot come until the factories are built and man-hour productivity has been raised. Restlessness must be contained and disillusionment combatted until the economic foundations of prosperity are layed. Lovers of democracy can best serve their cause by insisting that the West pump millions of dollars in capital into Africa – and without political strings attached. African leaders see the problem of the day as the healing of sick bodies, the building of schools, the shaking off of the apathy and superstition of the past, and of teaching the illiterate masses to read and write.



If they do not deliver, they will go. The people will see to that. They are fighting for time. As prosperity grows, civil rights will too. Each country will develop the kind of democracy that fits into its culture. There is grass-roots democracy in every African village now.

One-party states, preventive detention bills, monolithic parties do not arise from the whims and vain pretentions of so-called megalomaniac African rulers. They arise from the realities of Africa and the realities of Africa are not the realities of New York and London, of Wisconsin and Shropshire. The criticisms of liberals will continue to remind Africans of the Westem heritage. It would be foolish to expect African leaders to heed them, however, as they struggle to lay the foundations of new nations.

The leaders of the new Africa need understanding not lectures on democracy. They need MONEY not homilies. They need Westem support for the economic and social goals to which they are dedicated. If the present leaders do not get such support from the West, the next generation will ask it of the East. The people of Africa expect financial support not because they are beggars, but because they consider such support reparations for 400 years of Westem robbery, and back wages for millions of man-hours of unpaid labor on American and West Indian plantations.

The West in its own interest, should support the leaders of the new Africa even if they are not carbon copies of leadership types as we know them. They are dedicated and impatient men built in a heroic mold. They are not ward politicians.

The African Dish!

MOYINMOYIN

Beans have long formed the basis of Nigerian dishes. They contain a high percentage of second-class protein, calcium and phosphorus, but are lacking in fat. Mixed with seafoods, they prove to be a delectable, full-bodied dish, suitable to grace the best of tables. One of the favorites is Moyinmoyin. Serve it, or one of its variations, to your family.

INGREDIENTS:

1 cup of white beans
4 large peppers, or to taste
1/4 onion
1 tablespoonful ground crayfish
Tomatoes, if desired
2 spoons palm oil
1½ cups of cold water

VARIATIONS:

Vegetable Moyinmoyin: To add to food value and for variety, shred finely any edible green vegetable and add to the raw mixture. Proceed as for Moyinmoyin.

Moyinmoyin Elede (Shrimp): Fresh shrimps fried can be added to the mixture before it is cooked. Either dried shrimps and prepared crayfish, boned dried fish or chopped cooked meat can be added to moyinmoyin mixture before cooking it.

Kuduru: Instead of making Moyinmoyin with white beans, here black beans are used. All other processes are the same but the skins are not removed.

THE MUSIC WHIRL

IT IS GENERALLY ADMITTED THAT THE AFRICAN likes to make music, and that, as a general rule, he does not draw a clear and precise line of demarcation between "performers" on the one hand, and "listeners" on the other; to him, the making of music is a social act in which all who care may join; furthermore, so many African melodies owe their very existence to normal daily activities of a rhymic nature—like cotton spinning, work in the fields, paddling of canoes,—that it has been truly said that "the genius of African music is that it beautifies the commonplace."

Unfortunately it is also true that many people tend to regard African melodies as being, in themselves, musically inferior to Western melodies. This is not correct, for there are African melodies that compare very favourably with Western melodies, as music.

Generally speaking, African melodies are, like Plainsong melodies, linear in conception; that is to say that the African melody-maker thinks his melodies out without being in any way restricted or inhibited by a consideration of possible chordal progressions to support the melodies. His melodies are therefore properly so-termed. Furthermore, he has not yet come to regard the 'tempered' keyboard scale as the standard scale, and thus the majority of African melodies use either the natural scale, or a scale derived from it; the result is that some African melodies sound 'out-of-tune' to an ear that has been conditioned by the artificial keyboard scale, to the extent that it uses that keyboard scale as the measuring rod.

Three conditions are said to be essential for the making of folk-music: (1) a homogenous community, (2) an oral tradition, and (3) the absence of scholarship. The beauty of line and virility which seem so innate in the majority of African melodies may be due partly to the fact that the African melody-makers are still much nearer to the folk-music period of their race than are their Western brothers: furthermore, the African's approach towards the making of music as a social act would tend to stimulate in the melody-makers tendencies which one normally associates with pure folk-music.

Editors Note:

Fela Sowande was born in 1905 and educated at King's College, Lagos. From 1928 to 1934 he was deputy organist and choirmaster at Lagos Cathedral and then Director of Music to the Colonial Film Unit (London) from 1943-50. Later, as organist for the West London Mission, he composed some important works: "Two Chorale Preludes on African Sacred Folk Melodies," the tone poem "Africana" and "African Suite for Strings." In 1951, London Records released some of his compositions under the title "African Suite" and Decca Records as "The Negro In Sacred Idiom."

In 1957, Fela Sowande toured the United States and appeared as a guest artist before university and other music audiences. His works were then broadcast by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters. His more recent work, "Folk Symphony" and "Nigeria Minituaes" composed in honor of Nigerian Independence, had been broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Nigerian Broadcasting Corporation. Now in the United States under auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation, he will return to Nigeria as Head of the Music Faculty, University College of Ibadan.

Contemporary African POETRY

Below three muses of new Africa gently sing as clearly as the morning's first light. Raphael Armattoe, a Ewe physician from Ghana died several years ago in a German auto crash. He was the only African listed in Who's Who in World Science. Senegalese invalid David Diop, 30, is regarded by many as Africa's "angry young man." His Defiance To Violence opens a window on the intensity of his concern. A former professor of France's Sorbonne University, poet Leopold Sedar Senghor is also the first president of the young independent state of Senegal.

BOYHOOD DREAMS

They have thought as young men think
Of love, fame and glory;
They have found as old men find,
Life's tales stale and hoary.

They had hoped as children hope,
To pick life's pleasant gains;
And now they walk with bowed heads,
Like drenched men from the rains.

Raphael Armattoe

Defiance to Violence

You who stop, you who weep,
You who one day die without knowing why,
You who fight, who watch while Another sleeps;
You who no longer laugh with your eyes,
You, my brother, full of fear and anguish,
Raise yourself and cry No!

David Diop

TO NEW YORK

New York! I say to you: New York! let black blood flow into your blood
That it may rub the rust from your steel joints, like an oil of life
That it may give to your bridges the bend of buttocks and the suppleness of creepers.
Now return the most ancient times, the unity recovered,
the reconciliation of the Lion, the Bull and the Tree
Thoughts linked to act, ear to heart, sign to sense.
There are your rivers murmuring with scented crocodiles and mirage-eyed manatees. And no need to invent the Sirens.
But it is enough to open the eyes to the rainbow of April
And the ears, above all the ears, to God who out of the laugh of a saxophone created the heaven and the earth in six days.
And the seventh day he slept the great sleep of the negro.

Leopold Sedar Senghor

GREATEST CIVIL RIGHTS RALLY — The above pictures show a portion of the lucky 18,000 people, 98 percent of whom were Negroes, who jammed the Sports Arena Sunday afternoon in what the Rev. Martin Luther King called "the greatest Civil Rights Rally ever held anywhere in the United States"—and he's in a position to know whereof he speaks. Doors were closed tight long before the scheduled 3 p.m. opening as more thousands pressed against every entrance in the vain hope that a few would be admitted. It was announced from the rostrum that there were as many outside the arena as inside. (Adams).

Gene Hawkins' Woman Friend Also Convicted

It looked like the end of the open road Monday for free-wheeling Virgil Eugene Hawkins as Judge J. Howard Ziemann sentenced the "rough lover" to State prison on three counts, each of which could keep him in jail for life.

END OF ROAD — Virgil Eugene Hawkins was sentenced to life imprisonment Monday on three counts of robbery and conspiracy.

The sentences are to run consecutively. They are to follow an earlier sentence of six months to 14 years on a prior conviction of forgery, now on appeal.

LUCK RUNS OUT

Hawkins, who in his 27 years has had chalked up against his record some six pages filled with arrest notations and who, police say, has been booked at least 60 times, has managed to stay out of prison due apparently to his intimate knowledge of the law,

LAPD Shifts To Integrated Squad Cars

Radio cars of the Los Angeles Police Department will be "completely integrated" henceforth, according to an announcement at all police stations at roll call last Thursday.

Effective date for the new policy was set as July 1, but some of the divisions have not waited for the deadline and have already assigned white and Negro officers to the same squad car.

The change, the Eagle was informed, was authorized by Chief of Police Parker.

The segregated radio car setup is one of the "southern exposure" practices that have long plagued the city's Police Department. Mayor Elect Sam W. Yorty has indicated that he expects a major overhaul of outmoded race relations practices in the LAPD.

In spelling out some of the changes that Negroes wanted when they voted for a "New Deal" at City Hall, the California Eagle in a front page editorial in its June 15 issue, had this to say:

"The new mayor can begin to

DOLLARS FOR FREEDOM — Some of the greatest entertainment at the greatest Freedom Rally ever held, help collect dollars — and fives and tens — to back up the Freedom Riders of the South. From left: Mahalia Jackson who sang, Sammy Davis Jr., who was M.C., and Dick Gregory, who entertained. (Adams).

PROUD TO PRESENT — Edmund G. Brown, governor of the State of California, told the packed Sports Arena Sunday as he introduced "one of the great Americans of the 20th Century," that "I am proud to present a man honored as a prophet in his own time, the Rev. Martin Luther King!" (Adams).

Ask 'Summit' Meet With Pres. Kennedy

BULLETIN

Following Sunday's 40,000-strong mass rally at the Sports Arena, the Rev. Martin Luther King and other Negro leaders issued a call for a "Summit" conference with Pres. Kennedy.

Joining with King in the call were Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of New York and the Revs. L. Sylvester Odom and Maurice A. Dawkins, of Los Angeles, leaders of the Western Christian Leadership Conference.

Purpose of the meeting with the President is to unite Negroes from the South, West and East in a joint demand for strong Federal action to ensure equal treatment for Negroes now.

By GRACE E. SIMONS

"We are participating today in the greatest Civil Rights rally ever held anywhere in the United States!"

The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., stood before the microphone on the platform in the center of the Sports Arena. Everywhere he looked—before him, behind him, to the right, to the left—there was a sea of faces, mostly dark faces, reaching to the rafters. Estimated attendance, inside and outside of the arena was 40,000

OUTPOURING

It was the greatest outpouring on the part of the Negro community in the history of Los Angeles. Some 18,000 people filled every seat in the arena. Thousands more pressed against the doors waiting, hoping, sometimes pushing to get in.

More thousands were streaming back to their homes, as the word was passed along from car to car, from person to person for blocks in every direction — "You might as well go home. You can't

NO DOUBT NOW

If there was any doubt in anybody's mind about how Los Angeles Negroes stand on the Freedom Riders, that doubt must have been dissipated by the spectacle of the turnaway crowd of some 35,000 to 40,000 people who besieged the Sports Arena Sunday afternoon. The crowd was by far the largest ever to turn up at a civil rights rally in Los Angeles and, if you want my opinion, no other cause would have drawn half that many.

Of course, there's a lot of magic in the name of Martin Luther King these days and there were undoubtedly many on hand just to catch a glimpse of today's hero.

MILLER

Others must have showed up to hear Mahalia Jackson sing and others must have been there to hear Sammy Davis or Gov. Pat Brown speak. But sift it all down and you have to come to the conclusion that the people are on the side of the Freedom Riders and want everybody to know it.

OTHER WAYS

I am not one of those who believes that boycotts, sit-ins, or freedom rides offer the only ways

$25,000 Given For Freedom at Sports Arena

The largest single donation given for the Freedom Riders and other attacks on segregation in the South was a check presented by the Holman Methodist Church for $1000.

That was part of a total of a little over $25,000 that was received Sunday. Of that sum, preliminary counts show that some $20,800 was collected at the 3 p.m. Sports Arena Freedom Rally, $1300 at the overfow meeting in the evening and another

Name Negro To Council, Yorty Asks

Prospects for the appointment of a Negro to replace Charles Navarro in City Council got a boost this week when Mayor Elect Sam W. Yorty told newsmen that he believed a Negro should be named to the post.

More than 20 persons are now seeking the job which will become vacant after July 1 when Navarro assumes the city controller post to which he was elected. Leading candidates include J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson, well known business man; George Thomas, executive of the County Conference on Community Relations; Tom Bradley, police lieutenant and lawyer; and Ray Johnson, chemist and community leader.

Kange Kunitsugu, a project engineer, also threw his hat in the ring this week with backing from Don Allen, assemblyman from the 63rd district; Frank Chuman, a member of the Democratic State Central Committee; and a number of other prominent civic figures.

The appointment will be made by City Council after July 1 and the appointee will serve for two years.

HOLMAN CONTRIBUTES $1000—Holman Methodist Church led them all—churches, business organizations and social clubs—with a $1000 donation to the Freedom Rally Sunday. Rev. King and Rev. L. Sylvester Odom, president of the sponsoring Western Christian Leadership Conference, right, show appreciation for donation presented by Raymond Johnson, left, on behalf of the church, of which he is a leader.

GHANA JOURNALIST — Ghanaian newspaper writer, Edith Wuver, centerfront, was greeted here last Friday night at the home of Annie Calomee by members of the International Relations Committee of the National Council of Negro Women. African Journalist Finds U.S. Visit Disappointing

By C. MARIE HUGHES

White Americans are making jokes of themselves outside of America, Miss Edith Wuver, Ghana newspaper writer, told International Relations Committee members of the National Council of Negro Women at a "Desert Party" given in her honor last Friday night at the home of Mrs. Annie Calomee on Roxton street. Miss Wuver is the editor of "Ghana Women," a weekly page supplement to a daily newspaper printed in Accra.

She told the women that she is not at all impressed with the United States. Miss Wuver said she had known that racial problems existed in the Deep South but she had not known they exist everywhere.

The journalist continued by saying she had been warned by a European friend — a white man — that she would not always find the way easy here because of her color, but she didn't believe him.

At home, she said, I am an African; here I am a Negro, insulted because I am dark and humiliated. This, she continued, made her feel like she had lost her identity, and these are the things that will eventually kill the soul and destroy the mind.

African visitors are given a distorted view of Negro life and of race relations in the United States, said Miss Wuver. Trips sponsored by white organizations keep them so busy that they afford Africans little opportunity for socializing with American Negroes. They are led to believe that Negroes have made very little progress, few contributions to society, that they have no organized activities, little social life, that they do nothing that warrants publicity and don't like it anyway.

Therefore, said Miss Wuver, when Africans return home the things they have to report give a bad impression of Negro achievements.

She concluded by urging Negro organizations to sponsor Africans on trips to the United States so that they can associate more freely with Negroes and learn the truth about life in this country.

Friends Will Fete Retiring Mrs. Bradford

The faculty of Avalon Gardens and friends of Mrs. Cornelia Leggett Bradford will honor her with a luncheon shortly after the closing of school, at the Wilfandel club house, as she retires from the Los Angeles School system.

Mother of Mrs. Sherrill Luke of Berkeley, and grandmother of David Sherrill Luke, Mrs. Bradford has been a part of the Los Angeles Schools since early childhood. She began as a youngster, enrolling in Ninth Street School where she attended from kindergarten through the sixth grade, then as a student at Lafayette Junior High School and Los Angeles High School. She graduated Cum Laude from the University of Southern California, majoring in the field of education.

HELPED SET PATTERN

As a member of an outstanding group of young people, Cornelia Bradford was among those early Los Angeles teachers who helped set a pattern of integration in the many areas of community activities in Los Angeles.

Entering the Los Angeles educational system as a teacher in 1922 she served with efficiency and distinction. She was appointed assistant supervisor of attendance and worked in that department for two years in connection with her teaching.

She was later appointed elementary teacher at Hosteeter Street School, and has taught children of all races at Staunton Avenue, Twentieth Street, Nevin Avenue, Forty-Ninth Street, Thirty-Sixth Street, and Avalon Gardens Schools.

Leaving the City Schools as a senior teacher Mrs. Bradford will continue her many activities which include services through clubs and organizations which contribute to the cultural, educational and religious life of the community.

HONORED — Mrs. Cornelia Leggett Bradford is being honored with a luncheon at Wilfandel following her retirement from the L.A. City School system.

Western U Alumni Plan Annual Meet

Western University alumni are expected to stream into Los Angeles from across the nation to attend their annual conclave from June 29 through July 2, with headquarters at the Pacific Town Club.

Chartered buses carrying national officers will begin to arrive Thursday, June 29. At 1 p.m. the doors of the Pacific Town Club will open for registration. Friday the delegates will plunge into three days of business sessions, panel discussions and social activities. This organization's focul point is Kansas City, Kans. where the university is located.

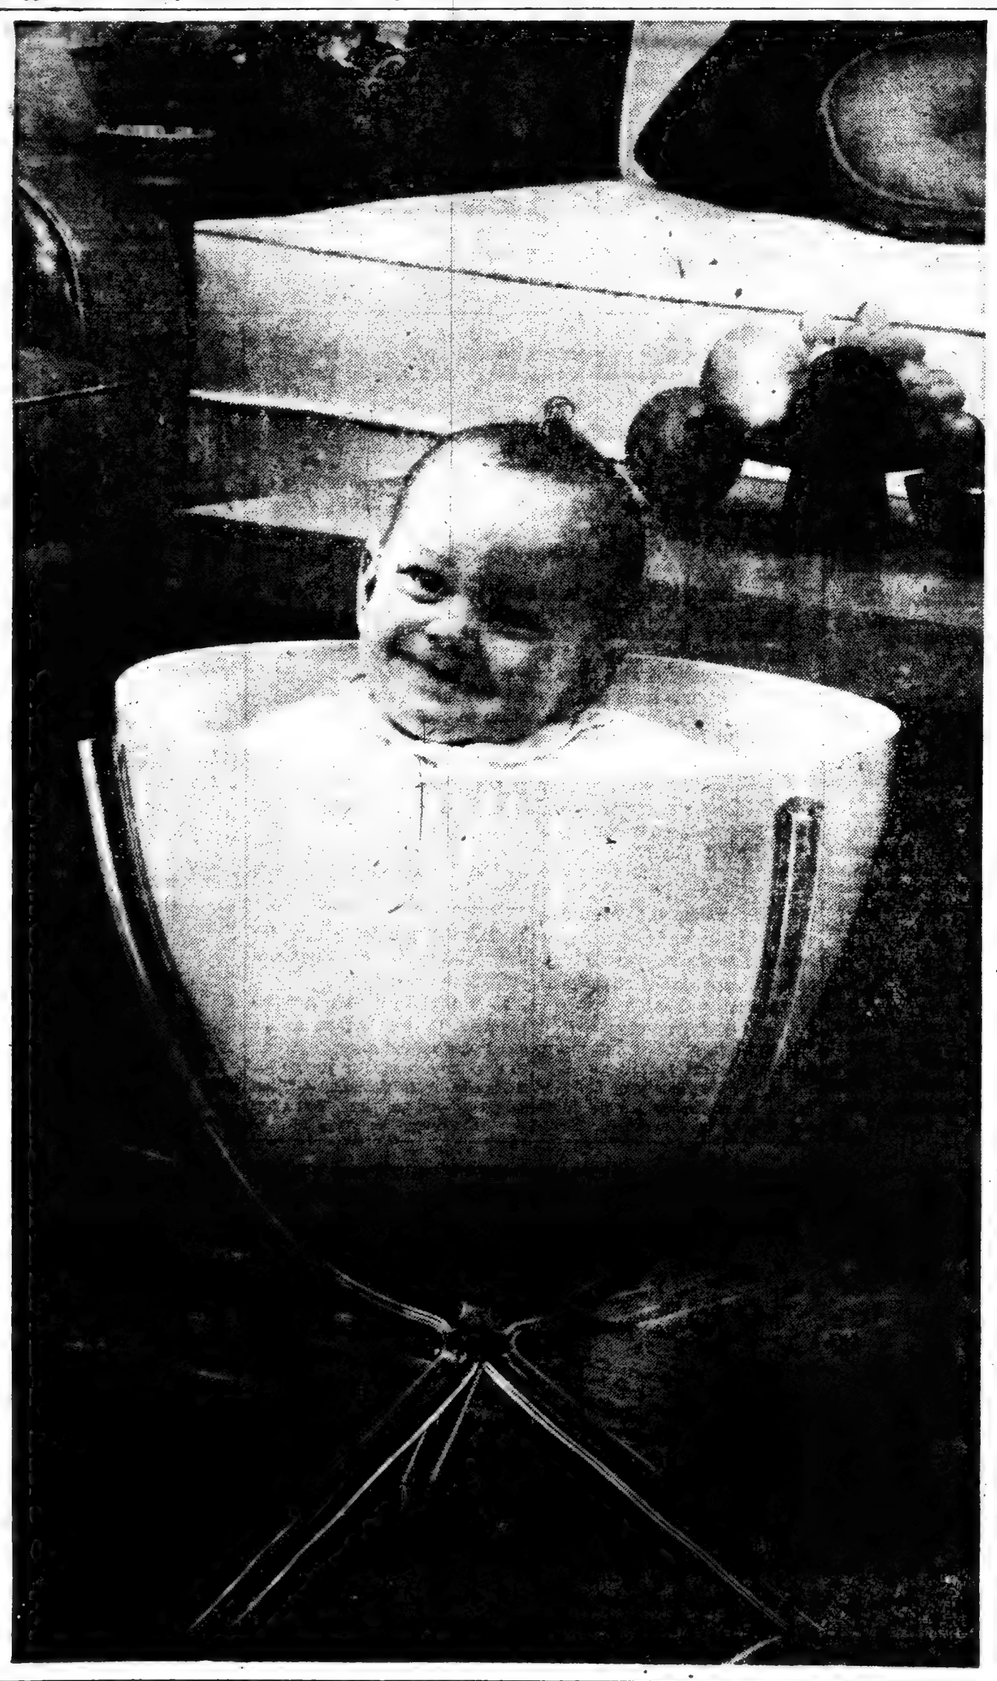
The Los Angeles branch has completed its agenda for the convention which it expects to be one of the best ever staged. Plans have been outlined for members to renew the acquaintance of former school mates and friends.

Robbers Caught in Act On Regent Theater Job

Police answering a "robbery in progress" report apprehended three suspects and two witnesses, one cut and bleeding, and both with their hands tied with rope, inside the Regent Theater at 4012 S. Vermont avenue, about 1 a.m. last Friday. Guarding the entrances and exits to the building, police took Lester Summers, 22, into custody as he passed the door. He had a gun stuffed in his waistband.

Inside the theater they found Cloye G. Frye, of 3981 S. Menlo avenue, staggering from the women's rest room with his hands tied behind him. He said the robbers had taken his wallet. Another witness, Harry H. Rush, 1431 W. 99th street, was on the floor bleeding about the head. His hands were also tied. He was taken to Morningside Hospital, suffering from possible concussion.

In the manager's office, the officers arrested Henry Maxie Wheeler, 22, of 153 E. 35th street, and Roy Bobby Wilson, 20, of 646 W. 52nd street, who were carrying a small metal tool box.



The assistant manager of the theater, Daniel Renfro, 74, of 3745 Woodlawn avenue, told officers that two of the men had gained entrance to the theater by claiming they were looking for a lost child.

TO TELL OF ALA. — The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, in whose Montgomery, Ala., church 1500 people prayed all night Sunday, May 21, against the violence of the mob outside, will speak here Sunday, June 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Victory Baptist Church, 48th and McKinley streets.

Everything in this picture (except the smile) comes from oil

The planter, the upholstery, the table, the floor covering...even the decorative fruit.

For oil today is being put to work in more than 400 new ways each year — in plastics, synthetic fibers, detergents, paints, insecticides, agricultural and garden plant foods.

The future?

Standard's scientists, who pioneered many of these developments, predict an entirely new world of oil products in the next ten years...creating new industries and new jobs.

Jimmy could grow up to live in a house made almost entirely of oil-based plastics . . . siding, roofing, door and window frames, even the windows. He will probably drive a car with a super-strong plastic body, over highways made of plastic and asphalt.

New products, of course, are not the only reason why, by 1971, the use of oil will be about half again as great as it is today.

Oil and natural gas will be supplying 90% of all the heat, power and mechanical energy used in the West . . . Western transportation systems, automobiles, homes and industries are increasing at a faster rate than in any other area of the country.

Standard will invest $50 million this year alone in the expansion of our petrochemical facilities . . . another $350 million will be expended on other phases of our Company's growth.

Biggest Rally in U.S. Held Here Sunday

get in. The doors are locked. It's packed!"

As the meeting got under way, it was announced that there were as many people outside as there were inside. Some six to seven thousand of them kept on waiting throughout the entire afternoon to participate in a second meeting that started at 7 p.m.

$25,000 COLLECTED

Some of those on the outside slipped their checks through cracks in the door so that their contributions could be added to the donations being made inside that swelled the Freedom Fund to approximately $25,000.

The spirit of the Freedom Riders, the spirit of the Sit-In Demonstrations, the spirit of Montgomery gripped the whole Negro community here, for the first time.

The significance of the mighty demonstration was reflected in the eyes and in the performance of top flight entertainers Sammy Davis, Jr., Mahalia Jackson, Dick Gregory.

It was caught up by Edmund G. Brown, governor of the State of California, as he introduced "one of the great Americans of the 20th Century," and with a dramatic flourish declared:

"I am proud to present a man honored as a prophet in his own time, the Rev. Martin Luther King."

The significance of the participation of the whole community in solidarity with those who are on the front line of the struggle was articulated by the man everyone had come to hear.

DEEPLY GRATEFUL

"I am deeply grateful to you for this support," said Rev. King. "I can go back now to the firing line with renewed courage and the vigor to carry on."

Expressing the "passionate yearning" of the Negro for freedom, Rev. King declared Negroes are no longer willing to accept a mess of segregated pottage.

Rejecting the proposal of Atty. Gen. Robert W. Kennedy for a "cooling off" period on the Freedom Rides, King asserted:

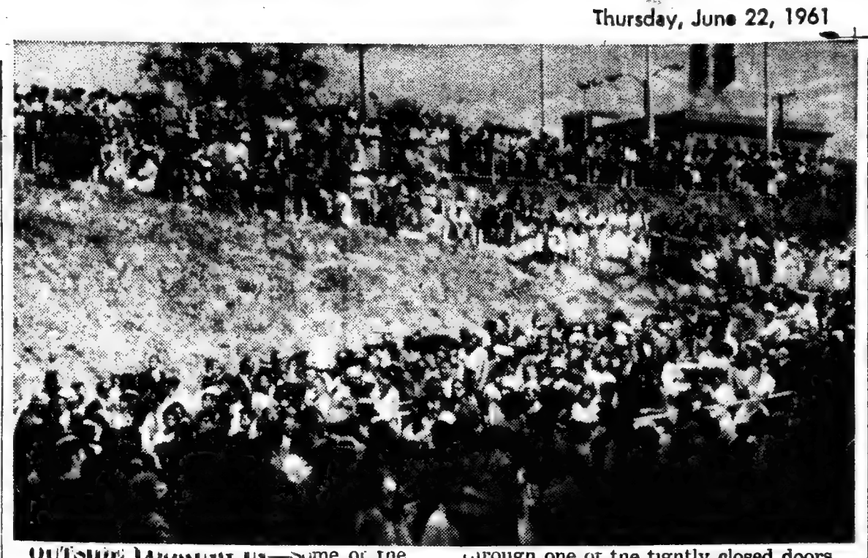
"We cannot in good conscience cool off in our determination to exercise our Constitutional rights. Those who should cool off are the ones who are hot with violence and hatred. We are determined to continue until all barriers have come down."

AMERICAN DREAM

Basing his talk on the "American Dream," King quoted the Declaration of Independence: "All men are created equal. They are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights and that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"It doesn't say some men are created equal," said King. "It doesn't say white men, or Gentile men, or Protestant men. It says all men, which includes black men, Jews and Catholics. All men are created equal."

"America," he continued, "is challenged to bring that lovely dream into reality. Not anaemic democracy, but full democracy. The price this country must pay for treating Negroes as it does is the price of its own destruction.



IT IS LATE

"It is late. The clock of destiny is running out. We must act now. If the United States is to remain a first class nation, she can no longer have second class citizens.

"The American dream must be made a reality not because it is diplomatically expedient, but because it is morally compelling. We must learn to live as brothers, or we will all perish."

Attacking the "gradual" theory, he declared that: "Morality can't be legislated, but behavior can be regulated. Law can't make him love me, but it can keep him from lynching me."

Calling for legislation, for struggle, for sacrifice, for love and non-violence and for unity, but rejecting black supremacy, Rev. King ended his talk by quoting the words of the old Negro spiritual, "Free at last! Free at last!"

OUTSIDE LOOKING IN—Some of the thousands of Angelenos who were unable to gain entrance to the Sports Arena Sunday were snapped by Eagle photographer Harry Adams, looking out through one of the tightly closed doors. Officers told Adams he could get out to take a picture if he wanted to, but warned him he'd never get back inside.

Help Delayed for Tot With Broken Arms

The Eagle was unable to reach Sgt. C. Beswick, who was on duty at the 103rd Street Police Station last week around 6 p.m. when a little boy was reportedly rushed into the station by neighbors after he had fallen from a tree and broken both of his arms.

One of the neighbors, Mrs. Marie Barner of 10311 Firth avenue, told the Eagle that she carried the injured child into the police station and asked the sergeant in charge to call an ambulance for the child because they had no immediate means of transportation to a hospital. She said he flatly refused to call an ambulance or to offer any assitance whatsoever to them in the emergency.

Earlier she said that someone else had taken the screaming child into the station and they too were turned away. However, she said she was not aware of this fact when she accompaned Mrs. Salina Jones of the Hacienda Apartments, who is the grandmother of injured George Shields, 9. The woman who first sought help from the police run two blocks to a church where Mrs. Jones was attending a meeting and had summoned her to the scene.

Mrs. Barner said that she then picked up the screaming child and carried him into the station, but the sergeant didn't even get up and check to see if George was badly hurt. They took him to his grandmother's house, where, Mrs. Barner said, she dialed 116 and asked for help. In 10 minutes a policeman came, followed by a police ambulance a few minutes later.

Splints were applied and the child taken on a stretcher to the Orthopaedic Hospital where plaster casts were moulded to each broken forearm.

S. M. Youth Says Police Kicked Him

Almore McCowen, 20, of 512 Broadway, Venice, denied last Thursday that he had resisted arrest and claimed instead that police, without provocation, had beaten him, cursed him, kicked him below the belt, then pulled his shirt over his head and carted him off to jail.

A construction worker who attended Venice High School, McCowen pleaded not guilty to resisting the officers last Wednesday at the corner of 7th and Broadway about 6:30 p.m., when he appeared for arraignment the next day.

JURY TRIAL

He asked for a jury trial and was released on $500 bond. Trial was set for June 28.

McCowen, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Roberta Donalson, told the Eagle he was standing on the corner waiting for his niece to bring him a hamburger before going to play basketball, when the police arrived. They claimed there had been a robbery and began to frisk him.

McCowen said he objected to an officer putting his closed hand into his pocket, fearing a possible marijuana "plant," and offered to empty his pockets and turn them inside out.

One of the officers, McCowen said, began cursing him, threatening to "smash his black face" and "knock his teeth out."

Send 'Riders' Bus to South

The Second Baptist Church is sponsoring an integrated Freedom Riders bus, to leave here July 12.

There will be a meeting of all those interested at the church, 2412 Griffith avenue, at 8 p.m. Sunday, June 25.

Church members have raised more than $2000 to finance the trip.

Increase in Cost of Living since 1940 UP 113%

Net increase in cost of Electricity since 1940 4%

WHEN ELECTRICITY COSTS SO LITTLE, WHY SETTLE FOR ANYTHING LESS?

More and more people, when they buy, build or modernize, are insisting on clean, flameless, odorless electricity. There's good reason for the increasing use of electricity for more and more purposes. While the cost of living has been soaring upward—113% since 1940—while other utility rates here have increased as much as 66%—the net rise in the electric rates of Los Angeles has been only 4%. In fact, electricity in Los Angeles costs about one-third less than the average of the 15 other largest U. S. cities.

Legislature Didn't Do Much

We didn't get much out of the California legislature that has just concluded its sessions.

The most important bill before the legislature was the Hawkins Fair Housing measure which would have prohibited discrimination in the sale or rental of private housing. It was amended to almost nothing in the Assembly and shunted aside for "study" by the Senate.

Democrats, who were in control of both houses, will have to accept major responsibility for the failure to keep California in step with other northern and western industrial states. They knuckled under to the pressure of the real estate lobby and no amount of explanation can relieve them of responsibility.

The Republicans played their usual civil rights role; they furnished whatever votes were needed to help recalcitrant Democrats. Their role has been so miserable over a period of the past 20 years that it is hard to see how they can even ask Negroes for votes in 1962.

The Administration wasn't overly helpful at this session of the legislature either. The governor wasn't as forthright as he was in his first two years and the Hawkins bill got little help until it was far too late.

There were a few minor victories. Racial designation was removed from marriage licenses. Obsolete vagrancy laws were removed from the statute books. Small increases were made in old age assistance, and relative responsibilities were lightened.

Certainly we got less than we should have had. It is also true that we put out less effort than we should have expended. The price of success in politics is eternal pressure.

Yorty Approves Councilman

Mayor Elect Sam Yorty got off on the right foot last week when he expressed the belief that City Council should elect a Negro to serve out Charles Navarro's unexpired term. It is an early redemption of his campaign pledge to serve all of the people of this city.

At the same time, the new mayor said that he would carry out his pledge to San Fernando residents to give that area another councilman. In essence, that proposal contemplates the removal of the 10th district to the valley.

That leaves all of us with time to do some long term planning. If the 10th District is moved there will have to be a wholesale re-shuffling of boundary lines for the 9th, 6th, 8th and 15th districts. The vast majority of Negro voters live in these districts.

City Council has heretofore shown a positive genius for gerrymandering in order to divide up the Negro population between existing districts in such a manner as to leave Negro voters with only vote power in every district.

Each Los Angeles councilmanic district contains about 200,000 persons and there are some 400,000 Negroes in the city, roughly enough for two districts. There is no reason, except political expediency, why Negro voters are not in a majority in at least one district.

The election of a Negro councilman from the 10th district would give us a representative who could see that we get a fair shake when new district lines are drawn. We've said before, and we want to say again, that the man best qualified to speak for us, all of us, in City Council is J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson. We hope the council heeds Mr. Yorty's plea to appoint a Negro in the 10th district and that Atkinson is that man.

Los Angeles Ready for Action

The tremendous turnout at Sunday's meeting for Martin Luther King was important both because it signalized support for the Freedom Riders and because it told the city that Los Angeles Negroes have come of age.

If we accept current census estimates that there are some 400,000 Negroes in Los Angeles the outpouring of approximately 40,000 people at the meeting means that one out of every ten Negroes took time out on a beautiful Sunday afternoon to express his belief in, and support of, a movement designed to wipe out segregation.

The problem confronting Negro leaders in Los Angeles is that of how and in what manner they can catch up with the mood of the people and translate that mood into effective social protest.

It is true that most local problems are not as dramatic as a freedom ride in Mississippi or a sit-in strike in Alabama but these problems touch the lives of the people as deeply. The same people who responded to the call for Sunday's public meeting will respond in other instances if they can be persuaded that their participation will lead to a solution of their own vexing problems.

There is plenty to do in Los Angeles to eliminate discrimination in housing, in civil service, in unions, in industry, in political districting and in almost every other phase of our lives.

The people are ready to do something about it. They're waiting to be led into effective ways of doing what needs to be done. It's time that somebody assumed that leadership.

Meany's Complaint Unfounded

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has had his feelings hurt because Negroes have criticised some of the racial practices of his organization. He called the criticisms unfounded and ill advised in a recent speech.

Mr. Meany pointed out, correctly enough, that organized labor has made some important gains in its racial practices in the past few years. That, he implied, should be enough to still the critics.

The difficulty is that the labor leader entirely misreads the need of Negroes. They're tired of snail's pace gains and of fair words. They want American labor to live up to its preachments.

Of course, organized labor has its problems in trying to root out traditional inequalities and discrimination, all too many of them of its own making. It has been suppliant when it should have been mandatory in respect to particular unions. It has swept too much dirt under the bed instead of cleaning up its own house.

There can be no doubt of the fact that the Negro workman must support organized labor for his own good. But the time has passed when that support should be, or will be, given blindly.

JFK Might Try Governors

While President John F. Kennedy is conferring with heads of states it might not be a bad idea for him to call a conference with the heads of the deep southern states and remind them that they're still in the union.

The wholesale arrests of freedom riders in Alabama, Mississippi and Florida for their failure to abide by segregation laws are a plain affront to the federal government.

Everyone knows that the convictions obtained in these states will not stand the scrutiny of the United States Supreme Court which has said as plainly as it can that segregation in interstate travel offends federal laws.

These arrests are not made for the purpose of upholding the laws of the states; they're made for the purpose of defying federal authority.

The way we hear it, Mr. Kennedy has been very successful in treating with such tough characters as President De Gaulle and Khrushchev. We wish he would try his luck with Patterson of Alabama and Barnett of Mississippi.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

By the time this column begins to circulate among its readers, I shall be in Washington, doing what ordinarily I dislike—taking part in a mammoth-sized conference. Ordinarily I dislike such gatherings of size because there is seldom any central interest that arouses a common understanding and loyalty among the participants when their numbers run into the thousands.

In this case, however, there is such a central theme—the theme of American survival in an upset world — and so I gladly accepted the invitation to address a plenary session of the National Conference on International Economic and Social Development.

TIRED OF SNEERS

Though I was invited in my capacity as president of the International Conference of Social Work, it was not this designation that gave me a feeling of importance in the speaker's role assigned me in discussing social components of national development in those countries still lagging in the matter of economic progress. What made me say "yes" even before the telephone invitation was formally completed was the fact of my race. For this is a subject that is important to me as an American and world citizen, yes, but doubly important to an American whose forebears came from Africa.

GRANGER

For I am sick and tired of hearing the subject of economic and technical assistance discussed as if aid to the nations of Europe is an investment in our own national security, while aid to the new, weak and frequently disorganized nations of Asia and Africa and Latin America falls under the heading of international charity. I am tired of sneers at the "corrupt and inefficient" governments of Latin America and Africa expressed by Congressmen and Senators representing the most corrupt and inefficiently governed states of this country. Just as I am tired of racial bigotry masquerading, in this debate, as thrifty concern for the taxpayer's dollar.

HUNGRY WILL ACT

All of this, of course, is extra feeling on the subject — an emotion packed on top of the instinct for self-survival that every rational human being is expected to display. I am intelligent enough to realize that starving people by the hundreds are not going to sit outside the windows of a banquet hall, waiting patiently and indefinitely while now and then some belly-packed diner tosses a scrap or two outside to be scrambled over. Sooner or later — and generally sooner — the starving will develop their own leaders or accept any leadership offered that promises to move in and take over the banquet hall and food.

When that happens, all the cops in town will not prevent a riot. Perhaps when the riot is over there will be no food left for anyone; or perhaps the self-elected leaders will be found to have sneaked off with the food, leaving the people still hungry. But that won't be any satisfaction to me, if I should be among the banqueters — as all Americans are in the eyes of the world's starving.

Let the worldwide riot take place — under Communist or any other leadership — and the members of the pillaging throng will never distinguish between those who eat and those who serve the table — those who receive the best plates and those who get the leftovers. They are all in the banquet hall together.

SURVIVAL

And this is the reason of self-survival that makes President Kennedy's request to Congress for nearly $3,000,000 for foreign economic and social aid a matter of personal business to every American of whatever connection.

Now, I can understand why the Daughters of the American Revolution and the leaders of the Farm Bureau Federation don't get the connection between international welfare and American survival; for the dear "daughters" of a revolution that took place over two hundred years ago have never shown any sign of understanding why the revolution began in the first place; while the heads of the Farm Bureau Federation have never shown signs of a social conscience much higher than that of the hogs and cattle that many of them breed so profitably.

I can also understand why members of the John Birch Society are conspicuous in the leadership of a [illegible] that is quietly working with reactionary or timid Congressmen to defeat the bill. For the John Birch Society was founded on a peculiarly stupid kind of misunderstanding of the nature of the modern world.

JUST COMMON SENSE

But what I can't understand—and refuse to try — is why people who parade their religion as an alleged guide to their social conduct should stand idly by when these anti-social forces organize. And what I'll never understand (and you needn't try to make me!) is how Americans who howl their admiration for New Africa and make speeches, and carry on demonstrations professing support for African independence, show no sign of ever having heard of economic foreign aid, and accept no responsibility for helping to counteract the fools and bigots who are telling Congress that economic and technical assistance has been a failure and should be cut down immediately and cut completely within a year or so.

That's why I'm glad to be in Washington as you read this column, talking to people who can understand the realities of modern international life. And that's why I hope that as you read this jeremiad, you will put your underused indignation machinery to work and grind off some letters to your own Congressmen and Senators, telling them to put some hustle on pushing through the Kennedy program.

Me! lobbying for a Kennedy proposal? Kennedy proposal, my eye! This is merely the survival instinct expressing itself at the lowest level of common sense.

Loren Miller Says . . .

to get in a lick at Jim Crow. There are many other things that need to be done and that will have to be done other than sitting down at a white lunch counter in Alabama or walking into the Whites Only rest rooms in Mississippi. I hope those other things get done; I am sure they will be.

On the other hand, I think it is much easier for the average man to understand what's going on in the sit-ins or the freedom rides than it is for him to grasp some highly technical legal point that is involved in a civil rights suit. The freedom riders ride right out in the open while negotiations that lead to the destruction of a color barrier in an industry or a labor union are conducted in secrecy. In addition to all that, the victory in a sit-in or a freedom ride is readily apparent. No lawyer has to explain it and no social worker has to interpret it.

SELF RESPECT

Such victories also do wonders to restore resIf-respect and self-esteem and that's important. A victory over segregation in a South Carolina lunch counter is not only a triumph over the owner of a Jim Crow eating place. It's a decision over the whole state—its customs, its traditions, its laws. David has taken a swat at Goliath.

There's also the fact that boycotts, sit-ins and freedom rides give everybody a chance to participate. Of course, most people will actually never get around to doing more than offering aid and comfort to the participants, but the average man can say to himself that he could get in the act if he had a mind to do so. That's more than he can do in a legal case or in negotiations respecting discrimination in the civil service or in industry. In such cases the best he can do is contribute his money and trust the job to somebody else.

A combination of all of these factors has enabled the new direct actionists to catch the popular fancy. And there's no slowing the movement down. Pleas for cooling off periods won't do it; throwing the participants in jail won't have much effect. An idea whose time has come is mighty hard to stop. The idea that's abroad among Negroes is that they're entitled to equality. And they don't want it tomorrow or the next day. They want it today.

The 35,000 to 40,000 people who turned out Sunday voted for freedom today in the best way they know how. They told the city and the nation that they're tired of delays and promises. And when the people want something in a democracy they get it.

John Hope Gets Employment Job

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Appointment of John Hope II, of Nashville, Tenn., as assistant executive director for federal employment on the staff of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity was announced Sunday by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, committee chairman.

Hope is director of industrial relations in the race relations department of the Congressional Christian Churches at Fisk University in Nashville a post he has held since 1945.

his look of innocence and his winning ways with women, including those who sit in the jury box.

But this time his luck seemed to have run out.

Immediately after Judge Ziemann's decision was announced, Hawkins' attorney, Frank Duncan, made a motion for a new trial. That motion was denied.

NO APPEAL

Atty. Duncan told the Eagle later that his client does not intend to file an appeal against the verdict.

The verdict of guilty on all three counts was returned Saturday afternoon, after the jury had deliberated on the lengthy trial for five full days, during which they had asked for a rereading of the testimony of Mrs. Aileen Eaton, promoter wife of Cal Eaton, operator of the Olympic Auditorium, who testified that Hawkins, together with two other men, had attacked, gagged and robbed her in the driveway of her home last Jan. 14. One of the men, she claimed, was armed.

ACCOMPLICE

Also found guilty on the same three counts as Hawkins was Mrs. Miriam Kritzer, who was arrested along with him in a Beverly Hills hotel shortly after the attack on Mrs. Eaton.

She was not immediately sentenced, however. Her case will come up for a probation hearing next month.

Police maintained that Mrs. Kritzer was Hawkins' accomplice who "fingered" for him wealthy women with whom she was associated in a card club.

In a surprise move Saturday afternoon, after the jury returned its verdict, Hawkins and Atty. Duncan asked the judge to pass sentence immediately.

Judge Ziemann, however, stated he wished to hold the matter over until Monday. By then, apparently, he had obtained Hawkins' lengthy police record and was not inclined to show leniency.

BIT MAN'S THUMB

Principal prosecution witness, along with Mrs. Eaton, was Mrs. Gris, of 2927 Gilmertan avenue, who asserted she was attacked and robbed two days after the attack on Mrs. Eaton.

During the robbery of Mrs. Gris, her attacker had placed his hand over her mouth to stifle her screams. She caught his thumb between her teeth and bit down hard.

When Hawkins was arrested, he was suffering from a hand injury. Police claimed it was caused by a human bite, which he denied.

CHARGES

The charges on which the guilty verdict was returned were:

1. Conspiracy to commit robbery, which provides for a sentence of from five years to life;
2. First degree robbery — the robbery of Mrs. Eaton during which one of the attackers was armed—which carries a sentence of a possible 10 years to life; and
3. Second degree robbery—the robbing of Mrs. Gris — which could carry a sentence of one year to life.

Mrs. Kritzer, according to testimony during the trial and police information, is as much a victim of Hawkins manipulation as his co-worker in crime.

She formerly was fairly wealthy, but since her association with Hawkins, police claimed, she lost her Hollywood home, her furs and her jewelry, and had separated from her husband.

Wife Suspected As Mate Cut

A young housewife, Ann Martha Grayson, is being sought for questioning in connection with the stabbing of her husband, Norman C. Grayson, 32, of 205 E. 5th street.

The victim was stabbed in the upper chest and arms during an argument on the private walkway at 1171½ W. 39th street, around 12:25 a.m. Saturday.

Fred and Earlene Roberts, of the W. 39th street address, said that they looked out of the window when they heard an argument. They did not go outside until after the fight was over and the victim called for help.

2 Long Beach Officers Appeal

The two Long Beach officers who attempted to blackmail Dr. J. O. Garland last year were sentenced Friday to from one to 14 years in the State prison.

Judge J. Howard Ziemann refused to grant a new trial or probation to the two former police inspectors, Harry P. Finch, 48, and James Thiele, 48.

Both appealed the sentence, however, and were freed on $5000 each, pending outcome of the appeal.

Nkrumah Calls Upon Unions to Aid Angola

Kwame Nkrumah, president of Ghana, called upon independent African nations and the international trade union movement to support the Angolese people in their fight against the terrorist rule of their Portuguese colonial rulers, in a speech before the Ghanaian National Assembly May 30.

Declaring that the "Portuguese territories in Africa are slave states and have always been slave states," Nkrumah supported United Nations resolutions condemning Portugal's war against the Angolans, but also:

CALLS FOR AID

Called upon African nations to "make concerted arrangements for the assistance of the wounded and the refugees from Portuguese territory;"

Called upon "dockers not to load arms destined for Portugal;" and Appealed to "seamen not to carry goods of any description to or from Angola."

Further, in calling upon all Africans to use every means at their disposal to publicize the facts about what is happening in Angola, he declared:

"Divided we can do nothing for the people of Angola. United we are certain of securing their triumph."

Nkrumah then added, without explanation: "If all this should fail, then we will have to find some other means."

GALVAO'S REPORT

In a lengthy speech in which he bared some of the basic economic and political factors that underlie Portugal's hold over its African colonies, Nkrumah explained the background of the recent hijacking of the Portuguese liner "Santa Maria" in South American waters by Capt. Henrique Galvao.

In 1947 Galvao was sent by the Portuguese Government to investigate Angola. He was expected, says Nkrumah, to whitewash what he saw there. Instead he submitted an honest account of conditions.

He described, Nkrumah continues, "how in Angola, openly and deliberately, the state acts as a recruiting and distributing agent for labor on behalf of a band of settlers who as though it were quite natural, write to the Department of Native Affairs for 'a supply of workers' . . . He had no doubt in his mind as to the existence of slavery but he explained . . . 'in some ways the situation is worse than simple slavery. Under slavery, after all, the native is bought as an animal; his owner prefers him to remain as fit as a horse or an ox.

40 PER CENT DIE

"'Here the native is not bought, he is hired from the state, although he is called a free man; and his employer cares little if he sickens or dies, once he is working, because when he sickens or dies his employer will simply ask for another.'"

Galvao stated that in some cases statistics showed a death rate of 40 per cent among forced laborers.

Galvao was thrown into prison, but escaped to turn up again in 1960 in his dramatic mutiny on the Santa Maria.

In regard to the present situation, Nkrumah stated:

AFRICAN DEAD

"Indiscriminate slaughter of men, women and children is at this very moment taking place in Angola. Forests are being set on fire by incendiary bombs dropped from Portuguese aircraft, thus burning alive thousands upon thousands of men, women and children for no crime other than being African.

"Armed Portuguese settlers roam the towns and countryside killing and looting at will. Such is the dreadful picture of events in Angola painted in the world press of today. No newspaper has estimated the African dead at less than 20,000. Some put it as high as 100,000."

Nkrumah says further: "In Angola, in spite of the enervating force of slave labor, in spite of the absence of any form of proper education, in spite of all the grinding disabilities and misery suffered by the people there, that country has now entered the African nationalist revolution and it will never be the same again.

"However, if the Angolan people are left to fight their battle entirely on their own, their sufferings and casualties will be enormous."

Radio Car Shift

effect that change by instituting, and announcing for all to hear, a policy against any racial discrimination anywhere in any city department.

"He would do well to begin with the Police Department which clings to a policy of never assigning Negro and white police officers to work together when officers work in pairs."

The Eagle was informed that the LAPD had been considering for some time the advisability of assigning its personnel in squad cars on a basis of efficiency rather than on a basis of race.

Many Give Donations to Aid 'Riders'

$3000 at a breakfast earlier in the day.

MORE NEEDED

Money was still coming in this week, however, and donors who were unable to squeeze their way into the arena were asked to send their checks to the Western Christian Leadership Conference, care of the Ward AME Church, 1177 W. 25th street.

The WCLC, of which the Rev. L. Sylvestor Odom, pastor of Ward AME, is president, sponsored the Sports Arena Rally.

A complete list of donors was not available at press time, but some of the larger donations that were turned in at the afternoon meeting were called out from the rostrum.

Prominent among the donors were church groups, some of the smaller social clubs and individuals. Only a few of the local business firms turned in their contributions at Sunday's rally, and practically none of the influential social groups.

GOV. GIVES $100

Gov. Brown started off the donations with his check for $100.

Donations of $500 were received from Philips Temple and from George Shearing, who also donated his musical talents.

Other large donors were Grant AME, $350; Bart Lytton, who introduced the governor, the amount of whose donation was not announced; Victory Baptist Church, $200; St. Mathews Baptist Church, $200; Ward AME, $250; Harrison Ross Funeral Home, $200; Dootsie Williams, $200; McCarty Memorial, $175; and Neighborhood Community Church, $150.

SKYCAPS CONTRIBUTE

The Skycaps of Western Airlines contributed $143; members of the Fly Blackbird cast (who had offered to participate in the entertainment, but who never got a chance to appear), $64; a local of the United Auto Workers, $62.50; and a Garment Workers (ILGWU) local, $50. The Musicians Union contributed the services of its members.

Voices of Victory Choir donated $100; Calvary Baptist Church, $100; Carey M. Rogers, $100; a group of tavern owners — Collins, Caribbean Red Carpet, Marty's and Seafood Grotto — $120; Mt. Sinai Baptist, $100; Silver Star Social Club, $100.

Safety Savings employes contributed $62.32. Among those making $50 donations were: Marty Zuniga; Tommy Tucker; Knudsen Dairy Co.; Henri O'Bryant; Atty. Cris Wright; Richard Aubrey; National Council of Negro Women; Hamilton Methodist Church.

Ebenezer Baptist Church contributed $56.50.

Donations of $25 were received from Marguerite Moore, Albert Lewis, George Thomas, Mahalia G. Wells; the Mississippi Club, the Syndicate Social Club, Edward Christmas and Robert W. Lee.

The Opportunity Baptist Church contributed $30; the Independent Students Union, $20; Omega Phi Psi, $15; and Kappa Alpha Psi, $15.

There were many other donations that were called off from the rostrum, but acoustics at the Sports Arena, especially in the special section reserved for the press, made it difficult to catch all of the names and all of the amounts.

Mrs. Addie McCormick's Last Rites Held at Bethel

The chancel of Bethel AME Church was banked with scores of beautiful floral arrangements around the steel-grey casket of Mrs. Addie Horn McCormick, at the funeral services on Saturday afternoon, June 17. Hundreds of weeping friends and relatives participated in the memorial services for the mother of Mrs. Lena Jordan, one of the trustees of Bethel.

Mrs. McCormick, who died Thursday, was born on April 21, 1884 in St. Francis County, Mo., to John and Sarah Horn. She lived in Oklahoma where she was married to Bert McCormick, and moved to Chanute, Kans. where she lived until she moved to Los Angeles in 1955, after her husband's death.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Anna Carson of Chanute, Kans.; a brother, Edward Horn of Wellington; two daughters, Mrs. Lena Jordan, with whom she lived; Mrs. Rose Long of San Diego; a son Ernest McCormick of Richmond, Calif., and a great grandson, Harold Lee Walker of San Diego; and a host of relatives, nieces, nephews, cousins and friends in California, Kansas and throughout the country. Browns, Horns, Burnetts, etc.

Rev. Fred E. Stephens, pastor of Bethel gave the eulogy after remarks by Rev. Harry M. Davis of Santa Monica, Rev. Wayne C. Love of San Diego, who were long time friends of Mrs. McCormick. Rev. T. L. Scott offered prayer and Rev. E. Mays read the 23rd Psalm.

Mrs. McCormick was the honorary mother of the Fred E. Stephens club and its membership served as honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearers were Mitchell Miles, John Griffin, Grady Crockett of Bethel AME Church and Lincoln Chester, Fred Odin and Orville of the Topeka Club.

A beautiful resolution was offered by the honorary pallbearers for their adopted Mother. Sue Bolden and Hazel Chapman sang the favored hymns of the deceased and the choir sang the "Old Rugged Cross" and "Precious Lord Take My Hand."

Couple Beam Inspirational Early Hour

By BARBARA MOUNTS

The Moments of Decision radio broadcast heard each Sunday morning over KTYM, the AM 1460 and FM station 103.9 at 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. was born in the minds of two young people who came to Los Angeles from Texas in 1939. The idea, according to John and Vermya Phillips, grew quite naturally out of the desire of both of them to impart to others some of their discoveries in the world of philosophy, music and religion.

The desire to reach a large number of people with the message of inspiration through radio was the result of an interest in broadcasting and the ability to use the techniques of radio, which he had been studying, led Phillips to seek sponsors for the program which the two of them had worked out together.

ENCOURAGEMENT

Mrs. Phillips had taught school in Texas and had been a student of the higher teachings, filing bits of encouraging philosophy for the day when it might help some discouraged person to see the light of a brighter future, she said, when asked where she found the wealth of material read each Sunday. Then too, she said, she garners bits from friends, sermons and books along the way, each week.

Why broadcast so early? Well, Phillips said, that is the time when one can be certain that folks interested will listen. There are not so many interruptions and one may listen while dressing, shaving or preparing breakfast or dusting the family car. Sometimes those who are ill will listen to early broadcasts and we have many letters telling us of the encouragement it gives them, the Phillips added.

PIONEERS

These two enterprising young people interview outstanding personalities on the program and tape interesting facts to pass on to the listening public.

'Tee Time'

— WITH —

Maggie Hathaway

California Eagle Golf Editor

In Saturday's U. S. Open, Gene Littler won with one of the largest galleries in golf following him.

Six years ago when we visited the San Diego Open we had a chance to see Gene play his last amateur game and he caused a mild sensation with one of the most perfect 'forms (a golfer's swing) in golf.

Speaking of galleries reminds us of the many times that we have watched them on T.V. running and following their favorite professional. Sometimes it is very inspiring to a professional to attract a large gallery and again it can be a "pain in the neck," especially if his gallery is a wild, running, noisy group of fans who insist on autographs while the pro is trying to line up his shots.

The most annoying fan in a gallery is the one who insists on "clicking his camera" at the wrong time and that time is when a professional is putting. Last year we saw Smiley Quick order a fan to leave his gallery when he started his camera to turning just as Smiley started lining up his putter. Smiley hates cameras.

Some galleries are composed of women golfers who follow a certain pro to observe his golf "togs."

In the 1957 Texas Open Jimmy Demeretes did not disappoint them, wearing mink flaps on his golf shoes, mink club covers and a mink trimmed glove. The ladies fairly swooned, especially when he did nothing less than win the tournament.

In the 1958 LA Open Lloyd Mangrum (who is tall, dark and handsome with a "razor edged" mustache) had the fans leaving their favorite pros to take a look at him strolling down the Rancho fairways in an all-black outfit topped off with "silver shoes" and playing with his newly invented glass shaft clubs. (Mangrum also sometimes gets a thrill by coming out of a sand trap with a wood which is supposed to be an impossible golf shot.)

"Terrible Tempered" Tommy Bolt always attracts a huge gallery because the fans know that before the day ends he is going to lose his temper and break up a few clubs, accompanied by some choice words that cannot be found in the Ladies' Home Journal.

The only golfer who broke up more clubs than Tommy Bolt was Joe Louis. When a little Mexican caddy beat Joe out at Montebello several years ago, instead of breaking the clubs Joe gave them and his shoes to the caddy (who had beaten him) and walked into the clubhouse in his bare feet. After that Joe did not play golf for two years.

Last but not least we must not forget to mention the Charley Sifford gallery which is fascinated by watching Charles do the impossible, hit the ball while smoking a huge cigar.

The gallery of all galleries is the group of fans who drive miles to the tournament to watch the pros tee off, then retire to the bar and drink while watching the rest of the tournament on the bar TV. Then they go home and tell the "little woman' how tired they are from following the professionals around all day in one of the "biggest galleries in golf history."

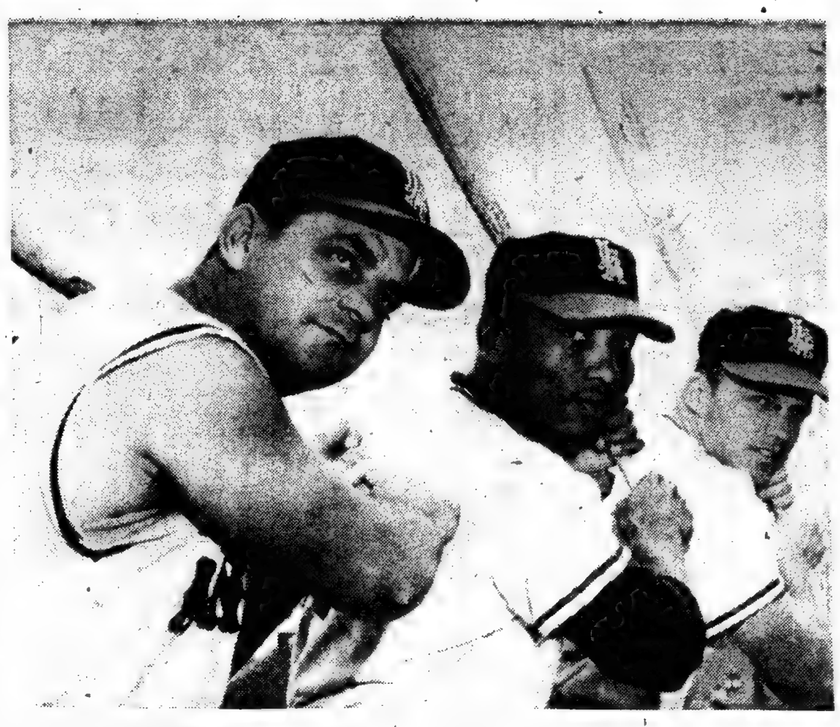
A series of eight All-Comers Track Meets gets under way June 23 at 4 p.m., sponsored by the Youth Services Section of the Los Angeles City Schools and sanctioned by the Southern Pacific Assn. of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Marlin Swim Club Scores Big in Meet

Coach Walter Hutcherson, of the 28th Street YMCA Marlin Swim Team, took a seven-man squad to Sacramento and entered them in the powerful Pacific Southwestern Area Championship Swim Meet.

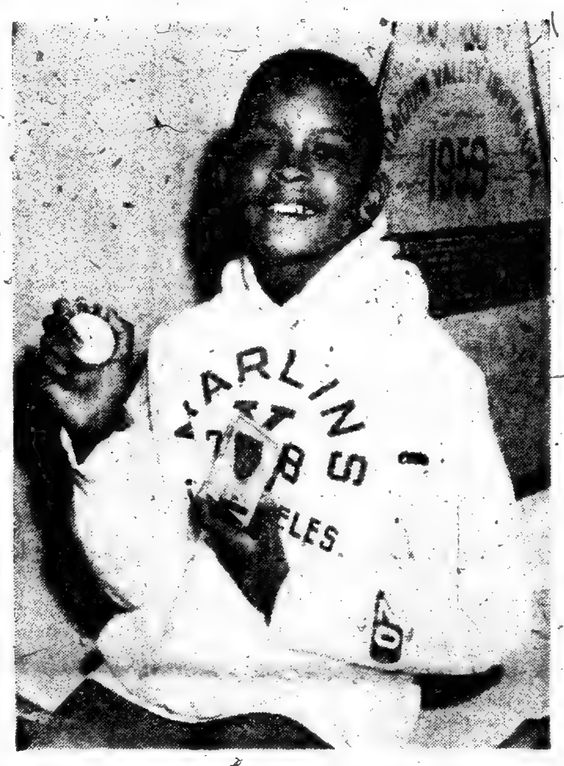
They brought home many honors, one being a new meet mark for the 50-yard breaststroke set by little Eddie Spann.

The Prep Relay, composed of Robert Roy, Michael Gray, Lee Roy Johnson and Eddie Spann, took fourth place in the 200-yard free-style event and fifth place in the 200-yard medley race.



Sammy Roy of Jordan High, Vernon Robinson from Dorsey and Victor Allen of L. A. High, all lettermen, placed in the various events they entered.

The meet attracted the finest YMCA swimmers from six states including Hawaii. One of the highlights of the meet was when Eddie Spann set his new mark. Five of the six finalists also broke the old mark of 37.5 and Robert Roy, another Marlin Swim Clubber, placed fifth in that race.



Tonight (Thursday) the Parent Club of the Marlin Club will honor the club members during their annual banquet which will be held at the 28th Street YMCA.

Shepherd, manager of the fair. This record sum includes purse offerings for the harness horse and quarter horse divisions, as well as more than $340,000 for the thoroughbred races.

Tonight (Thursday) is the final game with the Red Sox. Then the Angels will mace the scrappy Baltimore Orioles Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

SET SWIM MARK—Twelve-year-old Eddie Spann, one of the ace swimmers on the 28th Street YMCA team, shattered the 50-yard breast-stroke record during the Pacific Southwest Area YMCA Championship Meet held in Sacramento last Saturday. Spann powered to a 35-flat race, smashing the old mark of 37.5.

The Los Angeles Times Special Events Department has announced its 16th annual football classic against George Preston Marshall's Washington Redskins, one of the most prejudiced owners in the National Football League.

For years Negro sportswriters and fair minded white editors have been asking old George to drop his biased attitude and hire Negro football players. Each year he ignores their plea and each year the winless Redskins find themselves in the cellar. Washington officials, earlier this year warned Marshall that unless he came up with some Negro players his team wouldn't be allowed to play in the government-built stadium in Washington. So far Marshall hasn't announced any change in his policy.

Glenn Davis, director of Special Events for the L.A. Times, is fully aware of the Redskins' policy and although the game is sponsored for the newspaper's charity program, it's now becoming evident that the Times and Mr. Marshall are playing footsies and that the Times doesn's give a hoot if Marshall ever changed his policy as long as the game is played and the general public supports it.

Now with Floyd Patterson making the Miami boxing promoters guarantee him that there would be no segregation at his championship fight and then giving the NAACP a check, with Archie Moore announcing on TV the night of his championship fight he was helping the Freedom Riders with a $1000 check and with Negro track athletes refusing to take the field in Houston in a dispute over seregation, we think that unless George P. Marshall comes up with Negro players the L.A. football fans should boycott the Ram-Redskins game coming up on Friday, August 11.

In fact Edward Warren, president of the local NAACP Branch, should call for a mass picket line to surround the Coliseum and let the Times and Mr. Marshall know we mean business this year.

Certainly the Times will yell look what we are doing in the community with the Times Boys Club program, but on the other hand the Redskins game encourages segregation and the fans, white and black, who support the game also encourage the likes of George P. Marshall to continue their practices. Mr. Marshall has had plenty of chances and I, for one, am not ready to make this sort of compromise this year. The General public is fully aware of the truth that by delaying a demonstration against Marshall, we in a sense are encouraging him to continue his policy.

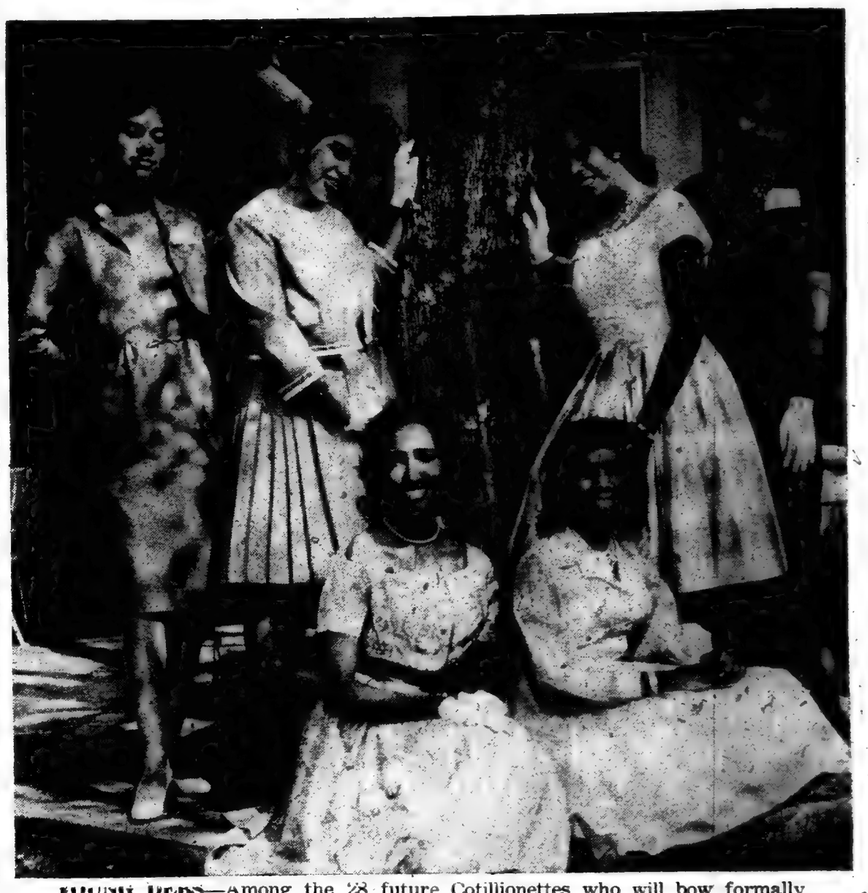
Twenty-Eight Young Ladies To Bow at Links Cotillion

The beauty of a sunny June afternoon was matched by the radiant loveliness of 28 young ladies and the proud countenances of their mothers as the Los Angeles Links honored them recently at tea in the Angeles Vista home of their president, Mrs. Cecil B. Murrell.

Each prospective cotillionette for the fall, 1961, debutante season was greeted, along with her mother, by the Links' social committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. John F. Simmons; Mrs. Murrell; Cotillion Chairman Mrs. Robert W. Garrott; and Cotillionette Chairman Mrs. David W. Williams; and was introduced by her sponsoring Link.



After partaking of tea indoors poured by Mrs. John A. Somerville and Miss Miriam Matthews, and patio punch poured by Mrs. Charles M. Broussard, the cotillionettes were addressed by Mrs. Garrott and Mrs. Williams and given the requirements to be met for participating in the climaxing event scheduled for Nov. 18 at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Elect New Officers

Joyce Lenoir was hostess to the regular monthly meeting of the Wives of the Bench and Bar recently at her home on Buckingham road.

The agenda was a full one, due to the annual election of officers and also to the final ticket reports and announcement of the grand financial success of the annual breakfast. Mr. Tom Bradley addressed the group on his aspirations for the Council seat in the 10th Councilmanic District.

Lucy B. Adams To Visit Europe For 3 Months

Lucy B. Adams, who retired in 1956 from the Los Angeles High School, where she taught mathematics for 34 years, was surprised at a going-away party last Saturday. She is taking a students' and teachers' guided summer tour of Europe.

She sails from San Diego Friday, June 23, via the Pacific and Orient Lines on the S.S. Chusan Maru through the Panama Canal, stopping a day at Trinidad, a day in Barbados, British West Indies, and a day in Las Palinas, Canary Islands.

On to London for a few days in England and then to Holland. There the tour transfers to a motorcoach to the following countries: West Germany, Belgium, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Monaco and France. From France the tour embarks on the S. S. Oronsay, which will stop in Lisbon for one day before heading back through the Panama Canal, to arrive in Long Beach Harbor Sept. 3.

The surprise going-away party for Miss Adams was arranged by members of the Wilton Place Democratic Club, of which she is a hard-working member. It was held in the fashionable apartment of Lyndsay Vickers. Percia Hutcherson, president, was assisted by Opal Jones and other members.

Sailing with Miss Adams will be Katheryn Rodgers, a cousin of Mrs. Hutcherson on the S.S. Chusan Maru.

Betty Jackson

The Ladies of Paradise regular club meeting was held last Sunday afternoon in the lovely home of Betty Jackson.

Members discussed ideas for a "Bring-Your-Own Party," scheduled for late October.

Club member Thelma Walker is at the bedside of her mother who is ill in Dallas, Texas. She was the only member not attending the meeting.

Frontiers of Beauty Explored at Meet

Theme of the first annual state convention of the California State Cosmetology Association of N.B.C.L., Inc. was a "New Frontier in Beauty."

Presided over by state president, Sebenia D. Berry, the two day conclave was held at the Park Manor on south Western avenue. Delegates from throughout the state converged on Los Angeles for this initial event last Saturday and Sunday.

Hostess for the Dawn Breakfast Sunday was the Alpha Lambda chapter of the Theta Nu Sigma Sorority. After a busy early morning schedule the delegates and members worshiped with Rev. E. A. Anderson at McCoy Memorial Baptist Church.

Presentations of the first annual awards, plaques and trophies were made at the banquet Monday night.

One of the main events of the evening was the crowning

Fans of Gaiety In Annual Event

The Fans of Gaiety Club's annual breakfast, held in the home of club member Ruth Watson, was another successful affair given by the popular group.

The breakfast this year was timed perfectly in conjunction with the Freedom Rally. Friends of the club found Mrs. Watson's home an ideal location for the two events. She lives at 1323 W. 40th place, not far from the Sports Arena. The breakfast got under way at 8 a.m. and lasted until 2 p.m.

Following the first affair all of the Fans of Gaiety attended the rally.

Mrs. Arzelia Williams, of 2624½ West boulevard, was awarded the door prize, a large ham. It was the first time she had ever attended a Fans of Gaiety social.

Dance Scheduled

The music of Rene Touzrt will be featured at the Latin-American dance sponsored by the Arnold Albert Chapter of the City of Hope at the Los Angeles Breakfast Club, on Saturday, July 15.

Door prizes will include a '61 Corvette, a trip for two to Las Vegas and many other interesting items.

Joe Orloff is chairman of the event.

Bill Smallwood

In Washington, D.C., wholesale greetings were collected for Kate Garcia, Doris Rodriguez, Corrine Sneed, Dr. Bill Ozier, Dr. Jay Moss, Helen Wright. Jim Scott's aunt we just missed. Ditto Frances Williams, who was in the city with the touring "Raisin" company.

Learned that Juanita Terry Barbee is O.K. and her sister, Beulah Goodman, waved adieu to NYC and joined her singer-husband in Europe. I was asked if Jester Hairston's after-Europe travel included that city: I know not other than he hoped to have Margie join him in Spain before returning home to L.A.

In Wilmington, Del., Dr. and Mrs. Billy Goens (they were expecting Aaron Douglass the next day) wished to be remembered to Fannie Benjamin. Catching up with us was news of Edna McCormick's illness while in SF and having to be rushed home to L.A. Surprised, as well, to learn Fr. Shelton Bishop's trip to the mainland from Honolulu was for surgery; he visited in L.A.

In Manhattan, Edith Jones Boyd tells us Ed is in London and in L.A. her mother, Edith Jones, was entering the hospital. Hall Johnson is hospitalized in NYC with a stroke. Jules Smith spends August in L.A. Freda DeKnight to Europe. Jodie Cooper, incomparable as ever, mixes martinis while telling us her son, Richard, plans to visit L.A. in August. Also learned Nat Collins was in NYC not long ago. Asked after: Jenette Paront, who is expected in NYC before summer's end. I'd hopes of running into her on the Cape.

Nuffy and Cab Calloway rushing to Balto., and along with them was Chi's Sam Waters; he, too, will be in L.A. later. Henry Lewis will be in NYC to conduct a summer concert. The Stan Yanceys of Boston wanted to be remembered to the L.A. branch of the Dunnings, Stan being a cousin of theirs. They'll visit L.A. next summer; Stan's parents are visiting L.A. currently. Dr. Roy Andrew, president of the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association, announced that on Sunday, June 25, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Brookside Park the group will hold its annual picnic.

Section "B" of the Park will be reserved for all those "Holiday Chefs" and others who wish to do their own cooking or Bar-B-Q-ing.

Special entertainment will be provided for the children, including Stage Coach rides, games of every description and little theatre attractions.

The day's top feature will be a ball game matching the peerless Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical All-Stars against the Bench and Bar Giants.

YWCA Teen-Age Group Slates Mexico Tour

A teen-age exclusive! A two week teen-age Friendship Tour of Mexico was announced this week by the Los Angeles Young Women's Christian Association.

The tour sponsored by the YWCA and its Teen-Age Department will begin June 25 and is planned especially and exclusively for teen-age girls. Reservations can be made by calling Mary Doolittle at the Los Angeles YWCA, DU 3-1112.

The itinerary includes:

By plane from Tijuana to Guadalajara with its magnificent cathedral and government buildings; side trips to the fascinating glass and pottery factories nearby and to Lake Chapala. A visit to the YWCA and a fiesta with the Guadalajara Y-Teens is also planned.

Then will follow a three lay trip by "tourismo" through the mountains, visiting villages enroute — Morelia and Patzcuaro —to Market Day in Toluca and on to Mexico City.

Wedding Showers Fete Miss Shirley Anne Jordan

In keeping with the approaching nuptials of Miss Shirley Anne Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Limuary Alja Jordan, 1244 Gramercy place, to Mr. H. Daniel Bailey of Panama City, Fla., on Sunday June 25, two extremely wonderful showers were given for the bride-to-be.

On Saturday, June 17, at 1:30 p.m., Mrs. Perry W. Beal and her daughter, Miss Louise Beal, of No. 7 Berkeley Square, honored Miss Jordan with a personal shower, having as their guests some 20 of her close friends.

A delightful repast centered around a fruit filled melon. Cards and recordings all contributed to the pleasure that can be understood only by a bevy of young ladies chattering about days and experiences of the past and the new role the bride is about to assume.

Last Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Llewellyn Mazique, 3042 West Blvd., invited a number of the friends of Mrs. Limuary Jordan, mother of the bride-to-be, for a linen shower.

The honoree received gifts which were uniquely arranged in the form of a laundry basket. The color combination of pink and white, accentuated by pink gladioli and white stock, included a clothesline upon which was strung doll linen. Guests enjoyed lunch served on an elaborate service of china and silver.

Beta Pi Sigma Promenade Set

The latest creations in fashion produced by a host of leading milliners and designers will be presented by Beta Pi Sigma Sorority on Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 7 o'clock, at the palatial gardens of Mrs. Fannie E. Benjamin, 2940 Raymond avenue.

Appropriately called a "Pool and Patio Promenade," models and guests will be entertained by an array of artists headlined by the Robins.

Louise Glover is basileus of the sponsoring Alpha chapter; Maudie Dee Cummings is in charge of reservations; and Kay Murray is director of publicity.

tan; she lived so happily here awhile. Norway's Paula Pettit (singer Ann Brown's daughter) is wowing this section while visiting her father, Dr. Jack Pettit; she flies home to Norway to be married soon.

STAGGERING BOUQUET

Ex-Angeleno Bill Lawrie sends a staggering bouquet of fondest wishes to Millie Blount, who remains one Californian of whom everybody here continually asks, "When is she coming back to us?"

Adele Weaver reaches Chi on the 23rd for a five-day visit, then to Manhattan to collect her grandchildren; next will come a dash to Dallas with them where her Ernest will await them. They'll spend their wedding anniversary there (visiting his sister, Ann, and her family) and then home to L.A., where their grandchildren will summer as usual. Adele and Ernie's dear friend of many years, Cliff Bennett, will turn handsprings to see her again. Cliff hopes to move back to L.A.

Emma Grant is another traveling Angeleno; she has Texas, Chi and Manhattan on her schedule. Marian Orendorff and daughter Joselle jetted home to L.A. after attending the wedding of her niece in the nation's capital.

Finger-snap: Must look up the one, the only Freddy Clark in Boston. Who in L.A. can forget him? Nora Holt in NYC remains her stimulating self; she has no travel plans for the coast. Nor has Ethel Sissle.

Chazz Crawford's Soundtrack

Editor's Note: Comic DICK GREGORY, the hottest new star in Showbusiness, is guesting CHAZZ'S column this week. Chazz spent the day with the comedian Saturday interviewing him at his Suite and making the town's rounds with him later. The two got along famously and here's what Dick told Chazz. It has a serious note, but that's what the Comic and the Scribe decided on for this venture.

By DICK GREGORY

Now the first thing Chazz did was to ask me to evaluate Negro theatrical writers such as himself, and I told him I thought they were too friendly, meaning you can count the times when a Negro theater columnist will say anything bad about a Negro performer's performance.

If the act is lousy they should say so, and if it's so so, then say that too. But, of course, if it's good, then do praise him to the skies! . . . If the entertainer is colored the colored writer nine times out of ten will give him a glowing report no matter how the act went down. About the only time they say something unkind about the performer is when he crosses them and then they use their column as a personal weapon against him.

But the Negro theatrical writer obviously doesn't realize how important he is. At least to the

GORDON GOES WEST

Well, here's the way it's been so far. I boarded a TCA four-engine job at LaGuardia about 2:30 a.m. on Monday, June 12th, and was off for the Coast. At 5:30 a.m. we stopped in Chicago for a half hour, and I phoned Betty Jayne Everett, of the Urban League, and Pauline Thornton and family before continuing nonstop to Burbank, where we arrived at 10:00 a.m., changed planes and flew into Oakland, where Ruth Coleman met me and drove me to the house in her new Thunderbird.

I was the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Coleman and their children, Ruthie, Patsy and Mike, for four days. Mike received his Bachelor of Kindergarten Science diploma from the Town School on Friday just before I grabbed a PSA prop-jet for L.A.

During my stay in the Bay Area, I saw many old friends, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Collins, Jane Richardson (who was recovering from an operation in Mt. Zion Hospital), Terry Francois, Jimbo (Bop City proprietor), Leslie Armstrong of the Plantation, Dr. Herbie Henderson, Jo and Acie Lee, Helen and Eddie Roberts, Mozella Johns, Lulu Carter.

DELIGHTFUL REPASTS

Had a delicious dinner with Ella Mae and Jimmy Butler, and their two daughters, Celeste and Kim, and another with Lillian Fortier and her public relations assistant, Arthur Eaton (who was kind enough to chaffeur me a bit).

FOURTH ESTATERS

Some juice with Flo Allen, a word with William Duncan Allen, and many stops and runs made with the kindness and driving help of my good friend, Andy Olivier.

BAY AREA BASH

Went to the Jazz Workshop for Dizzy Gillespie's opening (which was jammed) and saw Barbara Dane at the Sugar Hill, while Jeri Southern was at the Blackhawk and Vernon Alley was with the Buddy Greco show at Facks.

Stopped in on a workshop session of the Altair Four; Joel Noble, Connie Wye, Harry Dolva and Laura Townsend, where all the entertaining arts are being taught. Beautician, Velma Ford, was my last visitor before I left for L.A.

A MAGNA CARTA FOR THIS MODERN GENERATION

BY MURIEL SMITH

Muriel Smith, star of "THE CROWNING EXPERIENCE," the world-acclaimed motion picture, which was inspired by the life of Mary McLeod Bethune, the revered educator who became advisor to United States Presidents.

Muriel Smith is recognized as one of the great artists of this generation. Her career began on Broadway as the original lead in "Carmen Jones." During her five years at London's famed Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, she gave a Royal Command performance for King George VI. In 1956 and 1957, she sang the title role in "Carmen" in the Royal Opera House at Covent Garden.

Miss Smith has made personal appearances at all the European premieres of "THE CROWNING EXPERIENCE," which include London, Geneva, Rome, Copenhagen, Oslo, and Cyprus. To the leadership of nations she has said, "Art for art's sake is out of date, but art on the basis of a moral ideology will bring back sanity to the world."

DR. MARY MCLEOD BETHUNE, photographed at the Moral Re-Armament World Assembly, Switzerland, 1953, stated, "What idea grips the colored peoples of the world may well decide the future of our civilization. The real differences are not between black and white, but between good and bad. The deciding struggle is between the sovereign grace of God and man's arrogant, rebellious will.

"I have always yearned for the betterment of my people. Frank Buchman has yearned for the betterment of every people. In Moral Re-Armament I have seen the nations of the world standing together regardless of race, class or color.

"Through Moral Re-Armament my eyes were opened and I got a keen realization of what it meant to face myself squarely, to change, and to listen intently and quietly for the direction of the voice of God, so that I, even in my eightieth year, can be a fit soldier for the great battle to remake the world."

At the request of Dr. Bethune she has had carved on her memorial "To be a part of this great uniting force of our age is the Crowning Experience of my life."

"BORN and raised with the race question in America, I have through my life and through my career tried to bring an answer to this problem. The results were ineffective and bordered on disaster. Then I met the force of Moral Re-Armament and discovered that the answer to that great wound in this nation could begin in my heart and in my life. It meant I had to be honest about my past, clarify my motives, and unselfishly to strike out with no thought of personal gain or ambition, with the love for the world that comes when we surrender our wills to be wholly committed to the power of God.

"What can I do, I asked myself, to bring the answer to the American Negro? To the American people? How can I help to make a positive out of a situation which has turned into one of the least attractive aspects of democracy? Could the lessons of slavery be used to help men? We have given our nation and the world the music of our spirituals out of that suffering. Is there something else we might give?

"With all my heart I believe that Moral Re-Armament is the ideology we need desperately in America. I believe, too, that we are fifteen minutes into the hour God has given us to fight that democracy becomes what it is meant to be—a system which enlists the total resources of everyone to remake the world.

"There must be no hold back because of old patterns of bitterness and hatred which have caused so much division in our country. The ideology of Communism grows on these weaknesses. The ideology of Moral Re-Armament teaches us how to heal them. When we allow our lives to be ruled by our passions, we become unwittingly the tools of men whose purpose is to control the world by any means. The end of this is slavery.

"The historical past of my people and their emergence from the bonds of slavery are on the records of history as one of the great miracles of this age. We are equipped to understand the meaning of slavery. We know what is the real meaning of victory through persecution.

"I implore you in this hour of great urgency in the free world to accept this ideology of Moral Re-Armament and use it to cure the sickness of our nation. Division can only reproduce the same conditions of slavery, but this time it will be on a global scale. Before we Americans are free to speak to the world we must be free to speak to our neighbors.

"Why do we, through the unhealed hurts of the past, permit ourselves to be used to create again the same human dilemma when there is an answer? The issue is not color, it is character. The choice is Communism or Moral Re-Armament.

"When we re-arm ourselves morally, we are free to fight to change human nature. It gives us that new character, that extra dimension of thought and action. It replaces the petty preoccupation of self with the dedicated purpose of living for a great idea.

"The struggle of my people has been for full participation in the affairs of our nation. This is the time to take the offensive with the ideology of Moral Re-Armament which alone can achieve that goal. We have been prepared by history for the supreme part in this nation's task in setting the the whole world free."

Negro entertainer. You know at first Negroes didn't know who I was. I would get on a plane and a white passenger who had heard about me would enthusiastically introduce me to a Negro passenger who had never heard of me, and he would admit it. It was kind of embarassing! . . .

And that's another place where the importance of the Negro writer comes in. Most of us are vitally concerned in "Our People" knowing what we're doing! they listen to you! . . . 'Cause we really get "turned on" by the Negro press talking to Negro readers about us! . . .

Why shouldn't the Negro show-business columns get the same respect as the white scribes? When IRV "KUP" KUPCINET walks into a club in Chi, the way the management and the patrons scurry around, you would think the place was being raided. And I remember a time when my agent JOE GLAZER picked up the phone and called a New York columnist to tell him I was going on the JACK PARR TV show for the first time. He told the scribe to look in and catch my act. And then he told him to just forget he saw the show if he didn't dig me. And he was nervous after the conversation just in case he wouldn't pay any attention to his last line and do me in if he didn't dig me. But as it happened the guy liked me, too, and came up with some nice words about me.

People like Chazz and others tell me my humor is doing a lot toward breaking down racial barriers. But that was not exactly my intention. I just wanted to make people laugh. I didn't really grasp the true situation. I didn't even know that a Negro comic had never played a top nightclub. I was unaware of the whole scene. I really was!

You know, we as Negroes have always laughed at our problem. Now we're just laughing at the same problems only "with the white man" and this is probably progress. When you can sit down with a man and even laugh about a debt he owes you, then even if you took a poke at him by the time the blow landed it would be as light as a marshmallow. Now when we're laughing how can we fight each other that hard?

But, now, getting back to the Negro columnist as Chaz and I probably transgressed. We told him and the others not to bend over to conquer because once you bend over you have to bend over for keeps. He got the message and we both just hope the rest of you sepia scribes will.

I have been asked how I felt about being called the Negro Mort Sahl. Well that probably helped me more than anything. After all they had to know I was a Negro and my style was probably closer to his than to Bob Hope, Jack Benny and the others. I wasn't telling stock jokes. I was leaning more towards Mort because my humor is topical. I pick a lot of it up from today's headlines in much the same manner he does. (Editor's Note: Yeah but he waits a few days in order to analyze it, and you've got the guts and the talent to make it funny on a nite club floor the same night it takes place.)

I told Chazz that I don't use any gimmicks in the business because I don't know what they mean.

Jack Denison Surprised by Grove Patron

At the Cocoanut Grove the other evening a man walked up to Maitre D' Jack Denison and said: "Mr. Denison, I have a kiss for you!" Denison, thinking the man some kind of nut, backed away. But, the man smiled and said: "I assure you it's quite alright. I just arrived by jet from Australia, and last evening, shortly before flight time, I was at Andre's, in Sydney, with a party of friends.

I was introduced to your beautiful wife, Miss Dorothy Dandridge, mentioned that I was leaving within the hour for Los Angeles—and she gave me a very tender kiss on the cheek to pass on to you!" (According to Denison, they settled for a handshake and a drink together.)

Wife, Lover Jailed

Charles Harris, well known pianist who formerly accompanied top singer Billy Williams, who has played on TV and who had been playing locally with his own combo for some time, was found dead in his auto last Thursday, parked outside 4711 Pickford street.

Harris also for a period after his arrival in Los Angeles sold insurance for the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co.

BURN MARKS

There were burn marks on Harris' neck, when his body was discovered by officers about 1:15 a.m. His head was resting against the rear seat of the car. There was trash on his trouser leg and cuff and his shoe was scuffed, as if he had been dragged.

Reports that he had been strangled could not be verified. As of press time the coroner's office had not determined the cause of death.

Arrested on suspicion of murder were Harris' wife Irene and a man who claimed he had been her lover for the past three years, Nathaniel Brown, 36, of 1811 S. Harvard blvd., a painter who served time in Michigan for theft.

CALLED POLICE

Police were called in on the case by Mrs. Harris who told officers she had received two alarming calls and that she feared for the life her husband, whom she had not seen since about 10 p.m.

The first call, she said, was from a man whose voice she did not recognize who warned her that he had Harris in the room

Bartender at Lamplighter Beaten, Slain

The bartender at the Lamplighter Cocktail Lounge, 7113 S. Broadway, was cruelly beaten and murdered during two hours of what police called one of the most brutal holdup-killings in local history.

A customer was beaten also and left partially unconscious.

FOUND DEAD

A 61-year-old woman was thrown into a storeroom and covered with empty beer crates.

John Pinter, about 50, was found dead in a massive pool of blood partially under a booth near the dance floor.

The two customers, Paul de Camp and Sarah Campbell, were the only two in the place as Pinter was locking up about 2 a.m.

DeCamp said he was accosted as he came out of the men's room by one of two thugs. He was hit with a blackjack, knocked to the floor, and kicked. The bandit had a .45 automatic in his right hand.

HEARD BEATINGS

DeCamp told of hearing the two thugs beat Pinter again and again, demanding that he tell them where the money was, then return once more and start beating him again.

"Where's the money?" they kept demanding, as they alternately ransacked the bar and beat Pinter.

Police believe the bartender might also have been shot, but his flesh was so bruised that it was impossible to tell until a coroner's examination.

DRAGGED WOMAN

DeCamp said they made Pinter take off his shoes while they were beating him.

He said they also took off his shoes and took his wallet.

Miss Campbell said she was sitting at the bar when the two thugs entered. They grabbed her pocketbook, broke her glasses and shoved her on top of the bowling game machine.

When she ran to the door they grabbed her again and dragged her into the storeroom, where they threw empty cases on top of her.

Both DeCamp and Miss Campbell were taken to Receiving Hospital, apparently in a state of shock.

Police believed the bandits got about $150 from the cash register.

Johnny Otis' Prize Pigeons Stolen

Johnny Otis, band leader of 2077 S. Harvard avenue, reported to police that an unknown bandit pried open his pigeon coop last Thursday and stole nine pigeons of various breeds, brands and colors, valued at $74.

AIDS FREEDOM RIDERS—Lynne Shifflett, pioneer of "Crossroads Africa," senior at L. A. State, and her family have found a way of helping the Freedom Riders. The Shiffletts are giving a "Freedom Gala" at their home Saturday evening, July 8. They will provide the entertainment and the meeting; the guests are expected to donate money to aid the Riders. See Page 2.

'Dead Baby' Moves, Dies Later in Hospital

A premature baby girl, pronounced dead when the doctor arrived shortly after its birth, was found to be alive some three hours later when the tiny infant was unwrapped at the coroner's office.

The baby, daughter of Mrs. Ann Pullian, 1256 W. 39th Street, Apt. 12, was immediately given oxygen, and the attendant called the General Hospital to alert them they were on their way with their charge.

MOTHER FELL

The baby had sufficient vitality to live through until Saturday, but later died.

Mrs. Pullian told a friend that she had tripped and fallen down the stairs Friday evening and about 11:30 p.m. she began to have labor pains.

Willie L. McDowell called Dr. James L. Jones, 1319 S. Manhattan Place, who arrived about 1 a.m.

Mrs. Pullian, meanwhile, had given birth to the baby. The doctor pronounced the baby dead, and when the coroner's officers arrived about 3:45 a.m., they found it wrapped in a towel and a paper bag.

When they arrived back at the morgue and began examing the baby girl, they noticed movement in the body, and attempted to revive her.

46th Spingarn Medal Goes to Psychologist

NEW YORK,—The noted psychologist, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, who played an important role in making possible the Supreme Court's 1954 school decision, has been chosen as the 46th Spingarn Medalist, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, announced last Friday.

Presentation of the medal, awarded annually to a Negro American for distinguished achievement, will be made in Philadelphia, Sunday afternoon, July 16, during the closing meeting of the Association's annual convention which will be held in that city July 10-16.

Dr. Clark is a professor of psychology at the City College of New York. He is also a founder and director of Manhattan's Northside Center for Child Development, an institution which aids disturbed children.

The eminent psychologist has not only achieved national fame in his profession, but has also demonstrated his devotion to the cause of human freedom.

He gave invaluable testimony as to the damaging effects of Jim Crow public education upon the minds of both white and Negro pupils in the legal cases leading to the Supreme Court desegregation ruling of May 17, 1954.

Dr. Clark contributed unstintingly of his time and ingenuity in the preparation of the cases for the Supreme Court, and also assembled a formidable array of social scientists whose clear and forceful presentation made possible the formulation of the legal principle invalidating the old "separate but equal" doctrine.

Local Demos Angry Over Day's Refusal To Appoint Barnes

Despite the fact that an imposing list of leading California Democratic officials, including U.S. Sen. Clair Engle, and top community spokesmen recommended the appointment of Frank H. Barnes for the job of Pacoima postmaster, Postal Chief Edward Day refused to confirm the appointment, it was learned this week.

The refusal was based on a technicality of residence, a technicality which can be waived where the Postmaster General considers this advisable.

RACE INVOLVED

Although Day made no mention of race in stating that he had rejected Barnes' application, it is no secret that a vocal segment of the Pacoima opposition based its protest, in part, on the fact that Barnes is a Negro.

Day's action was sharply criticized in a June 22 letter signed by Bert A. Vance Jr., chairman of the 41st Assembly District Democratic Council, addressed to Gov. Brown, with copies to Pres. Kennedy, Day, Engle and State Democratic leaders.

PRESTIGE ON LINE

Vance stated that the "prestige of this nationally recognized grass roots movement is on the line," and continued:

"The 41st Assembly District Democratic Council overwhelmingly endorsed the recommendation. The 21st Congressional District Democratic Council unanimously supported this recommendation . . .

"Attached is a letter from the office of United States Senator

APPOINTED — Everette M. Porter, attorney, was one of Mayor-Elect Samuel W. Yorty's first appointments. He was named to Police Commission.

Council May Name Member On July 5

Strong rumors that the City Council will select a replacement for Charles Navarro of the 10th district on July 5 set off a new flurry of activity among the more than a score of persons seeking the job. Navarro will assume his post as city controller on July 1.

Leading candidates for the appointment are J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson, George Thomas and Tom Bradley. Atkinson, well known business man, ran a close race against Navarro in 1959. Thomas is executive secretary of the County Conference on Community Relations while Bradley is a police lieutenant and an attorney.

Atkinson this week reiterated the fact that he stands on the platform on which he campaigned in 1959. He said that he will work for ways to ease the burden on taxpayers, devote special attention to helping find ways of developing a rapid transit plan and "of course work at all times to help develop the 10th district as well as the city at large."

Thomas last week got the endorsement of the Building Services Council representing 30,000 members including 9000 city, county and school district employees.

He also has the endorsement of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, the Committee on Political Education, AFL-CIO, the 62nd Assembly District Democratic Council, the Arlington Heights Democratic Club, and the Young Democrats.

In a statement released this week, Bradley listed some of the things he stands for: (1) Avail-

APPOINTMENT BLOCKED — Postmaster General Edward Day has turned down the appointment of Frank Barnes for the position of postmaster of Pacoima, despite endorsement of Democratic Committee and Democratic State leaders. Some of the opposition to his election was openly anti-Negro. (Adams)

'We'll Win Equality,' Says Rev. Abernathy

By GRACE E. SIMONS

The Freedom Riders are striking segregation at its core, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy stated in an interview at the Statler Hotel Saturday.

Moreover, said one of the most persecuted men in the South who is constantly harassed because of his Civil Rights stand, "the segregationists are stupid."

FOCUSED ATTENTION

"If they had just let the bus pass through Montgomery, the Freedom Riders would have come and gone—and there would have been as much segregation after they left as before they arrived.

"But by letting the mobs attack the Freedom Riders, by fighting, by shedding blood, they focused the eyes of the nation on Alabama, and on Mississippi.

"There never have even been any sit-ins in Mississippi until recently," Abernathy, who came to Los Angeles to speak at the Victory Baptist Church, continued.

"Now the police there don't dare beat up the Freedom Riders because every one is watching."

ENCOURAGED

One of the effects of the Freedom Riders, Abernathy went on, is to encourage the people in Alabama and Mississippi to act. "The Negroes in Montgomery see the Riders being served in the 'white' restaurant and they say, 'If they can do it, we can do it'."

Both in Montgomery and in Birmingham, he said, Negroes are making use of "white" facilities. In both cities, he went on, the Greyhound Bus Co. has ordered all "White" and "Colored" signs down. In Montgomery, he said, they fired two employes who refused to wait on Negroes in the bus station. Yes, in Montgomery.

The night of the mass meeting at his church, the First Baptist Church of Montgomery, he said was a "night to be remembered in history." A mob of 10,000 swarmed around the church, trying to attack the 1500 to 1800 inside, "where we prayed all night."

TILL BREAK-THROUGH

That meeting was held the day after the Freedom Riders were mercilessly beaten when they arrived in Montgomery. The police had been advised of the bus' schedule, Abernathy said, but for 30 to 40 minutes there was no protection at all. The mob had a field day.

The Freedom Rides, Abernathy went on with a gleam in his eye, will continue until there is a break-through—until we have gained some guarantee for full use of facilities in interstate commerce.

"The Interstate Commerce Commission can solve the problem," he went on. "President Kennedy can solve the problem. We're ready to negotiate with the ICC or with Kennedy or his representatives—but we won't settle for anything less than total equality."

SOME IMPATIENT

Abernathy said he had noted that there are some individuals

HIT-RUN SPEAKERS

One of the hardships of attending public meetings is the constant danger of running smack into a hit and run speaker. Such speakers come in assorted sizes, shapes, and colors but the common, or garden, variety is a politician on the prowl for a little publicity. Wherever one or two of the faithful of any persuasion are gathered together one or more of them is apt to show up but they come in the giant economy size packages at the more important gatherings, such as the Freedom Rally of last week.

Although a great deal of scientific research has been done on the subject nobody has been able to determine where they are coming from or going to. The only certainty is that all of them, from the smallest to the largest, are in an eternal hurry. You can tell one of them when he hits the front door by the fact that he starts wig-wagging to his favorite stooge and heads for the platform. Once on the platform, the hit-runner starts looking furtively at his watch and beaming on the master of ceremonies.

GREAT FRIEND

After this little by-play has gone on for a few minutes the master of ceremonies takes his cue and bursts out in purple prose to announce that a Great Friend of those assembled has arrived. More often than not, the M. C. does not introduce that Great Friend himself. He calls on somebody else to do that chore. The hit-runner then bows himself to the microphone and delivers a canned speech to the effect that he has made a great sacrifice to get there but that he told his lovely wife that nothing, but nothing, could have kept him at home. If he doesn't forget who or what the meeting is for he winds up with a flourish of praise for the speaker, the objects and purposes of the meeting and the man who introduced him.

It doesn't matter that the hit-runner has been a bitter end foe of what the speaker stands for or the objects of the meeting. He

Police Pick Up Bleeding Man From Gutter

Clarence Norris, of 3331 Stocker street, was found by police last Saturday around 2:30 a.m. lying in the gutter at the corner of 25th and Normandie avenue, bleeding from stab wounds in the chest and face. A 6½ inch wooden handle paring knife with what appeared to be bloodstains on it was found beside him.

Officers later arrested Theodore Victor Lyles, 21, of 1666 W. Jefferson blvd. He was booked on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

CONDITION POOR

Norris said he and Lyles had been drinking. They quarreled and Lyles chased him and tried to rob him, according to Norris. He was treated at Receiving Hospital for his wounds. His condition was reported as "poor."

Lyles told a different story. He said that Norris had been following him around and embarrassing him in front of his relatives and girlfriends for about a year. He said in bars and elsewhere Norris would become loud and vulgar. Lyles further stated that he carried the knife as a bluff to scare Norris so he would leave him alone.

DON'T REMEMBER

Some friends were taking him home, Lyles said, when Norris "jumped in the car and wanted me to go to a party with him. When I refused he hit me. I hit him back and he tore my clothes, then I hit him again, but I don't remember stabbing him."

However, two witnesses, Austin Wilder and Morris Claudie, both said that they saw Lyles chasing Norris down 25th street and heard Norris yelling, "He stabbed me and is trying to get my money!" The two men also said that they saw Lyles throw the paring knife away.

Mate Admits Shooting Wife Who Strayed

A young wife and mother who worked to support her paroled husband and her three children and who still had energy to go out on the town all night, was shot and killed as she stopped at home long enough to rub lotion on her legs.

According to the husband, Louis C. Bell, 32, of 1303 E. 27th street, his wife Darlene had been out all night and returned briefly at dawn and prepared to go out again.

As they argued, she defied him, he said. She would do as she pleased. "What you gonna do, kill me?"

With that he said he went into the bedroom and got his revolver and returned. He fired one shot. She was hit in the right temple.

Bell called the police and his wife's aunt, Fredrika Simons, of 1650½ E. 23rd street. The three children were taken to their grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Williams.

Kenneth Hahn

The condition of Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, now recuperating from hepatitis in View Park Community Hospital, 5035 Coliseum street, this week was reported as improved by his physician, Dr. William L. Allen, Jr.

Dr. Allen stated that the Supervisor cannot receive visitors other than his immediate family, but that he has been greatly encouraged by cards and letters sent to him by friends and constituents.

Family to Aid Riders With 'Freedom Gala'

Attractive Lynne, Shifflett, a member of the first group of American students who participated in "Crossroads Africa," was one of the thousands of local residents who heard the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. when he spoke at the Sports Arena here last week.

After hearing him, she felt that she must act. She wanted to go out immediately and join the Freedom Riders.

PLAN GALA

Instead, she agreed after consultation with her parents, that the whole family would participate in the struggle by holding a "Freedom Gala" in their spacious garden Saturday evening, July 8 from 7 to 11 p.m.

They plan to provide the setting and the entertainment. Their guests—they have invited over a thousand—are expected to provide the money to speed the Riders on their way.

And the Shifflets — Mrs. Carolyn Shifflett, James H. Shifflett II, Lynne and James H. Shifflett III—have made it clear they aren't expecting nickies. In cards sent out with the invitations they ask for contributions of $5, $10, $15, $25 or more. Checks, they say, are to be made payable to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

ENTERTAINERS TO HELP

Aiding the Shifflets in their plan are a number of top flight entertainers, including Mickey Grant, of the "Fly Blackbird" cast. Other members of the play will appear at the Gala after their performance that night at the theater.

Camille Cannady will be the narrator of the show. An African drummer will provide the "Drums for Freedom." Chestyn Everett will give readings. The Versatiles and other choral groups will sing. There will be spirituals. There will be jazz.

The show will be staged against a backdrop depicting a half-scale reproduction of a Freedom Bus, and Freedom will be spelled out in many languages—in Swahili, in Greek, in Arabic, French, Italian, Russian. A road sign will point "To Mississippi."

Miss Shifflett, a senior at L. A. State, majoring in international relations, spent three months in Ghana in 1958, helping build a school for the Ghanaian children.

In the same year she made her debut here with the Links debutantes.

A native of Los Angeles, she graduated from Los Angeles High School, attended LACC where she was the first Negro elected vice president of the Student Body, and from there went to L. A. State.

Camp for Blind Has Openings

Registrations are still open for blind persons to attend Enchanted Hills Camp this summer, according to Director Nina Brandt. The 15 year old camp, a division of the non-profit San Francisco Lighthouse for the Blind, is located in the redwood groves of Mount Veeder, 12 miles from Napa. Transportation is provided from San Francisco.

Any legally blind person may write for an application blank to Enchanted Hills Camp, 1097 Howard Street, San Francisco.

Kidnapped Girl Leaps From Car; Escapes

Waiting for a bus at the corner of Western avenue and Adams boulevard last Thursday, Sandra Lee Smith, a 16-year-old student of 1807 S. La Brea, reported she was forced into a car by three men, who then tried to force their attentions upon her.

The trio parked the car in the vicinity of New Hampshire and Olympic boulevard, she said, after driving around for an hour or more. One of the men attempted to kiss her after he had sent the other two away.

Sandra claimed she fought him off when he tried to assault her and jumped from the car. The other two men were waiting, however, and grabbed her as she attempted to escape. They struck her on the head, forcing her back into the car. Then the three men drove the girl to Olympic boulevard and Vermont avenue. When they stopped for a red light she leaped from the car and ran to the service station on the corner.

A witness obtained the license number of the car. Miss Smith was treated at the hospital. She stated that she had not been raped.

Red Carpet Bar Is Burglarized

Money, cigarettes and whiskey were reported stolen when a burglar ransacked the Red Carpet Bar, at 3801 S. Western avenue, last Friday.

Callie E. Drummer, 1121 W. 38th street, reported that an unknown suspect had entered the bar through the rear bathroom by bending two iron bars.

Western U. Grads Plan '61 Conclave

The local branch of Western University Alumni are preparing a cordial welcome for the 200 or more national officers, delegates and friends who will arrive here Thursday, June 29. The National Memory Club of Kansas City, as the alumni are known, will hold its reunion at the Pacific Town Club on W. Adams blvd.

This is the first time in the history of the University that the alumni have held their conclave off the old campus grounds in Quindaro, a suburb of Kansas City, Kans.

Historical Quindaro, located near the banks of the old Missouri river, was the site of the tunnel through which John Brown abducted his slaves to freedom. It was also the spot where Harriet Beecher Stowe started writing "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Moise Tshombe Freed

As might readily have been expected, Moise Tshombe, head of the Congo's Katanga Province, forgot about his promises, once he was freed by his captors who had held him under detention for two months.

Tshombe left Leopoldville Saturday after solemnly pledging that he would work for a united Congo whose soldiers would be controlled by the Central Government.

By Monday, however, he had a change of heart and began a bitter attack against the leaders he had so highly praised two days earlier.

On Monday he said the Leopoldville government is too divided to do what is necessary in the Congo, the United Nations can't control the country, and the future is dark.

Slash-Bang Fight Lands 2 Women in Jail

Two women met in the restroom of Jack's Tavern, 2602 S. Central avenue, Saturday night, each armed to the teeth and both emerged wounded and in police custody.

The two argued over Melvin Fultz. His wife Sarah accused waitress Mable Marie Matthews, of 1168 E. 42nd place, of dating her husband, and the fur began to fly.

When Miss Matthews left her job at "Mr. Fatburgers," on Central avenue, she went into the restroom at Jack's Tavern, next door. She was joined by Mrs. Fultz.

Conflicting stories were told by each woman concerning what occurred. However, Miss Matthews was cut on the hand and Mrs. Fultz was grazed on the right ear by a shot from a gun in the hand of Miss Matthews.

FUMBLED IN PURSE

Leo J. Thompson, a special police officer, heard the shot and investigated. He separated the two women and held them for police officers.

According to Miss Matthews, Mrs. Fultz pulled open the restroom door with knife in hand and said, "I'll kill you! I'll kill you!" And then she struck at her with a knife. Miss Matthews said she fumbled in her purse for her gun to protect herself, and that she fired at Mrs. Fultz's head, but missed.

Mrs. Fultz claims that Miss Matthews said, "Yes, I'm with your husband tonight. What are you going to do about it?" She said Miss Matthews had her hand in her purse and so she, Mrs. Fultz, reached in her purse to get a knife to defend herself.

When Miss Matthews brandished a gun, Mrs. Fultz said she grabbed her arm and in the scuffle she got hit and she cut the other woman.

Both were booked by the police.

The easiest way to convince your children that they don't really need something is to get it for them.

2nd Baptist Ready To Send 25 'Riders'

More than $2500 has been raised by Second Baptist Church to send 25 Freedom Riders to Jackson, Miss.

Better than $500 of that sum was raised at a meeting at the church Sunday night, the same day 20 more riders, a number of whom were from Los Angeles, were arrested in Jackson, bringing the total jailed in the Mississippi capital to 164.

Thirteen students from the San Francisco area and the Rev. Grant Muse of Berkeley were arrested there last Wednesday.

TO LEAVE JULY 12

In charge of the contingent sponsored by Rev. J. Raymond Henderson's church is Bill Greene, a member of CORE who will be discharged from the Air Force July 7.

The group will leave here July 12 at 8:15 a.m. from the Greyhound Bus Station.

Those who have signed up for the trip, in addition to Greene, include: Larry Bell, a student; Mrs. Roena Rand, CORE member; Bruce Powsner, student; and Mrs. Ora Myers, a teacher.

Applications for riders are still being accepted by the Second Baptist group. Anyone interested is asked to call the local NAACP office, ADams 1-5189.

ANGELENOS

Among Angelenos who left here last Wednesday and who were whisked off to jail Sunday a few minutes after they arrived by train from New Orleans and refused to leave the segregated waiting room at the Illinois Central depot were:

Mary Hamilton, 25, of 1935 W. 39th place, school teacher;

Marcia Rosenbaum, 23, of 1825 Edgecliff drive, artist;

Claud A. Liggins, 20, of 2707 Edgehill drive, LACC student;

PRO BOXER

John Copeland Rogers, 30, of 2136 W. 20th street, professional boxer; and his wife, Janice Rogers, 25, an unemployed secretary;

Arthur Brooks, 22, LACC student;

Wayne Leslie Taylor, 23, student;

George Blevins, 21, art student;

Mrs. Louise Jean Ingraham, housewife, 26, of 3700 Carmona avenue;

Eddora Mae Manning, 19, LACC student; and

Robert W. Mason, 17, high school student.

Riders from Northern California included:

Marian Alice Kendall, 35, of Leandro, social worker;

Richard thorne, 24, writer of Berkeley;

Norma Lisbon, 27, student of University of California at Berkeley; and John Dolan, 20, also a student of Berkeley.

Nine of the group are Negroes; six are white.

Jackson Jails Too Crowded; Riders Moved

NEW YORK — CORE National Director James Farmer reports from the Mississippi State Penitentiary that "we are being treated decently enough by Mississippi standards."

The CORE national director and 44 other Freedom Riders were transferred to the maximum security unit of the Parchman Penitentiary after the Jackson City Jail and the Hinds County Jail were filled by the Freedom Riders.

Under prison rules, Freedom Riders may receive only two 2-page letters a week. The letters must be from different people. They can receive no packages. Family and other visitors are not permitted.

Farmer said: "At 2 a.m. we were driven the 135 miles to Parchman because the county and city jails were filled. The trip was uneventful except that one trip stalled with its human cargo and had to be towed the rest of the way by the luggage truck."

African Says U.S. Image Is Hurt by Bias

By BARBARA MOUNTS

"The African people regard the American Negro as a brother, as part and parcel of themselves and any wrong done to you is wrong done to the race," Nigerian Ambassador Julius Udochi told some 300 banquet guests of the American Association for Afro-American Relations, at the Chalon Mart Restaurant, last Friday evening.

"The image of the United States suffers because of the color problem and the darker peoples of the world look with distrust upon anyone who treats the African at his door as less than a human being, as some Americans are doing," he said.

RULE OF LAW

Every public official unless converted to practicing true democracy will destroy the leadership of America in the world, Udochi said. Their unjust actions are good fuel for the propagandists. If your skin is dark the gold of America turns to dust. The dignity of man is important to Africans and they are fighting to establish governments based on the rule of law, where no one will be oppressed, the ambassador continued.

Raising the standards of living and erasing the abject poverty of the people to productivity and an extended purchasing power is the goal of African leaders. They appeal for assistance to help create better communications, schools, hospitals and in the industrialization of the vast resources of the several countries of the continent of Africa, Udochi said.

WORK TOGETHER

French and English are the two official languages taught in the schools and through the medium of understanding one another the African believes he can work out tribal differences.

Of the neutral stand of the African governments, Udochi said that Africans do not believe they can help to bring about world peace by aligning themselves with either of the armed camps. "Our role is that of peacemakers. We believe the world is large enough for both sides to live together in peace."

Revs. Jackson, King Clash at Baptist Meet

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The week-long National Baptist Sunday School Congress just held here provided a preview of the explosive house-divided meeting of the National Baptist Convention scheduled for Kansas City in September.

Both presidential claimants, the Rev. Gardner Taylor of New York and Dr. Joseph H. Jackson of Chicago, and their supporters were on hand as 12,000 delegates gathered at Kiel Auditorium.

CLASH ON TACTICS

A clash between Dr. Jackson and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who backs Taylor, occurred over Freedom Ride tactics.

Dr. Jackson, at a press conference, backed the policy of court tests such as undertaken by the NAACP and had this to say about filling the jails:

"Being in jail is a disadvantage greater than undergoing discrimination on the outside, where the public can see the situation for what it is."

AWAKENS NATION

Dr. King, in another press interview, defended the Freedom Riders. He pointed to results already obtained in the pulling down of "white only" signs in Alabama, and in awakening "the people all over the country to the fact that Negroes are segregated on interstate transportation facilities.

"The purpose of the Freedom Riders," he continued, "is to bring about integration of all facilities and to be able to arrive at a bus, railroad or air terminal unmolested and without undergoing any humiliating experience."

Earlier Dr. Taylor was introduced by Rev. King to more than a thousand delegates at the Washington Tabernacle Baptist Church.

"We are going to Kansas to protect the heritage which our fathers have left us," said Dr. Taylor. "No threat can stop us."

USED TO ARRESTS

The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, commenting on rumors that Taylor's supporters would be arrested if they attempt to attend the Kansas City meeting, said:

"Some of us who are supporting Rev. Taylor because of his Civil Rights stand are used to jails. We go to Southern jails for Civil Rights and we are ready to go to the Kansas City jail for religious liberty."

Rev. Reuben Fields, president of the New Era Baptist Association of Kansas City, reported: "There is no truth to the rumors that hundreds of Taylor supporters will be arrested by the police. The police of Kansas City are under nobody's control. Come on to Kansas City."

Rev. W. K. Jackson, Oklahoma City, who headed a fact-finding commission to Kansas City told the delegates:

"Word has been circulated that delegates favoring Rev. Taylor's reelection as president of the Convention will not be able to get hotel space. This is not true. It is true that Rev. J. H. Jackson who has not relinquished claims to the presidency has paid $7,300 for the hall at commercial rates, though the National Baptist Convention, as a religious body, could have rented it for a few hundred dollars. However, the hall is rented in the name of the National Baptist Convention, and the Convention, not Rev. Jackson, will control it."

Two Thugs Rob Blooms' Liquor Store

Two armed bandits, about 25 and 28 years old, robbed Blooms' Liquor Store, at 2800 W. Vernon avenue, last Friday night and got away with $160 they grabbed from the cash register.

Lionel Bailey, 23, clerk, told officers the two came into the store and asked for a case of Blatz beer. Leo Mouten went to the back room to get the beer. When he returned he saw one of the thugs holding a gun at Bailey's head. The other man jumped over the counter and scooped up the money from the cash drawer.

The two threatened to shoot if the clerks came to the door. The robbers escaped in a waiting car and drove south on 6th avenue.

Woman Found Burned to Death; Cigaret Blamed

Shirley T. Anderson, 26, was found lying on the floor of her bedroom dead when firemen broke into her apartment at 1947 S. Howser blvd., Apt. 10, about 10:15 a.m. Saturday.

John Singleton, manager, saw smoke from the windows and through the walls and placed an alarm.

Authorities believed Miss Anderson had been smoking in bed and that a lighted cigaret had smoldered and set the mattress afire.

One Tit-for-Tat Stab Victim Dies

Ida Mae McKnight, 39, of 2108 S. Maple, died in General Hospital from stab wounds admittedly inflicted by her husband, Jesse McKnight, 39, who is himself in critical condition in the Prison Ward of the hospital.

He is suffering from stab wounds he said were inflicted by his wife before he took the knife away from her during an argument and stabbed her.

Police found both victims lying bleeding and in shock in the hallway outside of apartment No. 108 at the Maple street address, at 11:20 a.m. Friday.

Prof. Gier was known both as an outstanding teacher and for his research and experiments in radiation measurements. He designed and patented a number of instruments, including the Gier-Dunkle radiometer, and his most recent research investigated methods for harnessing solar energy. He also was a frequent consultant to industrial concerns and government agencies.

In his private life, Prof. Gier was an active worker for interracial cooperation, and in 1960 was honored by the Los Angeles Urban League for his efforts in improving housing and professional employment opportunities for members of minority groups.

'MAN OF YEAR'

He was twice honored by Alpha Phi Alpha social fraternity, in 1950 as its "Man of the Year," and in 1956 for outstanding service to the community and fraternity.

He was a member of a number of professional and scholarly societies, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Society of Refrigeration Engineers.

Prof. Gier is survived by his wife, Kathryn, and two sons, Ronald and Keith, of 1820 Buckingham rd., and by a sister, Mrs. J. A. Robinson of San Francisco.

Rites were held in the Conner-Johnson Chapel at 10 a.m., Monday, with the Rev. Chester Toliver, of the Second AME Church, officiating.

The Case for a Negro Councilman

Word is out that the City Council is going to name a new councilman from the Tenth District the first week in July.

Nobody knows who it will select, or what criterion it will use in making its selection.

The probabilities that the next councilman will be a Negro are strong and that result is certain if public sentiment can be kept at its present pitch.

The case for a Negro councilman is well put by the 1960 census figures which show that there were some 380,000 Negroes in the city as of April 1960.

Each councilmanic district has about 200,000 inhabitants.

The reason there is no Negro in City Council at the present time is that the districts have been deliberately gerrymandered to prevent that result.

Ours is the only large city in the nation outside the Deep South that does not have a Negro in its council. It's time Los Angeles got in step with the rest of the country.

Our choice for City Council is, as it has been from the first, J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson. As we've said before, we're not against anybody. We're for Atkinson.

We're for Atkinson because we believe that he would represent the district and represent it well and because we know that he has a good grasp of the problems of the whole city.

Tenth District voters who flubbed the opportunity to elect Atkinson two years ago can atone for their failure by standing solidly behind him and urging his appointment to replace Charles Navarro.

Mr. Porter a Good Appointee

Mayor Elect Sam W. Yorty's designation of Atty. Everett Porter as a member of the Board of Police Commissioners strikes us as an excellent selection.

Mr. Porter's long experience as an attorney and as a member of the California Adult Authority will stand him in good stead as a member of the commission charged with conducting the affairs of the police department.

Although he will serve as a representative of all of the people, Mr. Porter has an intimate knowledge of the law enforcement problems of this community and we hope that his advice will be heeded by his fellow commissioners.

Of course, no commissioner can be effective unless the Commission itself discharges the responsibility vested in it by the City Charter.

Under the commission form of government, the various commissions are directed to set policy for their departments. All too many of them have abdicated that responsibility and have given their subordinates free rein. That has been especially true of the Police Commission which has been content to do a paper shuffling job while the chief ran the department.

Past commissions, for example, have closed their eyes and ears to practices that smack of racial segregation and discrimination. The complaint that Chief Parker's public relations with minority groups have been bad is as much a criticism of the Commission as it is of the chief.

Los Angeles is coming of age and it needs a police commission, and police commissioners, who are in step with the problems and practices of 1961. We believe that Mr. Porter is such a man.

Diplomacy and Race Relations

The State Department is in a dither because of the shabby treatment accorded African diplomats who are assigned to Washington.

The dark skinned diplomats can't find housing, except in the midst of the Negro ghetto and in portions of the city far distant from the capitol.

More than that, there are no swimming pools or beaches to which the Africans are welcome.

The State Department has had to go into the house hunting business trying to find homes for African diplomats and is figuratively on its knees trying to get them admitted to nearby beaches.

Common decency should make all Americans ashamed of the situation but there's more to it than that. The United States is trying to win the friendship of the new African nations.

The Soviet Union is also trying to woo the African countries and every American rebuff directed at an African diplomat makes our job harder and that of the Soviet Union easier.

It is easy enough to point the finger at Washington but the truth is that these Africans would have as hard a time finding housing in Los Angeles as they are having in the nation's capital.

Racial prejudice is nation wide, especially where housing is concerned. It's a mighty expensive luxury and one that the country is going to have to crop out of a policy of enlightened selfishness.

Let Freedom Riders Ride

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy can't quite make up his mind about the Freedom Riders.

On the one hand he has been vigilant in the protection of their rights but on the other he still clings to the forlorn hope that he can persuade them to stop their expeditions to the Dark South.

We not only don't believe that anything that Mr. Kennedy says will stay the Freedom Riders but we also hope that it won't.

If the students cease their forays into Mississippi tomorrow that state will return to its Jim Crow practices—practices that are in direct violation of the fundamental law of the land.

The constant challenge to Mississippi's lawlessness keeps it in the public eye and will ultimately compel a change. The Freedom Riders know that, even if the attorney general doesn't.

We hope they keep riding. We're sure that if they do the time will come when a Negro will be permitted to exercise his constitutional rights in Mississippi and Alabama.

Spingarn Medal Well Deserved

The selection of Dr. Kenneth Clark as this year's Spingarn Medal winner is a recognition of his long and excellent work in psychology and particularly in the field of child psychology and racial discrimination.

The New York psychologist did a great deal of the spade work that threw light on the damaging effects of racial segregation in the public schools. His testimony in the school cases was invaluable.

The pioneer work he has done entitles him to the honor he will receive when the NAACP meets in Philadelphia next week.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

Several Manhattanites gathered last week at the National Conference on International Economic and Social Development stood in a group discussing hometown politics. More specifically, we were talking about the success won by Brooklyn's Congressman Emanuel Celler in his running feud with Austin Tobin, executive director of the Port of New York Authority.

Judge Luther Youngdahl, in another of his peculiar decisions on the federal bench, had just ruled that Tobin was in contempt of Congress for refusing to turn over to Celler's witch-hunting House subcommittee the confidential records which Chairman Celler had been demanding. The sentence handed out to Tobin was 30 days in jail and a fine of $100.

None of our group was especially concerned about what had happened to Director Tobin. The jail sentence—if carried out—will lose him no public respect, since he was deliberately testing the right of Congressional snoopers to trespass on the confidential business of a bi-state agency. None of us was particularly surprised at the Youngdahl decision, since this is in line with what has often seemed to be the jurist's antiquated interpretation of what modern society is like.

DANGEROUS DECISION

All of us, however, were agreed that the decision was a dangerous one for the New York State interest, and that Celler's little private victory may cost him more than it is worth, even according to his personal system of political stock-taking.

One of our group remarked reflectively, "Can't you just see what will happen if the Youngdahl decision is supported by a higher federal court? This could mean that a hostile Republican Congress may in the future penalize a state for going Democratic by interferring with the state's whole internal development program until it promises to behave politically." Heads nodded in agreement.

I flipped my lid in a mild way. I pointed out that we didn't have to speculate on what could happen in terms of Republican-Democratic strategy — that the New Deal and the Fair Deal had given the country plenty of samples of how political power exerted by a Washington Administration can be used to discipline or harass a state administration of the opposite political persuasion. And the danger in this respect was nowhere near as serious as that of overt or sniping attacks on the security of the people of the State of New York—attacks carried on by the professional Negro-haters of the House and the Senate.

AUTOCRATIC POWER

The rules of seniority in the Congress—particularly in the Senate—I went on to point out, put enormous power to investigate and impede into the hands of the perennial southern representatives who stay in Congress after term because of the one-party system in the South. Anyone who reads the Congressional Record regularly can put his finger on a dozen influential members of the Congress who hate New York City and State as the shining denial of the Deep Souths commitment to second-class citizenship for Negroes.

And these Negro haters—in a Democratic Congress — rise to autocratic power in a half-dozen or more Congressional committees that can make plenty of trouble for New York if the Youngdahl decision of the Celler victory are allowed to stand.

Congressman Celler, I went on to say, has always been able to roar like a lion on safe "controversial issues and thereby acquire a flimsy claim to the title, political liberal. But I have also noted that when the going becomes politically risky, he is apt to be found detouring into a rabbit warren—and what kind of a lion hides in a rabbit warren?

ENTERTAINING DEMOGOGUE

His liberalism last summer consisted of angrily denouncing those Republican Congressmen who introduced a civil rights bill into the special session of Congress in an effort to call the hand of Democratic leadership on their platform pledges. Celler claimed that this was "playing politics with civil rights.

Nobody has commented on the fact that Celler has introduced his own little civil rights bill at this session and has yet to take notice of the remarkable silence of the Kennedy Administration on the bill. But when some of the southern Congressmen rush through the opening provided by their Brooklyn colleagues malicious vendetta carried on against the Port Authority, and begin their hazing tactics against the entire state—when this happens perhaps Brother Cellers constituents may wake up to the fact that an entertaining demagogue can be too expensive to the public interest for the voting public to continue in office.

Loren Miller Says . . .

is careful not to commit himself too far but that fact escapes most of those present who are bedazzled by his flailing of his arms and his shouting and vowing of eternal allegiance to the great principles of democracy. He retires amid a flurry of handclapping from those who are not at all certain of who he is or what he has said but are certain that he must be a stuffed shirt of some importance.

OUT HE GOES

Once the hit-runner has said his say he walks back to his seat and immediately starts peeping at his watch, interrupting that ritual only long enough to give a vigorous hand to other hit-runners who are either crowded on the platform with him or are beating a path to the rostrum. After a few minutes of peeping and handclapping he is through for the day. At the first possible moment, he fades from the platform, grins and handshakes his way through the audience and leaves, presumably to get home to his little wife. He rarely bothers to wait for the speaker of the day and almost never drops a coin in the collection plate.

I understand from scientists who have studied the matter that there is no cure for those who have contracted the hit and run disease short of retirement from public office or interment in Forest Lawn. The only relief that can be hoped for is that of lopping the hit-runner off before he gets to the platform. The planners of public meetings could achieve that result enough by not inviting them or of bidding them take seats in the audience if they do show up.

If something must be done for these publicity seekers, they could simply be pointed out as being in attendance. Anyhow, I dwell in hope that someday, sometime, somewhere, I will be able to attend a public meeting and listen to the speaker of the day without having to wade through an afternoon given over to self administered pats on the back by public figures who don't care what a meeting is about so long as they get a chance to peddle their wares. I should live so long.

Postmaster Refuses To Appoint Barnes

Clair Engle, recommending that Mr. Barnes receive this appointment. Included also is a list of organizations and state officials supporting this action."

With regard to the principal contender against Barnes for the appointment, Vance asserted:

PALS WITH HIESTAND

"During the last national campaign the (opposition) candidate, who is presently employed in the Pacoima Post Office, appeared on the front page of local newspapers with Congressman Edgar Hiestand (R. 21st District), an avowed member of the John Birch Society. Not only were they together, but the would-be Postmaster was pictured with his arm about our then Congressional opponent."

Vance adds that: "Some would attribute this to his being politically naive, but political treason might be more descriptive."

Post Office appointments are generally more or less automatic, once a candidate has received endorsements of the type obtained by Barnes. Day's approval was taken for granted by Valley newspapers which reported in May, after Sen. Engle's recommendation, that Barnes had been appointed to the post.

REJECT EXPLANATION

In turning down the recommendation, Day stated that he did so because Barnes lives at 18201 Plummer street, Northridge, and not in Pacoima.

Vance, in his letter, rejected this explanation. "It is inconsistent," he said, "with appointments made in recent years in Southern California."

Day, himself, in a letter dated June 15 to John Anson Ford, chairman of the State FEP Commission, said that under special conditions the residential requirement can be waived and added: "There was one case of this exact type (where no suitable candidate is a resident) in Southern California in recent months."

Among the opponents of Barnes' appointment was the Pacoima Women's Club. In a March 24 letter to Assemblyman Tom Carrell, the club's president, Mrs. Edward W. Shaw, recommended Richard LeBaron for the post and reportedly stated:

WANTS NO NEGRO

"We are protesting the appointment of Mr. Barnes as unfair and undemocratic. He is not a member of our community. If you want a colored man there are such men in our community qualified for the position without having to go into another community. But at this time we feel it would be wrong to appoint a colored man to the position."

Among those who endorsed Barnes, in addition to Engel, Ford, the 41st AD and the 21st CD Democratic Councils, are:

Glenn M. Anderson, lieut. gov. of California; Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk; Edward Howden, chief of the State FEPC; Assemblymen Jesse Unruh, Gus Hawkins and W. Byron Rumford; Frank D. Reeves, aide to Pres. Kennedy; Andrew Hatcher, White House assistant press secretary; Cecil Poole, Gov. Brown's clemency secretary; Franklin Williams, assistant director of the Peace Corps; and many others.

Members of the local community who backed Barnes included: Eagle publisher Loren Miller; Dr. H. Claude Hudson and George L. Thomas. Others were: Terry Francois, C. L. Dellums, and Tarea Hall Pittman.

There are no Negro postmasters on the West Coast, and so far as is known, only one in the entire United States, except in all-Negro communities.

None of the postmaster appointments Day has made so far has been a Negro.

Barnes has been employed by the Post Office for 19 years.

Equality Our Goal, Says Abernathy

who are weary of the slow pace of integration. He mentioned the Muslims and other movements such as the United Negro Christian Army.

Some of these organizations, he said, are for fighting back. They reject the non-violent approach. They want more militant action. They say, "We want freedom—any way. By non-violent means, if possible. By violence, if necessary. We want freedom—now!"

Abernathy was quite emphatic in stating that this sentiment is not shared by a large segment of the population, but, he went on, "It is an indication of the unrest and impatience of many in our ranks and it is growing."

PRESTIGE IN BALANCE

Failure of the non-violent attack on segregation, he said, would give impetus to this movement.

American prestige today, he went on, stands in the balance. The United States can no longer remain a first rate power unless she rids the land of segregation and discrimination. We stand today in one of the most critical, most crucial periods in history, but some of our leaders are unaware of the nature of the problem."

Rev. Abernathy spoke at the Victory Baptist Church Sunday night, and church members presented him and his wife with a new automobile, to make up in part for the deprivations he has suffered as a result of a $1,000,000 judgment for damages levied against him by Alabama officials.

Ask 'No' Vote If School Bill Permits Bias

NEW YORK — All four Negro congressmen have been asked by the NAACP to refuse to support the President's school aid bill unless it contains an amendment providing that funds be withheld from states that have refused to desegregate their public schools.

Adam Clayton Powell, in addition, has been asked to clarify his position "in writing." Powell, who for years has tacked on all school bills, the "Powell Amendment" that contains the no-segregation provision, has made public statements recently that he has no intention of submitting his amendment this year and in fact will oppose such an amendment if it is proposed by any other congressman.

ASKS STATEMENT

In a telegram to Powell last Friday, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, stated as follows:

"Board of directors has instructed that inquiry be made of you on your intended action with respect to the amendment to Federal School Aid Bill which would provide for the withholding of funds from states which have refused to desegregate their public schools in accordance with Supreme Court ruling of 1954.

"Board feels strongly that conditions have not changed materially from the time you sponsored and fought for Powell Amendment and that the present administration has produced nothing on this issue which would warrant withdrawing or withholding proposal.

"If amendment is not pressed it will be a victory for political expediency, but a bitter defeat for 2,500,000 Negro children still under the yoke of second-class segregated education, which will be further entrenched by federal funds. Board specifically requested me to ask written statement of your reason for whatever position you are taking."

VOTE 'NO'

In addition, the three other Negroes in Congress — Charles C. Diggs (D. Mich.), William L. Dawson (D. Ill.) and Robert N. C. Nix (D. Pa.) — were asked to support the anti-segregation amendment and "vote against the School Aid Bill," should the anti-bias amendment fail.

Telegrams to these representatives stated:

"A Washington report has it that the Federal School Aid Bill is snagged because Democratic Rep. James J. Delaney of Queens Co., New York, and Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., of Boston, so far have refused to vote in the Rules Committee until a bill is presented for aid of parochial and other private schools.

"Both men are described as representing congressional districts with heavy Catholic populations, and both are themselves Catholics."

"We recognize that you do not occupy a strategic position on the Rules Committee, but NAACP makes firm inquiry as to what action you have taken or pledge to take on amendment to withhold funds from states which have refused to desegregate their public schools.

"We urge you to vote for such an amendment and to request others to so vote. In the event such an amendment fails of adoption we urge you to vote against the School Aid Bill. Negro children in the affected states are suffering far more than Catholic youngsters, and thus warrant the utmost in efforts in their behalf by their spokesmen in congress. Moreover, the principle of equal treatment of citizens by the federal government in any bestowal of federal grants would seem to require no subsidy to unconstitutional racial segregation in the public schools. We will appreciate a reply from you."

CORE Gets $5000 More From FMU

Michael J. Quill, International President of the Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO, announced June 1 that TWU was forwarding an additional check for $5,000 to the Committee on Racial Equality in support of the "Freedom Riders."

At the same time, Quill attacked the proposal for a "cooling off" period, stating, instead, that "what is needed is the full force of Federal troops with a thorough understanding of their assignment."

Wife, Lover Arrested as Pianist Dies

with him and was holding a gun on him.

The second call was also from a man. He informed her that Harris was dead.

CHANGED STORY

Later, however, Mrs. Harris, 31, of 2207 Victoria, changed her story and implicated her lover.

In her later version of what happened, Mrs. Harris admitted she gave "misleading information" on the night of the death.

The first call she had mentioned, she now said, was from a man by the name of Walter Holifield who told her that "Nat had a gun on my husband" in Holifield's apartment.

Walter James Holifield, 23, a laborer, of 2816 Menlo, was also arrested. He, too, implicated Brown.

DRAGGED BODY

He said that Brown had come to his room with Harris, had gone over to the dresser and remarked that there was something he was going to straighten out with Harris.

He said that Brown pulled some letters out of a brief case he had brought with him, said they were love-letters from Irene.

Holifield claimed he had left his apartment and was sitting outside in an automobile when he saw Brown dragging Harris' body down the stairs. He said Harris was limp, as if he were dead.

He said he watched while Brown put Harris into the latter's car and drove off. Holifield said he tried to follow the car but lost it in traffic.

MOVED IN

Brown admitted knowing Chuck Harris and Irene since 1957, admitted that he had "moved in" with Irene in her New York apartment shortly after Harris had come to Los Angeles in the latter part of 1958.

He said that after he was arrested he corresponded with Irene through his mother until he was released in October, 1960, when he sent her $200 to come to his mother's home in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Harris, Brown said, stayed there for nine days and then returned to Los Angeles, but the romance continued via letters and telephone.

$900 PHONE BILL

Brown said they ran up a phone bill of $900.

He said he came to Los Angeles April 19 and that his romance with Mrs. Harris continued.

Last Wednesday, he said, Harris had asked him to meet him at Norm's Restaurant at La Cienega and Washington blvd., which he did, about 2:30 a.m.

He stated further that Mrs. Harris joined them and that they had coffee and then left.

"That was the last time I saw Chuck," said Brown. "I didn't know he had been killed until Thursday night."

Arthur L. McCoy Is Pepperdine Grad

Arthur L. McCoy of Los Angeles was one of 134 graduates from Pepperdine College, it was announced by Dean J. P. Sanders.

A graduate of Jordan High School, he is active in debating. He is the son of Helen McCoy of 1811½ W. 24th street.

Douglas Purdy Wins Japan Tour

Douglas Purdy, Dorsey High School senior, has been selected as one of four Los Angeles City High School students to visit Japan this summer under the sponsorship of the Japanese-American Association and the Los Angeles Rotary Club.

An American tourist in Paris pulled up short when he noticed a sign in front of a sidewalk cafe: "High School French Spoken Here."

Rev. E. A. Anderson

Rev. Anderson To be Honored By St. Paul

St. Paul Baptist Church will honor one of its former pastors on July 6 at 7:30 p.m. The present minister, Rev. John L. Branham, will honor Rev. E. A. Anderson, pastor of McCoy Memorial Baptist church at McCoy in a special service, involving the St. Paul membership.

Rev. Anderson served St. Paul for 8 years as assistant minister under Rev. S. A. Williams, before being called to McCoy at 802 E. 46th street in 1944.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Mayor Sam W. Yorty have been invited to participate in the program. Rev. Anderson has made an enviable record at McCoy. He has remodeled the church twice with the result that the church is now valued at $100,000. Its membership has grown from less than 200 to 2500.

Rev. Anderson serves on the governor's standing committee on Children and Youth and attended the president's silver anniversary session of the White House Conference on Children and Youth recently. He is a former president of Southern California Baptist Ministers Conference and is first vice president of the Western Baptist State Convention.

Johnson of Normandie Avenue to Enterprise Methodist Church at 109 N. Aprilia street in Compton. Rev. Johnson was appointed to Normandie two years ago.

Abernathy Gets Cash, Car at Victory Baptist

"The Negro is not asking, not imploring, but is demanding his freedom right now. Not 50 years or 50 minutes from now, but now," Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, militant Alabama church leader, told a capacity audience at Victory Baptist Church last Sunday evening. About the cooling off period recently requested by the Atty. General, he said "If the south has not cooled off in 100 years a cooling off period now would have little effect."

Abernathy told the audience some of his experiences at home, of his decision to send his children out of the state for safe keeping and of the obscene threats he had received by telephone.

Free on $1000 bail from jail, the bus boycott leader will return for trial after he visits his children in Chicago.

The audience, visibly shaken by his report, gave him more than $1600 and a new Buick automobile. It was placed in Mrs. Abernathy's name to make it more difficult for his enemies to confiscate it in the same manner his last car was taken away from him. His property has been sold and everything of value he owned has been confiscated, Abernathy said, "but even if they take away my life, we will continue to fight."

Warning against the practice of Uncle Tomism, Abernathy said that "We have gotten rid of the Uncle Toms. Those who have not seen the light have been buried or have migrated to Los Angeles. I see all too many in seats in this audience."

The old song about Old Black Joe has been changed now to go "My head isn't bending low and I'm talking loud, walking hard and fighting for my civil rights."

When they question Abernathy about going "Back to Africa," he tells them when America gives this country back to the Indians. England gives land back to the English and Ireland gives the Irish back their lands, then we will go back to Africa."

AME Bishops Vote Support of Freedom Riders

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Some 1000 African Methodist Ministers attended the Council of Bishops meeting at Bethel AME Church on June 19-23. Present also were the three bishops who supervise the work in the African division of the church; Bishop John Bright, David Sims and W. Collins.

The Council of Bishops went on record as unanimously supporting the freedom rider movement and declared a holy war against segregation in all phases of American life, because it stated, segregation denies brotherhood and is unconstitutional and un-Christian.

Special recognition was given the service records of Bishop R. R. Wright, Jr., and Bishop S. L. Greene who have served 25 and 33 years respectively. And also honored was Rev. Dr. J. P. Q. Wallace who at 93 was retired at the last annual conference.

Primm Tabernacle Sets Giant Re-dedication, Cornerstone Rite

The Primm Tabernacle AME Church, 1022 S. Thomas street, in Pomona, is planning a giant all day celebration on Sunday, July 9. The church is expecting some 1000 loyal and devoted African Methodists to join in the ceremonies which will include the laying of the cornerstone in a Masonic rite presided over by Herbert Greenwood, the grand master of the 45 Prince Hall Masonic Lodges in Southern California.

Rev. Vince M. Townsend

Plans include a parade of more than 100 automobiles in addition to the 43 Elks Lodge and Temple members with the bands and marching units joining the Masons and AME members of the churches from over the state together with a feminine equestrian unit for the 2:30 p.m. demonstration which will form at the Pomona County Courthouse and procede to the church for the cornerstone and rededication ceremonies.

Rev. Vince Monroe Townsend, Jr., pastor of the church announced this week that Bishop H. Thomas Primm will preach at 10:45 a.m. The service will be followed by an Episcopal luncheon in the banquet room of the St. Charles Hotel in downtown Pomona from 1-2:30 p.m., with Mayor James S. Baker offering official greetings to the bishop. The parade will follow.

Bishop Frederick D. Jordan of the eighth Episcopal District will preach the re-dedication sermon at 3:30 p.m. Following this service. A reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson E. Burgess at 1575 Huntington street, in Pomona.

Dear Abie:

On June 22, the Congress of Racial Equality, Santa Monica-Venice Branch, voted to picket the Rams-Redskin football game at the Coliseum August 11. However, they wish for you to give more information. They want to know your plan, your program, your ideas, your goal, the principle you base your decision on, and your reason why.

They want to know the advantages and the disadvantages. Have the white sportswriters been informed of your suggestion and plan? What reply has the L.A. Times Special Events Dept. given you? Will George P. Marshall change his policy before game time? Will he find another stadium in Washington to play in?

The next meeting of CORE is July 6, at the Calvary Baptist Church, 20th and Broadway, Santa Monica, at 7:30 p.m. sharp. They wish for you to be present, but if not you can send me details in a letter to present to them. CORE is an action group.

Signed
Miss America Dunnavant.

(Ed Note) Will be at your July 6, meeting and hope to bring along Brad Pye of the L.A. Sentinel and I am sure between the two of us we can submit a program and answer all questions regarding the Rams-Redskin game.

Nickname Wanted

The L. A. Hockey Club wants a nickname. The person who supplies it will be given two season tickets plus an expense paid jaunt for two with the team on one of its road trips.

General Manager Jack Geyer announced the contest last Wednesday. It will end Friday, June 30.

Budd's 9.2 Mark Certain For Approval

Frank Budd, the smooth striding Villanova Junior, got off to a relatively slow start in the National AAU meet last Saturday in New York, and in addition drew a post position before the start of the 100 yard.

Despite these two major factors the mild mannered, 5 ft. 10 in. 160 pounder from Asbury Park, N. J., raced to the world's fastest time for the event. Two timers caught him in at 9.2; and a third flagged him in at 9.4. The second place man was clocked in at 9.3. The record undoubtedly will be accepted because the race was run under a warm and calm sun after a morning rain.

Budd's mark set at Randall Island erased Mel Patton's 13-year-old mark established at Freno relays when he was pushed by Lloyd La Beach.

Parents' Efforts Aid Crenshaw Little League

By EDW. "ABIE" ROBINSON

The do-gooders are saying that the parents are putting the kids in Little League baseball on the spot. They put so much pressure on their kids it's unbearable, they say. However, after observing the Crenshaw Little League in action, we can't seem to agree on the pressure bit.

Baseball is and will always be a competitive game and the hits, runs and errors will prevail. I can see but one difference in the Little League today and the sandlot games of yesteryear. That difference is that the Little League is better organized and better supervised than the sandlot games and the Little League has the blessing of the parents because most of them attend games regularly.

During games in the Crenshaw Loop we have seen parents nearly come to blows and shout loudly at the miscues of their offspring and some even reward their kids with bonuses for heads-up play. Now the do-gooders claim this is bad because the kids are being exploited. All this, they claim, contributes to emotional disturbances resulting from the parents continuous nagging and criticism of their kids' playing.

If that were true, baseball today would be loaded with neurotics, because kids in my neighborhood in the "sandlot days" could not go home and tell their parents they had been playing baseball because that was a sin and a double sin on Sundays and a whipping would follow pronto.

Today Little Leaguers have it made with flashy uniforms, with mama and papa rooting for them, with a chance to develop into top notch players and, most important, with a fine opportunity to learn the rules of good conduct and clean habits. A number of grade school teachers contend that most Little League players rate high in deportment and are exceptionally well adjusted kids.

During games parents naturally become excited and sometimes get themselves into a rage and often their kids tell them after the game: "We just can't win them all." It's the kids who cool them off and they walk out of the playground arm-in-arm with the parents reflecting a sense of pride that their boys are Little Leaguers.

Crenshaw Little League is unique because the sport is no longer a father-son game. It has developed into a family enterprise. The boy plays, the father coaches or manages, the mother is a member of the Mothers' Club which gives affairs to raise funds for the ball team, the sister shows up in the stands to root for her brother's team and grandparents come out to the park to stick their chests out.

There is plenty of work for adults in the Little League, but from the turnout each day they don't seem to mind and it doesn't appear to me that when their kids make an error or a dumb play they are worried about what the parents are gonna say. Most of them let off steam, but when they reach the dinner table, they usually say, "Nice game" or "Try harder next time."

For a real exciting game of baseball, take in the Crenshaw Little League at Rancho any Wednesday, Thursday or Saturday. You will marvel at the job the kids and adults are doing.

Lawyers Undergo Surgery in Game With Doctors, Drop 7-1 Verdict

The crowning sports highlight of the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Associations annual picnic is the baseball game between the Doctors and Lawyers.

This year's contest was held last Sunday afternoon at Brookfield Park, in Pasadena, when the, seemingly, IMPOSSIBLE happened . . . for the Doctors' scored a triumphant 7 to 1 victory over their arch-rivals, the Lawyers. Except for the 2nd inning when the Doctors made 5 runs, it was a close contest with few errors by either team.

For the "umpteenth" time, one authority proclaimed, these annual contests have been held, and this was the second time the Medicos had won. The Lawyers, hitherto, have dominated the series.

Stellar pitching of Dr. Ted Fortier who struck out 6 men in 7 innings, and the powerful bats of Doctors Andrew, Whitmore, Jackson and Banks, plus the fine fielding of Doctors Beck, Cosby, Thomas and Weekes aided the Medicos in their win.

For the Lawyers, Attorney Warmsley, Woods, Branton, Garcia, Carter and Tolbert were outstanding.

Dynamite Jackson was the head umpire, assisted by Chester Andrew.

When we were notified that our own Lonell Davis was going to defend his City Men's Championship on the hard Wilson course at Griffith Park our heart pained for him.

We felt sorry because we knew it was not humanly possible for this champ to defend his crown without having a decent job to afford him time to practice or play.

Nine months ago the Western Ave. Women's golf club gave him aid and sent out an SOS, informing every golfer that he needed a night job in order to practice to defend his championship. No one came forth with aid. We did not have the courage to follow him in the tournament because we knew that he would not be on his game; sure enough, he lost last Tuesday (the first day) to 17-year-old Doug Haney of Apple Valley.

Duff Lawrence won the tournament with a 73 and Duff is from our home course down in the valley (Sepulveda) and it couldn't have happened to a nicer golfer.

Al McDaniels and Willie Rayson fought the longest battle but went down in the last days. Nevertheless, we are proud of all of them, win or lose.

Even though the Fox Hills men belong to the So. Calif. (private) Golf Association (which has a Caucasian clause in its constitution) they were not "too Caucasian" to keep them from going out to the Griffith Park Public course and play to win the City Men's Championship (they almost won it).

Ben Alyea of Fox Hills only lost by one hole and 2 strokes (thank goodness).

Oh, how we envy that group of delegates who are leaving in July to attend the 1961 NAACP convention in Philadelphia! The Entertainment Committee is sponsoring a golf tournament in conjunction with Radio Station WHAT and the seven Negro golf clubs of Philadelphia Saturday morning, July 15.

The entry fee will be donated by the sponsors to the NAACP without any deduction for expenses.

The Pepsi-Cola Company is donating 12 of the largest trophies in golf history. (Now why can't we do this in Los Angeles instead of carrying the Labor Day Tournament to segregated Fox Hills for selfish reasons?)

Gene Baker To Manage Farm Team

Gene Baker, 36, one time L. A. Angel in the Pacific Coast League, became the first Major League player to land a managerial position in organized baseball in the first baseball breakthrough since Jackie Robinson broke down teh barriers for Negro players back in 1946.

Baker was released from the Pittsburgh Pirates as an active player and was signed to the new position. He has been with the Pirates since May 1, 1957. Because of a knee injury, he has been sidelined for about a year and a half.

Pirates officials announced that Baker will manage their farm club at Batavia, N. Y., in the Class D New York Pennsylvania League.

General Manager Joe L. Brown said after the signing of Baker that "we are very pleased that we were able to find a place in our organization for Gene."

Pomona Races Set For Fairgrounds

Entries are pouring in at a rapid rate and already have topped 100 for the Pomona sports car road races, set Saturday-Sunday, July 8-9, at the L. A. County Fairgrounds, race chairman Don Ricardo, of the sponsoring Sports Car Club of America, reports.

Eighteen events are programmed for the weekend meet over the two-mile Fairgrounds course. The Saturday racing will be telecast live over KTTV, and officials look for this coverage to provide a big hypo to the Sunday gate.

Welterweights In Main Event At Olympic

Al Grant, fast rising South L.A. welterweight, goes after his second straight 10-round win when he faces Andres Garcia in the off-TV main event tonight (Thursday) at the Olympic Auditorium.

The 2-year-old Grants has won 14 bouts against three losses. He is a native of New Orleans, where he attended McDonald High School.

The co-10 rounder features bantamweights Ray Salazar and Manny Linson.

As a special promotion Thursday, the Olympic will have a "Family Night". If one member of the family buys either a $3.75 or $2.75 reserved ticket, the rest will be admitted for a 5 cent service and tax charge.

BEAUTIFUL CALIENTE IN OLD MEXICO: Favorites dominated the 5-10 public handicapping contest last Saturday at Caliente Race Track and enabled 20 form players to cash in perfect cards with six winners to collect $2,723.40 apiece. Only Gallapade, $16.20 winner of the eighth race, complicated the issue as chalk horses paraded to the winner's circle as if they had been reading the form. There were 742 valid tickets which picked five winners and each of those were worth $24.40. The 5-10 pool grossed $80,696. Winning numbers were 5-3-7-2-3-1.

HOLLYWOOD PARK. The smashing six and three-quarter length victory of Covert Ranch's Mountain Glory in the Milady Handicap last week set the stage for a sparkling renewal of the $35,000 aded Vanity Handicap at Rollywood Park Saturday, July 1.

The mile and one-eighth Vanity is traditionally, the most important of Hollywood Park's 10 stakes for distaffers, and annually settles the championship between the older fillies and mares.

Thirty-Eight Young Ladies · Bow at Ball

By BARBARA O'NEIL

To the theme of a "June Night," 38 attractive young ladies were presented as debutantes of the 1961 season by the Assistance League of the Stovall Foundation at the Town and Gown Foyer on USC campus, Saturday night.

They will help maintain the Stovall Foundation, a home for senior citizens, located in east Los Angeles.

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew was mistress of ceremonies and introduced each debutante, her father and her escort.

The group of debs was formally installed as Junior Assistance League No. 4, by Dr. Gerald Stovall, president, and Mrs. John Jackson, executive director of the Stovall Foundation.

Before leaving for a round of after-parties, the girls expressed their appreciation to Pauline Slater and Lillian Cotton, co-chairmen of the Debutante Presentation, for a job well done, and to Mrs. Venye Corporal, president of the League.

The debutantes who were presented were:

Camille Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham, graduate of Compton Senior High School. Escort, Paul Saunders.

Janet Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Potts, Central High School. Escort, Louis Forte.

Alma Jones, daughter of Mr.

The 100% Wrong Club of Southern California, the area's leading sports club, kicked off its giant membership drive this week.

All persons interested in joining the club have until midnight, July 30, to file an application, according to the president, Atty. Leo Branton Jr. Applications may be obtained from any member of the club or by writing to the organization at 2829 S. Western avenue.

At the same time Branton announced that the club will again conduct its pre-season football contest. The contest will be open to the public. The lucky winner will be the recipient of a pair of Los Angeles Rams season tickets.

The winner will be announced at a big garden party at a site yet to be named, Branton stated.

The 100% Wrong Club, which is noted for its program of promoting youth sports programs in the community and honoring some of the Southland's leading sports personalities at its annual banquet, holds its regular meetings at the Safety Savings and Loan Association's Conference room on Thursday nights.

Miss Shirley Anne Jordan Weds Henry Daniel Bailey

Nuptials attracting national interest were consummated Sunday, June 25, at 4 p.m. when Miss Shirley Anne Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Limuary Alja Jordan, 1244 S. Gramercy place, was wed to Henry Daniel Bailey, of Panama City, Fla., in the St. Paul Methodist Church, Manhattan place and Country Club drive.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," Miss Jordan glided gracefully down the aisle on the arm of her father meeting at the altar her groom who was attended by John Alexander Anderson, of Washington, his Howard University Medical College classmate. Together they mounted the podium where they knelt to receive the initiatory prayer of the Rev. T. W. Coggs, minister of the Progressive Baptist Church.

Preceding the bride to the altar were the ushers: Lonnie Ferrell; Robert Towns; James R. Bailey, of Panama City, Fla., brother of the groom; Bennie Phillips; Limuary A. Jordan Jr., brother of the bride; and Eddie Kendricks. They were all garbed in pinstriped trousers and frock-tailed coats.

The bridesmaids, beautifully attired in street length gowns of pale pink silk organza with high neckline and headdresses of pink velveteen rose leaves and petals trimmed in tulle, were: Barbara Ruth Neal, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Freddie Davis, of Houston, Texas, and Fisk University classmate; Dale Watts, of Detroit, Mich., Fisk University classmate; Louria Bailey, of Panama City, Fla., sister of the groom; Marcia Arnold, high school friend; Beatrice Lacey, Fisk University classmate.

The maid of honor was carolyn Rose Jordan, recently graduated from Fisk University and the bride's only sister. She wore a street-length gown of shocking pink organza with yoke neckline of sheer tulle with no jewelry except tiny crystal earrings. She carried baby orchids.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Limuary Jordan, wore blue chiffon and Chinese silk with matching shoes and hat. Mrs. Henry C. Bailey, mother of the groom, wore orchid lace with matching accessories.

A lavish reception was held in the beautifully appointed home and gardens of the bride's parents on Gramercy place.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs.

While on the coast she enjoyed many wonderful courtesies.

Transcontinental Travelogue: In Manhattan at a decidedly wonderful Sunday night party, Jules Smith (he'd called LA that morning to chat with his chum Edna McCormick who'd just returned there from SF) told us his earlier plans for August weeks in LA may be replaced with weeks in Europe again should his luck hold and he gets a cancellation of any sort on any jet.

While midnight - capping on Harold and his sister Ivie Jackman's terrace, some 16 floors up, Harry Roberson nudges us to say George Waugh had just arrived in NYC from LA on a brief trip; Harry has hopes of returning to LA for another visit. He's another of many Gothamites who inquire of Mil Blount and when will she visit the East.

ONCE UPON A TIME

Jay Brooks (his long residence in and around LA was a pleasant one, he sentimentally repeats) is set to appear on Broadway in the autumn in the comedy as authored by Ossie Davis. Jay's wife (loved the LA life, too) is on the staff at NBC. Especially shocked was Jay to just learn of the passing of Ruby Berkley Goodwin who was an acquaintance of old.

Eva Payton who gave up Manhattan for LA will learn here her Big Town chums somehow have idea she will return there to live evermore. Joe Crawford, another of the I-lived-in-LA-once-upon-a-time set, was in the two week Broadway revival of Porgy and Bess.

TASTE OF HATRED

Retracing steps again to Pittsburgh: At a dinner party in New Kensington, seated on our right is the patrician and ever so charming Edna Williams who is Mary Clay's aunt (they resemble, too). Recently returned from the Tuskegee commencement (her daughter took her degree in veterinary medicine), she particularly held our interest as she recounted the incident at the air terminal in Montgomery, Ala., when Mary (it was her first trip south) tasted bitterest dregs of Alabama race hatred; she even had money violently thrown in her face.

Time permitting, we hope to meet Jimmy Peck's mother who lives here. Back from two glorious weeks of holidaying in and around LA, Dr. and Mrs. William Cuthbert came in loaded with gifts for their friends. Their son recently reached LA and I believe is to become a permanent Angeleno. Not until someone at one of many, many parties given for Jean and Raymond Walls (visiting from the coast and being treated like royalty everywhere) asked if we'll see Dit Stevens when we reach Detroit via Canada next week, did we mentally kick ourself for not checking with Alice and David Cunningham in LA to see if our paths may cross while they, too, are visiting Detroit.

Helen and Archie Ball's

Everette Porter Luncheon Guest Speaker

Everette Porter, a newly appointed Los Angeles Police Commissioner, and Fred Haney, general manager of the Los Angeles Angels, were guest speakers at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Men of Tomorrow held at the Raffles Restaurant.

Mr. Porter stated that in his opinion the most significant result of the recent city elections in Los Angeles was the discovery by the Negro and Mexican-American communities that they have the political strength to represent the balance of power, and that they can use it without anyone telling them how to vote.

He emphasized that he would represent the total Los Angeles community as a commissioner, and that what is good law enforcement on the East Side is good law enforcement in the Wilshire District. Porter also said that the people can look forward to progress with the Police Department; that the backing of the community is important and that each side must understand that the goal is a mutual goal and can only be accomplished by a mutual effort.

Mr. Haney was introduced by Brad Pye, Jr., a member of the Angels' staff. Also present was Ken Hunt, the Angels' center fielder. Haney predicted a "Freeway" World Series in Los Angeles.

Luncheon Honors Mrs. C. Bradford

One of the loveliest luncheons to be given recently was that of the faculty of Avalon Gardens honoring Mrs. Cornelia Leggett Bradford who announced her retirement from the L. A. City School system.

More than 50 friends, including the faculty, attended the luncheon which was held in the elegaht Wilfandel Club on West Adams.

Mrs. Bradford was the recipient of an exquisite hand cut crystal bowl from the faculty and a plaque in appreciation of her outstanding service in the school system since 1922.

Anniversary Celebrated

At an elaborate surprise party, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Morris Sr., were saluted on the occasion of their 29th wedding anniversary.

In the comfortable confines of Dukes Living Room, 2636 S. Crenshaw, the Hi Bidders Bridge and Social Club, with guests Messrs. and Mmes. C. B. Martin, Clarence Edwards, Robert Townsend, Clarence Thomas and Mrs. George Harrison, served hors douevres and other refreshments.

Many were the good wishes extended to the prominent couple.

Verna Deckard To Visit Paris

Verna Deckard, prominent real estate saleswoman, will leave for Detroit and New York soon and will sail on the Queen Mary for Paris, France, July 7.

Before departing for the East Miss Deckard was entertained with parties by each of her five warmest friends, named Edna McPherson, Sammie Williams, Annie Lois Schooler, Lovie Towns and Billie Bagsby.

At each of these wonderful going-away parties Miss Deckard received many useful gifts for her trip. She plans to visit her son, Arthur Lewis, and his family living just out of Paris and will return to Los Angeles late in September.

Capacity Crowd Attends Beta Pi Sigma Promenade

With pomp and spendor befitting royalty, the pool and patio promenade held last Sunday afternoon at the palatial home of Mrs. Fannie E. Benjamin by the Beta Pi Sigma Sorority was a Fashion Extravaganza extraordinaire.

A capacity crowd of celebrities and others cheered and "ah-ed" over the beautiful models and exotic creations on parade. Bob DeCoy, of KGFJ fame, was the master of ceremonies, and Winni Orr was the narrator.

Highlighting the latest in men's fashions was E. S. January of Ward King's Wardrobe, who held the audience in throes of ecstacy as he modeled the latest in cocktail lounge robes, velvet dinner jackets and what the well dressed Man of Color should wear in sports attire.

Nellie Lutcer provided piano accompaniment for the models, and organ music for the golden royal wedding sequence was provided by Celestine Chambray.

Millinery by Mme. Maudie De Cummings (Mozetta) caught the fancy of the discriminating ladies. The staging was under the direction of Kay Murray and Louise Glover. The latter is basileus of Beta Pi Sigma.

Boys Club Sponsoring Big Three Day Carnival

Like a Mardi Gras festival, the Southern Area Boys' Club will conduct its first annual Fun-Fest Carnival on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 30 through July 2, from 2 till 10 p.m., on the spacious grounds of the Club House, just east of Central avenue, at 1339 E. 120th street.

This colorful fund - raising event is to provide additional activities for the summer program.

Many big attractions in the form of games, rides, prizes and food will offer enjoyment for all age levels from infants to grandparents.

Admission is free but rides and food are at nominal prices. Thus, a very cordial invitation is extended to all to join hands in helping the Southern Area Boys' Club continue its great program of building juvenile decency.

'Shadows' Controversial Film

By PHIL GORDON

JOHN CASSAVETES "Shadows" will begin its theatre run tomorrow at the Sunset Theatre, and will cause much comment, concern and confusion among theatre and movie goers. There will be those who see no reason for the film having been made, others who rave over the guts and foresight which had to precede the making of such a film, many who praise the presentation of truth and life as it is, with no punches pulled, as in foreign art pictures, some who get vicarious kicks from "living" an earthy, "nitty-gritty" off-beat, raw, but true-to-life, Virgin-destroying sex experience, through the realistic and powerfully dramatic characterizations of the actors.

WIERDLY DIFFERENT

Others will note some fine acting by Lelia Goldoni, Ben Carruthers, Hugh Hurd and Anthony Ray, with special note of a few passing well-done bits. Then when a viewer discovers that this complete film was with improvised dialogue coming from the thinking and experience of the actors after only a discussion briefing of a theme and some incidents, the funds used to produce the film were few and raised by soliciting and volunteers, the producer was Maurice McEndree, Director, John Cassavetes and Assoc. Producer, Seymour Cassel, and the whole idea the result of an actors dream in a New York loft, the viewer will be far more appreciative of the fine artistry and dramatic impact of this wierdly different film. To see it will be the only way for you to arrive at a conclusion as to its respective merits for you. To date "Shadows" has won two international awards, one of which is the Venice Film Critics Award for 1960.

MOST INTRIGUING

Now its your turn. I found it most intriguing by its unusual qualities and new approach.

OUR VERY OWN—Phil Gordon, competent California Eagle columnist, whose "New York Scene" is the most sought after bit about the happy happenings in the 'big apple,' is currently getting the job done here in the land of the sun and fun.(Read Show Biz and N.Y. Scene).

Cutty Sark Leading in Taste Race

The most sellsational news ever to reach the 'bottlefront' is the announcement of the all new Cutty Sark in all the popular priced packages that are now being featured in Liquor stores, Night Clubs, Taverns and 'package houses' throughout Southern California.

KENNY WASHINGTON TOPS POPULAR

Nationally the acceptance of Cutty Sark, produced by Scotland's Best Distilleries, imported by the Buckingham Corporation, Rockefeller Center, New York, and distributed locally by the Young's Market Company, with popular Kenneth Stanley Washington, Sr., as special sales representative, has made this quality Scotch Whisky the most sought after 'liquid' anywhere.

PUBLICLY ACCLAIMED

Conspicuously displayed, interiorly and exteriorly, in the spacious merchandise offices of your favorite metropolitan weekly newspaper, advertised intensively in the California Eagle entertainment section, and personally approved by an ever increasing number of social clubs, business organizations and community leaders who have partaken of our hospitality, Cutty Sark, 86 proof, blended Scots Whisky is definitely getting around Angeltown. Join the swing to the real thing.

Greco Group Opens July 3 at the Greek

The idol of Spanish dance lovers, dynamic Jose Greco, returns to the Greek Theater of Los Angeles for six nights of exciting performances that range from fiery flamencos to stirring classics, Monday through Saturday, July 3-8, at the head of his tempestuous Spanish Ballet Company.

AUTHENTIC PRESENTATION

World premiere of "Tiempos de Goya," choreographed by Greco, who himself dances the leading role, gives an extra spark to the gala occasion. The magnificent costumes, all direct from Spain, accurately reflect the era of Goya and are designed after that master's paintings. All the other sumptuous costumes of the troupe are equally authentic, selected by Greco in person.

Vivacious Lola de Ronda, sultry Carmen Mora and flashing Rosario Caro lead the bevy of feminine charmers, with Jose Molina, Curro Rodriguez and Paco Fernandez providing alacritous masculine support in principal roles. The eminent composer-pianist Roger Machado is coming from Spain to direct the Greek Theater Orchestra, and flamenco vocalists Norina and Manuela de Jerez and guitar virtuosos Miguel Garcia and Emilio de Diego provide typical Spanish musical flavor.

VICTOR BORGE GREAT

Hilarious Victor Borge concludes his engagement Saturday night, July 1, with his customary brilliant witticisms and pianistic proficiency. See him!!!

CHAZZ CRAWFORD'S SOUNDTRACK

Thanks to our favorite comic DICK GREGORY for his "guest appearance" here last week. And also we thank Dick for his new album titled "Dick Gregory in Living Black and White" that has all our neighbors dropping over to "borrow a cup of Vodka" or just any pretext in order to hear the disc . . . Dick left here Monday to open at the "Hungry i" in San Francisco . . .

At the Crescendo one night during Dick's stand, a famous movie name came into the club feeling no pain and sat down at a table adjoining ours. Dick, who was sitting with our party at the time, peered over and noticed that the chap was without his trousers and had only an Indian blanket tucked around his lower anatomy. We still can't figure out he slipped past the Maitre 'D! And in his party was a very big name red haired actress who didn't seem at all perturbed by her escort's lack of apparel. Tell me, mam, just where is it all going to end???

Songster JESS DAVIS, a favorite of this corner is scheduled to sing the title song in a movie now in preparation and is also weighing an offer to tour the South as a guide voice with an outstanding vocal group.

Although we are late in our condolences (being away from the Underwood last week) we must add our brief eulogy for a nice guy, actor JEFF CHANDLER who slipped away from us recently. We first met Jeff through his pal SAMMY DAVIS and saw him to talk with several times following. He was an unselfish, unassuming and talented man. We recall trying to reach him through his studio one time to solicit his support for a worthy cause. The studio said he was unavailable but sent a wire of regret in his stead. However Jeff heard about the affair and showed up anyway. He had heard nothing of our call to the studio, and was profusely apologetic in their behalf. Of course his studio was only offering a protective shield as they must do in many instances for their star personnel. But the incident only serves to prove the sort of guy he was . . . And so Goodbye, "Cochise" . . . you'll be sorely missed!

Actor JON CHEVRON who recently completed an 8-week assignment on the film "Hatari" at Paramount is mighty proud of the large mug he received from JOHN WAYNE, the star of the picture. On one side of the mug there is a picture of a charging elephant and on the other side the inscription "to Jon from Duke"

The town's gospel loving folk are anxiously awaiting the arrival of BROTHER JOE MAY and SISTER ROSETTA THARPE who will appear here in concert July 30 . . . OZZIE SAMPLE, one of the newer bartenders at OLLIE MATSON'S SEA FOOD GROTTO, where the food is a must says he has been acclimated to the new surroundings and the atmosphere and the pleasant customers make the hours skp by like minutes . . . Ozzie, you should have a long run there and this is an unsolicited testimonial. Like you're pretty nice to the customers, too! . . .

LIL CUMBER, now back at her desk, has everybody oohing and aahing over her new streamlined look! . . . Talked via phone with comic LENNY BRUCE'S mom the other day and was surprised to learn the lady can talk the "hip" talk almost as well as her son. But nobody, but nobody will ever be as "way out" as that cat! . . .

Singer-composer RUDY RENDER has penned a beautiful and haunting song called "Look Away" that will be recorded by AL HIBBLER, and popular sportsman BOB PEEL is fast becoming a songwriter of note. Has some pretty things ready for publication!

Reflections on the Freedom Rally: Many of the starlets who appeared at the rally were given orders by their studios or agents not to become too involved in the event because of its political nature. But all insisted on their rights as citizens to attend. Two luscious girls who made the scene: BARBARA WALDEN and GRETA THYSEN. We don't know what their orders were, but they were there and were extremely "eye arresting."

SINGER ERVIN — Adopts Safety Savings as savings facility . . . "Opening his account with Safety" was the business attended to by Singer Frank Ervin who visited the Association's offices recently to begin a savings program. He is shown above with Teller Betty Yarbrough. Ervin is emerging as one of the most popular singers on the Coast, alone, and as lead singer with The Shields. "Nature Boy" and "You Cheated" have sold more than a million copies each. A recent release "Some Other Guy" is fast gaining in popularity.

Summit Helps Jimmy Bryant Find Success

Jim Bryant, a young man with a guitar and a beautiful voice, arrived in Los Angeles from Detroit last week to visit his brother, who lives in town.

UNEQUALED OPPORTUNITY

He had been here only two days when his brother read in one of the local papers that The Summit on Sunset was holding audition-talent nights from Monday to Thursday. After much coaxing from his brother, Jim—who had never played professionally—took his guitar and went to The Summit on Monday night.

HOLLYWOOD SUCCESS STORY

His renditions of "Spanish Harlem" and "Maria" brought down the house and he was chosen one of the winners.

The finals were held on Thursday night and once again, Jim Bryant was the unanimous winner. Along with the applause, Jim was awarded a week's contract to appear at The Summit in the near future.

OWNERS NOTEWORTHY

Bob Gefaell and Bill Bapst feel that this young man has a tremendous amount of talent and they are happy to give him his first chance professionally — in Los Angeles or anywhere.

AUTO REGISTRATIONS

Motor vehicle registrations in the United States totaled 73,895,274 during 1960, reports the National Automobile Club.

SIGNIFICANT — The Living Room Lounge, one of Los Angeles' more plush sip parlors, has gradually began to take on a pattern of informal community interest. Owners, Blanche and Claude Duke have wholeheartedly thrown their support and finances toward any project that is for the good of the community. Completely covering the financial responsibility of chartering an MTA bus, The LIVING ROOM engaged a bus and driver for the afternoon of the gigantic Freedom Rally at the Sports Arena, at no cost to any one who wanted to go hear Martin Luther King. Among the riders who left the Living Room on the Free-Freedom Ride were: Charlotte B. Woodfork, Steven Hall, Johnny Carter, Jerri Harvey, Reuben Hunter, Virginia King, Dahle Scott, All Taylor, Ed Webb, Claude Jones, Jr., Floyd Bell, Jim Richardson, Webster Washington, Grace Fegan, Esther Johnson, Margaret Brown, Clarence Jordan, Ivan Cannady, John Beach, Dr. Artis White, William Tidwell, Leroy Day, Sarah Hamilton, Mabel Burrell, Marian Grayson, Reuben Lewis, Howard Martin, Julius Butler, Harvey Judkins (Plainfield, N.J.), Bob Peal, Cecil Coleman, Dottie Lewis, Vernon Walker, Billie Brown, Perri Fullilove, Michael King, Edith Foster, Annette King, Shiela Foster, Viola Black, Margaret Purks (Buffalo, N.Y.), Bonnie Scott, (Buffalo, N.Y.), Bill Martin, Sarah Judkins, (Plainfield, N.J.) and Wnii Orr. The hospitality bus stopped enroute to the event to take on other persons who were waiting for public transportation, at no cost to them.

Happenings Around Angeltown

I've been the house guest of Dr. & Mrs. Wayman McCoo & family for the past ten days, the dinner guest of everyone here who has tried to make my stay pleasant and I must say, succeeded royally. On my arrival, with charming Johnetta Starks as my guest, I attended the opening at The Summit of the Kings IV, a vocal, instrumental and comedy group, which is very entertaining and versatile; playing 4 trombones, 2 tenor saxes, bass tuba, trumpet, clarinet, electric bass and drums, and using many props and gimmicks.

SERVI MAKES SUMMIT

The Kings IV sang many standards and did take offs on Peter Gunn in pantomime, plus Dixieland and a wild version of 76 Trombones.

The Eddie Cano Quartet was excellent in playing Latin music for dancing and listening in contrast to the loud and lasting sounds of the Kings IV. I wanna thank Vera Servi for being a most charming hostess at The Summit. It was a ball.

"FLY BLACKBIRD" A MUST

With my entire McCoo Clan in tow: Glenda and Mildred, plus Willette Murphy, I attended a performance of the musical, "Fly Blackbird" and if you have not seen this clever, well sung and artistically delivered production which merits support. You won't regret this delightful evening.

FREEDOM'S EVERYONE FIGHT

I was late so I had to join the thousands who were on the outside of the Sports Arena for the Tribute to Rev. Martin Luther King, but was most pleased at this magnificent display of unity and support. Didn't feel too badly when I spoke to baritone, Robert McFerrin, also outside, and found he could not get in, and was scheduled to open the program singing The Star Spangled Banner. Like WOW!!

ASA SPAULDING SALUTED

Monday night it was my privilege to be invited to a cocktail party, roast guinea hen and wild rice dinner, and stag honoring Mr. Asa Spaulding, Pres. of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co. The hard core of L.A.'s leading business and professional men were all on hand to hake this a fine salute and a fun evening.

Arthur J. H. Clemens, the Norman Houstons of N.C.M.I.T., of Golden State; architect, Paul Williams, members of the Board of Broadway Federal Savings & Loan and others.

'RAISIN' REALLY ALIVE

Saw Maidie Norman starring in the current live version of "A Raisin in the Sun," and she was simply magnificent. Fine performances were also turned in by Rhoda Jordan, young Kyle Johnson and the rest of the cast. If you still haven't seen this award winning play, you just oughta.

CRESCENDO TOP

Took the very lovely young Miss Glenda McCoo to the Crescendo, where we were the guests of Miss Robbin Combs (the manager), and caught the most talked about new comic, Dick Gregory doing his act. He is a very funny man and a crowd pleaser

3 Trade-Tech Awards Given Sidney Moore

To a burst of applause from a packed student audience, "Sid" (Sidney) Moore walked off with three trophies at the final awards assembly at Los Angeles Trade-Technical College this month.

Lanky, good-looking Moore received the three-foot high "Athlete of the Year" award trophy, the "Most Improved Basketball Player" plaque, and the "Most Valuable Track Man" plaque from Trade-Tech Head Coach Robert E. Tabing.

Sid, the son of Mrs. Mildred Moore of 2116 W. 65th place, was graduated from Dorsey High. A native of Houston, Texas, he is majoring in offset presswork in the printing department at Trade-Tech, and he expects to complete his studies in February of next year.

To Play in Shrime Game

Bob Morris of San Francisco's Washington High is a football player who developed late, and much to the chagrin of the South team that must face Morris and his North teammates in the 10th annual Shrine Football Classic at the Los Angeles Coliseum July 26, he's still developing.

Morris, a tremendous physical specimen at 6-2, 195, had to overcome two roadblocks on his way to all-City and second team all-Northern California end honors. He didn't star as a junior and so had no advance publicity, and he was a receiver on a team which, until late in the season, just didn't pass.

But soft-spoken Bob made his honors the hard way. Despite the fact that Washington averaged only about 10 passes per game, and completed only 21 in eight regular season league contests, Morris grabbed off six deliveries for touchdowns. In addition, he scored a seventh time on a 40-yard pass interception.

Moral Re-Armament Helps Solve Problems in Africa

STRASBOURG, France — Parliamentarians from Africa and from six countries of the Common Market — delegates to the European Parliament recently attended a performance here of "The Crowning Experience." This film, produced by Moral Re-Armament, has been urgently requested by many African heads of state for their countries. The delegates are currently in session in Strasbourg to discuss the further association of African nations with the Common Market.

M. Robert Schuman, honorary president of the European Parliament, was in the audience, which included 50 African parliamentarians from Cameroun, the Congo, Dahomey, the Ivory Coast, Madagascar and Somalia.

Also attending were Monsignor Fischer, Dean of Strasbourg Cathedral, and M. Jung, president of the Strasbourg Council of Protestant Churches.

M. Henri Konde of Leopoldville, the Congo, told the parliamentary delegates, "We have blamed our politicians for the problem of our countries. But the corruption, ambition, dishonesty and tribalism which existed among us have been the real causes of our problems and these are the things which MRA is curing."

Manasseh Moerane, former president of 10,000 African teachers in South Africa, introduced the delegation just arrived from the MRA World Assembly at Caux, including black and white from South Africa, Congolese, former Mau Mau and white settlers from Kenya. Moerane declared, "Moral Re-Armament is the ideology

Compton Dons Win Twin Bill

The scrappy Compton Dons of the Pioneer Baseball League visited Lancaster last Sunday and swept a double header, which put them within one game of first place.

The Dons played terrific ball in both games. Ray Petroff fashioned a six hitter as his teammates backed him with six rims to notch a 6 to 2 victory of the first game of a doubleheader.

In the second game 19-year-old Lanney George, a pitcher from New Orleans, made his debut by tossing an 8 to 3 nightcap victory, allowing only 3 hits.

Walter Jones and Sal Ramey hit homers in the second game. George Bragg, Jefferson High ace catcher, turned in a fine job for the dons while John Miller, Compton College star, got three hits during his four trips to the plate.

Rams Ticket Sale

Applications for renewals have been processed and the Los Angeles Rams now are accepting new orders for season tickets to their 1961 games, business manager William H. John announced.

Season tickets in all three seating areas and in all three season plans still are available, John added. Further information on each plan may be obtained at the Rams office, 7813 Beverly blvd., or by calling WEbster 3-8291.

Find Rupert Branker Bludgeoned to Death

Rupert Branker, key man of the Platters vocal group that has probably achieved more fame in the last decade than any similar song ensemble, was found bludgeoned and unconscious before dawn Monday near the corner of Hoover and 42nd street.

Earlier in the evening, Branker and several friends had attended the Rev. John L. Branham's church at 100 W. 49th street, where he was especially interested in hearing St. Paul's choir.

HIT ON HEAD

Branker, pianist, arranger, director and coach of the Platters, had been hit on the head, but had not been robbed. He was taken to General Hospital where he died shortly before 9 a.m. without regaining consciousness. Cause of death was listed as a skull fracture with cerebral contusions and hemmorhage.

Police discovered a blood-stained shovel near the spot where Branker was found and believed this may have been the death weapon.

They also believed that robbery, and not murder, may have been the motive for the crime, but that the killer was frightened off before he could complete his job.

PORCH LIGHT FLASHED

The flashing on of a porch light apparently caused him to flee.

Robert Moore, 4159 S. Hoover, told police that about 4 a.m. Monday he heard two men fighting and scuffling in front of his house and that one of them cried out for help.

He got up, went down stairs and snapped on the porch light. He said he saw one man down on the ground, bleeding profusely from the head, and a second man crouching at his victim's feet, taking off the prone man's shoes.

SUSPECT FLED

Moore said that as he opened the door, the suspect took off, running north on Hoover.

The Platters were in Los Angeles on a nine-day stopover for rehearsals. The group, that emerged to acquire fame and wealth on the upsurge of the rhythm and blues craze, but then quieted down to soulful ballads with a beat, were set to open shortly at Wildwood, N.J., before taking off for a European tour of Paris and other continental centers.

University investigating officers N. A. Elser and G. W. Flanders were able to trace the 25-year-old Branker's movements up to about 3:30 a.m. Then all clues vanished. It was a half hour later

DO NOTHING YEAR

The California legislature didn't do much about anything at its session which closed a couple of weeks ago and it did less than that as far as civil rights were concerned. The main civil rights issue was the Hawkins bill for a fair housing act which would have prohibited discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing, except small family sized units. The Assembly chopped the bill into fine pieces and the Senate completed the job by referring it to a committee for study—a sly way of putting off action for a year.

Funny thing about it is that we had the same governor and virtually the same legislators this session as we had at the previous session when we got an FEPC and laws forbidding discrimination in publicly assisted housing and tightening up our rules against discrimination in places of business. It's just as obvious that discrimination in housing hasn't lessened in that period, either. What made the difference?

EAGER BEAVERS

There are a number of obvious answers. For one thing, the Democrats rode into power in 1958 for the first time in 16 years. During that long period out of

Driver, 16, Kills Boy, 2, Injures Girl

A 16-year-old girl who coaxed her older brother to teach her how to drive the family car lost control of the auto as she turned into her driveway at 2541 S. Mansfield avenue about 6:30 p.m. last Wednesday and plowed into the front steps of the house.

Two children were playing on the steps at the time. One, Michael Turner, 2, of the Mansfield avenue address, nephew of the teenage driver, was dead on arrival at Central Receiving Hospital.

The other, a four-year-old girl, Pearl Jean Payne, of 1126 E. 25th street, was seriously injured. She was in critical condition at General Hospital.

The driver of the car, Carol Turner, does not have a driver's license or a learner's permit, juvenile officers said.

An inquest has been scheduled Friday.

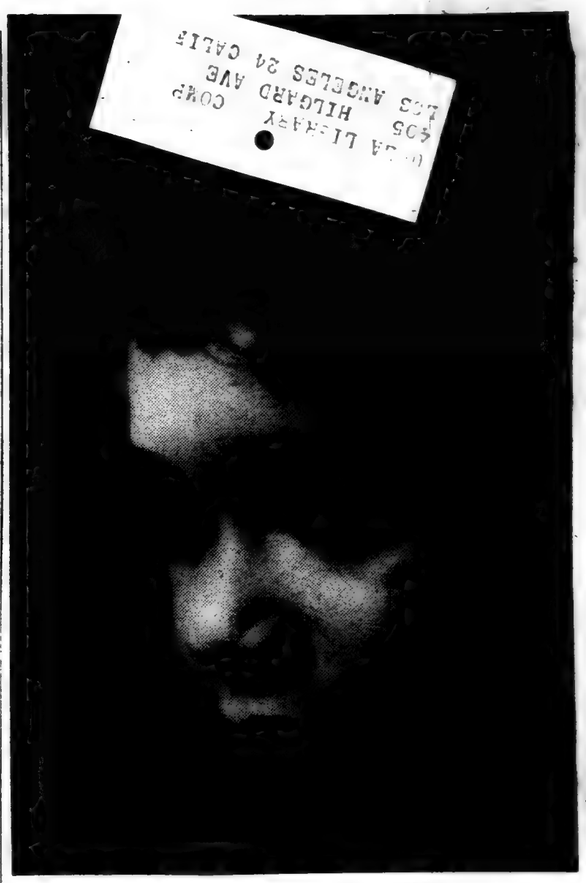
President of NAACP in Test Case

Dr. Vincent A. Mark, president of the Santa Ana NAACP, who claims he was turned down on three separate occasions when he sought to purchase a home in a Tustin housing project, filed suit in Orange County Superior Court Friday for $100,000 damages.

Claiming that he was given the cold shoulder solely because he is a Negro, the 34-year-old doctor took action under the new Unruh Act providing for damages in the case of discrimination in the sale of real estate.



KEPT WAITING

Named in the suit are the Santa Ana Board of Realtors, the Craig Development Corp., Meredith Construction Co. and Mrs. Esau Smith, real estate saleswoman.

Dr. Mark explained to the Eagle that in seeking a home in the exclusive Meredith Park tract in Tustin for himself, his wife and their future family, he was not merely trying to test the law. He said they were looking for a house because they need a suitable place in which to live.

He said that on each of the

Ethel Bryant At Work as Yorty's Aide

It's just like old times for Ethel Bryant, who was named field secretary to Mayor Samuel Yorty last Friday and who, on Saturday morning, was already hard at work on her new job.

Mrs. Bryant, wife of Warrant Officer William Jennings Bryant, and mother of two sons, worked for Yorty before, back in the early '50s, when she was employed as his assistant field secretary, working out of Los Angeles, after he was first elected to Congress.

ON HER WAY

Mrs. Bryant, who came to Los Angeles in 1941, hails from Texarkana, Ark. She has worked on many jobs here, as a waitress on Central avenue when she first arrived, at Lockheed Aircraft during World War II, in the U. S. Signal Corps, and then back on Central avenue, this time at Kress's, where she organized the clerks and got them to join the union.

Before the Lockheed job, Mrs. Bryant had applied at the American Screw Co., only to be turned down because the company refused to hire Negroes.

Ethel filed a complaint against the company and that, she says, started her off on fighting Civil Rights battles that eventually led her into politics.

LABOR ENDORSED

In 1949 and 1950, Ethel, a staunch Democrat, worked as political coordinator for the AFL Voters League and it was in that capacity that she first met Yorty, who ran for Congress—and won—on a labor-endorsed ticket.

Mrs. Bryant is a former member of the Democratic State Central Committee and of the County Central Committee, where she represented the 62nd District.

Her older son, John Phillips, lives with his wife, Mrs. Celeste Phillips, and their three-year-old daughter in the Valley.

Mrs. Bryant and her husband three weeks ago adopted another son, nine-months-old Kevin William Bryant, who has a sweet, warm smile for friends and strangers alike. They live at 12614 Judd street, Pacoima.

LIKE OLD TIMES—It was like "old times" for Ethel Bryant when she became field secretary for Mayor Samuel Yorty Saturday. Mrs. Bryant, back in the early '50s, worked for Congressman Samuel Yorty, as his assistant field representative, stationed in Los Angeles.

'Revenge' Invaders Battle Wrong Gang

Five carloads of teenage gangsters from Pasadena invaded Denker Playground, 35th place and Denker, shortly after midnight last Tuesday, and staged a "revenge" battle against a group they mistook for members of the Gladiators.

They shot off guns, hurled Molotov cocktails, wielded tire irons, bats and clubs. Girls screamed. Fists flew. Empty cars blocked the streets.

GIRL ARRESTED

One girl, Phyllis Anne McCullough, was arrested at 1725 Glen avenue in Pasadena and taken to University Police Station.

She said she had been playing records at Flash Studios and then went to Denker Playground, where the fighting was in progress.

"I thought it was the Gladiators the boys got," she said. She also said that she "was told" there were some bombs in a Mercury that belongs to Walter Ellis. She denied seeing the bombs or knowing who threw them.

The invaders were members of the Highwaymen, Sabers, Gaytimers, Sultans, and Saints.

RETURN BOUT

Police reported that the Pasadenans, on the prowl for the Gladiators, came upon the Rebel Rousers instead and began battling. Only two of the Rebels were injured, both slightly, police reported.

The Gladiators reportedly had attacked the Pasadena gangs two nights earlier and Tuesday's battle was in the nature of a return bout.

New Born Boy Abandoned at Doctor's Office

A tiny new-born baby boy was found about 7 p.m. last Thursday, dressed in clean clothes and wrapped in a striped blanket, on the doorstep of Dr. William Timms, whose offices are at 4266 S. Central avenue.

The bundle was left on the stairway that leads to his offices.

HEALTHY BABY

No one had noticed who had brought the small bundle into the building; no one had seen who deposited it on the stairs; no one had observed any suspicious looking person leaving the building.

But there it was, to be discovered by Dr. Timms, a perfectly formed, seemingly healthy little fellow, normal in every way except that he was awfully small. He weighed only three and one-half pounds.

A note pinned to the baby's blanket gave no indication of who

New Orleans Airport Tries Half-Way Desegregation

Following the filing of a federal suit to force desegregation of the Moisant International Airport facilities in New Orleans June 26, management made a half-way gesture of compliance but stopped short of admitting Negroes to the sumptuous International Room.

"We have a new policy now," said E. Neil Wannen, manager of eating facilities at the $2,250,000 terminal building. "We will serve Negroes in the coffee shop."

LOCAL CUSTOM

Heretofore the only place where Negroes could get anything to eat at the airport was at a six-stool snack bar where sandwiches and coffee in paper cups are sold.

"We feed Negroes in this terminal," said Wannen. "This firm (Interstate Hosts) operates facilities like this in all parts of the nation.

Then he added: "Here because of local custom, we have excluded Negroes from certain areas of the terminal."

In seeking an injunction against continued segregation, the federal goverment contended that segregation at the airport's res-

Model Gets Job With Leading French Designer in New York

Convinced that she was qualified for the position, beauteous model Beverly Valdes of New York last week applied for a position advertised in the New York Times by the fashion house of Parisian designer Pauline Trigere.

Miss Trigere was looking for a permanent, high fashion model for her Seventh avenue salon. Later she commented, "Miss Valdes "has lovely features, a long waist, good shoulders and a good neck."

The designer added that Miss Valdes' interesting coloring looks well with the burnt orange and greens now being featured, and that she graces the medieval cloaks and capes that are a Trigere trademark.

Miss Valdes is five feet, eight inches tall, wears a size eight or 10 dress. Her measurements are 33-22-33 and she weighs 118 pounds.

Miss Valdes got the job and became the first Negro model in the field.

Dr. R. Andrew Again Heads Medical Group

Especially gratifying to the medics was the appointment of Dr. Gray, one of their own, to serve on the Health Commission. A congratulatory telegram was also sent to Dr. Gray, pledging full support and expressing the good wishes of the membership.

Membership meetings will be suspended for July and August, but the executive committee will be busy working out "pilot projects" that will be presented at the September "Get-Acquainted Party."

Dr. Andrew expressed the appreciation of the organization to the press and the community for support given its activities during the past year.

When Jacqueline Kennedy let it be known that she would wear American-designed clothes while in the White House, Paris-Presse headlined the report: "Mme. Kennedy Has Chosen Austerity."

Bobby Kay Allen Wins Breakfast Club Award

By C. MARIE HUGHES

Kathleen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones, was claimed on the stroke of midnight as Miss Cinderella of 1961 by her "Prince Charming," Hiawatha Hawkes, at the fourth annual "Cinderella Ball" of the Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club.

The affair, which was held in the International Ballroom of the Beverly-Hilton Hotel, was an outstanding success. A fashionable crowd of 1200 or more staunch supporters of this well known and popular organization filled the ballroom for the club's only fund raising event of the year.

$1000 AWARD

Another highlight of the evening was the $1000 scholarship award presentation. Bobby Kay Allen, graduate of Freemont High School, received the award for 1961. Honored for her outstanding scholastic ability, she will attend the school of her choice in California.

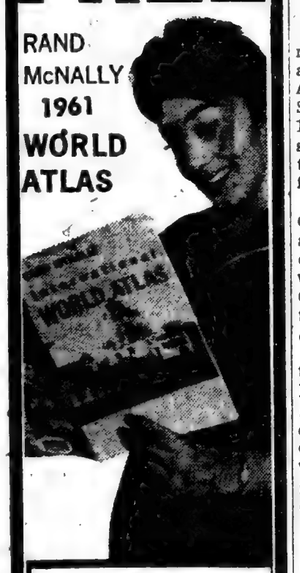
A brilliant array of colonial dresses in pastel colors designed alike were worn by 16 Cinderella candidates. Each girl's costume was enhanced by colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations with rainbow streamers encircling their arms.

The youthful debutantes shared the spotlight with Marines from El Toro and Pendelton bases who acted as escorts. After a sequence of drill marching to the delight of the large audience, the escorts waited on the dance floor for the girls as they were being introduced.

AGE-OLD TALE

A modern version of the age-old fairy tale was danced and dramatized by Leila Goldoni, Fairy-Godmother; Cinderella, Alibe Cotage; Joan Keer, stepmother; Misai and Creamy Caldwell, step-sisters.

The 16 candidates for Miss Cinderella were: Kathleen Jones, Janet Greene, Gloria Gipson, Ursula Shields, Susan Wales, Jacqueline Green, Donna Stamps, Ann Tolliver, Frances Hones, Gale Ross, Sandra Dale, Barbara Sanders, Ernestine Jones, Sandra Williams and Lena McGowan.



Escorts were Marine Capt. Clarence L. Davis, Sgt. John A. Wilson, Sgt. Dorain Roney, Cpl. A. M. Bowen, Cpl. R. P. Christ, Cpl. J. L. Carter, M. L. Curlin, Cpl. A. C. Greer, Cpl. V. McPherson, Pfc. W. J. Patton, Pvt. E. A. Coleman, all from El Toro, and from Pendelton, Cpl. Herbert O. G. Williams, Cpl. Benjamin L. Ladd, Cpl. King E. Slaton, Pfc. Wiley Gibson, Pfc. Leslie C. Belle, Pfc. Arnell L. LITTLE RAIN... yet ample water!
GROWING DEMAND... yet plenty of power!

DWP plans and builds ahead to assure water and power for a growing Los Angeles!

Although rainfall in Los Angeles for 2 of the past 3 years has been the lowest in the history of the U.S. Weather Bureau here, the city has—and will continue to have—adequate water for all its needs.

Although the demand for electricity in Los Angeles has been the highest on record, Los Angeles has—and will continue to have—ample power for all its needs.

Your present and future supplies of ample and low-cost water and power are assured because your Department of Water and Power is planning and building ahead. The financial blue print is the DWP budget for 1961-62. More than $100 million is for construction of new facilities.

Yet, your DWP will continue to be self-supporting from its revenues, imposing no burden on taxpayers.

Cost of water and power to individual users, will remain low. Water costs less here than in other California cities dependent on "imported" water. Electric rates are about one-third less than the average of the 15 other largest U.S. cities.

Wounded by Buckshot

A six-year-old girl, playing in front of her home at 641½ 7. 48th street last Saturday, was struck in the back by buckshot blasted from a shotgun.

Little Cynthia McCoy was picked up by Louise Haynes of the same address who noticed blood running from the child's back and head.

The little girl told police she was playing when a man took a gun out of his car parked in the driveway. She started to run, she said, and felt something hit her. She was treated for buckshot wounds.

Sterling Bland Coulter, 32, who lived in the same building, admitted that he had shot off a gun and said it had blown up in his hand.

His wife, Assielee Coulter, he said, found out that he had been "playing around" with another woman, and came to his house and began stabbing him in the body with an icepick, according to the police report.

NAACP Convention Slated for July 10-16

PHILADELPHIA—The granting of the Kivie Kaplan Awards, the bestowing of the Spingarn Medal, the honoring of branches and individuals who have made outstanding records in the Civil Rights field, and the presentation of a jazz suite, "Fredom Now," will be the highlights of the NAACP 52nd annual convention being held here July 10-16.

Among individuals who will be honored are Father Theodore R. Gibson, the battling minister of Miami whose freedom rests in the hands of the U. S. Supreme Court, and James McBride Dabbs, a white Southern integrationist who will address the convention's mass meeting Tuesday evening, July 11, at Tindley Temple.

A child of the Confederacy, Dabbs has this to say about his fellow South Carolinians: "They are waging a fight which they will lose as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow and about which, when they have lost it, they will wonder why they fought so hard to stave off so small a change."

Father Gibson faces six months in jail and a $1200 fine for refusing to turn over the names of Miami NAACP members to the Florida Legislative Investigating Committee. He has a long record of struggle in the integration battle.

The jazz performance, which will be featured on Youth Night, will see drummer Max Roach, singer Abbey Lincoln, African drummer Olatungi and singer-actor Brock Peters in Roach's first major composition, on which he collaborated with writer-singer Oscar Brown Jr.

Money Orders That Bounced May Pay Off

The thousands of persons in the local community who some years back paid money to the Cole's Check Service for money orders that were never sent have a chance to recover at least a part of the money due them — but they'll have to show proof of their claim.

The firm, whose main offices were in the P.E. Building at 6th and Los Angeles streets, went into receivership in 1955.

All preliminary matters have apparently now been ironed out and a settlement is to be forthcoming. On April 17, the court ordered all persons having claims against the company to file verified proof of their claims with R. E. Allen, receiver, 1557 W. Beverly blvd.

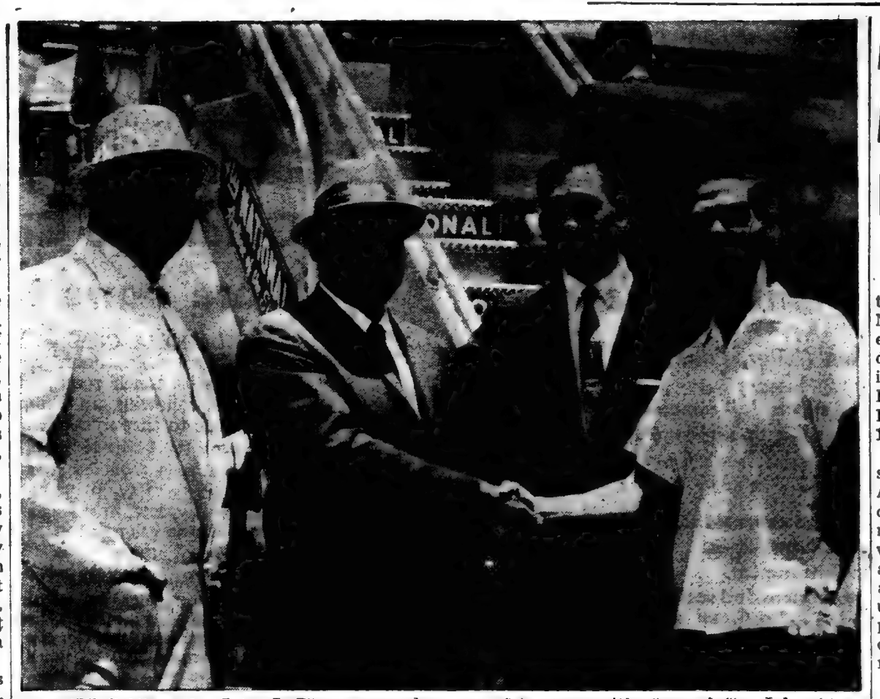
All claims must be sent in on or before Oct. 21.

A hearing on the receiver's report has been scheduled for Dec. 21, in Dept. 65 at 9:30 a.m.

One of those who paid his money for a money order that was never sent is Charles Wherry, who paid in $5 on March 14, 1955. The recipient never received the $5.

Since 1959 Wherry has been writing officials, attempting to find out the status of the receivership and what his chances were of getting his money back. He has carefully saved his receipt and all other pertinent information. He told the Eagle he'll be one of those who'll be on hand when the case comes up next December.

Fire Damages Baptist Church



Fire gutted living quarters in the rear of the Bethesda Missionary Baptist Church, 2707 S. Central avenue, last Thursday evening, causing an estimated $5000 damage, according to the Fire Department.

Cause of the fire was said to have been an overheated motor in the refrigerator. No one was in the building at the time, shortly after 6 p.m.

The church itself apparently was not damaged, except for minor damage to the roof.

EDUCATOR DIES — Charles P. Adams, founder 60 years ago of Grambling College, La., died Tuesday, June 27, after a long illness at the age of 87. He was president of the college from 1901 to 1936. Funeral services were held Friday.

Stars Volunteering to Help Freedom Gala

The Freedom Gala of the Shifflett family, sparked into being by the words of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. at the Sports Arena Freedom Rally three weeks ago, has caught the imagination both of entertainers and of the thousand or more friends who have been invited to attend.

Johnny Lee, Calhoun in Amos 'n' Andy, volunteered to help when he read about the affair scheduled for this Saturday night from 7-11 p.m. in the garden of the James H. Shiffletts.

TO AID RIDERS

Purpose of the affair is to obtain donations (preferably of $5, $10, $15, $25 or more) to aid those who are actually doing the riding on the buses through Alabama, Mississippi and elsewhere in the South.

Others who have added their names to the list of entertainers are the 50-voice Youth Choir of Rev. Jerry W. Ford's Price Chapel AME, under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia Clark; Chabala, who will play the drums and accompany himself on the guitar to his inimitable "Baya"; Victor Upshaw who will sing; and Tom Hawkins of Radio Station KGFJ.

Mieki Grant, star of Fly Blackbird, will highlight the early part of the program. Camille Cannady will be narrator. Chestyn Everett will give readings. The Versatiles and other choral groups will lend their voices.

PLEDGE DONATIONS

The Youth Choir of Price Chapel has not only offered to sing; in addition, each member has pledged to make a donation to the Freedom Rider fund.

Mrs. Shifflett asks that checks be made payable to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, of which Rev. King is the head.

After the King meeting at the Sports Arena, Lynne Shifflett, a member of the first group of students who participated in "Crossroads Africa," wanted to join the riders.

Dissuaded from that plan, largely for health reasons, she and her family undertook their Freedom Gala, to obtain money to speed the Riders on their way.

The idea caught on, and Saturday night's affair appears to be building towards one of the most intriguing ever held here. It marks a new departure, a new direction.

It is when we attempt to reveal and explain ourselves to others that we realize our ignorance on the subject, and find that we must build our house, room by room, while we take visitors through it. —Andre Maurois.

That uneasy feeling right after the plane takes off is only groundless apprehension.

Ex-Teachers Attend Meeting At San Diego

The California Retired Teachers' Association met in San Diego at the U.S. Grant Hotel recently.

Among the teachers who attended from Los Angeles were Pauline Slater, Bessie Burke, Willa Hudgins, Ethel Bell, Leona McDowell, Iva Washington, Pearl B. Smith and Ella Van Vactor. Also attending was Henrietta Freeman of Redlands.

Aside from attending regular sessions of the association, the teachers enjoyed sight-seeing trips through the city, including trips to the famous San Diego zoo and the San Diego harbor.

On the eve of their return trip to Los Angeles, the local teachers were luncheon guests at the popular El Cortez Hotel, with Bessie Burke and Pauline Slater as hostesses. To reach the Sky Room of the El Cortez Hotel, they rode to the top floor in a glass elevator where views of the city could be seen on the way up.

Mary Bethune Memorial Plan Details Given

By BARBARA MOUNTS

Mrs. V. Besselle Attwell, national executive director of the National Council of Negro Women, in a press conference Saturday, outlined plans for the unveiling of the $2 million Mary McLeod Bethune Memorial in Lincoln Park in Washington, D.C., on Jan. 1, 1963.

Mrs. Attwell said that the inspiring activity of the youth of America in the Sit-Ins and Freedom Rides is making the nation mature morally and that "we women" can no longer sit idly by and not translate into positive action our great potential for unified strength. We can accomplish rapid progress in the fields of human relations and civil rights, she added.

CHALLENGE

Funds for the Bethune Memorial will be sought from every segment of American life and also abroad and the NCNW has accepted the great challenge similar to the one accepted a century ago by the newly freed slaves who collected $18,000 to erect the Lincoln Memorial. The first $5 for that fund was given by Mrs. Charlotte Scott of St. Louis who contributed the first money she earned as a free woman.

The crescent-shaped building will have as its central feature a sculpture of Mrs. Bethune flanked by figures showing 100 years of progress. Some of the figures to be sculptured by Robert Berks are: a kneeling girl with a book in her hand pointing out the North Star to a little tyke; a half naked laborer with his sledge hammer; a scholar and a statesman; a doctor delivering a newborn babe and handing it to a nurse; a technician holding the tools of his craft and many others.

A community center adjoining the park will be erected where social affairs may be held for visiting officials. The memorial itself will serve as an amphitheter and a museum and above all a beautiful and lasting monument to a great American woman, Mrs. Attwell said.

Trouble is the next best thing to enjoyment; there is no fate in the world so horrible as to have no share in either its joys or its sorrows.—Longfellow.

for our 15th Anniversary Celebration

OPEN HOUSE

DOOTO RECORDS & AFFILIATED FIRMS

SUNDAY AFTERNOON and EVENING, JULY 9, 2:00 to 9:00 P.M.

at the Hillside Home of the Company President

3635 Homeland Drive — DOOTSIE WILLIAMS — Beautiful View Park

DOOTSIE WILLIAMS, President
Dooto Records & Affiliated Firms.

The 15th Anniversary of Dooto Records, largest Negro-owned firm of its kind in the nation, and affiliated music publishing firms will be celebrated in a Sunday afternoon party and show at the View Park home of Dooto President, Dootsie Williams.

During the affair, which begins at 2 p.m. and runs until 9, Williams will present to invited guests his roster of artists in the fields of music and comedy, he will honor staff members, produce an actual recording session starring the comedy team of Gene & Freddie for a new album to be entitled "Night Court," and also replay, via tape, the speech Dr. Martin Luther King made at the recent Freedom Riders Rally in the Sports Arena. This tape, incidentally, is available to clubs and other civic organizations in the city as a Dooto public service.

In addition to staff members and friends of the Dooto organization, numerous representatives of the entertainment world and the music trade will be on hand to pay tribute to Williams, who will receive an award for "outstanding service and contributions" in these fields.

Also invited to attend this significant event are many of the city's governmental leaders. Simultaneous with the celebration of the company's 15th anniversary, Williams and members of his staff will formally note completion of refurbishing of the company headquarters at 9512 South Central Ave.

MOST SIGNIFICANT ACCOMPLISHMENT

Dooto Records was founded in 1946 when Williams, already nationally famous as a bandleader and artists and repertoire representative for a major recording company, decided to make the traditional American move — go into business for himself.

Since that time, Dooto Records has become one of the largest Negro businesses in the nation and, as aforementioned, the largest of all Negro firms operating in the highly competitive field of recorded music and comedy. Fact is, Dooto ranks as one of the largest independent recording companies, regardless of race or creed of ownership.

From its beginning, Dooto has been dedicated to the glorification of the Negro talent, the Negro music, the Negro comedy.

"There is," Williams declares, "a wealth of talent among Negroes. This talent, this gift, this ability is, in my opinon, unsurpassed. But not always has ths talent of the Negro been given an opportunity to express itself, to capitalize on its value in the open market of American competition. We have striven to remedy this situation."

In "remedying the situation," Dooto has become a notable pioneer.

Original concentration was on rhythm and blues music. But one night years ago, Williams heard the late Billy Mitchell break up an audience with his humor. If people will pay to hear comedy in night clubs, he reasoned, they will also buy records to hear comedy in their own homes.
He signed Mitchell. And, thus, long before the advent of Mort Sahl, Shelley Berman, Bob Newhart, et als, Dooto produced successful comedy albums. Through the years, the firm has sold millions of comedy albums — and its artists, such as Redd Foxx, Scatman Crothers, Allen Drew, George Kirby, Gene & Freddy, have become nationally famous.

Foxx, for example, has gained a reputation for being "the funniest man in the world" largely as a result of such recordings as "Laff of the Party" and "Red Foxx Fun." His latest album is entitled "He's Funny That Way."

But Williams, a dynamic, forward-thinking man who converted largely to the more lucrative production of albums while other rival firms stuck with less lucrative singles, has not restricted his interests. His catalogue contains a large variety of talent and entertainment ranging from modern jazz to gospel songs.

VAST CONTRIBUTION TO COMMUNITY

Acknowledged as one of the keenest of all talent scouts, Williams has been unusually successful in discovering and promoting "unknowns."

For instance, he discovered The Penguins singing in a local high school, signed them, and recorded them in the song "Earth Angel," which preceded the rock 'n' roll fad and sold more then two million copies. No other rival firm has been able to match this sales record for a single — and "Earth Angel" is a steady seller to this day.

"It is not our intention," says Williams, 'to rest on our laurels. While celebrating our 15th anniversary, we're still keenly aware of the fact that one cannot stand still in the music business. We have already plotted many exciting moves for the future, one of which is the building our own manufacturing plant in South Los Angeles.

Presently Dooto and affiliated firms are engaged in recording, publishing, and motion pictures.

Watch Out for City Planners

If downtown business leaders have their way the entire area between Washington boulevard and the Hollywood Freeway and between Alameda and Alvarado is in for a gigantic face lifting operation.

The plan as unveiled last Wednesday calls for renovation of both business and residential sections and the prediction is that the population of the area will be almost doubled.

Nobody can have any quarrel with renovation of the central city but there are danger signals in any such wholesale plan, attendant upon displacement of present residents.

The area lying north of Washington boulevard and between Alameda and Alvarado contains many Negro families and the danger is that they may be displaced without having new and adequate residential areas opened to them. That is precisely what has happened in other cities: slum clearance has come to mean Negro clearance.

Negroes should get on the alert immediately and dispute any plans for redevelopment until the housing market is open to non-whites. The very interests that are whole heartedly behind the plan put on display last week were just as wholeheartedly opposed to the Hawkins Fair Housing bill defeated at the last session of the legislature.

The Hawkins bill would have prohibited all racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

Unless there are legislative safeguards of a stringent nature the clearing out of residential areas in which Negroes live simply results in piling them up in other and equally unwholesome sections of the city.

After the Negroes are displaced new homes are built from which Negroes are excluded, both by outright discrimination and by economic pressure.

We want to see downtown Los Angeles renovated but we're not willing to give downtown interests the blank check they're looking for until they assume the responsibility of guaranteeing fair play to present residents.

This Year in Supreme Court

When the Supreme Court adjourned last month it left behind no landmark case in the field of civil rights but it did render a number of decisions that were important in that area.

Perhaps the most important was the decision involving the city of Tuskegee in which the court held that a state legislature can't gerrymander Negroes out of a city and that if it attempts to do so it is subject to judicial control. In the long run, that decision will enable Negroes to take an ever larger part in municipal affairs as registration grows.

In another important case, the Court struck down another travel barrier when it held that restaurants located in, and part of, bus depots can't segregate passengers—a decision that was merely an extension of rules against segregation in interstate travel.

Although the case wasn't earmarked as a Negro case, the Court took another important step when it held that a person may sue police officers in federal courts for lawless invasion of a home. By that decision it breathed some life into old Reconstruction statutes and gave hope that still other laws of that era may be resurrected in order to provide constitutional protection.

The Court failed to rule on the most controversial issue that came before it: the sit-in cases. However it did agree to review some of those cases and they will be argued next fall. The decision on those cases, whatever it may be, will be of the utmost importance to the nation because it involves the issue of whether or not the states may use their power to jail or imprison those who use the sit-in method to strike at segregation.

In general, the Court held fast to its rule that school desegregation must be begun in earnest by agreeing with lower federal courts that laws to balk school segregation offend constitutional guarantees.

As far as race relations go, the Court continued its trend of the past two decades by invalidating laws of every kind which seek to revive the discredited separate but equal rule.

If Congress and the president get in step with the courts we can look forward to a decade of progress in the 1960's.

Mayor Yorty Takes Over

Mayor Sam Yorty has made it plain that he intends to have a free hand by his wholesale discharge of holdover commissioners. We think he's entitled to that.

We are gratified, too, that he is calling on some of his Negro supporters to take part in city government. Thus far he has named Atty. Everette Porter to the Police Commission, Dr. D. O. Gray to the Health Commission and Mrs. Ethel Bryant to his secretarial staff.

We hope that Mayor Yorty will continue to select Negroes to fill commission posts and to participate in his administration. We're far behind the rest of the nation in this respect and it will take a lot of appointments just to catch up with where we should have been years ago.

Negroes are now some fourteen per cent of the city's population and their active participation in municipal government is required.

Test for Desegregation

The Deep South is getting all set for the acid test on school segregation on August 30. That's the day ten Negro children are due to be admitted to four "white" schools.

Ernest Vandiver, present governor of Georgia, was elected on a platform pledging that no school desegregation of any kind would occur during his stay in office. He had to backtrack on that promise last year when two Negroes entered the University of Georgia.

But admission to a university is one thing and admission to grade schools is something else again. Atlanta is the seat of a number of Klan like movements sworn to prevent school desegregation at all costs. Other Atlantans are just as determined that the state shall begin compliance with the Supreme Court rulings.

A break-through in Georgia would be significant for the whole South and would probably mark the beginning of the end of southern resistance.

Better Late Than Never

The National Education Association finally took a determined stand for support of the Supreme Court's 1954 decision at its last week's convention. Past efforts had been stymied by white southern teachers.

It's better to be late than never but there is something pathetic about an organization of the nation's teachers that takes seven years to put its stamp of approval on what the nation's highest court has said is the law.

We look to teachers to fashion the minds of our young. We hope they're not as far behind in other respects as they were in this instance.

Oklahoma City's Largest Store Bows to Sit-Ins

OKLAHOMA CITY — The largest department store in Oklahoma City, John A. Brown's, ended segregation policies in its lunch room, soda fountains and rest rooms last week, following an uninterrupted sit-in campaign that lasted close to three years.

The drive to integrate lunch rooms and soda fountains was started by the NAACP Youth Council in May, 1957. At the time the council was composed of 14 members.

117 STORES YIELD

After the campaign got under way, following inconclusive talks with management, membership jumped to around 3000. At times there were as many as 1500 teenagers involved in sit-ins and picket lines throughout the city.

The sit-in campaign at Brown's began in August, 1958. Since then 117 stores have been integrated.

The Youth Council added a boycott of Brown's to the sit-ins in September, 1960. It got off to a slow start, but Frank Wade, store owner, estimated that 78 per cent of the Negro population of Oklahoma City were "withholding patronage" when Brown's decided to change its policy on June 23.

President of the NAACP Youth Council, one of the largest in the nation, at the present time is Calvin Luper, 14. Miss Barbara Posey, now a freshman at the University of Oklahoma at Norman, was president when the sit-ins were launched.

Loren Miller Says...

power they had become committed to FEPC. In a political sense, they had to pay off the debt to voters, who had stuck with them during the long dry spell. It is also an observable political fact that reformers do their best during their first term. It was a cinch that the first term Democrats were bound to do better than the second term Democrats. There are other surface explanations that played some part.

The real explanation lies in the fact that most Americans — and that includes most California Democrats—are still smitten with gradualism. If you talk to them about it, they'll chirp right up and tell you with gestures that they believe that Negroes should enjoy equal rights with all other Americans. Press the point and asked them to put their laws where their mouths are and they will mumble something about "we can't go too fast." Keep on pressing the point and they'll look at you with a sad faced attitude and come up with something about look how far we have gone in the past hundred years, or ten years.

PIE IN SKY

California legislators who enacted an FEPC and a housing bill of sorts last year were convinced that Negroes ought to be satisfied for a while. Some of them were downright resentful that they weren't given a rest on civil rights this year. The way they looked at it was that we were trying to go too far too fast. It's always easy for people who do not suffer from color disabilities to counsel patience.

The flaw in this pie-in-the-sky philosophy of gradualism is that time won't stand still. When a day is done the man who hasn't enjoyed a particular civil right that day has lost it forever. Sure, he will enjoy the right when he gets it a day from now or a year from now or ten years from now but that doesn't help him enjoy it this day or this year. Children who are still attending Jim Crow schools and who should have started attending desegregated schools seven years ago have been cheated out of seven years of equal education.

Gradualists are cheaters who salve their consciences with their promises that they are going to swear off cheating next year or the year after that.

South Eases Color Bar in Universities

Southern universities here and there are beginning to let down the color bar, some a little, some all the way.

The University of Miami in Coral Gables, Fla., largest independent school in the Southeast, has opened its doors to all qualified students "regardless of race, creed or color."

In conformity with that decision arrived at by the Board of Trustees last January, 50 Negroes, mostly undergraduates, entered the university for the summer session. Another 26 have already been accepted for the fall term.

At Duke University in Durham, N. C. two Negroes will enter the law school in September and one will enter the divinity school, thus ending a 123 year practice. Duke still does not admit Negro undergraduates.

The University of the South (Sewanee) ended race restrictions last week. The decision was taken by a secret vote of the Board of Trustees. It followed loud protests over the awarding of an honorary degree a month earlier to racist editor, Thomas R. Waring. The university's theology school has been integrated for eight years.

The University of Georgia, where Charlayne Hunter and Hamilton Holmes faced rioters last January, admitted its first Negro graduate student—music teacher Mary Frances Early—last week, without a murmur of disorder.

Two Women Try Suicide; Both to Live

Two young Eastside women attempted suicide following family arguments last weekend. One, Lenar Richardson of 219 E. 57th street, tried to end her life last Sunday afternoon, by cutting her wrist with a razor blade and by trying to hang herself with the telephone cord after an argument with her husband over another woman.

Mrs. Richardson's brother Jerry said this was not the first time his sister had attempted to take her own life. She refused hospital treatment.

May Moore, 35, of 4111 Wall street, was depressed, her father Feliz Ambrose, said, over a family argument on Saturday. She had been drinking and asked for a sleeping tablet, when handed a bottle containing six or seven tablets, she swallowed them all and lapsed into unconsciousness. She was treated at General Hospital.

Elderly Woman Falls for Bunco; Loses $1000

Mrs. Freda Lewis, 70, of 1032 S. Oxford, fell for one of the oldest tricks in the book when she went to the bank and drew out $1000 to prove her good faith with two women who approached her as she walked down the 1500 block on S. Broadway last week.

She told police that the two women were about 30 years old and were very friendly. They told her they found $2800 and would like to return it to its owner but would divide it with her if she had $2800. She told them that she had only $1000 in the bank.

They then drove her to the Great Western Savings Bank, at 7th and Hill street to withdraw the money which she gave to the women. They promised to meet her, she said, at a building on Maple street to divide the money.

the little fellow was or who had brought him. All it said was, "Born June 29 at 4:42 a.m."

JOHN DOE

Juvenile authorities picked up the infant, christened him with the unromantic name of "John Doe," and took him off to General Hospital, where he was promptly placed in an incubator in the hospital's Premature Baby Center.

On Monday, hospital authorities reported that "John Doe" was doing fine. The mother, whoever he is, wherever she is who felt she had to give up her baby for whatever reasons, will probably be happy to learn that he is in good hands.

The hospital said that judging from his size, he might be a "little premature," but that his being placed in an incubator was "just routine."

Frying Pan Used as Weapon in Fight

Police investigating a fight at 711 E. 47th street found evidence of a fight including some broken glass and a frying pan on a bed. Henrietta Carter told police that she had a fight with Wilbert Fletcher. He left the scene and she twirled the cylinder of her revolver and it went of accidentally, she said.

The gun was held for safe keeping.

Pianist for Platters Is Found Murdered that he was found on Hoover street.

WALLET IN CAR

Sgt. Elser said that Branker's ring was still on his finger, his watch was on his wrist and his car keys in his pocket when he was found.

His car, a 1961 blue station wagon, was located about two blocks away, at 43rd and Hoover. It was locked. Inside officers found Branker's wallet. It had not been rifled.

Re-tracing Branker's actions in the hours before he was murdered, officers said that he dropped off Sunny Turner, Platters' tenor, at his home at about 1:30 a.m. About 3:30 a.m. he dropped off one of the two girls who had accompanied them at her home in Leimert Park. That was the last any of his friends had seen him.

JUDO EXPERT

Adding to the mystery of what happened in the next fateful half hour was a report from Zola Taylor, one of the Platters' singers, who was a close friend of Branker. She said he was an expert at judo, thus lending weight to the theory that he was approached from behind and hit over the head with a heavy instrument, such as a shovel.

His face had been cut open and was badly swollen on the right side.

Branker was well liked by those who knew him. He was mild mannered and easy to get along with.

Buck Ram is the Platters' manager and is often credited with their "discovery." After hearing them, he promoted them financially and paved the way for them to zoom to a place among the nation's top 10. Buck Ram has been rewarded in full measure for the help he gave. He has gained a thousandfold from his insight in realizing their potential.

NEW YORK FUNERAL

They are not ohly the idol of fans of the young "washed potato" set, but of the generation that sponsored them.

In addition to Zola Taylor and Sonny Turner, other members of the group are David Lynch, Paul Robi and Herbert Reed.

Branker lived at 5016 W. Washington blvd. His mother, Mrs. Blanche Branker, lives at 1121 Tinton street, New York.

Funeral services were to be held here Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Angeles Funeral Home, Jefferson blvd. and Central avenue.

Following the ceremony, the body will be shipped to New York for interment.

three occasions when he went to the tract, he was kept waiting at the business office while all the salespeople either disappeared or told him they had no authority.

On his second trip, he said, Atty. David R. Cadwell and the attorney's mother followed him to the tract office.

A 'PROBLEM'

Dr. Mark said that when the five hostesses saw him coming, they all hastily went outside and stayed there while he sat down and waited.

When Mrs. Cadwell asked one of them about the houses and queried as to whether or not they couldn't go inside to get out of the hot sun, she reportedly was told, "No, that would be impossible."

Dr. Mark charges that the hostess then remarked, "We have a problem," and told Mrs. Cadwell to "Look in there."

Mrs. Cadwell reportedly replied that she didn't see anyone "in there" except a "colored gentleman," and was answered with the comment, "Well, that's our problem." The hostess, Dr. Mark maintains, then explained that "we" don't tell them, but "we" don't sell to Negroes.

'NO AUTHORITY'

Dr. Mark, a Meharry graduate, said that the next week two white friends went to the Meredith Park sales office ahead of him and after making various inquiries were told by Mrs. Esau Smith that if they had the money to make the down payment they could move in tomorrow.

One of the men, Atty. Cadwell, remarked, "That's fine. I have a friend right here who wants to buy a house."

When he summoned Dr. Mark, Mrs. Smith, the doctor claims, denied that she had authority to conclude any arrangements.

Dr. Mark said that he made his attempts to purchase one of the $32,000 to $38,000 homes early in May. He said further that there are no Negroes in Meredith Park.

Mosk Keynoter At Testimonial For Hawkins

Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins' civil leadership will be highlighted in Attorney General Stanley Mosk's keynote address at the Hawkins Testimonial Dinner to be held on Friday evening, July 28, under the auspices of a broad committee of civic leaders.

Six hundred persons are expected to attend the dinner which will be held at the Los Angeles Furnishings Mart, 1933 S. Broadway.

"In his 26 years in the Assembly, Mr. Hawkins has been a trail blazer in every area of state civil rights legislation," the Testimonial Committee declared in its announcement of the dinner.

New Orleans Airport Takes Half-Way Step

taurant and coffee shop violates the agreement under which the federal government paid 50 per cent of the cost of the new terminal building.

SIGNED BY KENNEDY

The complaint was signed by U. S. Atty. General Robert Kennedy, Asst. Atty. General Burke Marshall and U. S. Atty. M. Hepburn Many.

The action was brought at the request of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency.

The government's complaint noted the City of New Orleans and the Aviation Board on April 26, 1957, applied for a federal grant to be used for construction of the Moisant Airport terminal building and pledged to "operate the airport for the use and benefit of the public, on fair and reasonable terms, and without any unjust discrimination."

PROMISED NO BIAS

They also certified that the terminal would be for the use of the general public on a racially non-segregated basis, the government said.

"Since the completion of the project," the government's petition alleged, "the defendants have been and are now requiring interstate and foreign travelers of the Negro race to obtain food service, if they are to obtain any at all in the airport, at the snack bar.

"The defendants have adopted and are following the practice of refusing service to groups of interstate and foreign travelers in the dining room and coffee shop whenever one or more person in the group is of the Negro race."

"Among such persons being discriminated against are diplomatic representatives of other nations, members of the armed forces of the United States and employees of the plaintiffs traveling on authorized government business," the petition charged.

CASE PENDING

The Moisant International Airport and the City of New Orleans, along with Interstate Hosts, Inc., operators of the airport's concessions, are already plaintiffs in a suit awaiting a decision in Federal Court here.

Last year, Attorney A. P. Tureaud filed a petition on behalf of Dr. William R. Adams, Dr. H. E. Braden, III, and Dr. Samuel P. Gandy, dean of the Lawless, Chapel, Dillard University, charging they were discriminated against because of race in Moisant Airport.

Since that time numerous other complaints have been made. In April, 1961, Mrs. Bettye C. Williams and her sister, Mrs. Theodora Williams Brown, Miami, Fla., school teachers, complained directly to Atty. Gen. Kennedy that they had been refused food service because of race during a five-hour stopover in Moisant Airport.

During the same month, several Negro servicemen complained of discrimination in the airport. And, in late May, Mrs. Eunice Landry Brown, a national representative of Drake Laboratories, complained of discrimination in the local airport. Mrs. Brown, a native of New Orleans, was on a demonstration tour in Louisiana.

In its suit, the government also contended that Interstate Hosts, Inc., has refused to honor food checks issued by airlines when presented by Negroes at the restaurant and coffee shop.

Frisco Lad Elected Boy's State Governor

Richard Jack, 16, of San Francisco, was elected California Boy's State Governor at the American Legion meeting at Long Beach last week. He was presented to the 4000 delegates at Municipal Auditorium and assured that he would be the first Negro Governor from California to attend the Boy's Nation meetings in Washington, D.C. on July 21-28.

Gov. Jack was sponsored by the Richard Hurley Post No. 855 of San Francisco. His lieutenant governor is Lad Margolin, of John Marshall High School, who was sponsored by Griffith Park Post No. 353.

DR. J. J. McNEIL IS VISITING IN L.A.

Dr. Jesse Jai McNeil and Mrs. McNeil of Detroit are visiting friends in Los Angeles.

Rev. McNeil is pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church in the automobile capital, the largest Negro church in the city.

He was formerly dean of Bishop College in Marshall, Texas, and is considered one of the leading Baptist churchmen in the country.

Fifth Episcopal Laymen Inspired at Tucson Meet

The Laymen of the Fifth Episcopal District of the AME Church met at Prince Chapel AME Church in Tucson, Ariz. on June 28-30. Rev. A. A. Morgan was host minister and Frank Johnson, president of the Tucson laymen, was the host president.

J. D. Williams, of Kansas City, opened the board meeting which preceded the annual meeting of laymen with devotionals led by Mrs. Lucy Minor. Rev. William Jacks of San Bernardino read the scripture lesson and Rev. J. A. Marks assisted Rev. Morgan with the official duties of the convention.

INTERESTING REPORTS

Presiding Elder A. Hamilton of the Phoenix and Albuquerque districts delivered the opening sermon in the absence of Bishop H. Thomas Primm, who arrived the next day. His sermon was on "Go Back to Higher Ground." According to Mrs. Camilla Leftridge, this was one of the most interesting laymen's meetings she has attended in some time. She was especially impressed with the reports and the work of the young people. The youth group, under the direction of Mrs. Anthony Stewart, was well represented. Those seeking to join the Freedom Riders were given the blessing of the group. A sum of $55 was contributed toward the expenses of those chosen to make the trip.

NEW OFFICERS

The Rt. Rev. H. Thomas Primm, presiding bishop of the Fifth District, conducted the annual laymen elections with the following results: J. D. Williams of Kansas City, president; Moses E. Webb of Los Angeles, first vice president; George Duncan of Omaha, second vice president; Mrs. Carrie Roverts of Denver, third vice president; Elsie Franscois of Los Angeles and Mrs. Bee Evans of Kansas City, members-at-large;

Gladys Mallory Taylor, Topeka, Kan. secretary; Albert R. Stack of Denver, assistant secretary; J. E. Bell of St. Louis, treasurer; Mrs. Anthony Stewart of Los Angeles, parliamentarian; Zenobia Wilson of Kansas City, historeographer and Mrs. Lucy W. Minor of Redlands, Calif., chaplain. Benjamin W. Inghram of Los Angeles was made chairman of the board.

Norman Preston was master of ceremonies at the beautifully appointed banquet. Mrs. Elgie Balleau welcomed more than 200 guests, who heard Rev. G. W. Blakeley a candidate for the bishopric, as guest speaker of "Freedom." Miss Gwendolyn Simmons electrified the gathering with her history of the NAACP and the AME Church under the subject of the "Three Freedoms of Life."

A. C. Bilbrew had written a new welcome back song in honor of the occasion and directed the choir as it sang the appropriate words. Angels Ink All-CIF Star

Los Angeles Angels Scouting Director Roland Hemond has announced the signing of another all-CIF star.

He's 20-year-old Bernard Edward Young, a hard-hitting Negro third baseman, from Santa Ana College via Santa Ana High.

Angel Scout Mike Mulleady discovered the 5-10, 180 pounder, who batted .364 with the Santa Ana College nine the past season.

An all-Sunset League choice in 1958-1959, Bernie duplicated his all-star feats at Santa Ana College where he was picked on the All-Eastern Conference first team in 1960-1961.

A product of the Little League program, Bernie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter (Bernice) Young, of 1727 2nd street in Santa Ana.

Asked why he signed with the Angels, Bernie said, "I felt that I would have a better chance to show my baseball talent with the Angels because it is a young club. There should be more positions with this organization."

Bernie rates the San Francisco Giants' Willie Mays as his favorite ballplayer. He explains, "Willie Mays is exciting to watch in everything he does."

Bernie's greatest thrill in baseball came back in 1959 in the CIF quarter-finals. His two roundtrippers drove in all the runs and led his team to a 5-4 triumph. Young will report to the Angels' Statesville Glass D club for spring training next season. With the addition of Young the Angels' farm clubs are rapidly becoming some of the integrated outfits in baseball.

The Los Angeles Lakers will begin their second season of major league basketball with a series of pre-season games during October against the World Champion Boston Celtics and the Wilt Chamberlain - led Philadelphia Warriors throughout California.

SAFETY SAVINGS' DODGERS — Took an 8-6 lead over the Indians in the Junior Baseball League (Rancho Cienega Playground) for a total of three wins out of four games played so far this season. The efficient Dodgers, managed by Ike Isaacs, played the Cubs on July 1 for the end of the First Junior Baseball League round. The players shown above, first row, from left: C. Blaylock, M. Woods, H. McKenny, H. Ford, R. Wheaton; second row, C. Smith, M. Blaylock, T. Brown, R. Nelson, C. Jefferson; third row, Manager Ike Isaacs, R. Castleberry, S. Buckley, L. McBroom, R. Chism, C. Jackson. What's Behind Dodgers Locker Room Brawls?

BY EDW. "ABIE" ROBINSON

It seems as though our L. A. Dodger tempers are rising as high as the 90 degree weather. In fact many of the fans are wondering what is really behind these locker room brawls. Not too long ago scrappy Maury Wills traded punches with Norm Larker and set off a real donnybrook until it was broken up by fellow players.

The usually calm Charlie Neal and the fiery Leo (The Lip) Durocher sounded off in a battle of words in Philadelphia recently.

The Wills and Larker set-to exwhen a couple of balls whizzed past Wills' noggin and he contended they were too close to be an accident. Words followed and blows followed the words in the locker room.

It could be that Wills who has been getting more than his share of base hits of late initiated Larker who started the season off like a ball of fire and now can't buy a hit and that Dumbo just got tired of being needled about it and took matters into his own hand.

The Neal-Durocher row might be traced to the fact that Neal isn't hitting as well as he should at this stage of the season and just any little excuse could give him reason to blow off some steam. This was revealed after his word bout with the Dodger coach. Durocher was probably giving rookie Willie Davis a bad time about some of his miscues and Neal didn't relish Durocher's harsh word to their top candidate for the National League's rookie of the year award.

Amid all this rumbling among the Dodgers manager Walt Alston hasn't read the riot act to any of his players which indicates the incidents aren't serious because the team as a whole is playing real good ball. Since the National League race is getting tighter than two and two, war is eminent, in any given game. We suspect when the Dodgers return home for games with the Cards and Redlegs with the weather being what it is and with the fantastic hustle for first place there is bound to be some fireworks. It could be that the winner of the National loop pennant this year will be the team sporting the most bandages.

AN OLD AXIOM — Stellar L.A. Angel baseball stars who know how it hurts when they play one of their great games and only a few fans show up are shown making it possible for the success of the recent three day carnival sponsored by the Southern Area Boys Club in So. L.A. Angel stars purchasing blocks of tickets are Albie Pearson, Ted Kluszewski and Leon Wagner. Boys clubbers making sale are Robert Gragg, Lloyd Moore and Derryl Moore. Nice way to thank the players is to come out and watch them in their next home game at Wrigley Field.

Shrine Clubs To Lure 25,000

Youthful enthusiasm is running high in more than 250 Southland communities as 57 Shrine Clubs complete arrangements for youngster attendance at the 10th annual Shrine Pageant and Football Game, July 26, in the Coliseum.

"This year," revealed managing director Elmer P. Bromley today, "more than 25,000 boys and girls from public, private and parochial schools will be Shrine Club guests."

It is the largest number of youngsters in the ten year history of the North-South statewide event, he said.

In addition, Bromley added, a majority of the young people will be furnished transportation to the Coliseum by Shrine Club members and their friends.

Other young people who will add substantially to the total youth attendance will come from Shrine Club youth groups and community organizations. These include Boy and Girl Scout Troops, Little League, Pony League and American Legion units.

Maggie Hathaway

California Eagle Golf Editor

Mat Scharer, president of the Fox Hills Men's Club, indulged in some pretty "peppery" words with us last week concerning segregation in the Men's Fox Hills Golf Club.

It all happened when we attempted to get an interview with him over the phone. He really "blew off steam" when we suggested that the only solution to their organization's policy would be a good, swift, long, lonesome picket line.

We will say this much in Mr. Scharer's favor—he was courteous enough (through self preservation) to invite us to write his Board of Directors for an appointment for an interview. He also proudly informed us that he was not prejudiced but he could not satisfactorily answer why he was enjoying being the president (for the second time) of a segregated golf club. He said he does not mind playing with public golfers, even if his club is a member of the Southern California Association (which has a Caucasion clause in its constitution).

After raising our blood pressure with the president of Fox Hills, we thought we would bring it down by calling Mary Woodyard, president of the Vernoncrest Women's Golf Club (only Negro club that is continuing to hold its Labor Day Tournament at Fox).

My pressure did not go down, but boomed higher when we asked her if they were still going to continue to use Fox Hills. Guess what she said:

"Yes, we are. But if you want any more statements, you will have to write our Board of Directors for an appointment for an interview."

When we reminded her that she was a Negro and should not continue to patronize Fox, especially since Cosmopolitan and the Doctors Pharmaceutical golfers had left, she said, "I have no comment."

We are going to honor the president of Caucasian Fox Hills (which is free) with a letter requesting a meeting with his board but we cannot see why we should write for an appointment with a Negro club (which is not free) to explain to them why they should help fight segregation in golf.

We shudder to think what the students in the Mississippi jails would say if they were unfortunate enough to be informed on such a mild issue as picking up the phone and cancelling a golf tournament because members of their race are being segregated. We are more than sure that this task would be easier than riding dusty, dingy buses or being placed in dark, damp jail cells while other disinterested leaders, when confronted with segregation, simply say "I have no comment."

Monkeys always wear a quizzical expression. They haven't been able to decide if they are their brother's keeper or their keeper's brother.

ABIE'S CORNER

Ground-breaking ceremonies at Woodley Lewis' Sportsmen's Bowl took place last Thursday afternoon at 1950 North Central Avenue, in Compton. On hand for the ceremonies were such illustrious figures as Harry Thompson, Rommie Loudd, Elgin Baylor, Dick Bass, and a large number of the L.A. Ram executives. Roy Loggin's ultra modern catering service handled the mob and it was a great day for ex-Ram Woodley Lewis and his partner Dick Daugherty. The two former teammates will be owners of one of L.A.'s largest bowling centers.

The new establishment, to be known as Woodley Lewis' Sportsmen's Bowl, will cost an estimated $100,000 which includes construction of a 34,000 square foot building and installation of the complete line of Brunswick Gold Crown bowling equipment. Construction got underway July 1, with completion scheduled for approximately Oct. 21. Lewis, who will announce his retirement from football soon, will be general manager and along with Dick Daugherty plans to organize a special bowling program for youngsters in addition to regular league activity and attractive schedules of open play for the casual bowler. The facilities of the house are designed to provide an attractive center of recreation for the whole family.

It will provide lockers for men and women, league meeting rooms, cocktail lounge to be known as the Celebrity Room, a restaurant and coffee shop, billiard room, and playroom for the convenience of the bowling mothers.

Fourth Annual Festival

"Hi . . . Good Looking!"

Those were the words that greeted members of the Regalettes, Inc., last Sunday afternoon when they held their fourth annual garden festival in the beautiful green garden of the Sheraton West Hotel on Wilshire.

The seventeen-member club attracted well over five hundred guests at their strictly invitational affair at which guests made a cash donation. Members were attired elegantly in dramatic hot pink chiffon after-five cocktail dresses and colorful summer hats made of the various summer flowers.

So breath-taking were the members that every where you turned you could hear male and female guests saying, "Hi . . . Goodlooking" — and they were.

Adding to the colorful festival was the sweet string music of the Johnny Creach Combo, which strolled about the garden serenading each table with enchanted melodies.

Wendell Franklin acted as master of ceremonies, doing his usual superb job of introducing the group's newest members, Mati Robinson and Velma Stevenson, and the festival chairman and co-chairman, Harriette Plumber and Adella Farmer respectively.

Also introduced were the club's officers: Marie Washington, president; Jane Penn, vice president; Vivian Morris, recording secretary; Lilla Jackson, financial and corresponding secretary; Lillian Gray, treasurer; Barbara Cook; Adella Farmer, Sergeant - at - arms; Zenobia Maddox, reporter and historian; Virginia Johnson, chaplain and Gertrude Penland, founder.

Following the affair club members and their special guests enjoyed an after-party in one of the suites of the swank hotel.

Westernites End Confab With Luau

By C. MARIE HUGHES

Westernites from the Atlantic to the Pacific assembled at the Pacific Town Club Sunday night to attend the farewell Hawaiian Luau sponsored by the Los Angeles Branch of Western University's alumni.

In a beautiful tropical setting of plants around a pool whose special lighting effects spotlighted a huge bouquet of flowers swaying gently with the breeze in the center of the pool, projected an exotic atmosphere of Island decor. Festivities got under way as luau torches were lighted to burn gaily throughout the evening.

Thus ended the conclave of Western University alumni. During its four days nearly 300 delegates and members registered at club headquarters at the Pacific Town Club.

Among the highlights of the convention were a tour of the City of Angels, a sight seeing tour of Knotts Berry Farm and a visit to Marineland and Hollywood.

A semi-formal reception, held in the club ballroom and patio Friday night, was well attended.

One of the greatest thrills for the Los Angeles branch occurred at the start of the convention when, after awaiting chartered buses from the midwest for several hours, the first bus loomed into sight at the top of the hill by McCarty Church and gracefully swooped down to the Pacific Town Club.

National and local officers representing the Alumni were extended a cordial welcome by members of the Board of Supervisors Saturday afternoon at Civic Center.

Cecil R. Daniel, national president, of Kansas City, Mo., presided over the fourth annual reunion of the Alumni in Los Angeles.

PTA Plans Education Program

On-the-job training for parents will again be offered by Los Angeles Tenth District PTA next fall, according to Mrs. J. R. Gaydowski, director of the parent and family life education department, who met with 243 local chairmen this month to lay plans.

Approximately 20,000 parents enrolled in 250 parent education courses last year. Courses included five or more classes with subject matter varying according to requests from the neighborhood in which they were held.

Consumer education classes offered homemaking skills, budgeting tips, care of young children and good nutrition information.

Secondary units held their courses on such subjects as: Standards for teen-agers, new procedures in school curriculum, college advisement, after-high school business opportunities, and military service.

The gifted child was studied in some areas with a special look at intelligence tests, school and community programs available to rapid learners, and problems of the gifted child in getting along with other children of the family.

"Housewife vs. Homemaker," showing the role of modern homemakers, was discussed by experts in such fields as investments, installment buying, personal grooming, development of poise and effective speaking.

WESTERNITES' LUAU—Lure of the Islands was brought to the Pacific Town Club Sunday night with heavily laden tables of enchanting Polynesian delicacies provided by Western University Alumni, meeting here in convention. Shown at the beginning of an evening of fun and gaiety are: Oliver Gentry, Harley Robinson Jr., Cecil Daniels, Bishop Frederick Jordan, Ardie C. Dials, Genevieve Barnes and Ralph Davis. —(Adams)

OLDEST AND YOUNGEST ALUMNI — Group shown sampling appetizers at the "Fire Mountain" are: Dennis Mathews, Opal Walker Morgan, Dr. George H. Johnson, Retha Lynch Mathews, Dr. Ernest Harper and Katherine E. Nelson. Dennis Mathews graduated from Western University in 1900. Retha Lynch Mathews graduated in 1943.

FASCINATED—The deliciously prepared food so beautifully displayed is admired again and again throughout the evening. Shown whetting their appetites are: Riley Lyon, Lanneau L. White Jr., Charles Winston Jr., Charles E. Winston, James R. McCombs and Laura Winston. —(Adams)

ACTOR — James Wheaton and folksinger Tony Bartell will debut their exciting new concert program, "Montage of a Dream Deferred," a study of the Negro in poetry and song, at a special charity benefit performance on Tuesday, July 11, 8:30 p.m. at the Metro Theater, 4720 W. Washington Blvd. The event, sponsored by Les Petite Mesdamoiselles, will be a subscription affair and proceeds will benefit the Exceptional Children's Opportunity School, in southeast Los Angeles.

We caught Gypsy Rose Lee's opening night of her "Curious Evening" at the Las Palmas theater and learned along with the rest of the first nighters that Gypsy still has a lot of that "va va va voom" that made her a stripper's stripper during her heyday, although for "her act" she only showed films of the last few decades in the busy business. Perched atop a stool to the left of the screen, she slyly peered around and gave her satiric comment on the happenings captured by her "home camera." Example: Commenting on one of the strip tease girls who worked for her in Texas along with "stars" Jackie Gleason and Sugar Chile Robinson: Now that girl was quite a problem, as I remember. I paid her $150 a week and she always sent home $200! . . .

Incidentally, whatever happened to Sugar Chile? (the child prodigy). . . I Like Ike department: Talked with Producer-Director Ike Jones at the Friday rehearsal for the Cinderella Ball at the Beverly Hilton, sponsored by the Sunday Morning Breakfast Club. Ike, one of our rarities, a beige hued director well acquainted with all media (TV, the silver screen, and the stage boards) chatted with us about his job as director for Nat Cole's newly formed Kell-Cole Productions and hinted that there is a film or two of a controversial nature afoot for the firm. Although we are informed by him of the subject matter, we reserve comment now. Nat's show at the Greek (also bossed by Ike) shows a lot of imagination. It should be

CLUBS, CHURCHES JOIN NAACP's HOME FRONT OF FREEDOM RIDERS

Young people, Negro and white, from Los Angeles, from San Francisco, from New York and from many places in between, are riding Freedom Buses to challenge the "way of life" in Mississippi, Alabama and all points South.

With courage and determination and conviction as their weapons, they are colliding head-on with the police, the courts and the "culture" that defies Federal laws to perpetuate segregation.

Yet not everybody can ride a bus into the South; not everybody can stand the rigors of a Mississippi jail. Every one can, however, make his contribution here on the home front to aid in the struggle for freedom.

One of the organizations that day in and day out, week in and week out, year in and year out, carries on the struggle wherever that struggle exists is the NAACP, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The groups and individuals pictured on this page have demonstrated their conviction and their determination to help by making sizeable contributions to the NAACP.

All have dug deep in their pockets to take out Life Memberships. They are among those who have made it possible for the local branch to exceed its quota of 75 Life Memberships set up by the national office.

Encouraged by their response, the local leadership of the NAACP, with Edward D. Warren as president, Dr. John G. Gary as membership chairman and Dr. H. Claude Hudson as Life Membership chairman, have decided that the original 75 is not enough, and have undertaken the task of obtaining an additional 75, of bringing the figure of new Life Members to 150.

This is not an easy task, but it can be done.

It can be done if other clubs, churches, individuals in the community will also dig deep in their pockets so that they, too, can participate in the long, arduous, up-hill battle to defeat, Jim Crow in the South and here at home in California, and in Los Angeles.

Life Memberships cost $500, but that amount need not be paid all at once. It can be paid in installments and any one at the NAACP office, ADams 1-5189, will be glad to help you make arrangements.

The year 1961 is just half over, but there is still plenty of time to join the Home Front Freedom Riders by taking out Life Memberships in the Los Angeles branch of the NAACP.

50,000 Is 1961 Goal Of NAACP

Important as are Life Memberships, the NAACP cannot carry on its work with Life Members alone. To do the job that faces it, the Association must have thousands of members, many thousands.

Forty thousand people turned out at the Sports Arena for the recent Freedom Rally addressed by the Rev. Martin Luther King. That's the kind of support the NAACP needs and is determined to get.

The local branch has set its sights at 50,000 members. ... city that has close to 400,000 Negroes, that's not too optimistic, when the aims, needs and effectiveness of the NAACP are taken into account.

This year, now at its half way mark, the membership drive under the direction of Dr. John A. Gary has already exceeded by 4000 the total membership for 1960. So far this year 14,000 have joined the NAACP. That's a heartening figure and gives promise that when the year is out, the total membership of the local branch will be the highest in its history.

But to achieve that goal, there is still a lot of hard work ahead. Some of the churches have set up membership committees, with the aim of making every church goer an NAACP member.

A number of clubs have taken out memberships for each of their participants. Others have placed the NAACP drive as Point No. 1 on the agenda of every meeting.

Some business houses have assigned a member of the staff to solicit NAACP membership among all employees. In others individual NAACP members have taken it upon themselves to approach their fellow-workers.

Trade unionists have a slogan—"Let's Make Los Angeles a Union Town."

That idea could well be copied by the Negro community—"Let's Make Los Angeles an NAACP Town."

That means that everyone must approach his neighbors and his friends to become NAACP members. And he shouldn't forget to send in his own $2 to the local office.

If there are any questions as to how to proceed, call the NAACP office, ADams 1-5189.

WORKERS JOIN — The Southside Social and Charity Club, composed of officers and members of Laborers Local No. 300, present second payment on Life Membership to Dr. H. Claude Hudson, standing, fourth from left. Pictured are: Ed Turley, Joseph Murdock, Milton Shanks, Irwin Jackson, Clinton Jackson, Lee Barker, Fred Thompson, Flanders Gary, Sam Coney, Charles Jefferson, Very Raybun and Joe Jones.

MAKE IT TWO — Westminster Church figures if one is good, two is better. The church makes full $500 payment on a Life Membership. It also makes a first payment on a Life Membership for Dr. Clarence G. Littlejohn, center, who spearheaded the NAACP drive. From left: Joseph Grimmett, NAACP Board member, accepts check from Elder Neile Adams; Mercer Z. Ray, Trustee Board chairman; Dr. Littlejohn; Elder Adams and Rev. James Jones.

Actress-writer Calla Scrivener is one of the driving forces behind the "Tribute to Harry Levette" affair planned for next month. Veteran newsman Levette is still ailing! . . . Both Joe Lutcher and Little Richard Penniman were scheduled to be guests on Television's "Comment" program Monday night. Both, once stars of the "pop" field, have converted their talents to the religious field. Both are gospellbinders! . . .

Still trying to get the "drawings" at deadline on the Miss Bronze California contest Sunday, but we do know that a former champ, Mittie Lawrence (now an actress of note) is scheduled as an entrant in the forthcoming Miss World contest!

Renee Crouch, of the avant garde school of art work and piano, is forsaking his home away from home in San Francisco and returning to where his roots are. He may even be here before the ink is dry on this paragraph.

Maggie Hathaway tells us she skis out to Philly Monday to attend the NAACP meet there and represent L.A. in the golf tourney!

Dootsie Williams and his Dootone Record Corporation and affiliates celebrate their 15th anniversary in the shellac business Sunday at the Prexy's home . . . Thanks to winsome Vice President Jane Penn for the invite to the Regalettes' annual Garden Party. Other commitments cramped our style and held us in check, but we hear it was ring-a-ding-ding. . . . Les Petite Madamoiselles are sponsoring the actors James Wheaton and Tony Bartell in the forthcoming "Montage of a Dream Deferred," bowing in at the Metro theater where "Fly Blackbird" has been winging for three Freedom Riding months! . . . Charming Emma Slaughter has been in our locale about two weeks now from Wichita visiting her two stalwart sons, Craig and Dino Jeffries and her attractive daughter-in-law Diane, who is Dino's spouse. Mrs. Slaughter, whose youthful appearance makes her look like a sister to her strapping boys, has been checking out the entire Southern California scene with them and they have seen more of Angelville and the Beverly Hills than they ever did before Mom showed 'em around!

I missed a meal with Wini Orr that same night, but later through the kindness of my very dear friend, Johnetta Stark, I got out to Hollywood to visit with my buddy, Willie Bryant, and we had a long gabbing session, in which he told me of just having sold a movie script to one of the smaller companies, of being tested for a role in a forthcoming picture about segregation, of a couple of TV shots in which he will appear, and of some rather interesting plans for the near future.

Uncle Willie looks well, and is in the process of losing 70 pounds so he'll be looking even better. While I was at Willie's I phoned and had a long chat with my old chum from N.Y., popular KGFJ disc jockey Johnny Magnus, and we burned the wires until the wee hours.

Rev. Bain went to Bowen when it was said to be a missionary assignment. He has tripled the budget and the membership and its effectiveness in the community. The church was remodeled in excess of $40,000 and the parsonage remodeled and the entire debt paid.

IS THE NEGRO A VANISHING AMERICAN?

By George Daniels

ALTHOUGH his race is growing steadily population-wise and lynchings are becoming as rare as hen's teeth, the American Negro is going the way of the U. S. Indian. He is vanishing from the American scene. The phenomenon is due neither to a "Back to Africa" migration nor trickery from white Dixie witch doctors. It is the result of the processes of integration which, at last, are channeling the Negro into the mainstream of American life.

A resident of these shores since 1619, the Negro is just beginning to taste the fruits of the American tree of life--although they are still rationed and often bitter. Even so, he is reaping a harvest which never ripened for the Indian who originally held title to all orchards on this continent.

For years the situation of the Negro and Indian had striking parallels. As America's oldest minorities, both suffered more than any other group of U. S. citizens. Together they witnessed the white man at his worst and were denied the right to the pursuit of happiness on equal terms with whites.

The cavalier treatment of Negroes and Indians by the white man has been such as to stamp the majority race with dishonor. The Negro has been suppressed through discrimination, segregation and intimidation; the Indian subdued through broken treaties, land-robbing, commercial swindles and massacres. As a result, there grew up in this country a system that denied the Negro and Indian the rights and prerogatives which the Declaration of Independence declared the privileges of all men.

One of the great facts of U. S. history (and a major asset in the fight for equality), is that the Negro no matter how ill-used, has remained deeply loyal to the U. S. This was not the case with the Indian, who feeling strongly that he had been deprived of his own land, often warred against the government. Some Indian tribes were wiped out, others banished to reservations. As different races came together and lived in the same territory, inter-breeding occurred in spite of barriers erected by social prejudice. So it was that many Indian tribes shrunk, lost their identity and merged after infusion of white and Negro blood.

Miscegenation also started the Negro on the road to becoming a vanishing American. In the slave regime of the Old South there was more or less open appropriation of Negro women to serve the physical cravings of their white masters. Although inter-marriage was prohibited by law, the slave owners did not overlook the opportunity of turning Negroes into mulattoes. The extent to which the practice was carried on may be seen in the results of a study made by Dr. Melville Herskovitz of Northwestern University. The study deals with racial crossing in the United States. His survey of 3,000 Negro genealogies concluded that some 78 per cent of the Negro population shows traces of mixed European or Indian ancestry. The ratio is even higher now for the study was made 25 years ago.

One need only to look at a group of Negroes selected indiscriminately to get first-hand knowledge of the vast differences in physical makeup. Their shades of color vary from black to white, with tints of yellow, brown and red in between. Some hair is straight, some wavy, some wooly. Many noses are thin and pointed, others wide and flat; some lips noticeably narrow, others thick and droopy.

Each year, according to sociological reports, 30,000 light-skinned Negro Americans vanish into the white world. By "passing" as whites they no longer have to eat bread in a backroom, but may enjoy cake in a cafeteria otherwise off limits to their race.

It is a fact that many of the people called Negroes are Anglo-Saxon, French, German and Italian--moreso than many European natives. Likewise, many persons classed as Negroes are more Asiatic-appearing than pure bred Chinese, Japanese, Philippinos and Indians. These differences in Negro types have led a number of anthropologists to suspect that the U. S. population figures would drop below the ten million mark if only "Negro-looking" Negroes were counted by census takers.

Negroes are vanishing in other ways. For example, the Negro artists, sportsmen and leaders are now thought of as craftsmen first and Negroes second. Not many years ago Marian Anderson was hailed as the Great Negro contralto. Today she is known to the world as the "Great American contralto." Dr. Ralph Bunche has finally achieved the status of an "American diplomat" after years of identification as the "colored political scientist."

There are those who will argue that the Negro, as America's largest minority is gaining strength year by year as he wrests from the white fellow a desk in a school, a seat in a restaurant, a job in an office. Little do they recognize that as political, economic and educational discriminations vanish, the Negro loses some of his identity. With integration, he becomes a player on the team instead of a curious spectator looking on from the sidelines.

These extremely American forces operating both in north and south, are causing a major revolution in the lives of both whites and their former slaves. This upheaval is the most hopeful change in the U. S. since Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation unshackled the Negro nearly a century ago.

The most hopeful fact about Negro progress is that it could not have been possible without a tremendous moral progress on the part of white Americans. Even many southerners seem to know that segregation is no longer defensible and that the tide of world events is against it. The result: the Negro in the U. S. is happily vanishing into the mainstream of American life. And, at the same time, America is moving closer to the true democratic ideal.

Stationed in Taipei Taiwan (Formosa), Sgt. Junius Griffin is Taiwan Bureau Chief of Stars and Stripes.

Difficulties in gathering news can be likened to those of American foreign correspondents. He has to rely heavily upon his background to interpret the importance of what has happened because of the distance of his readers. They are located in four countries and three major islands. From as far south as Guam to as far north as Korea.

Sgt. Griffin projects an image of today's progressive Negro. Don't miss his story next issue.

SPECIAL REPORT: EDUCATION RUSSIA

By Dr. T. Winston Cole

FORWARD:

Dr. T. Winston Cole, Sr., President, Wiley College, Marshall, Texas, recently returned from a two-month travel study-seminar in Great Britain and Europe where he gathered first-hand information for his informative analysis of the two great educational systems of the world. This article is a clear, factual, comparative report on the differences in the educational systems of Russia and the United States.

THE European Travel Study Seminar for Methodist College Presidents was designed to afford direct contact with educational leaders, educational systems and educational developments in Eastern and Western Europe and in Great Britain. Conferences were held with Ministers of Education, faculties and students in every major university, college and Methodist Theological Seminary in these various countries. First hand observations were provided in public schools, and conferences were held with principals and other public school officials as well as public school faculties and students. Conferences were held at the Universities of Leningrad, Kiev, Moscow, Rome, Paris, Oxford, Cambridge, London, and Bath. Personal interviews were arranged in many instances.

There were fourteen college presidents and one representative of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church in the group. Consciously or unconsciously, most members of the group were constantly comparing and contrasting educational practices and principles as found in these centers with those in the United States.

For the purpose of this article, consideration will be given to observations in the Public Schools and the Universities of Russia. It must be said at the outset, that education in Europe and in Britain is planned, financed and administered by District Regional and Republic or State areas. One could also say that education is controlled by these areas, however, he should hastily add that the word "controlled" probably has a different connotation from that usually associated with it when used in regard to educational control in the U. S. A.

Russia is a nation committed to education as a means of national advancement. Actually, education is regarded as one of the chief resources there. Tremendous responsibilities are therefore placed on Soviet schools and support is provided for them by every aspect of society. Education reaches far beyond school age children and youth. It is eagerly sought by hundreds of thousands of full time workers who are also full time students. One slogan noticed frequently in the public schools was the statement "A child can be born healthy, but he cannot be born educated." The two major objectives in Russian higher education for teachers seem to be (1) to unify all teacher education and (2) to bring teacher education to a college or university degree-granting level in which emphasis is placed on subject matter, content observation of teaching, student participation in classroom situations and student teaching. Out of five students who apply to a Pedagogical Institute, only one is usually accepted. In-service education is a vital part of the teacher education program. For the first 15 years of employment, a teacher must take training at least every five years. There is also great emphasis on correspondence work. The Ministry of Education includes a staff member who studies the educational program of each foreign country. Changes are made in the educational programs and progress measured by the Academy of Pedagogical Sciences. (There is perhaps no similar organization related to the education program in the United States.) It is directed by a presidium of nine members. Members are elected for life. There are thirty-four full time members, fifty-four corresponding members and five hundred fifty research workers. New members may be proposed by individuals, organizations or institutions.

The Academy of Pedagogical Sciences cooperates in its program with other academies; for example, the Academy of Medicine and Academy of Agriculture. It maintains eight research institutes and the budget for 1958 was 44 million rubles, which is approximately 10 million dollars according to the old standard. (Russia recently adopted a new monetary standard.)

Education in the U. S. S. R. is definitely and scientifically planned. This country has recently completed a plan to add one additional grade to the General School which was formerly ten grades. The Minister of Education, the Universities of Russia, the Pedagogical Institutes, the public school faculties and even the people of Russia themselves participated in the study of the educational program. Changes in this program are to be completed in 1961.

Teachers are highly respected and well paid. Also, they are highly motivated for their work and exceptionally well educated. Teachers in the rural areas receive housing, utilities and transportation free, in addition to the same salary as those employed in the city systems. Generally, teachers are not asked to do extra curricular work. School meets six days per week. All teachers have one free day per week. All tuition is free and approximately 80% of the students receive stipends for their living expenses. These are based on three criteria (1) quality of their work, (2) the field of specialization and (3) economic need. The 20% who do not receive such stipends represent the economic, social and professional elite. There is much emphasis placed on subject matter. Persons interested in public school teaching do not attend the colleges and universities, but rather attend Pedagogical Institutes. There is no numerical shortage of teachers. They employ the tutorial system and examinations are never given to students by the institutions which they attend or the persons who taught them.

Children 1 to 3 attend nurseries; from 3 to 6 kindergarten. They then enter what is called the general school. "Students normally finish the general school of ten grades at age 17, having then studied all subjects of the program and passed the necessary examinations." Consequently, examinations test the teachers and the school program as well as the student.

The principal has the responsibility to see that all children in the school area attend school from age seven until he finishes eight grades. Faculty salaries increase every five years. After twenty-five years the salary increases forty per cent. Rent, including utilities, is about seven per cent of a teachers salary.

The salary is scheduled as follows: primary school, 24 lessons per week, 525 Rubles per month; secondary school, 18 lessons per week, 780 Rubles per month. Checking copy books – extra salary. After 25 years: primary school, 1,000 Rubles per month; secondary school, 1,400 Rubles per month. For pregnancy, a teacher may take four months leave with pay, and ten months leave without pay and reserve the right to return. A certain percentage of the school budget is allowed for underprivileged children.

The courses studied in Russian schools are: Russian language and literature, mathematics, physics, astronomy, chemistry, (history, literature, science and geography in much detail) at least one foreign language, although most students elect to study three languages. Biology, a facet of which is agriculture, drawing, singing and physical sports.

Handicrafts and trades are taught in grades five and six. Machines and tools are taught in grades seven and eight. Students in grades nine, ten and eleven (the program is in the process of change to include eleven grades this year) work one day per week in industry; in the eleventh grade, two days per week with pay.

Attendance in the general school is obligatory through the eighth grade. After eighth grade, a student may continue in school or become an apprentice to professional or technical workers or he may go directly into work experience. If he elects the latter, the administrator in his work situation must send the young person to night school.

Children are educated without religion. They are neither given "religious" nor "non-religious" training. The school does offer "moral" training. In America it is with religion; in Russia - without. Honesty, truthfulness, self-sacrifice, love of country, hatred of war, love of peace. All these are stressed in moral training.

Much of the educational practice indicated for the new reforms were gathered from experiences of educational experts who visited foreign countries. The program has been studied and participated in by the whole nation including teachers, workers, and peasants. The program has been put into effect and the reform must be completed between 1963 and 1965. This system provides educational opportunities for workers and peasants as well as professionals.

By contrast, in the United States, higher education is offered in colleges, universities, technological institutes, polytechnic institutes, etc., but it is customary to include all higher education under the general term of "University and College education."

DO YOU GET THE MOST OUT OF TRAVELING?

By Fred Avendorph

Nationally noted travel and vacation authority Fred Avendorph, president of Welcome Tour and Travel Service, points out little known facts to help the average traveler or vacationer get the most out of his trip.

WHY do I need a Travel Agent? How can I get more satisfaction out of traveling with an Escorted Tour?"

These are questions which are foremost in the minds of the average, unexperienced travelers. Just as he consults his doctor, attorney or accountant, so the wise traveler avails himself of the travel agent's experience and skill. For more than a century, since 1841, travel agents have been lightening the burden and adding to the pleasure of the touring public.

There are few things in this world that are more fun than traveling. Yet, there are a number of people who don't realize that one of the best ways to go about making the most of their travel time and money is to go first to a travel agent.

A travel agent is an expert in the complicated details of arranging travel – figuring out routes and itineraries, reservations and costs. Experienced travelers use a travel agent's services because they can get confirmed hotel accommodations and other reservations in advance – so important in foreign countries, especially where space is limited. Furthermore, it's such a convenience to have all details handled for you!

And remember, it often saves you time and money when you utilize the services of a reliable travel agent. Yet, it is the firm belief of the majority of travelers that in order to use a travel agent's services the client is charged a fee.

This is absolutely erroneous. Although certain travel agents have been known to charge a client directly, the agent's fees are paid by transport lines, hotels, sight-seeing campanies and car rental agencies.

Most, though not all, hotels pay the agent a 10% commission for all types of reservations, however, when time does not permit the agent to contact a hotel by mail or local telephone call, the agent is compelled to levy a service charge to cover the costs incurred for telegrams or long distance toll charges. Charges for these and other types of services will vary somewhat among agents, just as they do among doctors, attorneys or accountants.

The price of an airline, rail, ship or bus ticket is the same whether purchased directly from the carrier or from the agent. Yet, many travelers drive several miles to the business district, pay parking charges and stand in line at a ticket counter in order to purchase a ticket when they could have patronized a neighborhood agent a few blocks from home or business, or have placed one phone call to an agent who will make reservations and deliver the ticket to the customer. Every time a traveler purchases a ticket from a transportation carrier he denies the travel agent a commission which is allowed for in the price of any one-way or round trip ticket.

Whether you prefer to travel alone, or desire the company of others, independent and group travel offers many advantages when obtained through a travel agent.

So again, we refer to the question of the advantages of an escorted tour in contrast to the individual who feels he saves time and money by making his own arrangements. Perhaps the solo traveler dislikes people, abhors any form of so-called regimentation, prefers to cut corners on the cost of all features and prefers ordinary hotels to comfort and service.

Let's describe a vacation trip "arranged" by the individual traveler who plans a rail trip to California, for example. He approaches the carrier, and purchases a round trip ticket which entitles him to visit various points of interest enroute to California and returning home via a different route. The ticket agent points out various sightseeing tours and hotels along the route and our solo traveler explains that he will plan his own features in each city after arrival. He has written letters to the hotels of his choice requesting accommodations, however, in most instances the hotel has neglected to forward a return confirmation. This doesn't particularly bother our traveler, since he's certain they received his letter and everything is in order.

On arriving in Los Angeles he is delayed in finding his luggage, since red caps give tour groups priority in transferring baggage from train to transfer companies. After approaching several red caps he finally finds his luggage, hails a cab and proceeds to the hotel. With complete assurance, he approaches the desk clerk, gives his name and explains that he wrote for a reservation, although he doesn't have a confirmation. The clerk informs our traveler that the hotel does not have his name on file for any type of reservation. Furthermore, they have been sold out for weeks. Completely disgruntled, our traveler hails another cab and inquires from the driver of another hotel where he can get accommodations. This is an invitation to complete chaos.

The driver is always obliging but after inquiring at several hotels and receiving the same rebuttal, "Sorry, sold out," our solo traveler discovers the figures on the meter and decides to do his searching on foot. Chances are he will eventually find a room at some second rate hotel which is primed to charge the same rates as a top hotel because of crowded conditions.

More disappointments along the route – with emphasis on hotels – perhaps lost or damaged luggage, a poor choice of sightseeing tours, too much free time and gradual diminishing of funds has a peculiar way of completely ruining what could have been a well-arranged vacation.

On the other hand, the traveler who joins a group escorted tour with every detail arranged for by a travel agent enjoys the very best that travel has to offer. The group escorted tour is popular with those who like the conviviality of traveling with a group and who enjoy sharing experiences with others.

This type of tour is completely supervised by a trained and experienced escort who is well-equipped to attend to all bothersome details such as baggage handling and transfers, arrangements with dining car stewards for convenient and expedient meal service, cooperation with hotel clerks in the proper assignment of rooms, coordination with all cab transfer and sightseeing companies, and complete cooperation with all railroad passenger agents from time of departure to termination of the tour.

Traveling this way you are free of all the petty, everyday financial problems. All expenses, including hotels, transportation, meals, sightseeing tours, taxis and guides are paid in advance.

For the great majority of pleasure-seekers, travel still means hopping a train, plane, ship or bus and pay as you go. This is for the seasoned and experienced traveler or the very adventurous. Even this type of traveler meets up with problems difficult to solve.

The travel agent can tell you about special reduced excursion fares which are in effect only certain months out of the year; economical family plan fares; he knows where to cut corners on trip expenses; he can handle necessary documentation in connection with international trips; he can advise you of things to buy, things to do, and places to see – after all, the travel agent is the vacation expert.

ERROL JOHN: EAGER YOUNG ACTOR

FIRST seen on American screens with Audrey Hepburn in "The Nun's Story," Errol John was sought out for his second major film role for by Warner Brothers producer Henry Blanke when he needed a fine actor for the controversial drama "The Sins of Rachel Cade" based on the best-selling novel by Charles Mercer.

STURDILY built, ebony-hued actor enacts the role of the man servant, friend and protector of Angie Dickinson, a beautiful new Warner's star, who plays the title role of Rachel Cade. It is almost a repeat performance for John, however, since he portrayed the part of a hospital attendant in "The Nun's Story."

His part in the film gives him greater latitude for exhibiting his thespian abilities, however, for in this new Warner Brothers opus, John is the pivotal personality who causes Miss Dickinson to decide to stay in the Congo and administer to the needs of the people rather than go off to America to live the mundane life of doctor's wife.

John appears in a large percentage of the film's 200 scenes during which Rachel Cade arrives in the Congo "to save people from disease and from sin." When she falls victim to the Freudian fires inside of her and gives birth to a child out of wedlock, she is faced with having to decide whether to marry the child's father and leave Africa or stay and continue to work.

The friendship and devotion which John has given her figure largely in her decision.

Like few other young actors of the day, Errol John is a distinguished playwright. In 1957, he won the coveted London Observer annual literary prize for his play "Moon on a Rainbow Shawl" which starred Earl Hyman and Vinette Carrol and ran for an entire season at the historic Royal Court Theatre.

Angie Dickinson (Rachel) and Roger Moore (Wilton) meet Frederick O'Neal (Buderga), tribal chief, with Errol John (Kulu) serving as go-between.

Love in the jungle is theme of authentic ritual dance. Having exhausted his mate in dancing an African connubial ritual, climaxing marriage ceremony, Errol John lifts his happy bride, Trellas Yancey, into his arms. Real African was technical advisor for the Warner Bros.' production.

The school hours are 8:30 to 2:30 with no study or recess periods during the day. Student factory workers attend school from 3 to 7:30. All schools are open six days per week until 11:00. Students may return to school for help with homework until that hour. Russian schools use the 5-1 marking system. Students are required to read 30 books annually, but it was reported that they read between 150 to 300 books annually.

Higher education is carried on in two types of institutions, the university and the specialized institute. Students study with tutors and begin their major programs when they enter the university.

In addition to the state stipend, there are also personal stipends similar to scholarships in the United States which students may earn. Students are admitted to the University by passing an examination prepared by the state. Students who do not complete this examination satisfactorily may return to their general school and re-apply at a later date. Students may apply to only one institution. When a young person graduates, his record is sent to the State Officials and he is advised as to the area of work in which he should go.

As contrasted with the University of Leningrad, the University of Kiev, and the University of Moscow; Oxford and Cambridge in England, the Sorbonne and the universities of Paris and London provide more freedom for the individual. The same situation pertains, however, regarding examinations. There is no masters degree either in England or in Russia. The baccaulaureate degree is felt by European and British authorities to be equivalent to the master's degree in the United States. The university Rectors who are equivalent to our college and university presidents are appointed by the Minister of Higher Education. Salaries are the same throughout the country and there is little or no turnover in faculties.

All of these institutions – state and private – grant their own degrees independently; neither the Federal Government nor the State are responsible for the granting of degrees.

Generally, in Europe and Britain, there is a national system of education, centralized at the government level; the head of the system is the Minister of National Education, he is a member of the Cabinet.

Here, the term "Higher Education" covers all the different types of education offered in very different types of institutions to students holding at least the "Baccalaureate" or equivalent.

A university is one of these types of institutions of higher education. Its main object is to prepare students for special professions which cannot be practiced in Europe without holding one or several state degrees. Universities are the only existing degree granting institutions. Other institutions of higher learning grant diplomas.

Generally, state degrees are required for the practice of Law, Medicine, Pharmacy and teaching in public institutions – and also for teaching in private institutions when these receive state subsidies.

A university must necessarily include a Faculty of Law, a Faculty of Medicine, a Faculty of Pharmacy or a Faculty of Medicine and Pharmacy, a Faculty of Sciences and a Faculty of Letters. In addition, they include numerous institutes or schools and centers of research carried on in the faculties, for universities are not only degree granting institutions but also centers responsible for the development of knowledge and erudition. ■

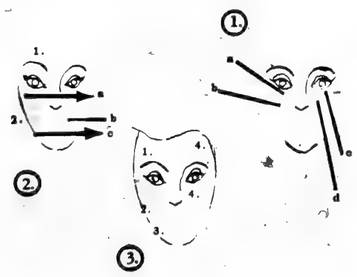
ON A COLD, CRISP DAY, nothing tastes better than a lamb stew... heaped into an old-fashioned tureen and served with homemade muffins, a salad and crisp relishes. Lamb is high in protein and iron... needed for the well-being of your family. Serve it in stews, have a roast for Sunday dinner.

COOK TASTY LAMB STEW

Cook lamb and onions over low heat until lamb is browned on all sides. Add flour and seasonings and cook 5 minutes. Gradually add stock or bouillon and sherry and cook over low heat, stirring constantly; until thickened. Add vegetables. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes, or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally.



HINTS

by Edith Redd

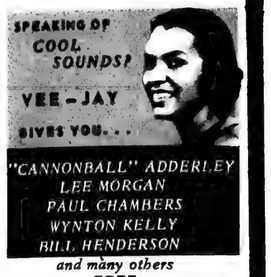


Figure 1 (below) demonstrates the proper method of dealing with the hollows of the upper lid, and that unpopular dark shadow under the lower lid. First apply a highlighting foundation over the puff (a) which occurs directly above the discolored part (b). The principle here is to highlight the sunken circle, and shadow the prominent rim right above it, thereby giving the illusion of smoothness to the entire eye area. Here, especially, it is important to pat gently and thoroughly, so there is no line of demarcation where the color comes together.

For bags or puffs, Figure 1 shows how to diminish the puff above and below the eyes (c and d) by covering with a darker shade of base, to absorb the light. Then apply a highlight base on the rim just under the puff (d). This heightens the illusion of smoothness between the two. Pat colors together gently and smoothly.

The oblong face type, appears long, thin and narrow. It is all too easy to give such a face a cold, hard look. Every attempt should be made to create a foreshortening effect. Never do anything that tends to emphasize the length of the face and the features. Concentrate on minimizing the hollow cheeked effect.

(1) Do not arch or pencil the eyebrows too high. Keep eyebrow perfectly natural; do not extend it. To do so is to tend to over-emphasize the width of the forehead. (2) Avoid an elongated field of cheek range, especially if you have hollows in the cheek. Apply rouge (moist or dry) on the high point of the smile in a circular fashion; blend backwards and upwards over the high point of the cheekbones. (3) Do not make-up the mouth too highly painted or too wide. Apply lipstick to the natural lip line unless there are feature problems such as a large nose, small teeth, or overly large teeth. (4) Highlight hollow cheeks and temples.

THE MUSIC WHIRL

THE BIG SOUND of arranger Quincy Jones "booms" with quality in his new Mercury release "I Dig Dancers." Here's a first class album that perfects the old rythmic bounce of the late '50s with todays new steps. A real "finger-popper" side like "Pleasingly Plump" and "G'wan Train" have all the ingredients for a real dance party. Other tunes include: Moonglow, You Turned the Tables On Me, Love Is Here To Stay, A Sunday Kind Of Love, and a treat composed by Quincy himself, "The Midnight Sun Will Never Set." This waxing is sure to please the gamut of music listeners.

ALTHOUGH this album features the piano of Wynton Kelley, it is obvious, even to the uninitiated, that young Lee Morgan, 21-year old trumpeteer, has stolen the show! The jazz listener is immediately captured on the first side by his fresh approach to an old standard, "June Night." But Wynton shows his musicianship throughout the album, not only on his own solos, but in his accompaniment of the other soloists. Philly Joe Jones, on drums, Wayne Shorter, tenor, and Paul Chambers, bass, all get a chance to show their mettle on this V-J Lp.

WHAT ELSE can be said about the great Ahmad Jamal — except that each album surpasses the one before. "LISTEN to the Ahmad Jamal Quintet" is the title of this 33½ minute session. Cool, easy and relaxing in style, this album treats you to tunes such as "Yesterdays" and "It's a Wonderful World" with a new treatment made possible with the addition of Ray Crawford's guitar, and Joe Kennedy's violin. The group turns in fine renditions of a host of tunes in masterful style.

"Like man, let's go in and dig some cool jazz."

LIKE SAMMY? LIKE MAI?

TRACEY HILLIVI IN PERSON — Tracey Hillivi made her debut Monday in the arms of her famous father, Sammy Davis Jr., and his beauteous actress wife Mai Britt. She seems to be stealing the scene from Sammy, but maybe that's due to the artistry of camerman Bernard J. Abramson.

Sammy Davis Denies Report Of Severe Pain

Sammy Davis Jr. was taken to Mt. Sinai Hospital Tuesday afternoon suffering, according to first reports, from severe abdominal pains of unknown cause.

Reached at the hospital, however, Sammy advised the Eagle that there was "nothing alarming" about his condition, that he had merely gone to the hospital for a "check-up."

He said he hadn't had a physical going-over for some time and his wife prevailed upon him to let the doctors give him an examination.

He added, however, that he has had some pain from time to time.

Sammy's entry into the hospital comes just a day after his wife returned home bringing with her their new baby daughter, Tracey Hillivi, named after the mother of his wife, Mai Britt.

2nd Baptist Riders Trek to Mississippi

Single men and double men and girls that were not men at all. They came by ones, they came by twos, they came on foot, they came on bicycles—and they kept on coming.

That's how it goes in the old Irish song that tells us that "they're hangin' men and women for the wearin' of the green."

FROM ALL OVER

With due regard for differences in time and place and circumstances, that's how it is today with the Freedom Riders heading for Jackson, Miss.

They come from Alabama, they come from Atlanta, they come from New York, they come from Los Angeles, Negro groups and mixed groups, "single men and double men and girls that are not men at all." And married women, too.

They come by bus, they come by train, they come by plane. And they all head for Jackson, capital of Mississippi, the darkest spot in the Jim Crow heartland.

They're not "hangin'" them but they are arresting them, fining them and throwing them into jail. And, according to all reports, the jails are no picnic.

NINE FROM L. A:

On Sunday another group arrived in Jackson from Los Angeles, nine in all, eight Negroes,

KILLED IN 'RUSSIAN ROULETTE' — Phyllis Jones, 15, Jefferson High student, was shot and killed when one of her friends fired into the rear seat of the car in which they were riding in a "Russian Roulette" act of bravado.

Girl Dies, Youth, 17, Wounded

Marie Phyllis Jones, 15, known to her Jefferson High School classmates and friends as Phyllis, was shot and killed Monday night in what police called a "Russian roulette" act of bravado.

Phyllis and her teenage companions were riding in a car down 41st street when the shooting occurred.

YOUTH WOUNDED

Wounded by the same bullet was Herman Gideon, 17, of 3765 Crawford street.

Police said the bullet penetrated Gideon's upper arm, passed through it and then lodged in the chest of the young girl sitting next to him.

After investigating, police reported that one of the youths in the car, James West, Jr., of 1245 E. 40th place, had pulled the gun from under the front seat where he was sitting, fooled around with the bullets, loading the gun, unloading it.

'NOT LOADED'

There were three bullets. He left one in the chamber, police reported, spun the cylinder and then saying "It's not loaded," began firing it out the open window next to him.

He pulled the trigger several times. Each time the hammer fell on an empty chamber.

Then, according to the police version of what happened, West pointed the gun over his left shoulder into the rear seat of the car and pulled the trigger once more. That time the gun fired. It hit Gideon and Phyllis.

HANG MAN'S NOOSE

Police also reported finding in the car a hangman's noose.

Phyllis, who lived at 4524 Wads-

Let's Have No Alibi!

(AN EDITORIAL)

Down town politicians are manufacturing a smoke screen to shield City Council from community resentment if—and when, they hope—it flubs the duty of selecting a Negro to fill the 10th District vacancy.

They're whispering that no Negro can be appointed because too many qualified Negroes are seeking the job.

They sigh that if Negroes would "just get together" and center on one person that man would get the job on a silver platter.

The pretext is that if the Council selects any one of the dozen or more Negro applicants, supporters of the others will be angry. Therefore, they argue, it is better to appoint a Caucasian and by-pass all Negroes.

There's no merit in the argument. It's a cheap alibi.

There are at least ten white applicants. Nobody has come up with the suggestion that no white person be appointed because there are too many white applicants!

There is nothing remarkable in the fact that there are a number of Negro applicants for the job. The demand for a Negro councilman from the 10th District is many years old. It springs from the fact that Negroes want, and ought to have, representation in City Council. Naturally enough, there are differences of opinion on who should be appointed.

We know most of the Negroes who are seeking the job and most of them can make a pretty good case for themselves.

We have our own choice—J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson—but that doesn't blind us to the fact that other candidates are qualified. We know the backers of all the candidates. We know they are intelligent men and women. They expect the councilmen to make a choice. They have sense enough to know that only one person can be appointed.

Los Angeles is the only large city in the North or West without Negro representation on its governing body. That's the hard fact our councilmen must bear in mind. That's the deficiency they're expected to remedy.

Negro voters aren't going to be angry at anybody, no matter what Negro is chosen for the 10th District job. But they are going to go on the political war path if the City Council flunks its duty and weasels out on this golden chance to make the council representative of all of the citizens of Los Angeles.

Business Men Back Atkinson For Council

Business men from within and without the 10th District spoke up this week with a demand that City Council name J. Edward (Eddie) Atkinson to fill the 10th District vacancy. A 10th District business men's committee, headed by Dr. Price Terrell and David Ayres and representing 100 business men, urged Atkinson's appointment in a petition to the Council.

At almost the same time, an Echo Park Committee, headed by Irving Edelstein of 1602 Sunset boulevard, dispatched a letter listing more than 50 names to the Council praising Atkinson and calling him the "best qualified" man for the position.

The area's interest in the 10th District, Edelstein asserted, was "Due to the fact that the appointee will have to say about matters affecting the entire city. And we want the best qualified man for the job."

He stated that "that man" was Atkinson, and that the people of the 10th District had already spoken for him in the 1959 election when 46 per cent, or 15,345 voters marked their ballots for him. "In today's picture," he added, "that makes a sizeable petition from the 10th District voters that must receive the most serious consideration from the appointing City Council committee."

"Let the City Council appointing committee declare for an open election in the 10th District instead of using their power of appointing, and Atkinson would be elected by an overwhelming majority," he said.

In their petition to City Council, 10th District business men praised Atkinson's qualifications for the job, and asserted that "the people of the 10th District have spoken already . . . We

Man's Body Found In Alley off Hooper

A man driving down the alley between 44th and 45th streets about 6:30 a.m. Sunday morning found the body of a man lying in a pool of blood in the rear of 4415 S. Hooper Avenue.

The dead man was lying on his stomach. His hand still clutched a 31-inch-long bumper jack. Blood mixed with the dirt of the alley surrounded him.

BLOOD TRAIL

Spots of blood led to Hooper avenue, along the sidewalk to 46th street and down 46th street to a driveway between 1270 and 1272 E. 46th street. There the trail stopped, about a block and a half from the site where the body was found.

The dead man was identified as George Bell, 47, a laborer who lived at 6026½ Central avenue. A man by the name of Sutton, of 3822 3rd avenue, had reported finding the murder.

A car parked in the driveway at the 46th street address was identified as Bell's car. When he was found, he had in his pocket 57 cents and seven keys on a chain. He was wearing a ring.

Police believed that Bell had been first stabbed near his car and that he had opened the unlocked trunk and grabbed the heavy jack to fight off his assailant in a running battle.

APPOINTED — George L. P. Weaver, well known in labor circles, has just been appointed assistant secretary of labor for international affairs. Weaver takes over the $20,000 a year post from George Cabot Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican candidate for vice president.

Missouri FEP Passes Senate

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The State Senate last week passed the Missouri Fair Employment Practices Bill, which is expected to be signed into law.

The bill was introduced by the first Negro to sit in the Missouri Senate, Theodore D. McNeal of St. Louis.

If signed by Gov. John Dalton, the bill will prohibit discrimination in hiring, wages or other conditions of employment because of race, religion or national origin.

It applies only to firms employing 50 or more workers.

Poole Sworn In As U.S. Att'y

SAN FRANCISCO — Cecil F. Poole, former clemency secretary to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, took the oath of office last Thursday as United States attorney for the northern district of California.

Poole, 46, is the first Negro to hold such an office in continental United States.

Westinghouse Bias Charged, Probe Asked

WASHINGTON — The NAACP filed complaints last Thursday against the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, charging discriminatory employment practices at the company's plant in Hampton, S.C.

The Association also asked for an investigation of all other Westinghouse plants.

BILLIONS IN CONTRACTS

Westinghouse is a major government contractor operating with billions of dollars in public funds. Included in the contracts are substantial long-term commitments from the Atomic Energy Commission.

The affidavits were filed with the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity by six Negroes who sought employment there. They charge that the company permits Negroes to apply for work on Tuesdays only.

They also charge that:

The personnel office as well as all other plant facilities are rigidly segregated.

Negroes are employes only in menial jobs such as cleaners, sweepers and janitors.

Negro women are employed only as toilet attendants.

Cool 'Cat' At Gas Co. Lifts $1,044

A cool, neatly dressed, personable appearing individual, with a Quo Vadis hair cut, appeared at the Southern California Gas Co., 4619 S. Central avenue, about 7:45 a.m. Monday for the purpose of "checking" the building.

In making his "rounds," he went to the back door and entered.

BRIEFCASE HEAVIER

In his hand he carried a large brown briefcase.

When he left, also by the rear door, he was still carrying the briefcase. It was heavier, however, than when he had arrived. Inside was $1,044, taken at gun point.

After the money had been handed to him by one of the supervisors, the suave young man sat down at a desk, calmly stashed it away in the briefcase.

That accomplished, he stood up, his .45 automatic still in his hand, and turned to the service employe who had opened the door for him, Jerome Allison Jackson, 51.

'YOU'LL GET HURT'

"Mister," he said, "you will get hurt that way."

Then he went out into the alley,

HEADING INTO TROUBLE — Freedom Riders who knowingly headed into trouble and who were jailed Sunday when they arrived in Jackson, Miss., are shown planning their "vacation" before they left here Friday evening. Chicago Jails 'Waders' In Mississippi Manner

CHICAGO—As in Mississippi, so in Chicago.

Twelve persons were arrested here Sunday on charges of "disturbing the peace" during a Negro "wade in" demonstration at city-owned Rainbow Beach.

A mixed group of 70 arrived at the beach and stayed about two hours, strumming guitars and singing "The Freedom Equal Blues."

Some 200 police officers stood by. They arrested the 12 for refusing to obey orders of the officers.

The group was led by Norman Hill, 28, secretary of the Socialist Party of Illinois and an advisor for CORE.

In Detroit Sunday 50 Negro and white students attempted to swim together in a private pool, but the manager closed it down rather than permit integration.

Shots Frighten Thieves; Halt Stealing of Car

Palestine Owens, of 4761 S. Wall street, told police that he fired three shots at a man whom he observed to be fumbling with his car, which was parked in front of his home last Thursday night. He fired at the fleeing suspect as he ran down Wall street after Owens had spotted him and had ordered him to halt.

Owens said he observed a second man attempting to start a car which was parked across the street. The man on foot ran north on Wall street and Owens said he fired at him a fourth time and the man fell to the ground and dropped two hubcaps. He jumped to his feet and disappeared between the houses at 47th and Wall street.

Owens said he then fired a shot at the man in the car as he attempted to turn left on 47th street. The car careened into the power pole on the corner and the man leaped from the car and ran.

The car was registered to Gladys Kelley, of 4717 S. Wall street, who is the mother of two sons, Granger Cleo Kelly, 17, and Hayes Kelly, 15. Both of her sons had been home all night, she told police. Granger Kelley said he left the keys to his mother's car in the glove compartment when he parked it that evening. Owens said he could not identify the man who ran from the car but added that he resembled Granger Kelley.

U.S. Takes Mississippi To Court in Voting Bias

WASHINGTON—The Department of Justice charged last Thursday that Negroes have been deprived of their voting rights in two Mississippi counties and asked that federal court injunctions be issued banning discrimination in voting registration.

Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy said that the two counties are Clarke and Forrest. The registrars of the counties and the State of Mississippi were named as defendants in the suits filed in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi.

FIRST MISS. CASES

"These are the first cases brought in Mississippi seeking the fair, equal and non-discriminatory registration of voters," Mr. Kennedy said.

"Our investigations have disclosed a clear-cut pattern of discrimination. We have made the basic facts of our investigations available to the State and local officials concerned and have attempted to prevail upon them to remedy the situation themselves.

"These suits were filed today because the situation has not been rectified nor are there assurances that it ever will be rectified by local action.

"Negroes in these two counties still are being deprived of the right to vote — the fundamental right of all American citizens. It is our responsibility in these counties and elsewhere."

GOVERNMENT 'RADICAL'

District Judge Sidney Mize set Aug. 7 for hearings on the suits. Processes were served on Gov. Ross Barnett, State Atty. Gen. Joe T. Patterson and circuit clerks of Clarke and Forrest Counties.

Barnett said the suits were the results of a "radical" government. He said he knew of no Mississippi officials "who are not willing, ready and able to give everybody a square deal, regardless of race or creed."

Clarke County Circuit Clerk A. L. Ramsey, named as a defendant in the suits, said no Negroes vote in his county because "they all have good sense and know we're doing a good job here."

NO NEGROES VOTE

In the Clarke County case, filed in Meridian, the Justice Department charged that Negroes have not been permitted to register and that no Negroes are registered, Kennedy said.

In Clarke County a substantial majority of 6,072 white persons of voting age are registered, but none of the 2,988 Negro residents.

The action against Forrest County, filed in Hattiesburg, charged that Negro residents have been delayed, discouraged or refused in their attempts to register.

A majority of Forrest County's 22,431 eligible white citizens are registered to vote, but only 25 of the 7,435 Negroes, Kennedy said.

GSM Names Edward Ford As Top Agent

Five Southern Californians were among the 13 agents and field managers of Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co. to win top individual honors for their performances during a 15-month production campaign which ended March 31, the company announced last week. A Los Angeles staff also collected one of the two trophies awarded by GSM for team strength.

The company's highest individual honor went to Edward W. Ford of GSM's Central Avenue District Office, whose net gain production of $406,456 of life insurance during the campaign earned him his third "Man of the Year" title of his career.

Ford, a veteran of 23 years with GSM, also won the title in 1956 and 1958 and is the only field representative of the company to receive the honor more than once.

MONARCH AWARD

Two Los Angeles agents and two staff managers were recipients of the company's Monarch Award, second highest individual honor, for "persistency in production and in conservation of business." They were Agents Roy W. Spencer and Herbert McClester, both of the Central Avenue office, and staff managers James Anderson and Lenell Hawkins of GSM's Westside and South Los Angeles district offices respectively.

Earl Reason, now GSM district manager in South Los Angeles, was also cited for his part in the success of Anderson's award-winning staff. Reason, who was manager of the staff for the first five months of the contest, received a one-third share of the Monarch Award prize money given to the manager of the staff.

All Monarch titlists received cash awards and monarch lapel pins in recognition of their performance.

CHALLENGE TROPHY

The President's Challenge Trophy, a team trophy for staff production, was awarded to the Westside District Office staff managed by James Anderson. Members of the winning staff were Cecil Young, Hucie Bowie, W. Joseph Del, Robert L. Meals Jr., Isam Taylor and Frank G. Slater. A second staff trophy, the William Nickerson Award, went to a Houston, Tex., staff.

Eight agents from the Southern California region were among the 29 qualifying for Honorable Mention cash awards. They were: Rollie G. Clemons, Long Beach; W. Joseph Del, Robert L. Meals Jr., Isam Taylor and Wilbur Williams, Westside office; Bernard Carter, Gid A. Martin and Clifford D. Westfield, South Los Angeles office.

Clinton, Tenn., Quiet Now, Visitor Reports

Clinton, Tenn., five years later, is a quiet town, racially speaking, Mrs. Estelle Littlejohn told the Eagle Monday.

It's calm now, she said. The high school, where the fighting took place a few years back, is integrated, and no one makes any fuss over it. This fall 17 Negro children will attend the school.

LIKE IN THE STORES

Yet, Mrs. Littlejohn went on, sometimes there's unpleasantness. Like in the stores where they let you know they don't want to wait on you.

"Some of our people won't do their shopping in Clinton. They go to Oak Ridge, which is nearby."

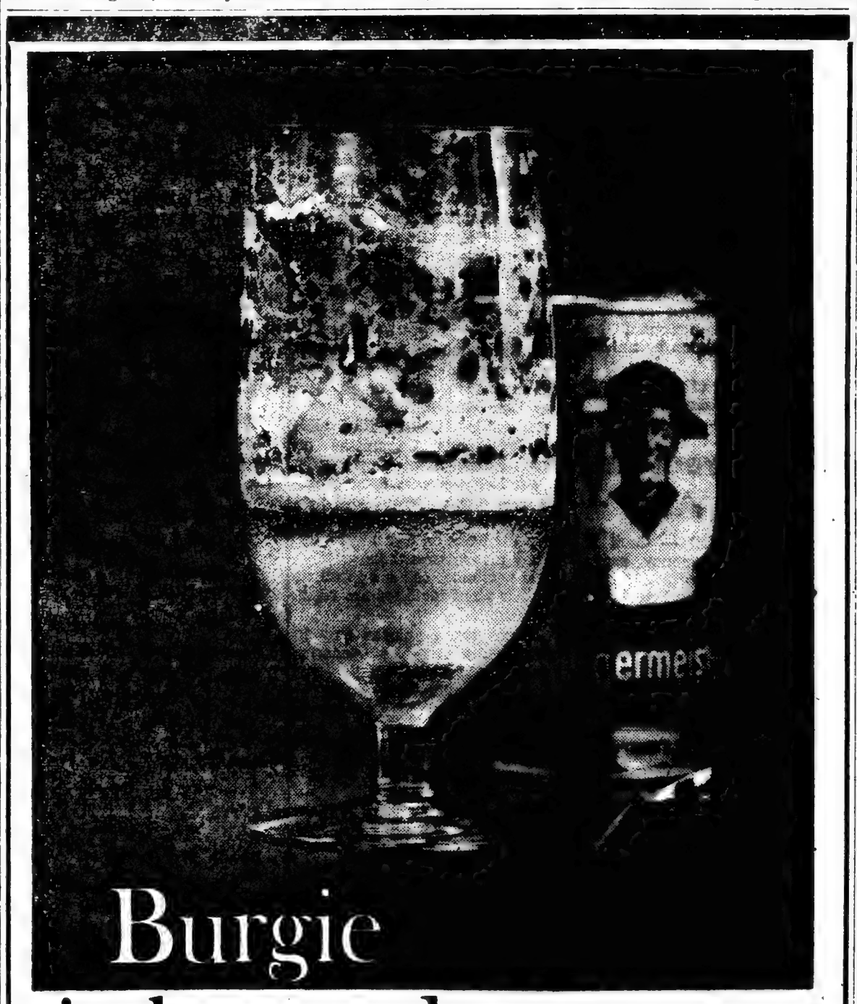
Mrs. Littlejohn is in Los Angeles on her fifth visit to the coast. She is staying with her son, Perry Freeman, a medical aide at Sawtelle Veterans Hospital, who lives at 2638 Cloverdale.

Mrs. Littlejohn will return to Clinton July 29 to her husband who is a railroad worker.

WORSE FARTHER SOUTH

Coming from Waycrosse, Ga., Mrs. Littlejohn has lived in Clinton for the past 17 years. "It gets worse the farther south you go," she says. "Waycross is worse than Clinton."

The children don't have any difficulty now at the high school, she went on. They take part in athletics, there's no problems in the classrooms or in the halls or elsewhere.



Of course, she continued, they're still barred from social affairs.

As far as employment is concerned, Mrs. Littlejohn said the Negroes in Clinton aren't meeting any discrimiation. Not any more than usual. But they aren't finding much work, either. When they're qualified, they're hired, but there's not much work there now. The railroad is the biggest industry. There are no factories. Most Negroes work in Oak Ridge.

Businessman Dies Of Arsenic Poison

TULSA, Okla.—Arsenic poisoning was revealed as the cause of death of a well known N. Tulsa business man in an autopsy report here last week.

Coleman White, 42, owner of two drive-in cafes and several parcels of real estate, died June 7. His death at that time was ascribed to pneumonia.

MURDER, SUICIDE?

Two days earlier, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Johnson, 61, mother of Billie Jean Johnson who reportedly has lived with White for the past five years or more, was taken ill. She was transferred to the hospital and died June 6, from what was believed to be a stroke.

Mrs. Johnson's body has now been exhumed and examined, but the results released so far are inconclusive.

Mrs. Johnson had not liked White, witnesses told police, because of the way she said he treated her daughter, and reportedly had commented on one occasion, "I'm going to take him with me so he can't mistreat my daughter any more."

COOKED MEALS

Police were informed that Mrs. Johnson had done the cooking at the White household for six or seven weeks before White died. They also reported finding arsenic used in gardening and for rat poisoning at the residence.

Billie Jean Johnson is the mother of four children, three of whom are reportedly White's, and is expecting another child. Miss Johnson reportedly admitted she had never been legally married to White.

Both she and White's ex-wife, Mrs. Mae Lillie White, the mother of three children, who divorced White in 1956, are seeking appointment as administratrix of White's estate, said to exceed $10,000.

Miss Johnson, in seeking the appointment, told the court here last week that she had been receiving money from the State Aid to Dependent Children for some time and that she had put this money into White's business enterprises. White, she said, supported the family.

Bias Charged To Carolinian Textile Mills

WASHINGTON — Thirty-nine affidavits charging eight South Carolina textile firms with discrimination were filed here last Thursday by Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary.

The bias complaints, made to the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, accused the companies of refusing to hire Negroes and to upgrade those now employed to production and skilled jobs.

SWEEPERS, JANITORS

Hill pointed out to John Feild, executive director of the government agency, that "Negroes constitute less than 2 per cent of the total work force in the textile industry, the basic manufacturing industry in the South."

He said further that "among the 400,000 textile workers in South and North Carolina and Virginia, there apparently is not a single Negro employed as a weaver, spinner, loom fixer or in the carding rooms.

"Negroes are employed only as sweepers, janitors and in other menial positions known as 'outside labor.'"

PLANTS LISTED

The NAACP representative informed Feild that according to State government figures the number of textile workers employed in South Carolina was 48,000 in 1918 and 122,000 in 1960, while the percentage of Negroes in the textile force fell from 9 per cent to 4.7 per cent over this same period.

Pearson Says Negro MPs Used to End Sit-Ins

Drew Pearson, in his column in the Mirror of July 10, accuses Army Brass of having devised a neat scheme of using Negro military police to smash Negro sit-in demonstrations.

Pearson claims that this is what Maj. Gen. Edward G. Farrand, commander at Fort Hood, Texas, did to prevent "mixing" in restaurants in nearby Killeen, Texas.

SOLDIERS ARRESTED

Here is the story as Pearson tells it:

"On July 9 last year, Private Robert B. Curtis of the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, with two other Negro soldiers, staged a sit-in protest at Craig's lunch counter in Killeen. They were arrested by the provost marshal, Col. M. C. Miller, accompanied by several military police, and ordered to report to Gen. Farrand, who, they state, threatened them with court martial if they were involved in a similar incident.

"This pretty well intimidated Negro troops stationed at Fort Hood until April 22 of this year, when Curtis and one other Negro soldier again sat-in at Craig's restaurant. This time, the provost marshal made a special trip to the barracks and recruited twelve Negroes to serve as military police. Normally, Negro troops do not serve as MP's outside of camp for fear of arousing the resentment of white Texans. But in this case twelve Negro MP's were rushed to Craig's restaurant and arrested the Negro sit-ins.

DENIED STORY

"When the United Press International telephoned Fort Hood from Austin to inquire about the incident, the provost marshal's office denied that anything had happened.

"When this column queried the Army in Washington as to whether such supression of the news was a part of U. S. Army policy, the Army, after taking five days to exchange communications with Fort Hood, made no comment. It did not deny the incident took place.

"When asked whether the use of Negro troops to apprehend Negro sit-in strikers was U.S. Army policy, the Army replied that an order had been issued, June 19, instructing Gen. Farrand and other commanders that MP's could not be used "on behalf of local authorities to support enforcement of segregation," though they could be used to "quell affrays" where military personnel are involved.

LOSES JOB

"On June 11 of this year, six Negro soldiers again picketed Craig's restaurant, this time accompanied by one civilian, Mrs. Charles Ludwig of Gilleen.

"This time Gen. Farrand had heard from Washington and did not arrest the sit-ins. However, Mrs. Ludwig's husband, Charles Ludwig, who works for the Red Cross on the post, was given 24 hours' notice that he was no longer welcome at Fort Hood.

"Mrs. Ludwig, who was a volunteer Gray Lady at the U.S. Army hospital was informed that her services were no longer wanted, though she had donated them free.

"The Army in Washington, when queried as to whether the disciplining of the two civilians represented U.S. Army policy, referred the matter to the Red Cross."

Fake Attorney Unmasked; He

SAN FRANCISCO — "Attorney L. A. Harris," who masqueraded as a Washington, D. C. attorney for 18 months, was arrested here Friday and held on $40,000 bond.

In one of the most fantastic stories in legal history, Harris, who insists he is John D. Clark, and who police insist is Daniel Jackson Oliver Wendell Holmes Morgan, won praise for his legal astuteness and knowledge of the law from several federal judges before whom he pleaded his clients' cases.

Four of those clients, however, lost their cases, and were sentenced to death. Now the cases are being reopened.

One of Harris' clients, Mrs. Elsie V. Jones, 53, has been granted a District Court hearing in Washington in a bid for a new trial. Mrs. Jones, however, was not one of those scheduled for execution.

The new trial hearing in her case, nonetheless, raises the possibility that similar requests will be granted to Harris' other clients.

Harris' masquerade was uncovered when someone noted a resemblance between him and a man arrested in Los Angeles in 1957 for a six-year pose as a Chicago attorney.

Miss Hamilton said that she had been reluctant to accept the ride but that Phyllis had accepted so she went along.

Police arrested all those in the car, because of what they called conflicting stories.

Miss Hamilton was later released to her parents.

Taken into custody were West, Gideon, Clyde Ford, 18, of 1174 E. 41st street who was driving the car; and William Samuel "Red" Johnson, 17, of 1333 E. 47th street.

West, who police believed was the one who was playing with the gun and shooting it, denied that he had aimed the gun at anyone.

'IT WENT OFF'

He said that while they were driving, Clyde told him to take the gun from the glove compartment and put it under the seat, and that when he reached in and started to take it out "it suddenly went off."

West added: "I didn't know Clyde had a gun in the car until he told me to put it under the seat."

Ford said that the gun belonged to Red's (Johnson's) father and that the two of them were going to pawn it. "I didn't know it was loaded. We didn't check it. We gave West and "Buggy" (Gideon) a ride to pick up his girl friend. West found the gun and was playing with it when it went off."

California's Housing Problems

We hope that Governor Brown will find some of the most informed and best equipped members of minority groups to place on the state's new commission which will inquire into the housing needs of Californians.

California has always treated its minority groups in a pretty shabby manner as far as housing is concerned. San Francisco led the way away back in 1890 when it passed an ordinance requiring all Chinese to live in a particular portion of the city. The law didn't last long; federal courts quickly held it was invalid.

The ordinance was passed in response to a constitutional provision of 1879 which gave cities and towns the power to remove all Chinese from their borders. That provision, although offensive to the federal constitution, remained in the California constitution until 1952!

Meanwhile, California courts began wholesale enforcement of racial restrictive covenants in 1915 and ground out discriminatory decrees of that kind until the United States Supreme Court put a halt to the practice in 1948.

In California, as elsewhere, FHA and VA have insured and guaranteed mortgages for discriminatory housing ever since those programs were established.

Wherever and whenever government, state or federal, failed to assist in the establishment of residential segregation private business stepped in. As of this moment, banks, lending institutions, real estate brokers and home builders are working together to exclude non-whites from certain sections of all California cities.

The practical result has been the growth of residential segregation in every city in the state. As a direct result of that residential segregation, California has nurtured the growth of segregated public and semi-public facilities of every kind, from schools to playgrounds.

Present legislation is pitifully ineffective. The public accommodations law seems to forbid discrimination in sales or rentals by real estate brokers but the statute hasn't put a crimp in their discriminatory activities. The Hawkins law prohibits discrimination in sales or rentals of publicly assisted housing but the burden of going forward and proving the discrimination is placed on private individuals who are ill equipped for the task.

Any commission that is appointed to deal with California's housing problems must look into the whole matter of residential segregation and must recommend some remedies. That's the reason such a commission will need minority group members who are familiar with the problem and who will insist that it be dealt with. We hope again that the governor will make some appointments that will assure that the problem won't be smudged or glossed over.

Filibuster Comes Home to Roost

The Senate is going to have to face up to the problem of the filibuster rule change before it adjourns and unless all signs are wrong it will defer the action until the last few days and fail to make any changes.

The issue was before the Senate when it met last January and was not dealt with because the administration decided that a fight at that time might peril its legislative program.

Nothing has happened in the meantime to take the edge off the battle; the southerners are as determined as ever to hold on to their veto power over legislation. The determination on the other side doesn't match that of the white South. There are only a handful of senators who are prepared to wage an all out, last ditch fight.

Until Senate rules are changed to halt debate after a reasonable time there is small chance of meaningful civil rights legislation. It is true that a few mild measures can be squeezed through but they leave the major problems untouched

What the nation needs in order to come to real grips with segregation and discrimination is a law which arms the government with the power to intervene directly whenever there is a violation of constitutional requirements.

As the matter now stands, the challenge to discrimination must come from private groups and individuals who must pit their strength against the organized might of the southern states, all of which are willing to spend their taxpayers' money to uphold racial laws, customs and practices which fly in the face of Supreme Court decisions.

Until Senate rules are changed the battle against Jim Crow will remain an uneven contest.

Mississippi's Voting Frauds

The Department of Justice tackled one of its toughest problems last week when it filed suit against voting registrars in two Mississippi counties charging them with deliberate exclusion of Negroes from the state's voting lists.

The Negro population of Mississippi is upwards of a million but there are less than twenty thousand Negro voters in the whole state!

The small number of voters is reflected in the fact that Mississippi officials, state and federal, exhibit the worst attitudes in the nation on racial problems. They stay in public office by running race baiting campaigns of the lowest order.

One county official expressed surprise at the suit filed last week. He said that while it was true that not a single Negro voted in his county there was no discrimination of any kind. Negroes, he said, know their white officials are doing a good job and don't want to vote!

We are sure that the attorney general is going to do his best to break up up the white supremacy voting racket in Mississippi but he's got a hard job ahead of him. We are just as sure that before he gets through he is going to have to agree that federal laws need strengthening before the job can be completed.

Let Mayor Set Own Policies

The outcry against Mayor Yorty for his removal of present members of city commissions and their replacement by commissioners of his own choice is a purely synthetic issue, manufactured to embarrass the mayor.

Under the Los Angeles Charter, city commissions are charged with the duty of making policy for their respective departments. We don't see how a new mayor can function effectively unless he has the power to choose his own policy makers.

Mayor Yorty's opponents haven't yet reconciled themselves to the fact that they lost the spring election. They're trying to hold on to power after the voters put them out of power.

We hope the mayor will go ahead and replace commissioners wherever he finds it desirable. He is entitled to a chance to institute the polices that won him the majority of votes last May 31.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

When Senator Barry Goldwater last week sent a warm letter to his new-found pal, the city manager of Newburgh, N.Y., he once more demonstrated that he is a political phony and that — contrary to frequent description — he is not any successor to the late Senator Robert Taft.

In the first place, Taft was a conservative; as such he was worthy of the great respect and confidence vested in him for years. A true conservative is the man who honestly — and even intelligently — takes the careful approach and the cautious side on political issues. He is inclined to be against new ideas until and unless they are proven sound. A true conservative — one who is honest and intelligent — is a good thing to have around the Senate; he is just as necessary as is the true liberal. And there are just as few of the one wind as of the other.

GRANGER

'REFRESHING'

Senator Goldwater, in his anxious rush for the 1964 G.O.P. presidential nomination, has made a big play of putting on the Taft mantle of conservative leadership. The truth is that Goldwater couldn't lift up one corner of it. His letter to Newburgh's Joseph McD. Mitchell is one proof of his inability. The Arizona senator declared that Mitchell's plan to reduce his city's welfare costs by starving relief recipients out of town was "as refreshing as breathing the clean air of my native Arizona."

Goldwater's motive in sending the letter is as plain as apple pie; he's after the political support of reactionaries when 1964 rolls around. This is his way of capitalizing on the existence throughout the country of a silent but nonetheless strong resentment against recipients of public assistance.

It's a resentment that's all the stronger when the recipients happen to be of darker color, for this gives race prejudice a chance to reinforce twin instincts of greed and social snobbery that motivate animosity toward relief clients. Goldwater is shrewd enough to be aware of this. He waited a few weeks to be sure that there is a strong reactionary support for Newburgh's officials, then he wrote his letter.

MAY BACKFIRE

It remains to be seen whether this was as clever as the Arizona senator thought it was. I have an idea the trick will backfire on him. For the kind of people who will react favorably toward his congratulatory letter to Mitchell will be voting for him anyway, if they have the chance, for the simple reason that there'll be nowhere else on the Republican ticket for them to go.

While on the other hand, after decent people have had a chance to think about Newburgh and become thoroughly disgusted with what it stands for, they are apt to remember Goldwater's letter — and classify him with the scurvy crew up in Orange County who are disgracing New York State in the nation's eyes. And as this column has pointed out again and again, most people are decent when they have indecency explained to them.

SEEKS PRESIDENCY

Actually, there isn't anything about Goldwater to justify the loose-lipped description of him as "Taft's successor." As I've pointed out, Taft was honest; Goldwater isn't. Taft scorned voter stupidity too often revealed; Goldwater seeks to exploit is. Taft was a careful man, while Goldwater attempts craftiness. Bob Taft's conservatism centered around two cardinal points in his political credo: opposition to spendthrift use of public funds and opposition to centralization of power in the White House. Goldwater's political philosophy can be expressed by him in five words: "I want to be President."

Senator Goldwater ought to be careful about being compared too often with the distinguished Ohioan who lost a bitter fight to General Eisenhower for the Republican nomination and the Presidency in 1952. For the more often he is so compared, the greater the chance that voters will remember what they liked about Taft, and what they consequently dislike about Goldwater.

TOUGH COOKIE

Loren Miller — one of this country's outstanding political analysists — was a member of a delegation that went in to see Taft on some civil rights issue a dozen years ago. Afterward, he described Taft as being "a tough cookie who'll give you a blunt answer that doesn't make you as angry as it might, because you know he means it."

On civil rights Taft was an unsatisfactory spokesman — almost as unsatisfactory as Franklin D. Roosevelt. Yet, on housing he was one of the Senate's most advanced champions of progressive programs — including the racial angles. You couldn't call Taft a liberal; you couldn't call him a reactionary. You could call him what he once called himself: "a political realist trained to look under the plate when political goodies are passed around, because there's always a bill to the public hidden there — and the bill is always too high.." Nothing that Goldwater has yet said has any similar ring of sincerity —not even his letter in praise of Newburgh.

Loren Miller Says . . .

and you read in the next morning's papers that "The South is determined to retain segregation." Sad faced northerners take whatever is said as gospel and go around mooning over the fact that segregation is morally and politically wrong but that the "South won't stand for its elimination."

ONLY A MINORITY

Almost 40 per cent of Alabama's population is Negro and nearly one half of Mississippians are Negroes. You don't have to be very bright to figure out that Sparkman wasn't talking for the 40 per cent Negro population of his state and that Eastland doesn't speak for Mississippi Negroes. When they talked about what the "South won't stand for" they weren't speaking for the entirety of the populations of their states. At best they were pretending to speak for the white population.

And it isn't true that all southern whites are armored and weaponed and ready to stand eternal guard for Jim Crow, even in Mississippi and Alabama. There were some whites for whom neither Sparkman nor Eastland spoke. My hunch is that if a secret poll could be taken of the entire populations of Alabama and Mississippi, white and Negro, it would appear that Sparkman and Eastland really spoke for a minority.

PRISONER OF HISTORY

The truth of the matter is that the South, more than any other section of the country, is a prisoner of its history. And if you look back you will see that a minority has always spoken for the South, or pretended to speak for the South. Most southerners (less than 10 per cent) never owned slaves but the slaveholders always presumed to speak for the South prior to the Civil War. When the Constitution was in the making the slaveholders wanted as many members of the House of Representatives as possible. They increased their strength by getting the right to count three fifths of the slaves in the apportionment of congressmen.

That was a wonderful little gimmick—for the slaveholders. Take South Carolina, for example. In 1850 it had 384,984 slaves to 274,563 whites. Three fifths of the number of slaves is 230,991. Add that three fifths to the number of whites and South Carolina was entitled to representation in Congress on the basis of a population of 505,554. That isn't all. Less than half of the white population belonged to slaveholding families. South Carolina always elected slaveholders to Congress and they arose in the Senate and the House and spoke in the name of the state; members of the House assured the nation that the almost one half of their constituency who were slaves wanted slavery!

FRAUD ON NATION

Something of the same kind has been going on ever since Reconstruction failed and Negroes were excluded from the polling places. The South gets representation in Congress on the basis of its entire population, white and Negro, and southern congressmen are ever ready to tell us what "the South wants." The nation accepts their word as gospel. Long usage, of both before and after the Civil War, has implanted the idea that Negroes aren't people in the South and that southern spokesmen who speak for a white minority speak "for the South." I don't have any handy, overnight cure for this evil but I think it's time to recognize it for what it is: a deeply rooted fraud on the country at large.

Anyhow, the next time I write about what the "South wants" I'm going to make it plain what southern people I'm writing about. I can't think of a greater insult to Alabama or Mississippi Negroes than to accept Senator Sparkman or Senator Eastland as their spokesmen.

Let The World Know

By ST. MARK

Let the record show
That July independence has again brought . . .
To the L.A.P.D. "some" equal rights sought.
Without fanfare and notorious ado,
"L.A.'s Finest" may now become true.

Let the people know
That "equal enforcement" may now die as a ditty,
And rise as reality in our multi-racial city,
Impressing near and far, thus: "I saw,
L.A.'s democracy work for one and for all."

Let the record show
That what looms as L.A.'s own proud story
Can be found wherever flies the banner—"Old Glory."
For "L.A." is of the alphabet, the same as "U.S."
And America of democracy, for you and the rest.
Let the world know

That free people are determined and successfully trying
To mend the frayed edges of freedom dying,
Allowing democracy to stand tall and forever be said
That the stars over America will never be red.

Miss. Jail 'Pig Pen,' Says Freedom Rider

ATLANTA — "Pig pen conditions without the "bare essentials for personal cleanliness."

That is how Wyatt Tee Walker, executive director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (of which the Rev. Martin Luther King is head), described conditions in the Hinds County Jail in Jackson, Miss.

MEMO TO KENNEDY

He and his wife, Theresa Ann, arrived back in Atlanta this week, after being imprisoned in the Hinds County Jail along with other Freedom Riders.

He immediately sent an eyewitness account of an interstate journey from Atlanta to Jackson to Atty. General Robert F. Kennedy, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department.

It is our insistence, he said, "that even felons and criminals (which Freedom Riders are not) deserve humane treatment. Thirteen women in one 13 x 15 cell for five minutes is five minutes too long!"

He queries whether or not the federal government has some "minimum code" for penal institutions.

RIDES TO CONTINUE

Regarding 'Kennedy's proposal to call off the Freedom Rides, Walker commented:

"Mr. Kennedy does not really understand that there's a social revolution going on in the South. He protests because the matter is in the courts. This has been in the courts since 1947 (Irene Morgan case) and decided. We are insisting on enforcement, and until the Federal Government enforces the law and the ICC regulations, there will be a need for 'Freedom Rides.' "

Walker details the indignities and difficulties his group, consisting of nine white and Negro riders, had during their ride through Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi — the rudeness they encountered, the ever present police officers, the closing down of lunch counters so that the Riders were unable to obtain food during an entire day.

MIDDLE AGES

Then he describes conditions at the Hinds County Jail which he likened to "something out of the Middle Ages."

From the time they were transferred from the Jackson, Miss., City Jail, says Walker, "the treatment of inmates, particularly the Freedom Riders, violated every code of minimal sanitation and personal hygiene."

The memorandum continues:

"Mr. Walker's cell housed eight other men. There were no beds at all. A blanket, mattress cover and ancient mattress were provided upon entering the 13 x 15 foot cell. This was the first and last physical 'comfort' provided by jail authorities. For seven days, repeated requests were made for the barest essentials for personal cleanliness. This was done vocally and in writing. A Mr. Huddo made promises; a Mr. Kelly remarked that he didn't send for us and didn't give a blankety blank if we never got our things.

NO SHOWER

"The shower stall was inoperative; the open commode was at half-efficiency; the stench was almost unbearable; we bathed as best we could, using our pocket handkerchiefs as washcloths. There is no need to mention the food — for jail diet is about the same all around the South.

"Mrs. Walker reports that one of the female prisoners was forced to strip to the waist for 'frisking' by male jailers. In neither jail were any matrons on duty, if employed. This was a humiliation for female prisoners that seemed wholly unnecessary. The servicing of the women's section of the jails for feeding, cleaning, etc. was always done by male 'trustys.' . . .

"It must be said in all fairness to the Jackson City Police, particularly in the case of Chief Pierce and his lieutenants, that despite a sincere difference of opinion, he and his men were extremely polite and cordial. The transfer to the Hinds County Jail was almost like going to another world."

In discussing the cross-country trip, Walker reported that his group was served at LaGrange, Ga., by "a young Negro girl who was almost paralyzed with fear," after the white manager refused to serve them.

At the Montgomery, Ala. Greyhound bus terminal, they saw what looked like a "city under siege." Scores of uniformed policemen kept a crowd, estimated at between 300 and 400, across the street from the station.

The Riders were prevented from entering the lunchroom. The Ass't Police Chief told them there had been a bomb threat and so he had ordered the lunchroom closed . . . Some members of the mob were carrying lengths of lead pipe . . .

After spending the night with friends, they returned to the bus station to purchase tickets for the rest of the trip. They tried to get lunch before departing.

They were treated to insults, but they were served. The manager told other customers not to sit down at his counter until "this group of niggers" got out of the way. A Negro counterman served them.

STILL NO FOOD

At Newton, Miss., a boy with a tray of sandwiches and soda was refused admittance to the bus by the driver. It was 4:30 p.m.

Summing up that part of the trip, Walker says:

"The bus line's systematic discourtesies and refusal to let passengers have access to, let alone be served meals on this long interstate bus trip, the concessionaires' insulting behavior, and the bus driver's evident collusion with police forces to make our trip uncomfortable, are an offensive violation of the rights of passengers to enjoy a peaceable journey and of the carrier's duty to afford their customers reasonable comfort and on a level equal to that of all passengers."

Eddie Atkinson

believe their will to be worthy of your most serious consideration."

This was in reference to the 15,345 voters (46 per cent) who cast ballots for Atkinson in the 1959 runoff election. At issue were the two years remaining of a four-year term left vacated by the recent election of Charles Navarro to a city office.

They pointed out that Atkinson had lived a lifetime in active and close contact with the problems of the District and the City, "as a child, as a boy, as a man, and as a community leader selected for high office by various civic and cultural organizations."

Atkinson is on the boards of the local NAACP, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the American Association for United Nations, and the Western Conference of the National Urban League.

"Don't be in a hurry to call anybody."

He didn't seem to be in a hurry, either. He walked north through the alley to 46th street, continued to the middle of the block, then stopped for a few minutes, turned around and retraced his steps to 46th street where he turned East. Then he disappeared.

Jackson had opened the door slightly to the stranger, in response to his knock. He asked to speak to the manager; at the same time he pulled out his gun.

After the shooting, the teenagers became panicky and Ford drove across Central to his parents home at 1174 E. 41st street, and called the police.

Phyllis was an A-11 student at Jefferson High and was a member of the Pilgrim Baptist Church.

She lived with her mother, Mrs. Ora Brown, her stepfather Julius Brown Jr., and two sisters, Gwen Ann Jones, 17, and Yvette M. Brown, seven months.

The funeral of the young girl was set for Saturday at 10 a.m., with Harrison-Ross Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

one white, a farm laborer. The group was headed by Roena Rand, 29, of 2223½ W. 27 street, an Internal Revenue clerk, who acted as spokesman.

They were arrested when they went into the "white" waiting room and then refused to leave when told to do so by police.

A few hours later another group, this one from Montgomery, drove into Jackson. The Alabama group said they came to talk over the segregation issue with Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett, but they didn't get very far in that effort, and like the scores who had preceded them, they landed in jail.

227 JAILED

Some of the whites entered the "Negro" waiting room and tried to get service at the cafeteria counter. Two white women and a Negro woman went into the "white" waiting room and also sought to buy food.

Before leaving, the group had been served—and insulted—both at white and Negro lunch counters in Montgomery.

Latest figures place the number arrested at 227.

Another group, this one sponsored by the Second Baptist Church, is leaving Los Angeles Wednesday at 8:15 a.m. from the Greyhound Bus Terminal at 6th and Los Angeles streets.

To speed them on their way, the church, under the leadership of the Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, collected a sum of $2500.

ON THE LONG TREK

Those who will be taking the long trek South include: Charles H. Booth, David L. Richards, the Rev. Douglas A. Williams, Carroll Barber, Jack Mikhail Wolfson, Atty. Rose Rosenberg, Robert Lewis Owens, Atty. Jean Kidwell, Berniece Alexander, Frederick Nance, Charles Freeman, Susan Blevins and Bennie Holmer, the latter from Monrovia.

Bill Greene, a member of CORE who has just finished his stint in the Air Force, will head the group.

Next Monday, July 17, another group of Freedom Riders, this one from Santa Monica, is starting out for Jackson, Miss. Announcement of their plans was made by Arthur Kennedy, chairman of the Santa Monica-Venice Congress on Racial Equality.

GROUP FROM L. A.

The group that left Los Angeles Friday, also CORE sponsored, included the following:

Patricia Dale Baskerville, 18, nurse's aide from Tucson, Ariz.;

Tommie E. Brasher, 19, of 309 W. 41st place, maintenance worker;

John C. Taylor, 26, of Berkeley, pharmaceutical clerk;

Edmond Dalbert J., 25, of 825½ W. 41st drive, postal worker;

Philip J. Perkins, 20, of College Park, Md., a farm laborer;

Edward B. Johnson, 19, of 4410½ 7th avenue;

Reginald Jackson, 21, of 4302 Gaithwaite, costume designer;

Larry E. Bell, 19, of 4166 S. Budlong avenue, plasterer; and Miss Rand.

A benefit for the Second Baptist Riders was being planned for Tuesday evening at 8:30 p.m. by the California Club, 7059 W. Santa Barbara.

PEOPLE'S FUNERAL HOME OPENING SET

GRAND OPENING CEREMONIES—The modern building opened recently by the People's Funeral Home, at 4250 S. Central avenue, will be the scene of ceremonies and inspection tours for the public on Sunday afternoon, July 16, from 3-7 p.m. For more than 20 years the staff of the People's Funeral Home has brought satisfaction to families during bereavement. (Adams)

BARBARA MOUNTS, Church Editor

BOARD OF DIRECTORS — Planning more efficient ways in which to serve the public in the newly built People's Funeral Home are the members of the board who are seated in the spacious reception room during the conference. From left: A. A. Robinson, president; Melvin Martin, vice president; Jesse J. Overstreet, treasurer; J. C. Blackwell, secretary and Dr. Willis K. Duffy, second vice president. (Johnson).

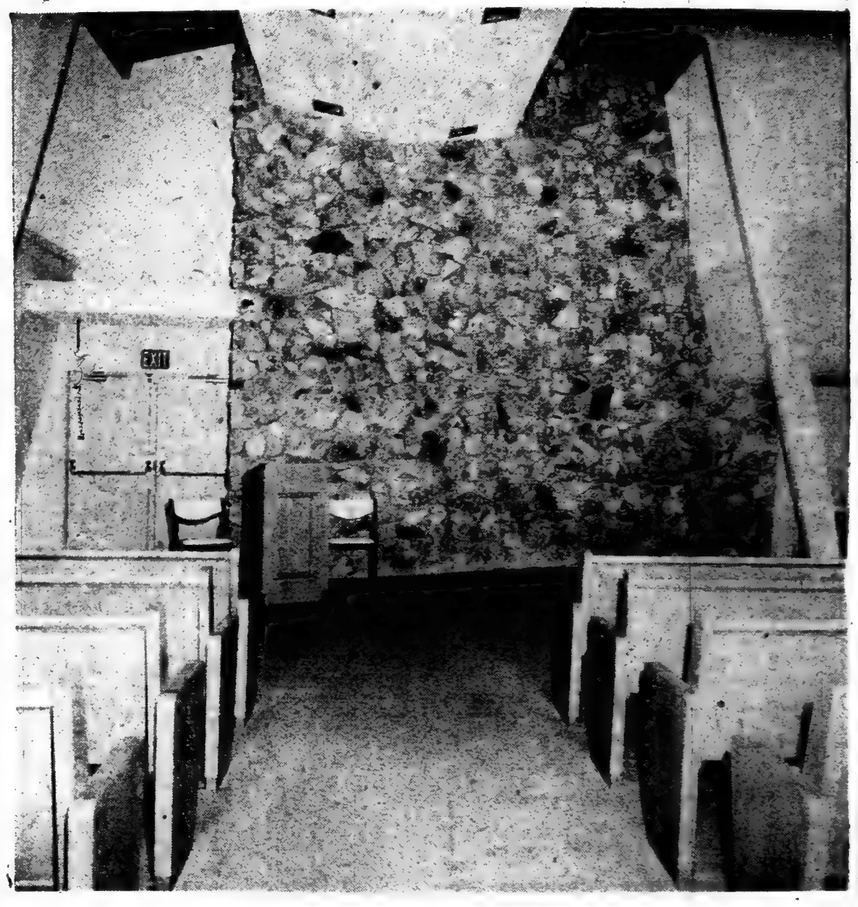
New Mortuary is Dream Fulfilled for Architect, Builder, Founders and Staff

BY GEORGE HOLBERT

If you should drive down or up Central avenue in the vicinity of 42nd place, you would be struck with awe at one of the most attractive buildings in Los Angeles. Your gaze would be drawn to the advanced tropical landscaping that surrounds an ultra-modern structure. It gives one the feeling that he is visiting a desert resort with all the flamboyancy of Palmdale or Las Vegas. But no! You are only approaching the new People's Funeral Home.

This project takes on special significance when the story behind it is known. It was organized on August 15, 1938 at the present address by A. A. Robinson, Melvin Martin and Norman Hopkins. It became an established corporation operating under the supervision of the Corporation Department of the State. J. J. Overstreet joined the firm a few months later.

DREAM COME TRUE



While these determined men struggled with the task of building a business, a little neighborhood boy with his playmates no doubt played in the vacant lot or park adjoining the building. I can't help but believe that this boy with his anpate ability to draw and design must have made a mud replica of some childish design of what he would like to see erected some day on that spot.

This young boy was Vincent Proby, the architect of the new People's Funeral Home. He received his basic training at Jefferson High School. There again he must have spent many hopeful hours drawing, planning and dreaming how he would some day change the profile or appearance of the Eastside. The boy with the vision in six months construction time radically changed the appearance of 42nd place and Central avenue. A portion of his dream and that of the board of directors and staff had come true.

The Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the Le Duff Bros., general contractors, helped to make the dream of many people a reality.

RECEPTION ROOM—The reception room of the Vincent Proby designed People's Funeral Home is elegant in its simple lines and orderliness. The atmosphere lends itself to setting the mood for calm, unhurried arrangements for loved ones of every family regardless of race, creed or color or financial circumstances. (Johnson)

CHAPEL OF TONES — The People's Funeral Chapel of Tones is a beautiful setting for the memorial rites of loved ones. The natural stone background when banked with floral offerings will make a never forgotten picture. The chapel decor is in shades of blue and white, symbolizing love and purity and fidelity. Comfortable seating is provided for 150. (Johnson).

Setting Designed to Make Hours of Visitation Easier

By GEORGE HOLBERT

Visitation hour has come for a dream made real. Come and brouse with me through a modern edifice. We are entering the spacious and elegantly furnished outer office and reception room. A glass enclosed patio to the left recalls a desert calm—but no hesitation, for we must follow the courteous attendant who is assigned to escort us on the inspection tour.

Now to the right there are two business offices for the executives. Some are using the intercom system that is found in all rooms. As we go down the hall to the left, there are slumber rooms on each side. At the end of the hall to the right, the door opens to bring you into the display room for the beautiful caskets, artistically arranged in a variety of colors and of a quality which will please the most astute.

All through the journey you have been strolling on a plush carpet which absorbs the noise of every footstep. Into one's consciousness has come the awareness of soft, soothing music which brings to mind the solemn rites of the church or lodge. We follow the attendant to the chapel.

For hours of visitation there are slumber rooms where in absolute privacy one may remain with loved ones and meditate upon the past, the present and the future. Time is always given by painstaking personnel to reach complete satisfaction, and to give each person in need of the services of the staff all the help possible.

EXCELLENT STAFF

Other members of the staff are J. C. Blackwell, secretary; Dr. Willis K. Duffy, son-in-law of the late Norman Hopkins, second vice-president; Elizabeth Robinson, a sister of A. A. Robinson, attendant. Robbie Williams is the receptionist and organist; Hadley J. Simmons, mortician; Joe Bartice, apprentice embalmer; Gladys Herford, apprentice embalmer; Vernon Hayes, custodian; Rev. Paul M. Martin handles insurance. He is the son of Melvin Martin.

The insurance plan carried by the People's Funeral Home provides a convenient method for making emergencies easier for the family in time of sorrow.

Any staff member including Rev. Martin will courteously explain the plan in detail without obligation.

WELL TRAINED STAFF TO SERVE NEEDS—The members of the People's Funeral Home staff were selected for their training, ability, understanding and desire to give the most efficient service to every family. Problems are worked out in a gentle, constructive manner at people's. Pictured from left: Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, attendant; Rev. Paul Martin, in charge of the funeral insurance service; Hadley J. Simmons, mortician; Melvin Martin, vice-president and manager; A. A. Robinson, president; Vernon Haynes, custodian; Joe Bartice, apprentice embalmer; Robbie Williams, receptionist and organist and Gladys Herford, apprentice embalmer. (Johnson)

Breathtaking Tone-Chapel Soothes Away Tension. Feelings of Distress

BY GEORGE HOLBERT

The Chapel of Tones is breathtaking with its mosaic front. I dub it the Chapel of Tones because the musical tones seem to burst with extreme softness from the ceiling and walls.

The exquisitely designed walls and ceilings are something to behold. There are unusual pews and thoughtfully planned family rooms. I do not recommend that you go in and do business with them now but when you go, the People's way is a wonderful way.

ALL MASONS

To kneel and pray in this Chapel of Tones, with the air penetrated by soft music and the soothing softness of the decor, raises one's spirits and induces a feeling of thanksgiving that the men who founded the business continued through more than 20 years to serve the community in an understanding manner for each man founding the firm is a member of the Masonic order.

A. A. Robinson, the president, is a member of Garrison Lodge No. 45; Melvin Martin, vice-president, is a member of the B. F. Talbot Lodge No. 8 and J. J. Overstreet, treasurer, is a 32 degree member of the James E. Wilson Lodge No. 68. Norman W. Hopkins died in 1958.

Join the other Angelenos who will inspect the new People's Funeral Home on July 16, from 3 to 7 p.m. and join also in the Masonic dedication which will take place on July 30 from 4 to 6 p.m.

TO BE HONORED — Rev. Roger R. Williams, chosen as "Father of the Year" by Greater First Baptist deacons during the past "Father's Day" observances, will receive additional honors at the forthcoming Men's Day services scheduled for Sunday, July 16, 3 p.m. at the 1300 E. 57th street church. Henri O'Bryant, president of the Henri O'Bryant Uniform company will be principal speaker. Deacons sponsoring the Men's Day services shown above with Rev. Williams are: front, from left: Joseph Jones, Aaron Easter, Tom Brooks, Rev. Williams and John E. Edwards. Second row, from left: Maurice Minner, Tommy L. Joyce, Joe Williams, Willie Duncan and Ralph A. Gardner.

Bishop Coore, City Mission Prelate, Here

Bishop Mary Coore, of Kingston, Jamaica, still glowing from the spiritual ecstasy gained from her trip through the Holy Land arrived in Los Angeles last weekend and was given a royal welcom by the Los Angeles International City Mission, Church, one of 200 under her purisdiction. Bishop Coore said that to trod the streets where Jesus walked, to kneel in the Upper Room and to pray in the garden where He accepted the cup of cruicifixion; to sleep on Mt. Calvary and etand in the tomb where his body lay before the resurrection, made the gospel she had been preaching for more than 60 years a more vibrant, living reality.

This petite woman, her clear eyes flashing with the light of fond recollection, said that she felt very humble and grateful that she had been given the opportunity to see the rugged terrain where Jesus wearied of his journey and the crude setting where he "brake" bread at the last supper. The walk up Mt. Zion and along the shores of the Sea of Gallilee and all the other wonderful experiences were

I am all for preserving our Negro Colleges for the same reason that there will always be a Yale and Harvard. Everyone agrees that today we are living in an era of the best educated Negro in history. Football in Negro Colleges got its earliest beginning way back in 1892, with Livingstone College and Biddle (now Johnson C. Smith) University playing the first game at Salisbury, N.C. on Thanksgiving Day. Historians say Biddle or Johnson C. Smith won 4 to 0 before a rousing shirt sleeve crowd of 500. In 1894 Howard University, and Lincoln University(Pa) played the first game in the east, and in 1897 Tuskegee Institute(Ala) and Atlanta(Ga) University played the first game in the middle or deep south.

In those days, only about a half dozen colleges had football teams. Squads were small, and many varsity teams had no substitute players.

In 1897 Shaw University organized a team, and for several years thereafter became the most powerful Negro college team in the south. Two years later Morehouse, Talladega, Fisk, Knoxville and Meharry began playing the game, and Negro college football was on its way as we know it today.

National and American football leagues are sprinkled with former Negro college stars and many of them are big headliners.

D. C. Collington, director of Sports Information Service at Florida A&M University revealed that the Rattlers copped four of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference's six major championships during the 1960-61 academic year. The grid team won its eighth straight league title and extended its record to a string of 40 victories in a row against loop competition in posting an impressive circuit record of 5-0-0. The track team registered an unprecedented five straight SIAC crowns. The baseball team went undefeated in 16 contests and posted a league mark of 17-1 and 20-1 for the season. Only the basketball and golf teams fell short of championship caliber in the SIAC and finished third.

Today, some 3,000,000 football fans turn out for Sunday afternoon National Professional League games and every team in the league boasts Negro players but the Washington Redskins. Reason being their owner George Preston Marshall stubbornly refuses to hire Negro players. The NFL is heading for disaster if it continues with Marshall because the American Football League is in business to stay and the customers are fed up with the Marshalls in football.

SHOW OFF NEW UNIFORMS—One of proudest Little League baseball team in the Denker Playground League are The Hawks, who were outfitted from head to toe in flashy uniforms by The Harrison-Ross Mortuaries. Standing from left: Leon Harrison, president of Harrison-Ross, Michael Douglas, Jerome Hall, Eddie Centeno, Ross Smith, coach Rommie Loudd, Leon Johnson, Bennie Davis, John Foster, Donald Derbigny, Betha J. Bobby Knight Second Star Signed By Jets

Former dribbling sensation, Bobby Knight of the Harlem Globetrotters has inked a pact to perform for the Los Angeles Jets of the American Professional Basketball League.

Knight, who hails from Hartfort, Conn., has been performing for the past two years in New England leagues, where he averaged 28 points per game.

The 6 foot 2 inch, 190 pounder is a former Shaw University star, where he set a season's high of 37 points in a single game.

Knight becomes the second Globetrotter to join the Jets. Earlier, J. C. Gipson was acquired by the American Basketball League entry.

The consolation ticketholders were inriched $3,610.80 apiece, winning numbers were 7-5-4-2-7-4.

Hollywood Park's 22nd running of the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup next Saturday, July 15, again will feature a battle between eastern and western owned handicap stars.

Centennial, Compton Aces In Shrine Game

Centennial QB-halfback Larry Todd and Compton end Roy Jefferson will report with the 48 other outstanding California prep gridders of last season on Saturday morning (July 15) at the Biltmore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles when North and South squads assemble prior to opening practice for the Tenth Annual Shrine Football Classic, Wednesday night, July 26, at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The players, handpicked from all over the state, will meet for lunch and then visit the Crippled Children's Hospital, located at 3rd and Commonwealth in Los Angeles, for which the game has been played annually since 1952.

Game director Elmer P. Bromley and asst. game director Dr. Vierling J. Kersey will personally greet every player at the Biltmore luncheon and pass out Shrine team jackets, trimmed in blue for the North and gray for the South.

Each player has been "assigned" to a particular youngster at the Crippled Children's Hospital and will have a chance to visit and become acquainted with his no. 1 fan for the forthcoming gridfest.

After staying overnight at the Biltmore, the teams will split up Sunday morning (July 16) with North coaches Joe Marvin of Sequoia, Redwood City, and Hart Fairclough of Mt. Diablo, Concord, accompanying their charges to Whittier College.

Hockey Team Get Tag L.A. Blades

That's the name of the team which will represent Los Angeles in the Western Hockey League when hockey returns to the city this season.

The name was selected by the team's co-owners, James Piggott of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, and Dan Reeves of Los Angeles, following a contest in which 892 entries were received.

The winning contestant was R. M. Hutcheson of 1712 Pine Avenue, Manhattan Beach. A total of 46 entries named Blades, but Hutcheson's letter bore the earliest postmark. He will receive two season tickets plus an expense-paid jaunt for two on one of the club's road trips.

Patterson Facing NBA Blacklist

World's Heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Tom McNeeley are scheduled to sign formal contract in Boston for their September heavyweight title fight.

Al Bolan, vice president of Championship Sports Inc., applied for his Massachusett matchmaker's license and set the date for the formal signing.

Patterson will face withdrawal of National Boxing Association recognition because McNeeley is not ranked by NBA.

Moore In Easy Win Over Cadilli

World featherweight champ Davey Moore, keeping busy while waiting for a suitable challenger to get ideas about his crown, won a 10 round unanimous decision over Gil Cadilli in Las Vegas last Thursday.

Moore rocked Cadilli in the seventh and attempted to knock him out in the 10th, but the game Cadilli weathered the storm.

Moore weighed in at 132 pounds and Cadilli came in at 129.

Angels Host Four Teams At Wrigley

Some of baseball's biggest names — the players who make the American League the league of stars — will make their second appearance of the exciting 1961 season at Wrigley Field, the "House of Thrills," from July 18-30 when the Los Angeles Angels host four A.L. clubs.

It is now apparent that the American League pennant fight will be among five clubs — The New York Yankees, the Detroit Tigers, Cleveland's Indians and the rapidly-rising Chicago White Sox, with the Baltimore Orioles also given a chance at the flag this year.

Two of those clubs, the Indians and Tigers, will play the Angels during the upcoming home stand. Cleveland, piloted by the popular, cigar-smoking veteran, Jimmy Dykes, brings to town the man who is very probably the most exciting player in baseball today —the controversial, unpredictable Jimmy Piersall, who recently ignited a near-riot against Detroit.

Lou Thesz Set For Two Hour Title Match

Lou Thesz gets his long awaited crack at his old crown—the world heavyweight title—Friday night, July 21, at the Sports Arena. Thesz personally requested that Jersey Joe Walcott, former world heavyweight boxing champ, referee the bout.

Promoter Cal Eaton announced that he has signed Thesz to meet new champion Freddie Blassie in a two-hour match.

Blassie captured the title June 12 when he upset Edouard Carpentier of France before a record indoor crowd at the Sports Arena. Carpentier had won the championship from Thesz two years ago.

Tickets for this great night of wrestling are now on sale at the Olympic Auditorium.

PGA SHOULD CHANGE

Last week we celebrated the Declaration of Independence, and while reading comments on this "bill of freedom" in one of the daily papers we were shocked to find an article in this same paper which was defending the Caucasian clause in segregated PGA.

National PGA President Lou Strong was blazing away at the NAACP for its stand against this clause. He even had the nerve to say, "It is true the PGA Constitution contains a Caucasian clause as it has for nearly 30 years."

Thirty years? That did it; that is long enough. That remark upset us so badly that we instantly turned back to read what some of our greatest Americans were writing about the Declaration of Independence, hoping to find a little consolation in what Thomas Jefferson, Atty. General Robert Kennedy and Associate Justice Thomas P. White was saying about this declaration on the "Birth of Freedom."

We hope when PGA officials read these very important words, written by our New Frontier leaders, it will convince them that it is time to change this "solid gold constitution."

Thomas Jefferson wrote "These truths we hold to be self evident. All men are created free and equal, endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Honorable Thomas P. White said, "It should always be remembered that the saddest epitaph which can be carved to the memory of a vanished liberty is that it was lost because its possessors failed to stretch forth a saving hand."

Atty. General of the United States, Robert Kennedy, said, "We must reconcile ourselves to a world of tomorrow vastly different from that of yesterday."

If PGA can't respect our Declaration of Independence then maybe we should simplify it by mailing them Miss Lena Horne's first hit record, "There's a change in the ocean, there's a change in the sea. "Then PGA could finish this beautiful blues song by adding "and I believe there will be a change in me."

Three Hundred Entertained At Anniversary Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Dootsie Williams' fashionable View Park hillside home was the setting for the 15th anniversary celebration of Dooto Records and affiliated firms. Dootsie Williams, president of the largest Negro-owned business of its kind in the nation, and his wife, Josephine, along with their staff, entertained some 300 guests between the hours of 2 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday evening.

Guests enjoyed cocktails, buffet style dinners prepared by James Jackson, caterer, and tasty barbecue by Lonnie Evans.

In addition, scores of guests enjoyed the rare occasion of hearing a recording of the speech made by Dr. Martin Luther King at the Freedom Rally in the Sports Arena recently. The Jackson Brothers, Eugene and Freddie, entertained. Incidentally, Mr. Williams announced during the celebration that the tape of Dr. King's speech is available to clubs and civic organizations.

Out-of-town guests included Jean Branch and Marion Wilson from Berkeley, Neal McNeil from San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kussman from Pacoima.

One of the nation's outstanding musicians, Dootsie Williams founded the Dooto Records Company in 1946. Since that time it has grown into one of the largest independent recording companies in the nation. The company's headquarters are located at 9512 S. Central avenue.

Members of the staff are: Vera King, office manager; Alberta Taylor, secretary; Juanita Driver, receptionist; Barbara Heard, bookkeeper; and Thomas E. King, vice-president.

Since Dooto was founded, the firm has sold millions of comedy albums and its artists, such as Redd Foxx, Scatman Crothers, Allen Drew, George Kirby and Gene & Freddy, have become national headliners in leading nightclubs all over the country.

One of the most significant highlights of the anniversary celebration was a special award presented to Mr. Williams by KFWB's popular disc jockey, Ted Quillion. The plaque was given to Mr. Williams for his "outstanding service and contributions in the field of music."

BLOCKS AND PASSES — Funnyman Scatman Crothers is a bit puzzled and can't quite dig the football lingo. He is with Harry A. Mitchell, football writer; Dick Bas, L.A. Ram halfback; and Rommie Loudd of the San Diego Chargers . . . pardon us, the lady in the picture is Mrs. Crothers. (Adams).

A TASTY DISH — Having fun just before partaking of Lonnie Evans' deliciously prepared barbecue at the gay Dooto anniversary are guests Maude F. Wilson, Catherine Albesti, Lela Albertine, Dootsie Williams receiving a healthy helping from Bret Kennedy, Mrs. Thomas Jones, Gwendolyn Williams, Josephine Williams, Marlene Charbonnet and Hera L. Evans. (Adams)

Doll League in Two Club Meets

Two recent hostesses of the Doll League Charity Club chose to entertain in the colorful atmosphere of patio and garden. Mrs. Faye Haley of 842 E. 94th street, and Mrs. Gladyce Clark of 4947 W. 21st street, made their guests comfortable under gaily striped umbrella-tables, to enjoy delicious barbecue at the Haley's and Creole shrimp at the Clark's. Hostesses were assisted by husbands, Carl and Clarkie. Guests dropped in at both homes to enjoy the conviviality and to compliment the cooks.

Club members are still beaming over the success of their "Kotton Karnival" and wish to thank the newspapers for the excellent coverage.

The club's social chairman, Rosalie Hawkins, is planning something terrific for an August outing. Everyone is eagerly looking forward to it.

OUTSTANDING AWARD—Disc Jockey Ted Quillion of KFWB is fixing to spin one for the host with the most, Dootsie Williams, during the anniversary celebration last Sunday. Looking on are Marlene Charbonnet, Rochelle Jones, Violadora Johnson, La Verne Hall and guest. (Adams).

and Doris Rodriguez, with their daughters, are currently kicking up their heels in and around Washington, D. C. Byron Webb home from surgery at Sawtelle. New Yorker Harold Jackman, who had many acquaintances on the coast, died suddenly last Saturday. Monday adieu-wavers at the airport: Juanita (Moore) and Chuck Burris, seeing his mother off to Chicago for a lehgthy visit. She won't return until late October.

The Bob Hemingways of Cleveland were in town before going on to S. F. where they're visiting Bill Allen. The latter's nephew, Tony Allen, is in summer school in Berkeley while staying with his aunt and uncle, the Hugh Beatys (Connie); they'll bring Tony home to L.A. next month. While lunching with Bill last weekend in his S. F. diggings, it was a surprise to learn Cal Bailey is in that area, visiting his wife, Sue, at Seaside. Portia Craig was accepted as a law student at UCLA. Her work begins next month.

OFF TO DARTMOUTH

Westminster Church's Rev. James Jones and his family return to the city on the first of the month; they're on a trip into the Midwest, aimed at their former home town, Jackson, Mich. Ruby B. Surely there can be no more radiant a summer bride than Aileen (nee Kaiser) Floyd?

Mildred Blount home from a week's leisure at the Val Verde home of Edna and Frank Edelin; the latter were in town Sunday to attend an art show. The Everett Parchments (Elsie) watching the clock, their daughter Rhae and her husband, Bruce Watkins, reach town Friday from Kansas City, Mo., to spend a week here. The Nannettes have plans for an anniversary party; Laura Fowler was made chairman for the event. You heard Johnny Simmons Jr. was accepted at Dartmouth as of September? He made a name for himself while on UC campus at Berkeley this past year.

NO FUSS, NO FRILLS

Yvonne Gosby's mother hugged her a fond adieu and left for her home in Washington, D. C.; highlight of her visit here was, of course, being with her granddaughter, Annmarye Miller, and her great-grandchildren as well as her granddaughter's husband, Pete.

This will go down on record as the summer Bernard Blackmon of Dallas did NOT make his annual extended trip to LA, Allah be amazed (as are we).

Bride-to-be Lois Russ is being openly adored by her chums because she insists on a quiet small wedding with no fuss, no bother, no frills. Premier Group Staging Play This Weekend

The Premier Players is an organization composed of people and any persons who feel that the development of the many elements and phases of theatrical arts. The organization is primarily interested in finding new talent and giving this new talent an outlet for expression and a medium for growth.

TALENT SHOWCASE

We believe that there is enough undiscovered and undeveloped talent among our youth of today to supply the world with, music, drama and literature for many, many years. In fact, we believe there are better songs that have been written than any that have ever been sung; there are better actors waiting for a chance than any that have ever had the opportunity to grace the stage of any theatre, there are greater plays and pieces of literature that have been written than any that we might find among the conglomeration of literary master pieces that fill the shelves of our libraries.

Why? We are aware of the fact that the vehicles of promotion are too few and too slanted to give an opportunity to each of these would be contributors to the theatre arts.

WORTHY OF SUPPORT

The Premier Players has as its aim the promotion of a program to discover some of this hidden talent. Therefore, the organization is interested in finding new plays, new authors, new actors and actresses, new playwrights

DUKE'S DELIGHT—Ladies' Night at the LIVING ROOM, 2636 Crenshaw Blvd., has taken on a definite feminine tone and owner C. L. Duke heartily agrees. Believing that the homemakers should have their bit of glamor and glitter, public relations girl Wini Orr, left, has instituted the Cinderella drawing. With the minimum rates on all drinks for the ladies, at midnight one of them will draw the lucky digit which will present her with a gift. This, of course, at no cost whatsoever to the lady. As an added reminder,the LIVING ROOM has phone jacks all over the place so that milady may keep in touch with her "sitter." The phone number is RE 5-8748. The "Summer Kooler," a two hour session for the boys, daily, is also an innovation at the LIVING ROOM. Visit Blanche and C. L. Duke regularly where their hospitality is unequaled.

POITIER WANTS TO DIRECT

Success sits easily with Sidney Poitier. Despite his intensity both as an actor and as a person, he has learned to take life as it comes. And maybe it's because he's a man of inquiring intellect who has discovered that each new success as an actor has something to teach him personally.

"I like to work at it," he says frankly. "I've found that if I approach each new part as a brand new experience that has something to give me, as well as being a job, I not only can give it more, I can achieve greater satisfaction from it."

SIDNEY SENSATIONAL

For his lastest role, that of tenor Saxman Eddie Cook in the Pennebaker production "Paris Blues," Poitier learned how to play a saxophone. He has company in his efforts, for Paul Newman, who co-stars with Poitier and Joanne Woodward in the United Artists release, was simultaneously learning the trombone at the behest of producer Sam Shaw and executive producers George Glass and Walter Seltzer.

The rudiments of the saxophone opened new doors for Poitier. He had always been interested in jazz, but with his new skill—and the fact that "Paris Blues" is based on the lives of expatriate American jazzmen in Paris—he dug deeper into the background and effect of the American music.

It is typical of Poitier that his research led him into a philosophical analysis of what makes jazzmen tick.

"Their creative urge," he believes, "isn't like the urge that impels a man to be a painter, a sculptor or even an actor. Musicians know, from the beginning — particularly jazz musicians — that they have entered a field that is economically limited. But they have a real desire to express themselves creatively through their music."

In a very real sense, this discovery gave Poitier a stronger affinity to the character he portrays in "Paris Blues." As a Negro actor, he too operates in a somewhat limited sphere. But he plunges into his chores with a zest and a curiosity that underlines his desires to create charac-

POITIER PROFICIENT

Acting, however, is not the end goal for Poitier.

"I'd like to direct," he explains, "both for the stage and for films. I think this should be the ultimate goal for an actor since acting creates certain limitations and certain straitjackets. There is always a tendency to slip into a familiar mold. Some people have done this. As a result, after a number of years, they aren't playing a character anymore, they're playing themselves. They use the same tricks and the same nuances. It may be a successful device, but it isn't creative.

"The director on the other hand, is the key creative figure in a production. He visualizes the totality of the effort and everything he does is aimed at bringing that to realization. Inside himself—and sometimes externally too—he plays all the parts, knows all the lines, sets up all the situations and bits of business."

LOGICAL ADVANCEMENT

The desire to direct, however, doesn't mean that Poitier is dissatisfied with what he has achieved thus far. On the contrary, he sees it as a logical extension of his acting career.

"There comes a time," he points out, "when an actor is no longer right for the parts he has been playing. Some make an easy transition into character parts, but it isn't usually a good thing."

"But with a successful acting background, and given both some degree of intelligence and an interest in the theatre in general, he should be able to bridge the gap and become a good director.

"That's what I'd like to do. Maybe I won't make it. But in the meantime, I figure that the way to maintain what success I've had it to keep on doing what I'm doing—learning about people and things as well as about acting."

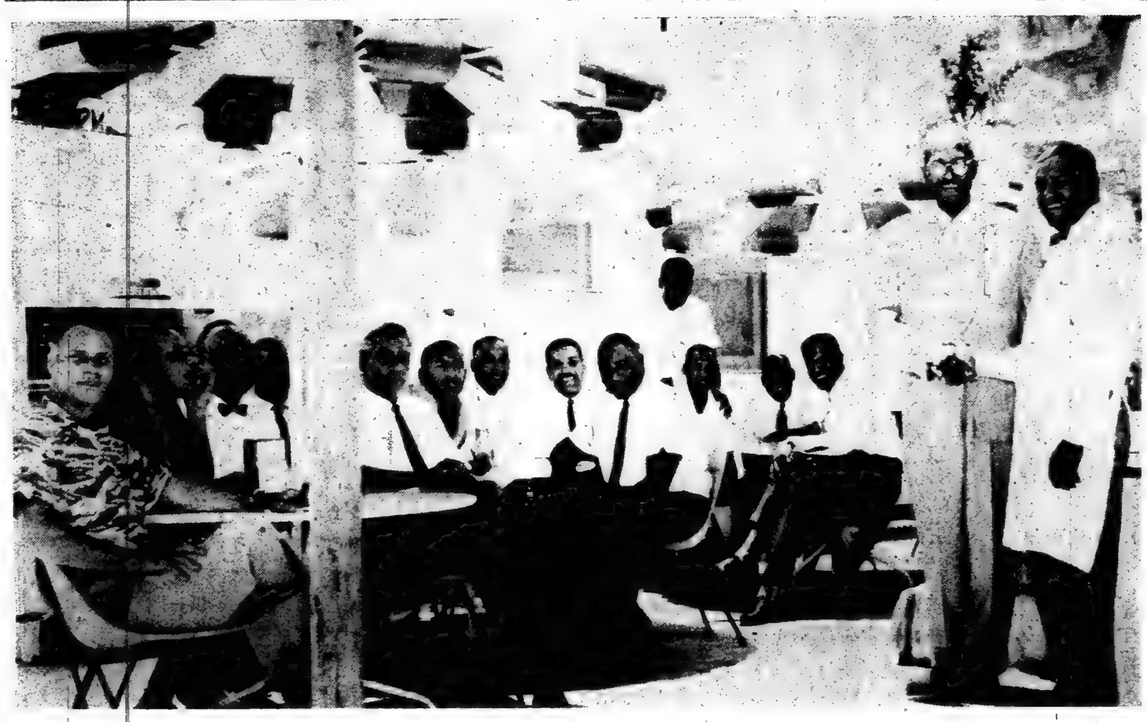
After slaving on the 4th, it was a relaxed and rib-tickling evening seeing the magnificent Cantinflas "Pepe", a must, if you have not yet seen it. The next night I was really on the go, but managed to drop by Birdland for a brief spell and listened to the jazz sounds of Slide Hampton & orchestra (with my old Bay Area bass-buddy, Eddie Kahn working) as he played "Something Sanctified", "Stella By Starlight", etc. and was followed by Buddy Rich, his drums (though he only sat at them at the end of his set) and his group, playing "The Blues" and other jazz improvisations.

FERGUSON AT BIRDLAND

Starting tonight at Birdland, it will be trumpeter, Maynard Ferguson & orchestra, plus the Drums of Passion of Olatunji and his exciting group.



Heard from that fine Columbia recording artist, Hannah Dean, as she returned from her date at the Newport Jazz Festival, and was spending a few days in N.Y., visiting and taking care of business, in the absence of her good friend and manager, L.A. beauty operator, Bucky Buckner. Hannah, you may recall did the spiritual on the Lambert, Hendricks & Ross album of The Evolution of the Blues.

Billy Browne Requiem Mass Set Saturday

Rosary will be recited at Angelus Funeral at 8 p.m. Friday, July 14, for Mrs. Billie Browne, co-owner of the Avalon Flower Cottage, 1137 E. Vernon avenue.

Mrs. Browne, the wife of florist Charles Browne, was anticipating heart surgery to correct a heart condition. Death, however, came suddenly at 1:45 a.m. July 9 at the Midway Hospital. She was one of the first members of the Floral Telegraph delivery service. Requiem Mass will be held at St. Gregory's Catholic Church, at 9th and Norton avenue, at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Surviving in addition to her husband are her children, Pamela, Charles II, and Ronald and four grandchildren.

Mrs. Browne was active in civic affairs and was an outstanding florist. She was one of the pioneer members of the Women's Sunday Morning Breakfast Club.

gained while members of her delegation were attending the International Pentecostal Congress at Jerusalem.

Bishop Coore is the founder of schools in Jamaica for boys and girls who would not otherwise have care and education. She supports her ministers and helps them to get on their feet in the work for Christ, according to the statements made by some of those welcoming her at the 5971 S. Main street Mission which is pastored by Bishop Del Rose Walters who also made the trip to Jerusalem.

She came to America from a month's revival meeting among the people from the West Indies in London and left with a church established and more than 50 new converts.

Her message to the people of Los Angeles Sunday afternoon was "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in heaven." This passage from St. Matthew 5:16 was followed by the words of the 20 chapter which says, "For I say unto you. That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven."

Bishop Coore will speak each evening through Sunday at the 5917 S. Main street church.

Elgin Baylor To Head Hoop Clinic

Elgin Baylor, Frank Selvy, and the Los Angeles Lakers first draft choice, Wayne Yates, will be on hand at Hollywood Playground, 1122 Cole Avenue, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon this Thursday (July 13) to conduct the third of 14 summer basketball clinics slated at municipal playgrounds.

'Lynch' Case Set for Trial On August 8

Two young men, one barely 18, must stand trial August 8 in Judge Lewis Drucker's court on charges that could send them to jail for 20 years.

The two are charged with "lynching," a charge that grew out of police claims that they took a prisoner from police custody during a "riot" at Griffith Park on Memorial Day, May 30.

SAY NO RIOT

The two are Willie F. Jones, 22, of 5118 W. 20th street, who is married and the father of two small girls, and Andrew McLemore, 18, of 4201 S. Normandie avenue.

Witnesses who arrived almost immediately after some 75 officers rushed to the scene, denied three was anything that resembled a "race riot," as reported in the daily press.

They pointed out that while most of those in the area were Negroes, there were also some whites, some Mexican-Americans in the crowd. None of them were molested. Nobody bothered them.

OTHER CHARGES

In addition to the "lynch" charge, police have added four other counts to the accusations against the two young men — forcibly interfering with an officer, two counts of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do great bodily harm and an additional count of trying to grab a prisoner.

Bail for both men was set at $1500. Jones, who works at a car wash, was able to make bail. McLemore was unable to raise the money and has been in jail since he was arrested.

Both men are being represented by Atty. Herbert M. Porter. He sought to have the charges dismissed against both of them, but Judge Drucker refused the request and set the cases on calender. Both have asked for a jury trial.

CLAIMS YOUTH ESCAPED

Atty. Porter, in asking for dismissal, contended that there was no riot and that, further, the 17-year-old youth who had been arrested was not "snatched" from police custody but had merely escaped.

Porter claims that the youth was not handcuffed and that the officers put him into the police car and then turned toward the crowd. The youth, finding the other door of the car open, took to his heels, Porter asserts.

Porter also claimed that the identification by the arresting officer, John D. Calderwood, and a white man who started shouting orders to the crowd, Edward A. Manley, was flimsy.

False Identification

On the day of the preliminary hearing, a Negro youth happened to stray into the courtroom and both Calderwood and Manley identified him as the youth involved in the Memorial Day fracas. It turned out that he was a student visiting the courts who had been at home on the day of the "lynching."

One of the "assault with a deadly weapon" charges asserts

Local Engineer Falls Into Ganges River; No Trace is Found

Mrs. Rose Talley, teacher at Gardena Gate Junior High School, flew back to Los Angeles Monday night with all plans completed to join her husband, Otis Talley Jr., in Pakistan—only to learn that he had fallen overboard from a boat into one of the delta streams of the Ganges River Friday and that no trace has been found of him.

A cablegram received Tuesday said: "Still no trace. Because of floodwater chances finding him getting very slim, but still following all leads and rumors."

A MILE WIDE

The river is wide and swift flowing at this season of the year. It is filled with mud and silt and constantly shifting currents.

Mrs. Talley had sold the family home at 2110 Corelett street in Compton, had packed and shipped her furniture. She had given up her job. Her passport and those of her two children were in order. She had her tickets. They had all taken the necessary inoculations. They were scheduled to depart from Los Angeles Friday.

Before leaving for overseas, Mrs. Talley had taken Ivan, 6, and Leona, 2, with her to Nashville to visit her grandmother who is ill, and to Detroit so that Talley's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Talley Sr., could see their grandchildren for a last farewell before they sailed for a two-year stay in far off Pakistan.

NEWS RECEIVED

They were met at the plane here by friends, who spared them the tragic news for a few more hours. But the news could not be kept from Mrs. Talley for long.

On Saturday the Ralph M. Parsons Co., 617 W. 7th street, an in-

Holdup Ring Said Smashed; Police Jail 10

Ten robbery suspects were rounded up Friday when police spotted a car that had been used in a gas station robbery July 1, in what is believed to be the smashing of a particularly active holdup ring.

Police believed that the gang was responsible for close to 40 holdups in the past two weeks.

QUESTIONED OCCUPANTS

The car had different license plates on the front and rear. When police noticed the auto on Central near Adams, they hailed the vehicle to the curb and interrogated the occupants.

In the car were three women, all of whom were arrested after being questioned. They were Mrs. Ceola Wallace, 28, of 1377 W. 36th street; Louise Mary Cook, 23, of 1358 W. 36th street; and Beverly Jo West, 25, of 1519 E. Santa Barbara avenue.

Mrs. Wallace said the car was not hers, but belonged to Warren Smith, of 1358 W. 36th street.

FIND 7 SUSPECTS

At Miss Wallace's home, police found seven men, all of whom were taken to jail on suspicion.

Among them was Warren Smith, who, police reported, locked himself in the bathroom when the officers arrived. They told him to come out with his hands up. He obeyed the summons.

Smith admitted owning a car with different license plates on front and rear, admitted that he had had the paint job changed from white to black, and had an explanation for possession of the various objects police found in his possession, both on his person and in his apartment at 1358 W. 36th street, where he reportedly lives with Miss Cook.

STOLEN ITEMS, SAY POLICE

Some of the items were $114 in cash, a gun, a TV set, a transistor radio, a utility box containing

Four Youths Stabbed in Gang War Outside Manual Arts High Schools

Four youths were seriously stabbed in a gang fight Friday outside Manual Arts High School, 4131 S. Vermont avenue, between the Gladiators and the Dodge City gang.

Two of the youths, covered with blood and apparently in a state of shock, staggered into the home of Nanna Jackson, 1158 W. 52nd street. One of them was her grandson, 15-year-old Steven Tilly. The other was Donald Daughtery, of 1020 W. 48th street.

STABBED IN ABDOMEN

Steven had been stabbed in the abdomen. It was a deep, ugly wound that ripped away the flesh. He was losing blood rapidly. He was not a member of either gang.

Donald was hardly able to walk. His ankle was fractured. He had been bashed on the head with a bumper iron. He was bleeding profusedly from stab wounds to the body.

At first Donald thought he had broken his ankle when he had fallen. Later it was reported that some of the attacking gang had stomped on his ankle after he was beaten to the ground.

TURNED AWAY

Some one drove the two boys to Donald's family physician, only to find that the doctor was away on vacation. From there they were taken to the South Hoover Street Hospital, on 57th street, but were refused admittance.

A nurse, and later the doctor in charge, stated that they have no facilities for handling accident cases.

The two boys were then driven to Mrs. Jackson's home.

Mrs. Jackson took them in her car and headed for Central Receiving Hospital.

RACE WITH TIME

Driving down Jefferson blvd., however, she became alarmed that she might not make it to the hospital in time. She stopped at University Police Station to ask for assistance.

All ambulances in the area reportedly were out on calls for other victims of the gang fight. Finally, an ambulance from the TWA HOSTESS—Diane Gorrott, 20, of Pasadena, was graduating Wednesday in Kansas City, Mo., as an airline hostess for TWA, first Negro on the West Coast to hold such a job. Story Page 2.

ON THE MEND—Libby Clark, well known public relations expert who was thrown through the windshield of the car in which she was a passenger in Kansas City, Mo., last Satuday, suffering severe wounds and nearly losing an eye, is reported to be "on the mend."

2nd Baptist 'Riders' Land in Jackson Jail

Like the scores of Freedom Riders who preceeded them, the 12 who left Los Angeles last Wednesday morning under the sponsorship of the Second Baptist Church landed in the Jackson, Miss. jail a few minutes after they arrived in that town.

The 12 reached the Greyhound bus terminal in Jackson Saturday night and in short order police arrested them on charges of breach of the peace.

244 JAILED

Their arrival brought the number of those jailed to 228. Since then, however, the number has steadily increased, the last report showing 244 riders jailed in Jackson since May 24.

The group had little trouble enroute, and were surprised at Fort Worth, Texas when some 300, mostly Negroes, turned out to meet them.

It may be that the bus terminal management was somewhat taken aback by the large number of Negroes. At any rate they served the Freedom Riders in the "white" restaurant.

The 12 who left Los Angeles and travelled all the way by bus were:

Marilyn Eisenberg, Robert Owens, Rev. Douglas A. Williams, Charles Booth, Carroll Barber, Leon Russ, Atty. Rose Rosenberg, Atty. Jean Kidwell, Jack Wolfson, Robert Kilius, David Richards and Ray Cooker.

Sherrill Luke Appointed to State Staff

Sherrill D. Luke, 32, administrative assistant to the City Manager of Richmond, was appointed Monday by Gov. Edmond G. Brown as assistant to the executive secretary on his staff.

He is the son of Mrs. Venye Corporal and the husband of the former Anne Bradford of Los Angeles. He is a graduate of UCLA, where he was student body president.

Luke is a member of the International City Managers Association; the Western Governmental Research Association; and the Richmond Rotary Club. He received his law degree in 1960 from Golden Gate College.

Libby Clark Says She's On the Mend

Libby Clark, public relations expert who was thrown through the windshield of her car in a crash last Saturday in Kansas City, Mo., suffering severe injuries that threatened the loss of one eye, seemed to be "on the mend" this week.

It was reported that some 256 stitches were taken to repair the damage. As she was being driven to the hospital, Libby used the palm of her hand to hold the flesh around her eye in place, she told friends here over the phone.

SHE CAN SEE

The bandages have now been removed, however, and Libby still has the sight of the injured eye.

She gave credit for her recovery to the expert care she received at the General Hospital in Kansas City.

Miss Clark's mother, Mrs. Emily White, was also injured in the accident. She received a back injury which appears to be responding to therapy and may not

Lawyers Win Approval for Rights Body

WASHINGTON — Two law school deans — Spottswood Robinson of Harvard and Erwin Griswold of Harvard — won approval for membership on the Civil Rights Commission this week by seven to four votes in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The committee approved Beryl Bernhard for promotion to the position of staff director by the same vote.

The close vote in the committee was said to be a prelude to a floor fight to be led by Senators James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Sam Ervin of North Carolina.

Robinson, a former member of the national board of the NAACP, acted as attorney for the Association in Virginia for many years and was especially active in the school cases. Ervin argued that his appointment was tantamount to choosing a lawyer from one side to act as judge in a case.

The commission's authority will expire this year but it is expected to win a new lease on life before Congress adjourns.

Rob Williams Said Target of Racist Thugs

Reports reaching here indicate that two separate attempts have been made in recent weeks on the life of Robert Williams, president of the Union County branch of the NAACP and known as an outspoken foe of segregation.

Details of the reported attempts are lacking, but it is claimed that there has been an outbreak of racist attacks on Negroes following attempts to integrate the pool in Monroe, N.C. Shots reportedly have been fired at unarmed pickets.

Impatience Dominates NAACP Convention

PHILADELPHIA — "Every item on the civil rights program will get intensive treatment in the next year," Roy Wilkins, executive secretary, told the 1750 delegates attending the final meeting Sunday of the 52nd annual convention of the NAACP. Impatience with the slow pace of progress, Wilkins said, was the prevailing mood of the convention.

Addressing the same meeting, the 1961 Spingarn Award winner, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, psychology professor at City College of New York, warned Negroes not to settle "for the crumbs of justice," and inveighed against the "moral hypocrisy and equivocation of gradualism, tokenism and moderation."

EMPTY-HANDED

On Friday, a delegation of 60 NAACP leaders called upon Pres. Kennedy to urge him to issue a clear-cut call for Congress enactment of civil rights bills — but came away empty-handed.

Pres. Kennedy, instead, assured the group that he would continue to exert executive action to see that laws now on the books are enforced, and urged the NAACP to join the government in invoking such laws.

-- Faces Stiff Court Trial --

DENIES RIOT CHARGE — Willie F. Jones, right, accused of "lynching" during a Memorial Day melee at Griffith Park, denies he snatched a prisoner from police, denies knowledge of hitting anybody. He could be sentenced to 20 years in prison. He is shown with his attorney, Herbert M. Porter.

Loren Miller says . . .

HELP! HELP!

I need help. And I can't think of a better set of persons to give it to me than Chief William H. Parker and his statisticians. The trouble I'm in has come from poring over the figures showing the number of people who get killed in airplane accidents. I've been at this game for years but the arrival, and the crashes, of the larger and larger jets have aggravated my situation to the point where I'm willing to swallow my false pride and dump the whole matter right in the chief's lap.

In case you haven't noticed it, I want to call your attention to the fact that the overwhelming number of persons who get killed when landing gears fail or aircraft bump in mid air are white persons. Unless names fool me, a large share of that number are white Protestant Americans. For some strange reason that must irk those who like to collect figures on the basis of race and religion the airlines don't furnish us with the number of Negroes and Mexicans who die in these accidents but my own private calculation convinces me that non-whites contribute far less than their proportion.

QUICK WITH FIGURES

The reason I thought of Chief Parker and his numbers men is that they are quick with figures. Every now and then, they put out statistics, with what I gather to be some sense of pride, showing that Negroes furnish more than their share of people who wind up in jail charged with assault and other crimes against the person. The chief himself said at last year's Civil Rights Commission hearing that "genes" have some bearing on the figures. Genes, as the chief used the phrase, is a college word that conveys the impression that a person's race is a factor in the commission of crime.

I hope you see where I am now. What I want to know is whether or not the "genes" play some part in the fact that a disproportionate number of white persons get killed in airplane crashes and why it is that Negroes don't furnish their fair share of those who plunge to death. Of course, you can take refuge in the fact that a disproportionate number of those who ride the airplanes are white and that Negroes don't fur-

Pasadena Coed Gets 'Wings' as Stewardess

Diane Garrott, 20, of Pasadena, was graduating Wednesday morning in Kansas City, Mo., from a training course to fit her for the post of stewardess with the TWA; the first Negro on the West Coast to hold such a position.

After graduation, Miss Garrott, a student at Pasadena Junior College, was expected to return to Los Angeles for approximately one week before she is assigned to her flight.

Her father, Homer Garrott, of 1068 N. Wilson avenue, Pasadena, was flying to Kansas City to be present at the graduating exercises.

Mrs. Bertha Garrott, the attractive young girl's mother, said that her daughter had no difficulty at all in getting the job. She applied in May, was called to Kansas City for an interview and shortly after that was informed that she had been accepted.

After finishing her final exams at Pasadena Junior College, Miss Garrott went to Kansas City for a five-week training course.

The history of "a generation of California progress bound up with the 26 year legislative career" of Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins will be portrayed for the 600 persons expected at the testimonal dinner in his honor on Friday evening (July 28) in the Los Angeles Furnishings Mart.

Attorney General Stanley Mosk will be the keynote speaker on the dinner program, which will include the presentation of a citation by Ernest Debs on behalf of the County Board of Supervisors.

Also featured in the program will be Assemblyman Byron Rumford of Oakland, Lieutenant Governor Glenn M. Anderson, State Senator Richard Richards, Assemblyman Thomas Rees, Philip Burton and Robert Crown, and other civic leaders.

"Assemblyman Hawkins is called 'Dean of the Assembly' not alone because of his record length of service," declared the Testimonial Dinner Committee, "but also because of his pioneering legislative leadership in every field of public welfare."

Deliberate Fall from Car Injures Woman

A distraught young woman attempted to kill herself by jumping out of the car in which she was riding with her boyfriend last Thursday.

At Morningside Hospital, where she was treated for a possible fracture of the upper spine, Brenda Prudholme, 20, of 9547½ Defiance street, told police that she was sorry that she had not succeeded.

According to the report, Miss Prudholme went to Civic Center to talk to her friend Joseph Henry Pastelle, of 631 Santa Barbara avenue. He told her he could not talk to her at that time.

Later in the parking lot on Temple street, he found her waiting in his car. He said that he told her he was going to the Crenshaw area to buy a suit. They left the parking lot after she started to make a scene, Pastelle reported. Enroute to the shopping area, he said he requested that she take a bus because she was "needling him," but she refused.

Finding the store closed, Pastelle said he started to take Miss Prudholme home and when he made a left turn onto Arlington avenue, she threatened to jump from the car, saying she was going to kill herself.

He said he told her to go ahead, but he did not think she would.

She was apparently serious; she reportedly opened the door and started to jump. He slowed down the car and grabbed the back of her dress and belt, Pastelle said, but she slipped from his grasp and fell to the pavement.

Stab Victim Hospitalized

Hawley Booker, of 1522 E. 104th street, told police officers last Thursday that Andrew Carter, 43, a sandblaster, came into his home and told him he had been stabbed.

Booker said he drove Carter back to the place where he had been assaulted.

The injured man pointed out as his assailant Henry Sullivan of 11728 S. Antwerp avenue. Carter was taken to General Hospital by Clarence Williams of 10420 Antwerp avenue.

Carter's only statement to police was that "Henry at the butcher shop" had cut him. He was unable to make a further statement.

The victim remains in a serious condition with upper back wounds.

M.D.'s Sue Carolina Hospital over Bias

NEW YORK — A federal suit was filed last week in Wilmington, N.C. by Negro citizens who seek the use of James Walker Memorial Hospital in Wilmington on a racially nondiscriminatory basis.

The suit was filed by NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina, in Wilmington.

PATIENTS ALSO SUE

The plaintiffs in the action are three Negro physicians, Dr. Hubert A. Eaton, Dr. Daniel C. Roane and Dr. Samuel Gray, all of Wilmington, who are denied use of facilities at the hospital. Two other plaintiffs are Leland M. Newsome and Vernetta E. Hussey, who, if admitted as patients, cannot be treated in the hospital by their Negro physicians.

The plaintiffs charge that Walker Memorial Hospital "is in the nature of a public utility carrying out functions for the City of Wilmington and the County of New Hanover, and is, therefore performing state action subject to the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States"

The complaint points out that the hospital, chartered in 1901, receives annual contributions and tax exemptions from the County and City.

PATIENTS SEGREGATED

"Plaintiffs desire to be admitted to defendant hospital because the facilities there are the best in the locality and as residents of the locality they desire to have the same right as is accorded to white residents . . . " the complaint states.

A few Negro patients are now treated at the hospital, but they are housed in a separate building. When surgery is required, Negro patients are wheeled to the building where surgery is performed, and then returned to the segregated building, a practice not followed with respect to white patients.

Defendants named are Emory Grubbs, secretary of the Board of Managers of Walker Memorial Hospital, and the Board of Managers of Walker Memorial Hospital.

NAACP Legal Defense Fund attorneys for the plaintiffs are Robert T. Bond of Wilmington, N.C.; Conrad O. Pearson of Durham, N.C.; Thurgood Marshall and Jack Greenberg of New York City.

I tremble to think that my country's fate may depend on a president ignorant and stupid enough to think that the people of Cuba would rise up against the best government they ever have had merely because his Cuban mercenaries told them they should—Letter by Reader in New York Weekly.

HIGHER HORIZONS — Mrs. Ferrol Bobo Starks, director of Region VII of the National Council of Negro Women, presents an award for "Higher Horizons in Civil Rights" to Ed Blankenheim, Western field director for CORE. Blankenheim was among the first group of Freedom Riders, the group that was violently set upon by racists when their bus arrived in Alabama.

Chicago Race Fight Flares on Westside

CHICAGO—Race rioting contiues on the Southwest side of Chicago, despite the presence of some 150 policemen in the area of the Harrison High School.

The trouble started last Wednesday when a 17-year-old Negro student at Harrison was shot and killed. Negroes in the neighborhood believed the killing was a racist attack and tension has been mounting.

71 NEGROES JAILED

Since the killing of the youth, 71 Negroes have been arrested.

Police claim that some 20 white have been set upon by Negroes and injured. How many Negroes have been injured has not been reported.

On Monday a 17-year-old white youth on his way to work was reportedly grabbed by three Negroes about his age, dragged into an alley near the school, slashed, knocked down and kicked. Police said he was not seriously injured.

Officers arrested two Negro youths a half block from the scene. Police said one carried a tire chain and the other a bottle of wine.

TOUCH-AND-GO

There have also been a series of race disturbances at city-owned Rainbow Beach, from 75th to 79th street on Lake Michigan. There, however, the police have been able so far to keep the situation fairly well under control.

In contrast to the situation at Harrison High, most of those arrested at the beach have been white. There have been no reports of open warfare in that section, but the situation there also remains touch-and-go.

End Filibuster, Delegates Tell Congressmen

PHILADELPHIA—A change in Senate rules to permit the ending of a filibuster by a simple majority vote was the number one demand made by NAACP delegates in their visits to senators and representatives last week.

The NAACP legislative program, as outlined by Clarence Mitchell, director of the association's Washington Bureau, includes enactment of the following:

The potent Part III which, under the threat of a southern filibuster, was deleted from the 1957 civil rights bill;

An FEPC bill banning racial discrimination in employment;

Technical and financial aid to accelerate school desegregation;

Anti-lynching and anti-poll tax laws;

Legislation banning federal funds to any facility, institution or service which operates on a segregated basis;

Action to maintain the Civil Rights Commission as a permanent agency and Home rule for the District of Columbia.

NAACP Will Enlarge Board to 60 Members

PHILADELPHIA — Enlargement of the Board of Directors of the NAACP from 48 members to 60 was approved by delegates attending the Association's 52nd annual convention here last week.

The convention voted approval of a recommendation from the board to add new members, to achieve a more equitable geographical distribution of board membership, and to provide for greater youth representation.

1960 DECISION

The recommendations were drawn up by a board committee, headed by Kelly Alexander of Charlotte, N. C., pursuant to a resolution passed by the 1960 NAACP convention in St. Paul, Minn.

The new Board structure, to be initiated in 1962, provides for four classes of membership on the board as follows:

(a) Twenty-one regional members, three to be nominated and elected by each of the seven regions;

(b) Three youth members nominated by the youth section of the annual convention and elected by chartered youth councils and college chapters;

(c) Eighteen members at large, to be nominated by the convention - board nominating committee and elected by the branches as at present; and

(d) Eighteen general members nominated and elected by the board. All present members will continue to serve for the remainder of their three-year terms.

Eight Firms Pledge Ban On Racism

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Eight of the nation's largest government contractors have undertaken long-range programs to reemphasize and fully implement policies of nondiscrimination in employment because of race, creed, color or national origin.

In White House ceremonies, presidents of the eight companies, with more than 760,000 employees, signed joint statements with Vice President Lyndon Johnson, chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, setting out their own "plans for progress" in the field of nondiscriminatory employment policies.

President Kennedy described the event as "an historic step forward in the effort to secure equal employment opportunity for every American of every race, color and belief."

Company presidents signing the joint statements on behalf of their companies were: H. I. Romnes, president of Westc Electric Co.; W. M. Allen, president of Boeing Airplane Co.; D. W. Douglas, Jr., president of Douglas Aircraft Co.; Ralph Cordiner, president of General Electric Co.; W. B. Bergen, president of the Martin Co.; L. Atwood, president of North American Aviation, Inc.; J. L. Burns, president of Radio Corporation of America; W. P. Gwinn, president of United Aircraft Corporation.

Although the recession has been officially ended by Labor Sec'y Arthur Goldberg, America's steel industry is still only operating at 50 per cent of capacity and there are still about six million unemployed.

Child Injured in Fall Off Bench At Playground

Four-year-old Beverly Turner, of 402 E. 92nd street, was seriously injured last Thursday in an accident at a playground located at 439 E. 89th street at about 2:30 p.m.

Ruthie Deadman, 14, of 8901 S. Mettler, the little girl's baby sitter, said the child was standing on a bench near the office when she lost her balance and fell. She struck her head on an automatic water shut-off valve before she hit the ground.

Beverly was treated at Morningside Hospital for lacerations and head injuries. She was then released to her father.

Packing Toy Pistol, Thief Robs Market

A man brandishing a toy pistol demanded the money from a clerk at the checkstand of the Better Foods Market, 306 Florence avenue, last Saturday morning and left with $702 in cash — and a bag of groceries.

Richard Steward, 20, the clerk, of 4215 Kansas avenue, looked up as he was checking the groceries and faced a gun. He had no way of knowing the white-handled .25 automatic was a toy made of plastic.

CHASE SUSPECT

After the customer put the money in his pocket, he asked for his groceries and then left the store by the front door.

Stewart told two men who were near him he had been robbed. The two, John B. Presley and Tyrone Taylor, started in pursuit. At the door they were joined by John E. Kroppman.

They lit out after the suspect who was running down the alley between 75th and 76th streets.

When they got close to him, they tackled him. Kroppman had grabbed a club as he was running and began beating the suspect on the head. The suspect, in turn, picked up a garbage can and banged Kroppman over his head.

A crowd gathered to watch the fight. As they saw Kroppman swinging a club at the suspect's head, they began to scream: "Police brutality!"

When police arrived they found Edward Leon Woodard, of 708 E. 75th street, with a badly bruised head. He was taken into custody. He said he found the money in the street, grabbed it up and ran.

Cosmeticians Hold Annual Dawn Rites

The Pi Rho Sigma Chapter of Alpha Chi Pi Omega, the smallest, but one of the most energetic, chapters of the Greek Letter Sorority and Fraternity of Cosmeticians in the state of California, held its 11th annual Dawn Service last Sunday at 5:30 a.m. The impressive service was conducted in the beautiful glass Wayfare Chapel overlooking the Pacific ocean at Portuguese Bend.

Helping this prize-winning chapter of only eight members to celebrate and rededicate themselves to the chapter were Evelyn Jackson, state president; and Ruth Cunningham, anti-grand basileus of Los Angeles.

The beautiful landscaped garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Holston in San Pedro provided the scene for the breakfast served to members and guests after church service.

Husbands of the sorors were the honored guests. A special tribute was paid to Mr. Glosson for a perfect record attendance. He has never missed an affair given by the chapter during the past 11 years. Mrs. Pecolia Blake, a recent pledgee, was among those included on this popular chapter's guest list. Mrs. Willia Mae Glosson is basileus of the San Pedro chapter.

SOME DISH—A serene smile and cool appearance are always part of the picture when someone is making Orange Whipped Angel Food Pie. The cook can be serene because evaporated milk, which blends so easily and whips so well, makes extra smooth, creamy filling. She stays cool because the pie is made without ever turning on the oven.

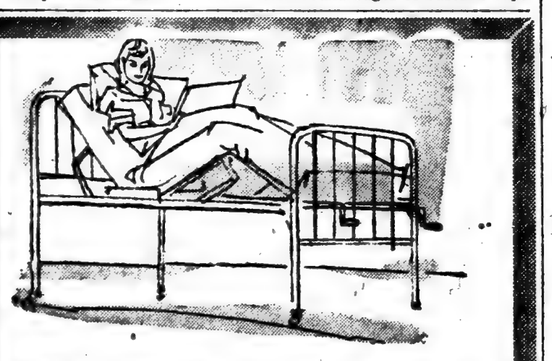
Delicious Summer Recipes With Carnation Evaporated Milk Made in Refrigerator

Experts say pie is America's favorite. Don't give up that favorite dessert just because hot weather makes baking unpleasant. Pies can be made in the refrigerator, with a special summer recipe developed in Carnation Company's home service department.

Orange Whipped Angel Food Pie, superbly smooth and creamy because evaporated milk is used, is made without ever turning on the oven. Crushed corn flakes make a crisp crust to set off the delicate, light-textured filling. The Pie is decorated with chocolate curls to make a smooth summer treat.

A lively-looking dessert at parties for small fry is Circus Party Treats. The Treats are a variation of the pie recipe, made with grape flavored gelatin in individual molds. The cool, creamy dessert will appeal to children, with animal crackers marching around the top of their own, just - the - right - size dish.

CARNATION INEXPENSIVELY SATISFYING



Inexpensive evaporated milk, because it blends so smoothly and whips so easily, is a versatile cooking ingredient that gives the two desserts below the smoothest, creamiest texture ever tasted. Carnation Company's home economists recommend using evaporated milk for making smooth sauces, creamy soups, and firm-textured, moist ground beef dishes.

Orange Whipped Angel Food Pie (makes 9-inch single crust pie)
1½ cups crushed corn flakes
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup melted butter
1 package (3-ounces) orange flavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅔ cup water
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 cup undiluted Carnation evaporated milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
CHOCOLATE CURLS

Mix corn flake crumbs, 2 tablespoons sugar and butter together. Line sides and bottom of 9-inch pie plate. Chill. Combine gelatin, ½ cup sugar, nutmeg and cinnamon; mix well. Combine water and 1/3 cup lemon juice. Heat to boiling point. Pour over gelatin mixture; stir until gelatin dissolves. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edge of tray (about 15 to 20 minutes). Whip until stiff (about 1 minute). Add the 2 tablespoons lemon juice and whip very stiff (about 2 minutes longer). Fold whipped evaporated milk into gelatin mixture. Spoon into chilled pie shell. Chill until firm (about 1 to 2 hours). Garnish with chocolate curls.

• Circus Party Treats (makes 8 servings)

½ cup sugar
⅔ cup water

WHAT'S DOING

D. L. Hodgins, your Telephone District Manager in Los Angeles

Is this the world's most popular machine? You'd think so, judging by the number of phone calls it gets—more than 100,000 daily!

It's called an Audichron. Just dial "time service" and it will give you the correct time every ten-seconds, of every minute, of every hour. In just one day, this adds up to 8640 announcements. Best of all, this remarkable machine never gets tired.

The Audichron is completely automatic. It's regularly checked with Naval Observatory Time for accuracy. Should it stop operating for any reason, there's a standby machine ready to take over immediately.

Providing the "time-service" is another way telephone people work constantly to make your telephone more valuable to you.

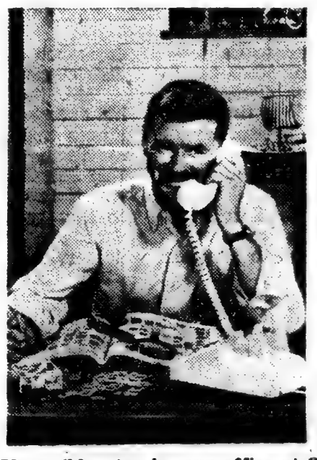
Beauty is more than skin-deep, to the people who make your telephone. I understand that they buy cosmetic chemicals in large, economy-sized truckloads.



Seems that talcum powder adds strength to plastics used in telephone parts. An industrial blend of rouge is used to polish metal parts to high lustre and close tolerances.

Peroxide—used when tinting hair—is also used by phone makers in tin plating solutions.

Paraffin, an ingredient found in lipstick, is used as a moisture-proof agent in underground telephone cables.

And, certain ingredients used in cold creams, skin softeners, soap and nail polish lacquers help give your telephone long life and lasting beauty.

People tell us that extension phones are enjoyed by everyone in the family.

If the new extension phone is in the kitchen, Mother finds it handy to her work area. Dad finds a workshop phone saves steps every time he has a call. And the whole family enjoys the privacy and convenience of a phone in the bedroom.

We'll put in as many extension phones as you wish, for the cost of installing one phone. Just call our business office or ask your Telephone Serviceman.

If possible, stop by our office at 3233 West Vernon Avenue to see our assortment of colors and modern telephone conveniences.

Segregation Root of All Evil

The pot called the kettle black last week when Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi yelled for the attorney general to step in and protect the lives and liberties of whites in Chicago.

Chicago has been going through one of its periodic crises in which racial tension flares into open violence. That's an old Chicago custom. It began with the race riot of 1919 and has progressed through the Cicero outbreak of a few years ago and the recurrent troubles revolving around public housing.

Despite William's anguished howls, whites have never got the worst of these flare-ups. Those who have needed protection have been Chicago Negroes.

Of course, the Mississippi congressman didn't think that it is necessary for the attorney general to step in. He knows that the state and city will stamp out whatever violence may happen to break out in Chicago. What he really wanted to do was to draw a comparison between North and South and leave the suggestion that wherever Negroes and whites come into contact there's bound to be trouble.

The truth of the matter is that Chicago's racial troubles and Mississippi's spring from a common evil: racial segregation. Chicago's residential segregation is the most intense in the nation. It breeds conflict between those who want to enforce it and those who want to be relieved of its incidents. Residential segregation was behind the race riots of 1919, the Cicero flare-ups, and the running battle over public housing.

When Chicago finds a cure for residential segregation it will put itself on the road to ridding itself of the racial troubles that mar its history.

The difference between Chicago and Mississippi is that Mississippi has more segregation than Chicago. It enforces segregation in public facilities, in places of public accommodation, in schools, playgrounds, and every other state supported institution. Racial conflict is more intense in Mississippi than in Chicago simply because Mississippi has more segregation.

The cure is the same in both places: erase the artificial color lines that divide the population and excite racial hostilities.

Increase the Number of Districts

Councilman Lemoine Blanchard's dandy little scheme to deprive the people of the Tenth District of representation in City Council by moving the district out to the Valley flopped last week when the city attorney held that the Charter wouldn't countenance the move.

However, we can expect the revival of the scheme when the time for redistricting arrives four years hence.

The fast growing San Fernando Valley undoubtedly deserves additional representation but there is no reason why it should have it at the expense of the people who live in the south central area of the city. Pursued to its logical end, the removal of the district would mean that Negroes would again be deprived of a councilman.

The nub of the matter is that Los Angeles needs additional councilmen. The arbitrary figure of fifteen was set when the city was about half its present size. As the matter stands today, each councilman is expected to represent about 180,000 citizens. No matter how carefully drawn, each district includes persons of diverse interests and outlooks.

The result is that no councilman can represent all of his constituents. What he does for some of them rebounds to the disadvantage of others.

It seems to us that the solution for the problem lies in the creation of four additional districts to give the city nineteen councilmen instead of the present fifteen.

A careful division of the city into nineteen districts would mean inclusion of persons of like interest in each of the districts and would give a councilman the maximum number of citizens he could serve adequately.

We hope that the new councilman from the 10th District, whoever he is, will take the lead in revision of the Charter to provide for nineteen districts.

Missouri Enacts an FEPC Law

It is said that there is more joy in heaven over the repentance of one sinner than over the salvation of ninety-nine just men. By that token Missouri's passage of an FEPC ought to draw more hosannahs than the passage of all previous FEPC's put together.

Missouri is a former slave state. It fell in line after Reconstruction and set up a rigid Jim Crow system extending from schools, upward or downwards, as the case may be.

A few years ago, and not many years at that, it was impossible for a Negro to eat a meal at a "white restaurant" or find room in any hotels in any of its cities.

The state has come a long way since the time Lloyd Gaines had to file a law suit in order to get a legal education in Missouri.

District Attorney Cecil Poole

Something new happened to California and the nation last week when Cecil Poole became United States district attorney in San Francisco. He is the first Negro lawyer in the nation to hold a job of this kind.

All of us can remember the days when the appointment of a deputy United States district attorney of the fourth or fifth rank was hailed as a great step forward. Few of us expected to see the day when a Negro would become THE district attorney.

Mr. Poole's past achievements and his devotion to public service are guarantees that he will do a good job. His appointment is another item of proof that Jim Crow's days are numbered and that the nation is slowly moving forward to that good day when race and color won't play any part in selections for public service.

Congratulations to People's

We're always glad to see a business institution come of age in Los Angeles and we want to extend our hearty congratulations to the People's Funeral Home on the completion of its new building on Central Avenue.

The new building is the realization of a dream of many years standing and People's was able to realize that dream because of the service it extended to the people of the community and their response to that service.

We hope that its next twenty-five years will be as fruitful as the past quarter of a century has been to the People's Funeral Home.

BATTLEAXE & BREAD

By Lester B. Granger

My friend is a precisionist—not only in his personal and business life but also in his consideration of the affairs of the world. Just as his desk is usually in such apple pie order as to impress me, whose desk generally looks like a hurrah's nest, so would he wish the world's problems to be arranged—neatly, in order of priority, with recommendations for solutions of each typed out and lying on the top of each pile.

So naturally, since he is a gentleman of color and has a deep concern about the state of race relations at home and abroad, he is mighty unhappy about the way in which racial problems are handled.

ON-LOOKERS SUITED

We were standing on the corner of a mid-Manhattan street the other day when his unhappiness exploded in a most startling exhibition of profanity — startling, because ordinarily my friend is as quiet in his speech and manner as he is precise in his habits. But in this case, knowing his predilection for tidiness, I completely forgave him.

Another gentleman of color, driving up Sixth Avenue in a white Cadillac car, came to a stop at the traffic light nearly in front of Radio City Music Hall. His car was a convertible and the top was down. He was attired in sport shirt of garish hue. The greater part of his resplendent locks — carefully pressed and heavily oiled—was covered with the lineal descendant of what was once the old "stocking cap," now inelegantly called a "head rag."

The head band, which theoretically kept the gentleman's hair from flying in the breeze, was itself grease-caked—had evidently been used and over-used long past the maximum sanitary time-limit. The white car was impressive, its driver was a sight to behold; naturally the sidewalk standers-by looked and commented and smiled, and looked again.

BEMOANED SPECTACLE

This was the reason for my friend's explosion—not the fact of the car and the driver, but the fact of the attention both inspired on one of mid-Manhattan's most crowded street corners. He could talk of nothing else for the next ten mintues; the experience spoiled his share of the excellent lunch to which he had treated me. He bemoaned the impression that the spectacle must have created among the Manhattanites and visitors who watched it; he expressed the wish that some way could be found to keep such spectacles from being repeated.

Finally, I called time on him. I asked him if he really thought he could handle a problem of public education in the same way that he handles the business of his insurance clients.

I asked him what it was that he objected to—the fact that the driver owned (or had borrowed or rented or stolen) a white Cadillac? Or that he drove it downtown in the office and theatre district? Or that he was dressed if he were a farmhand in town for his Saturday night shopping-and-fun? Or was he objecting to the fact that sidewalk onlookers sniggered and pointed at the contrast between driver and car?

JUST RELAX

When my friend declared that he objected to all of these, I pointed out to him that he may as well relax and resume the process of pleasant digestion, because there was absolutely nothing that he, as an individual, could do about a problem as old as civilization and as slow in its solution as the flow of molasses in January. He was unhappy, I reminded him, because a recent peasant still exhibited peasant behavior in a highly urbanized environment. "Be unhappy all you want," I chided, "but don't blame the poor guy for still being a peasant when his social environment is framed so as to keep him so."

My friend sputtered in protest. What did I mean—framed to keep him so? Look at the free schools and the YMCA and the example of well-dressed people that Manhattan affords any newcomer. All the fellow had to do was watch and imitate.

REJECT SOCIETY

By now I was becoming a bit hot under the collar, myself, but I continued my tone of sweet reasonableness, I asked my friend when it was that he began to like taking baths and shaving every day. I wanted to know how old he was when he began to modulate his voice into the rounded tones that sell life insurance.

I reminded him that all social behavior is predicated upon a system of rewards and punishments. Kids become civilized when they find it pays to be so. Adults develop good manners when good manners bring them friends and recognition. The urbane, cooperative society is a partnership from which its supporters and participants profit.

When people are excluded from society's benefits, they respond by rejecting society's standards and setting up their own—including hair-conking for males, rumbles for frustrated youth gangs, sloppy job performance for the insecurely employed and mangling of the King's English by people who are taught better in school.

I told my friend that I agreed with him that peasant behavior in the city does handicap the progress of an urban Negro group, but the answer is not to shrink away from the unsophisticated chap who is "doing what comes naturally," but rather to speed the pace of his growing sophistication. The kind of job that he finds and holds, the recognition that comes to him for observing the accepted norms of social behavior, the extent to which discriminatory living patterns are revealed and destroyed, the way in which the self-confidence of Negro adults and youth is built up—these are the ways in which people of any race (in this case, my race) are encouraged to take hold of the tools and standards of urban living.

By the time we had reached my office and parted, my friend's digestion process had begun again.

Loren Miller Says . . .

nish their fair share of the riders. If you do I'll come right back with the question of how come it is that Negroes don't ride the airlines in the same proportion as whites.

EASY PROOF

If you are as smart as I think you are you will confound me with proof that the airlines attract the middle class and upper class travelers and that Negroes furnish less than their proportion of such persons. It follows that proportionately fewer Negroes will ride airplanes and that, as a consequence, a smaller proportion of them will get killed.

But I am not going to let Chief Parker off the hook with that kind of a reasonable explanation. I can marshall evidence to show that poverty, frustration and bad living conditions crowd a disproportionate number of Negroes into situations that breed crime. But the chief won't have it that way when he gives out his figures. All he says is that Negroes furnish more than their share of certain criminals; I'm going to stand on the fact that whites furnish more than their share of persons who get killed in airplane crashes. I want him to explain the crash figures on my basis since he asks me to accept his figures on his own terms.

HEAVY HANDED

If you have followed my heavy handed humor this far you can see that it is just as silly to say, without explanation, that a disapproportionate number of Negroes commit crimes of a certain sort as it is to say that a disproportionate number of whites get killed in airplane crashes. Neither set of figures has any meaning, standing alone.

And if you want my honest opinion, I see no more reason for collecting figures on the race of persons who commit assault than gathering statistics showing the race, creed and color of those who burned to death when the DC8 landing gear failed in Denver last week.

be as severe as at first reported.

Miss Clark and her mother have both been removed to the Wheatley Hospital, 1826 Forest street, Kansas City, Mo., and are in the same room recuperating together.

BOY UNHURT

Libby's nephew, Terry Jackson, son of Jeri Rancifer, was in the car with them but escaped injury.

Mrs. Rancifer reported that Libby expected to be in the hospital for about one more week before returning to Los Angeles. She reported also that Libby seemed to be in fine spirits.

The accident occurred when Miss Clark's car was smashed into by another auto. Libby was in the front passenger seat and was thrown head forward through the front of the car.

Heard this desperate announcement in a supermarket: "Whoever lost the Great Dane, please come to the meat department right away."

NAACP Gets No Assurance From Kennedy

chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, told the President:

SOURCE OF DISMAY

"The concern of your administration for basic human rights is as encouraging as it is unmistakable," but then he added:

"The absence of a clear call from you for enactment of civil rights legislation has been a source of dismay to those working for civil rights.

"In view of the specific and unequivocal pronouncements of the platform on which you were elected, and in the light of your own promise of last fall to employ legislative action also to achieve civil rights goals, there is grave concern over the prospect that, without support from the White House, there may be no Congressional action on the urgently-needed bills."

VISITED LEGISLATORS

After the conference with the President, Wilkins described Kennedy as "most cordial and sympathetic" but referred inquiring reporters to the President as to his intentions on civil rights legislation.

Members of the White House delegation were among 1250 delegates who boarded a 22-car Freedom Train from convention headquarters in Philadelphia to the capital. There they visited senators and representatives, as well as Pres. Kennedy.

Among those who visited the President were Joseph G. Kennedy of San Francisco, Dr. H. Claude Hudson of Los Angeles, and James E. McCann, also of Los Angeles.

IMPATIENCE

Summarizing the activities of the week, Wilkins stated that the unmistakable mood of the convention had been "one of impatience with the slow pace of integration in American life and one, too, of impatience with the time-worn and transparently invalid excuses for that pace."

Wilkins said this mood was reflected by both youth and adult delegates, those from the Deep South as well as those from non-Southern members. "They are proud of what their association has done," he said, "but they are determined to accelerate its activity in every phase of the civil rights struggle."

One of the resolutions passed by the convention was one denouncing "separatist" movements. Although the Muslims were not mentioned by name, it was clear that they were included in the resolution that stated that the NAACP is unalterably opposed to all separatist programs whether advocated by southern segregationists or espoused by non-white racist organizations.

The convention pledged continued use of "tested instruments of democratic progress and reform, namely, assembly, petition, demonstrations, the ballot, the courts of law, organized purchasing power and mobilized public opinion." It disavowed "hate, violence and separatism as instruments of social reform and racial progress."

The convention also supported Sit-Ins, Freedom Rides and "selective purchasing power" programs. In supporting the Freedom Rides, the resolution asserted, "we do not require our members who participate in them to choose jail rather than bail, but leave that decision to each individual member concerned."

Delegates voted to hold the 1963 convention in Chicago and to meet in Washington in 1964. The 1962 convention, as approved last year, will meet in Atlanta.

In other actions, the association honored Father Theodore R. Gibson, Miami minister who faces jail for refusing to reveal NAACP membership lists; awarded Kivie Kaplan Awards to branches that led in obtaining $500 Life Memberships; and voted to enlarge the Board of Directors to 69 members.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor:

I have read in several newspapers that some Federal loan and savings associations are giving away prizes, from Blue Chip stamps to Lincoln cars, and even a trip to Hawaii. I wish that some of ours would do the same. I am sure many more people would open accounts with these companies. I have passed some of them and people are in these really opening accounts.

I only hope some of ours will do the same, and I am sure if one will start it some of the others will follow suit. It pays to advertise. All in favor of the idea, please write to the California Eagle, stating the same.

Charles D. Wherry.

Only St. Peter Knows!

An Editor knocked at the Pearly Gates,
Her face was scarred and cold:
She stood before the man of fate
For admission to the Fold.
"What have you done?" St. Peter asked,
"To gain admission here?"
"I've been an editor, sir," she said
As she shed a quiet tear.
The Pearly Gates swung open wide,
St. Peter touched the bell—
"Come in," he said, "and choose your harp, You've had your share of hell."

Manley claims he received the blow when he was struggling with Jones. Jones insists he was hit first and that he doesn't remember hitting anybody.

'FULL FORCE'

One of the officers admitted that he hit Jones on the head with his club with "full force," according to the record of the preliminary hearing. Jones apparently made no attempt to run. He submitted to arrest.

McLemore was accused of shouting and egging on the crowd. He is also accused of hitting an officer, James N. Johnson, on the head with a thermos bottle. One officer, however, testified that the object that hit Johnson was hurled from the rear of the crowd. McLemore, Atty. Porter claims, was in the front of the crowd near the cers. He, too, reportedly put no resistance when the police rested him.

It was at about this point the crowd began throwing to toes, beer cans and bottles. Lemore was one of those who hit by the debris.

The incident occurred at site of a merry-go-round in park. Some teenagers w "stealing" rides. They repor ly were hopping on at one of the carrousel, hopping again when they came aroun the spot where the collector picking up tickets.

4 Youths Stabbed, Beaten in Gang Figh

Harbor Receiving Hospital arrived. In the meantime, officers at University Station did what they could to help the half-concious boys.

Both youths were transferred from Receiving Hospital to General Hospital where Steven Tilly underwent an emergency operation. He was placed on the critical list, but his condition had improved by Sunday night. Steven lives at 208 W. 62nd street.

STABBED IN BACK

Also taken to General Hospital with abdomen and chest wounds were James Cooper, 18, of 3753 Arlington avenue, and Timothy Fields, 20, of 1931 S. Harvard blvd., who was stabbed in the back.

Police said the gangs fought with knives, tire irons and sticks. Seven youths were later booked at University Station.

Police reports state that Steven and Don Dougherty were walking down Vermont avenue in front of the school when a white car drove up and seven members, believed to belong to the Dodge City gang jumped out. One of them was said to be Chinese.

They reportedly approached Steven and Don and asked, "Where you from?"

'They're Gladiators'

Before they could answer, one of the gang said, "Sure, they're Gladiators," and began jumping on the two youths. It was the Chinese youth who reportedly hit Don on the back of the head with a tire iron until he fell to the ground.

One of the youths arrested was Herman Lee Hibler, 17, of 856 W. 56th street, a student at Manual Arts.

He told police that he and a friend were sitting in a car when they saw several autos drive up. They got out of the car and went to the steps in front of the school auditorium where, he said, the Gladiators meet daily.

Greater Harvest Service Filmed By Cameraman

During the recent engagement of the Moiseyev Dance Company at the Shrine auditorium, the members of the troup and the cameraman, Anatole Koloshin, visited the New Greater Harvest Baptist Church, 5409 S. Western avenue as the guests of Rev. T. M. Chambers, Jr.

The cameraman said that this was the first opportunity he and his friends had to see and film a religious ceremony in a Negro church in the United States.

The pictures which were taken will be used as part of an American film which will be shown throughout the Soviet Union, later showing the true picture of life in America, as he saw it on the tour.

"The churches of the Soviet Union are well attended," Kolsoshin said, "the denominations include the Greek Orthodox, lic, Jewish, Moslim and Baptist."

He said further that he felt the cultural exchange program is of great importance to better understanding between the people of the East and the West because "one can see with one's own eyes the actual conditions under which people live without the planned information offered by bureaus," Kolsoshin went on. The Moiseyev group would not play to segregated audiences in the United States, he said.

"The human quality of the American people, their warmth and hospitality is not unlike that of the Russian people, who he said are not interested in another war because practically every family has already lost some member to war and of the 216 million people, 20 million have already been killed in past conflicts," he said.

Boycott Set for Rams-Redskin Game

By EDW. "ABIE" ROBINSON

Fair-minded Los Angeles football fans should think twice before they purchase tickets for the Los Angeles Times Charity game on Aug. 11 between the L.A. Rams and the Washington Redskins.

CORE of Los Angeles and Santa Monica has already voted to take the lead in a mass boycott of the game. They in turn will invite the NAACP, the Western Christian Leadership Conference and church group to join the demonstration.

This is not an overnight condemnation of the annual game. The Los Angeles Times Special Events Department three years ago was asked to do something about it. They did. They renewed the contract and extended the annual game another five years.

George Preston Marshall, Redskins' owner, has openly stated that he isn't interested in Negro players; but apparently is interested in Negro money. This being true, Negro fans should see that he takes very little of their cash back to Washington, D.C.

If the officials of the L.A. Times had taken a moment to ask various Negro leaders what they think of the Washington Redskins and the renewal of the contract, they would have saved themselves a heap of trouble. Everyone is convinced the game will go on as scheduled, but under a cloud of bitterness and resentment, and that resentment will carry over to other L.A. Times-sponsored events such as track meets and races.

The Times knows the history of George Preston Marshall all too well and they also know that for the past 15 years, the Redskins have been the worst team in the National Professional League. The reason is Marshall's stubborn refusal to permit Negroes to wear a Redskin uniform. His refusal not only deprives his coaches of valuable material; it also deprives Negro football players of employment.

The L.A. Times in the name of decency should want to give the customers the best and if their idea is that the Washington Redskin game is the best, they had better make a closer check on the advance ticket sales.

It's strange, but Negroes are not alone in planning to stay away from the Redskin game. Whites who are used to football know that Negro players are among the NFL's biggest stars.

A well organized national boycott is scheduled to greet the Redskins in every big eastern city they play this season. This will certainly hurt the home team attendance but fans feel if the NFL big brass can't get ole George to change his ways, then they will stay home and, it will only be a matter of time before the top brass is faced with the big question; get rid of Marshall or suffer the same fate as boxing, when crowds started falling off.

This is the era of Freedom Riders and Civil Rights Rallies such as the one that attracted the 40,000 people besieged the Sports Arena recently to cast their vote to end segregation in all its evil forms —and not tomorrow or the next day. They want it ended today.

The Times will yell that the boycott will hurt the Southern Area Boys Club which they built from monies raised from their charity programs, but you can answer this with "We'll send the money for the price of ducats to the Boys Club direct. And unless the Times comes up with a satisfactory statement as to policy on continuing playing with the Redskins, I'm boycotting every event they sponsor and even dropping my Sunday morning subscription and I'm hoping you will do the same.

George Ramsey

RACING WITH RAMSEY

Dapper George Ramsey one of the nation's outstanding handicappers and turf writers is off on his annual vacation. Happy times George.

DEL MAR—Donald B. Smith, president and general manager of one of the most beautiful courses in California announced the 22nd summer season of the fame sea side course commencing on Tuesday, July 25 and continuing through Tuesday, September 12th.

HOLLYPARK — Charity week at Hollywood Park will be climaxed Saturday (July 22) by America's first 100-grander of the year for two-year-olds, the $100,000 added Hollywood Juvenile Championship at six furlongs.

Topping the field for the big race will be the winners of three recent two-year-old stakes at the Inglewood track. They are Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Nelson's Snappy King, winner of the Westchester Stakes; Rancho Rio Hondo's Indian Blood, who won the Haggin Stakes, and Maine Chance Farm's Gun Glory, victorious last Thursday in the Charles S. Howard Stakes.

America's biggest charity racing week of the year is now being conducted at Hollywood Park, which will wind up its record 55-day season Monday (July 24) with the $75,000 Sunset Handicap at a mile and five furlongs for the older handicap stars as the feature.

Secretary of the Interior Warns Marshall Second Time

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall issue his second warning to the Washington Redskins last week. Meaning that if owner George Preston Marshall doesn't have a Negro player by the start of the National Football League season he'll take steps to bounce them out of the Washington stadium.

The Redskins and New York Giants are scheduled to open season play Oct. 1. Udall told newsmen last week that if the "status quo"—meaning owner George P. Marshall's policy of no Negro players still is in effect in the Giant game—the Interior Department will take steps to prevent future Redskin use of the stadium.

Udall has contended that the Redskins practice racial discrimination by not using Negro players. Since the new stadium is a federally - owned Facilities) he says this makes federal anti-discrimination laws applicable in this case.

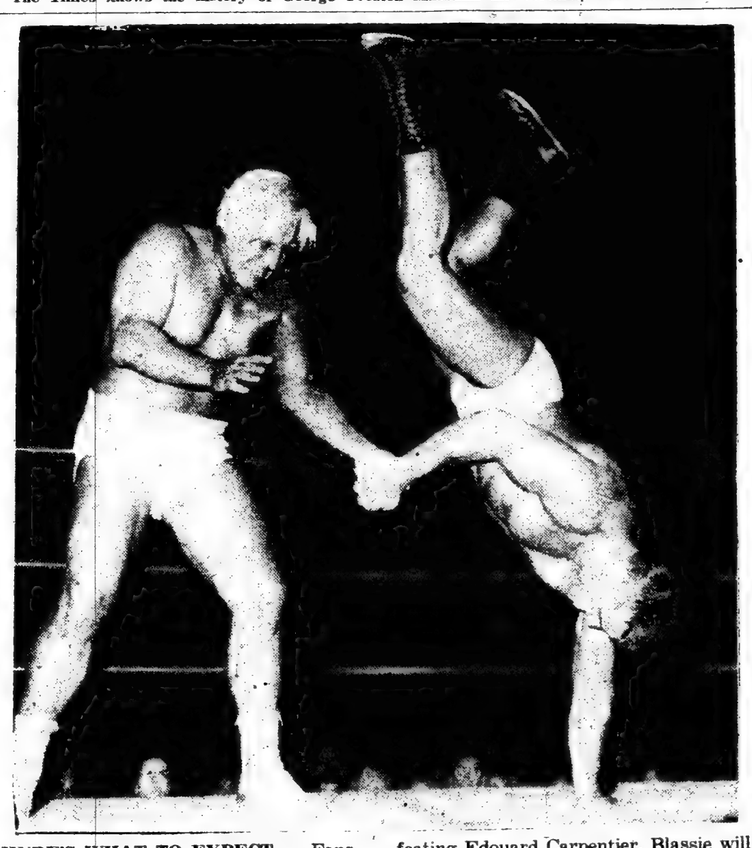
Marshall, in the city for the annual Los Angeles Times charity football game, will be greeted with a mass picket line when the Skins launch practice drills at Occidental College's Patterson Field on Friday, July 21, at 10:00 a.m.

CORE and other organizations are calling for a full boycott of the annual football game to give strength to Udall's contention that Marshall does practice racial discrimination, and to show that the L. A. Times is equally as guilty for bringing the Redskins here for the Aug. 11 game. Earlier this year Udall warned Marshall what to expect when the new stadium is completed. Marshall in the meantime hasn't issued a mumbling word.

National All-Star Dump Americans

James Jenkins of the National Little League All Star team twirled a 14 to 0 shutout victory over the American League Allstars in the annual game at Rancho Playground last Saturday afternoon.

The Nationals were too much for the Americans as the Nationals jumped on losing pitcher Ronnie Lewis in the third inning and nicked him for three runs.



From then on the nationals big bats sparked with little Willie Franklin providing the sparks by getting four for four, two doubles and two singles driving in four runs. Viewing the annual game was Malcome Gilliam a visitor from Rahway, New Jersey and an outstanding Little Leaguer in his own right. He is the son of Dodger Junior Gilliam and is on the coast visiting his famous father.

Eddie Pace Scores Kayo Over Ramirez

Eddie Pace of Santa Monica decked Frankie Ramirez twice last Thursday night in the third round of their scheduled 10-round main event in the Auditorium to win by a knockout.

Pace, tipping the scale at 157, connected with a wicked right which caught Ramirez flush on the jaw and down he went for an eight count.

Two minutes, and twenty one seconds of that same round referee George Latka tolled the full 10 count after Ramirez was belted through the ropes and onto the apron.

Freddie Blassie Defends Heavyweight Wrestling Tilt

Freddie Blassie of Atlanta will defend his newly won world heavyweight wrestling championship against former titleholder Lou Thesz Friday night at Sports Arena.

Former world heavyweight boxing kingpin Jersey Joe Walcott will referee the two hour, three fall mat skirmish.

Blassie captured the coveted crown June 12 when he rendered France's Edouard Carpentier hors de combat.

Thesz, one of wrestling's all-time greats, held the title up to 1959 when he lost it to Carpentier.

Walcott is regarded as a top notch referee. He doesn't stand for any unnecessary rough stuff. It was ten years ago this month Jersey Joe knocked out Ezzard Charles to win the heavyweight bauble.

Backing up Blassie and Thesz is one of the best cards ever signed. The Amazing Argentine Rocca has been flown in from New York to meet the hooded Preacher in one of the top matches.

The fabulous Tricky Ricki Starr, a prime favorite of Southland fans, will go against Aldo Bogni in one of the leading bouts. Another former ring champ, giant Primo Carnera, will also be featured on the program, meeting Mike Sharpe.

In a special tag team match, Alberto and Ramon Torres take on Mr. Moto and Angelo Savoldi.

The show gets underway at 8 p.m., and there is NO television. Tickets on sale at the Sports Arena and Olympic are priced at $5, $3.50 and $2.50, tax included.

Rams Training At Redlands U.

Sixteen rookie candidates, each one firmly convinced he can beat the hot sun, the odds and a returning veteran out of a job, opened the Los Angeles Rams training camp at Redlands University last Monday.

The rookie party, led by head coach Bob Waterfield and his staff, will take physical examinations and drew equipment on Monday, then cavort for cameramen on Tuesday before being joined by the balance of the squad, 33 veterans, on Wednesday.

Tyrone Price Back to Watch In Shrine Tilt

Ask any Catholic League football coach and he'll tell you that St. Anthony halfback Tyrone Price, who heads the South forces against the North in the 10th annual Shrine Football Classic July 26 at the Los Angeles Coliseum, isn't very fast and isn't too powerful, but that he'll beat you every time.

St. Anthony coach Leo Haggerty agrees that Price, 6-0, 184, isn't too swift and won't bowl over anyone. But Leo doesn't hesitate to call Price the best back he's ever had.

"He has great balance, excellent hands, is deceptive and makes up for his lack of speed with a quick getaway," says Haggerty.

Price is known as a "thinking" player. He generally makes the right move at the right time, is in the right place at the opportune moment and comes up with the big play when it's needed most.

In the rugged Catholic League campaign, Price gained 759 yards in 75 carries for a 10.1 average, scored 16 TDs and caught 11 passes for 333 yards and five touchdowns. All this despite the fact the opposition set their defenses especially to stop Tyrone. Even so he surpassed his junior record of a 9.0 average and 13 tallies.

Price was All-CIF in both football and basketball (15-point average), and starred in baseball.

Manchester Playground Host Clinic

Hoop stars of the future at Manchester Playground, 8800 South Hoover Street, will receive instruction from three top-flight pros from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Friday (July 21), when the incomparable Elgin Baylor; Tom Hawkins, the Los Angeles Lakers' hard-driving forward; and rookie Wayne Yates will conduct the fifth in a series of 14 summer basketball clinics slated at municipal play centers.

Lakers' Coach Fred Schaus has worked out a schedule so that the players named above and Rudy LaRusso, Ray Felix, Frank Selvy, and "Hot Rod" Hundley take turns appearing at each clinic, with not less than three members of the pro squad assigned to any one session.

Carver Teams Make Clean Sweep in Meet

Coach Milton Swan's powerful Carver Junior High track team made a clean sweep of the All-City Junior High track meet held at Wilson last Friday.

Carver has won the title nine times during 14 years. This year they entered teams in the Open Division, Limited Division and Sweepstakes. All three teams went out and won city titles.

Compton Dons Play Two Tilts At Cressy Park

Compton Dons of the Pioneer Baseball League are scheduled to play a doubleheader this Sunday afternoon at Cressy Park in Compton. The Dons, who are tied for the loop lead with an 8 and 2 record, hope to take over undisputed leadership in the league following Sunday's game.

Steven Hall, a new addition to the Dons' pitching staff, fashioned a nifty 9 to 2 win over Rosemead last Sunday.

Teddy Fowler, UCLA's brilliant outfielder, made his bow with the Dons and the first time at bat rapped out a home-run, scoring two runners.

Teammate Ezell Singleton, another Bruin baseballer, will pitch the first game of the double bill this Sunday.

Big stars in last Sunday's game included Al (Babe Ruth) Manter, George McQuarn and Cleo Harris.

'Tee Time'

Maggie Hathaway

California Eagle Golf Editor

ATTY. HERMAN ENGLISH—Seen dashing out of his private entrance at "English's Square" to the driving range to practice the lessons that Charles Sifford (his private pro) gave him before leaving the city. There is only one office vacant in the "Square" and it is so beautiful we are trying to rent it for our next golf club meeting.

DR. WELLES FORDE — Spent his vacation in Scotland, playing all of the original Scottish golf course. You would be surprised to know what he shot and he will be surprised to know that the score card he gave us is now posted on the bulletin board at Western Ave. When you play there take a look at a picture of the world's first golf course.

RAY BOTTS — Wrote cards to "Tee Time" from every golf course he played in the past two months. He is the youngst Negro professional to embark on the PGA tournament trail.

CHARLES SIFFORD—Dropped us a line from Winnipeg, Canada. When Sifford left to join the PGA pros he was bedded with the "Flu Bug" and is just returning to the tournament line-up. The "Sifford" that you read about playing in the City Men's Championship at Griffith Park was Charles Sifford's nephew.

EARL REASON—Knowing how militant he is, we thought he would be interested in knowing that we never receive any mail from his publicity department. It is not true that we are not interested in Negro golf clubs. It would be impossible to forget that the $300 sent to us from Cosmopolitan aided us in defeating segregation in Women's Publix.

AMERIC HADLEY — You will be surprised to know that the Western Ave. Women (Negro and Caucasian) have integrated. We appealed to you for help six years ago and you informed us that there was no segregation at Western Ave. Recently we appealed to you to give the sports writers a pass to public courses and you informed us that the only people entitled to these privileges were politicians, the daily press and VIP's.

If this is true, why is it that every Monday morning we find a press release on our desk from the City Recreation and Park Dept.? Maybe the weeklies are important or should we meet with our new mayor and consult him on this question?

VERNONCREST GOLF CLUB —It is no less than fair that we let you know that we just received an offer from one of America's largest organizations to aid us in picketing you if you insist on sponsoring your Labor Day tournament at the private public Fox Hills Golf Course. It will be tragic to picket our own race; but you must awaken.

EARL MARTIN — He has indicated that he is ready for another meeting with us. He said, "I will never hire a Negro if you attempt to force me to put one in my pro shop and I am going to take Charles Sifford off my payroll." We didn't even know that Sifford was on his payroll and we care less for token integregation. Earl has forgotten that seven years ago we tried to get him to hire Sifford (before he became famous) and he said he did not like Sifford's personality but would consider Teddy Rhodes. (At that time Rhodes was residing in Chicago and playing in the LA Open once a year.)

Citywide Finals Tourney On Tap

Citywide finals in the 1961 Playground Boys and Girls Table Tennis Tournament will get underway at 10:30 a.m. today Thursday (July 20) at Queen Anne Playground, 1240 West Boulevard.

Competing in the finale will be winners at last week's (July 10-15) neighborhood - playground eliminations staged at play centers throughout Los Angeles.

Sonny Liston Suspended Indefinitely

Charles (Sonny) Liston, regarded as the top heavyweight contender, was suspended indefinitely by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission last Friday and was immediately banned throughout National Boxing Association territory.

Liston will be unable to get license any where in NBA territory while the Pennsylvania and NBA bans are in force.

The big crack down came as a result of Liston's two brushes with the law within the past two months. The Pennsylvania Commission ruled his acts were detrimental to boxing.

Liston has a chance to have the ban lifted within a period of three to six months provided he conducts himself and he was told by the commission how to go about applying for reinstatement.

GREEK THEATRE LOCAL CULTURAL CENTER

BALLET LUMINARIES — Patricia McBride and Edward Villella dance a sparkling duo from Tchaikovsky's romantic "The Nutcracker," which will have a brilliant full-length production by the star-studded New York City Ballet Company in the Greek Theater of Los Angeles at 8:30 Friday through Wednesday nights, Aug. 4-9, Sunday included. Currently through Saturday, July 29, Harry Belafonte and Miriam Makeba are performing before capacity crowds who are making this the greatest season in the Greek Theatre's illustrious 9-year history.

WORKING—Redd Foxx will be one of the stars to appear with Lon Fontaine's Cotton Club '62, opening at The Summit, jazz nightclub, July 25th, for a four week engagement. The revue, direct from New York and Miami, will also star The Jubilee Four. Bill Doggett is The Summit's attraction to July 23rd.

PRETTY PACKAGE—Drinking-pure water in a paper carton is now available to Southland consumers as the result of a new packaging concept introduced this week by Arrowhead and Puritas Waters, Inc. Los Angeles. Pretty Joyce Stevens, above, displays the new container with its inner plastic water-tight bag.

People and Places

HILDEGARDE BOSTIC — She and escrow officials are huddling and papers have been signed on a plush Baldwin Hills cocktail lounge!

BOB FERRIS — Noted KNX newscaster did a splendid half hour on the Exceptional Children Opportunity School the other eve and Juanita Macklin Mitchell has been beseiged with calls for tickets about the Moonlight Fun Cruise being sponsored by the school to raise funds and if you missed getting yours you better hurry because the ship sails July 29!

SAM HAMERMAN — Jefferson High dedicated principal will shake up a lot of people when they announce that he'll be transferred to Hollywood High!

HOT RACE — Its sorta-confidential with Gus Hawkins having to give up his worn out rocking chair in the assembly in a bid for a seat in congress. You're going to see candidates spring up like wild mustard for that seat. Our choice would be Lucille Ashford if she is interested. She's been pitching in the Eastside community since heck was pup and has kept her job in the P.O. so she couldn't be bought!

JOHN ALSTON — Eagle's Golf editor Maggie Hathaway rushed in the office the other eve shouting the praises of our fine Sepia officers and the alert manner

Ninth Season Offers Finest Summer Events

Culture is found at all levels and comes in small to large packages, from the soloist to the huge ensemble, but the elaborate professional events are so expensive to produce and to present that they must draw their auditors from a large area. In this respect, the Greek Theater of Los Angeles is the focal point for topflight entertainment for all of Southern California.

MOST INSPIRATIONAL

Now well into its ninth season, under the general direction of James A. Doolittle, the Greek Theater has become one of the world's most inspirational summer theaters. It has consistently brought to America outstanding attractions from the free world, such as the Grand Kabuki and the Fujiwara Opera from Japan, Les Ballets de Paris, the Royal Danish Ballet and, to climax the current season, the Greek Tragedy Theater Company from Athens.

PROFICIENT PERFORMERS

Also it has offered each season the greatest American attractions of music, dance and revue, such as the New York City Ballet, Harry Belafonte Johnny Mathis, Nat 'King' Cole and many others. To have this beautiful amphitheater in our midst is a source of pride to every culturally-minded citizen in the area. Unlimited free parking is provided, nevertheless, it is suggested that patrons of the arts secure tickets well in advance.

Phil Gordon Makes the New York Scene

Well, I am planning to meet the Pan American Airlines Flight No. 151, at Idlewild, when Mrs. Elizabeth J. Miller and her newly adopted son, arrive from Monrovia, Liberia. Mrs. Miller has been working in Monrovia for almost two years as the private secretary to one of the cabinet ministers, who also owns a construction company and hotel. Mrs. Miller was formerly executive secretary to the National Director for the AFL/CIO in Washington, D.C. I should have some interesting facts about the true African scene after my chats with Liz, and I shall pass them along to you in my next.

SWINGING SUMMER SOJOURN

The highlight of my restful weekend at Utopia Lodge was finding my good friend and that fine singer and entertainer, Miss Betty Roche, working the spot and doing her usual excellent job.

Went by Rainbow Acres for a quick one, and looked over this very homey resort spot enroute to Peg Leg Bates spacious and most interesting Country Club.

WEEKEND SOIREE

Incidentally, the Coordinating Council For Negro Performers, is having its Annual Summer Weekend Soiree at Peg's and Rainbow Acres, on Saturday and Sunday, August 5th and 6th, and this should be a boss affair with all the talent involved; singers, dancers, actors, musicians and all sorts of entertainers, performing and just generally having a ball. We shall see.

GARDEN GOES GOSPEL

One of the highlights of this week will be the big gospel show at Madison Square Garden, paying tribute to Rev. Martin Luther King, and headlined by Miss Mahalia Jackson.

GORDON PLAYS HOST

Took L.A. singer, Hannah Dean and her girlfriend, Dorothy Shumate, to WCBS one morning to catch the Jack Sterling Show, and enjoyed the live music of the quintet, featuring the top musical talents of Tyree Glenn, playing vibes, trombone, drums and banjo. Gabbed with Tyree, and saw to it that Hannah, who is a Columbia Recording artist, met Jack. Left there and went to WNEW, where I introduced Hannah to the star dj, William B. Williams and record librarian, Dick Willard. Hannah will be working with Jon Hendricks at VITALLY NEEDED—MTA BILL SIGNED—Gover- (center) has signed Assembly Bill Edmund G. Brown 2643, enabling the Metropolitan Transit Authority to proceed with plans for rapid transit. Shown with the Governor are, from left, Assemblyman Charles H. Wilson, one of the authors of A.B. 2643, and A. J. Eyraud, MTA Board chairman. Eyraud revealed plans for a meeting in Washington this week with members of the Southern California congressional delegation, adding: "Our next step is to secure financing for the initial route of an areawide rapid transit system. This will be low-interest, long-term financing which will be self-liquidating and will not be a burden on the taxpayers. We now are not talking studies. We are talking construction of a system."

So Proudly We Hail...

A SALUTE TO THE PRESIDENT—Talented Technician Theodore Brison, recorded for posterity the 15th anniversary celebration of DOOTO RECORDS and AFFILIATED FIRMS, highlighted by the presence of our esteemed commissioner of police, Everette M. Porter, Attorney-at-Law, who took time out from a herculean schedule to personally congratulate Dootsie Williams, proficient president, and civic-minded citizen whose importance to our community is ever increasing.

NOTES OF AN INNOCENT BAR-STANDER

It's been the way a lot of our readers have always suspected about us. We've been going out every night and making the scene. This is not usually the situation, but we have put our foot in the path this last week or so and we're exhausted.

Sunday a week ago there was that swinging 15th Anniversary Pawtee at DOOTSIE WILLIAMS home for his DOOTO recording company. Now that party really defies description. The overflow crowd was as colorful an assemblage of Angeltown as you would expect to see anywhere.

If we listed all the "names" of those attending we would be here until the dawn, and we would probably fail to mention somebody we love. And that somebody would love us no more because of the omission. So we'll just say it was a smart, swinging-up-to-date affair and we hope to be around when DOOTSIE pours again. We will mention, however, that our "guests" or the people who accompanied us were attractive ERNESTINE HANKS (who had permission from her spouse TOMMY to go along) and that playboy of the western world, CRAIG MORRIS! . . .

We caught the opening of "COTTON CANDY" at the theater on Ivar Tuesday. Besides the first nighter celebs who attended, about the only real impression we got was BETSY MORELAND JONES' performance. This gal's thesping has a whole lot of moxie! We attended our first STAR PREMIER Thursday night. It was for that off-beat ROMAN flicker "LA DOLCE VITA" and we strolled along the inside ropes with TONY CURTIS and his wifie JANET LEIGH, CHARLEY LAUGHTON and his ELSA, DOROTHY MALONE and her French spouse JACQUES BERGERAC, etc., but the gal who won our heart at the affair was SHELLEY WINTERS who is a real down "chick" and says it is possible that she will work in "The Death of Bessie Smith" if that producer at the Beverly Hills playhouse decides to make a go of it! . . .

We strongly recommend you seeing "La Dolce Vita" . . . It's not exactly a baptism of fire as you may have heard, but it has a moral message that should be heard if you're pro or again this sort of sin. Dancer ARCIE SAVAGE from our locale has a brief part in the picture, and that lets you know that Archie isn't letting any grass grow under him in Italy!! . . .

Friday night we escorted Mmes. LIL CUMBER FISHER (wife of Doctor FISHER and PEGGA HAWKINS (wife of the Assemblyman GUS) out to the SUMMIT to catch BILL DOGGETT'S OPENING. He was just too much, and his singer JOHNNY JACKSON could be the most talked about male vocalist in this column for weeks to come. Why? —Cause he's with it in every respect. Talent, looks, personality and graciousness, and he's scheduled to make it, and we want to be the first or at least one of the first who told you so! . . .

We checked into the INTER-

The President Speaks:

"We here at Dooto," says company president Dootsie Williams, "are proud of the progress we've made in the first 15 years of our existence. We don't mind confessing, that the extent of our progress has exceeded the fondest dreams we harbored when we began business. And we are cognizant of the fact that we owe great gratitude for our progress to the millions of people who've purchased our records, to our loyal staff. From the beginning, we have concentrated our attention on Negro talent, Negro material—striving always to provide an opportunity whereby Negro talent could express itself and, thereby, capitalize on its value in the open market of American competition. We have come a long ways in this objective. In the next 15 years, we hope to achieve a greater success — the kind of success which will make our company even more worthy of your support." —DOOTSIE WILLIAMS—

PAST: Dooto Records was founded by Dootsie Williams 15 years ago. Its first concentration of attention was on music in the rhythm and blues field. But Williams, a keen businessman, soon discerned the value of recorded comedy. He and Dooto became pioneers in this now-booming field. During these 15 years, Dooto has achieved a matchless balance in its catalogue—including rhythm and blues, comedy, jazz, modern jazz, and gospel music. Affiliated firms have been added in music publishing and motion picture production.

PRESENT: Today, Dooto Records is one of the largest independent recording companies in the nation — regardless of concentration. This status has been achieved through the ability of its president, Dootsie Williams, to fathom trends, discover new talent, merchandise imaginatively and affect proper distribution. Currently, Dooto produces more albums than any other Negro firm, is the largest Negro firm of its kind in the United States.

FUTURE: The future presents a challenge for Dooto. In an effort to meet it, the company already it projecting plans for a new plant. Its research staff is busy studying new manufacturing methods, trends in public tastes. In addition to recordings, affiliated firms plan greater activity in music publishing and motion pictures. Dooto is constantly searching for new talent, new material, and specialists who can aid the company materialize its plans for the future.

HUNDREDS VIEW PEOPLE'S FUNERAL HOME

SETS PACE FOR COMMUNITY—The glamorous new building of the People's Funeral Home was formally opened last Sunday afternoon. Some 700 persons inspected every well appointed nook of the building during the open house ceremonies. A masonic dedication ceremony will be held on July 30. (Adams)

Dream Mortuary Opens, Community Salutes Staff

When the hour of 3 p.m. approached last Sunday, a crowd had already gathered for the grand opening of the new People's Funeral Home, at 4250 S. Central avenue. The whole building was filled with people from all walks of life who where complimentary about the decor, the design and appointments of the ultra-modern building, recently built by a firm that has been a "time tested satisfaction guaranteed service team," for more than 20 years. The new dream mortuary staff was saluted by the community.

When the hour of 7 p.m. arrived the line still formed at the reception desk to sign the two bound guest books with pens which each hostess offered as a souvenir of the occasion. Some 700 people followed the guides through the offices and slumber rooms where lovely caskets were on display and everywhere beautiful floral tributes for the living made the interior of the rooms glow with color.

ORCHIDS

Plants of every size and discription were banked in the air-conditioned chapel and in the reception room. Orchids topped floral offerings and each woman member of the firm and the wives of the officials wore a large orchid. Among the honored guests was Irma Hopkins, the widow of the late Norman W. Hopkins who was one of the founders of the firm and his daughter, Mrs. Faye Duffy, the wife of Dr. Willis Duffy, second vice-president of the firm.

Hostesses and hosts wore blue and white carnations as identifying insignia. In the parking area, golden punch was dispensed from a silver fountain. Umbrella tables and chairs added color to the area.

Promptly at 5:30 the brief program opened with George Beavers, of Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, serving as master of ceremonies. He was assisted by Atty. Ivan Johnson, III. Rev. Clayton D. Russell pronounced the invocation and the benediction.

WORK TOGETHER

Those who could not crowd into the chapel heard each speaker clearly over the loud speaker system and were able to see the proceedings over closed circuit television.

A. A. Robinson, president of the firm spoke briefly on behalf of the staff and told of the problems involved in getting enough people together to make the new building dream a reality. Each person contributing to the designing, building or decorating of the plant was introduced and applauded by the audience.

Henri O'Bryant Explains Pastorial Aid to Business

"The ministers in our pulpits have the power to reshape the social and economic conditions of our times", was the charge of Henri O'Bryant, California State Supervisor of Baptist Laymen Leagues and President of the O'Bryant Uniform company in Hollywood.

Speaking at the annual Men's Day celebration of Greater First Baptist church, 1300 E. 57th street, O'Bryant pointed out that we are lagging in our approach to first class citizenship because we fail to possess the economic ability required of first class citizens. "The approach to first-class citizenship cannot only be found in "sit-ins," "walk-ins," nor in "Freedom Ride-ins," it also must be sought through economic "put-ins."

MONEY TO BUILD

"We must put more money into the hands of our business and professional men and women so that they can build the type of economic structure capable of moving us out of a consumer position to a producer state," O'Bryant added.

"The pastor of a church has the position and the power to create a climate of acceptance and appreciation for the business and professional people of our community." It is the preacher's moral responsibility to refute the ill spread propaganda that we are incapable of producing, as well as consuming.

"Poverty is the one factor keeping us a second-rate citizen."

LACK OF INCOME

"In a city like Chicago we make up less than one-third of the total population, and yet, we account for more than two-thirds of the inmates in the penal institutions. Of all families on county relief, 72 percent are Negroes, and we make up 70 per cent of public housing tenants. In the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Baltimore, St. Louis, Washington, D. C., and Los Angeles, these grim figures repeat themselves," O'Bryant pointed out.

Malnutrition among our young; the large number of "run-away" boys and girls, and the great rising tide of juvenile delinquency can be traced directly to the lack of family income so vital to keeping a family together.

LEADERSHIP

"The minister of the church must assume a leading role in bringing about a "Do it yourself" search for first class citizenship.

"Many of our ministers have already caught this vision," O'Bryant concluded, "and are showing their congregations the importance of building a strong economic society."

O'Bryant was introduced to the large Men's Day gathering by Rev. Roger R. Williams, pastor of Greater First Baptist church.

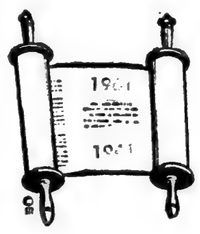
The climax of the fourth anniversary of the Rev. Timothy M. Chambers Jr., was reached when his father, Dr. T. M. Chambers, pastor of Zion Hill Baptist church, mounted the pulpit and with inspired eloquence dedicated the New Greater Harvest Baptist Church, 5409 S. Western avenue, to the service of God as a place of worship for all believers.



Following the dedicatory service he preached the closing anniversary sermon which lifted the standing room only audience to its feet in spiritual ecstacy and moved his son to tears of humility and gratitude. The son in "whom I am well pleased," sat in the seat of honor beside his Godmother, Mrs. Beatrice Cherry and heard his father preach on the "Conquering Faith," seen from the seven angles—Seeking, Relying, Assuring, Overcoming, Moving, Climbing and Adventurous Faith. He pointed to the application of these seven rules by his son who in four short years had purchased a church for his congregation which grew from 40 borrowed members to approximately 2000 followers of his leadership on the path to Christ.

Among the worshippers at the end of the week-long anniversary observance was Mrs. Pauline Reynolds, former owner of the Carlton theater.

★★★ PEOPLE and PLACES ★★★

July 30th, has been tentatively set for the initial date of such an event.

BIG IDEAS — That ex-Water and Dept. employee who rose from a basement office into a desk in the County Building is nursing the thought of running for the congress!

THE BOSS — There are some very influential people who would like to see his name as a candidate for congress!

GUS HAWKINS — Grass Rooters are saying the veteran politician is busier than a one armed paper hanger on a windy afternoon making calls!

ELLA MAE REASNOR — When she attended City College back in 1938 she was a Graves and she is a mother of a Little Leaguer and knows enough about baseball to become a coach!

JITTERS — Cracking of a big burglary ring involving 12 persons has several Baldwin Hills and Viewpark residents shaking in their boots.

BOB de COY — He perhaps doesn't know it but the Questionettes Club will salute him when they hold their annual affair at the Beverly Hilton, for the terrific job he's done with the "This is Progress", program!

BETTY CLARK — When the Hangover and Elbow Benders Softball League stage their final games of the season, she will salute them at a cocktail and brunch at the Clark Hotel on Sunday, July 23 from 7 p.m. until 10!

ROSE TALLEY — Her husband's sudden death while on a fishing trip with fellow workers overseas completely shook up their friends. She was set to leave this Friday to join him!

GRAND OPENING — Those bus riders heading for Las Vegas for the opening of the new Carver House included some newsmen and must not be confused with the Freedom Riders. Instead they were free loaders!

PEGGY LONG — The pretty Dorsey High grad and 10th best

'CHAZZ'

MISSION BOOM on West Adams Friday night to catch vocalist JEAN SAMPSON and her trio just before JEAN leaves for LAS VEGAS to open at the EL MOROCCO this week and the El Morocco is just catacorner across from the CARVER HOUSE that bows in inter-racially this week with BILLY ECKSTINE as a owner and SAMMY DAVIS, DEAN MARTIN, and FRANK SINATRA as well as the press scheduled to appear for the opening. . .

On the bill with thrush JEAN SAMPSON at the El Morocco is LAVELLE BAMBI, professionally known as "MISS BAMBI" and she called us just before she took her flight out to say she had picked up some more abbreviated gowns at a Hollywood costumer that will make the men in the audience wish they were dead unless they can move up ringside. That BAMBI is a wild child! . . .

We caught that next to closing show of "FLY BLACKBIRD" at the Metro theater Saturday night and the audience stood up and cheered that great, great cast, and screamed for encores. The Fly Blackbird cast and their fine material is about the best thing that has happened to this town since it was emancipated. It was our fourth trip there, and how many times did YOU see Blackbird? . . .

We sat in the same row and chatted briefly with lovely KIM HAMILTON at the Cotton Candy play, and we can never get over her quiet poise, her cool beauty, and the fact that she is such a talented brown woman! . . .

NICHELLE NICHOLS planed out for New York to take over the femme lead in "Kicks and Company" to be stage played on Broadway this year.

THELMA OLIVER, who played "Big Betty" in "Fly Blackbird", AL WILLIAMS, and IVAN DIXON have already been set for roles too! . . .

DAVIS ROBERTS set for a three week guarantee role in TENNESSEE WILLIAMS "Sweet Bird of Youth" film now rolling at Paramount . . . MGM is beckoning SAMMY DAVIS, Junior, (and we still call him Junior somehow) to portray himself in the motion picture they want to do on his life. It will be called simply "Sammy" . . . CAPITOL records suing FRANK SINATRA feeling that his new album "Swing Along With Me" is too close in every detail with his last release for them called "Come Fly With Me" . . . .

Aside to A. S. "Doc" YOUNG: Comic DICK GREGORY spoke even further to us newsfolk of our hue and the other group, too. Some of the "other group" have their shortcomings, too, in Dick's opinion. 'Frinstance one Hollywood scribe after attending Dick's local opening itemed in this pillar that Gregory was "one of the two funniest men alive" and quickly pointed out to Dick that he really considered him THE funniest comic, but made the provision so as not to injure the feelings of any other of his comedian pals. Dick says the eastern writers "call 'em like they see 'em". Dick's guest column for us was really to boost us more than knock us.

JOE LEWIS — Top director at South Park is attending the famed Claremont Workshop series to enhance his efficiency in running a playground at all levels — and he is a big hit at the Workshop!

DOOTSIE WILLIAMS — When friends can't catch the record maker at his Homeland avenue home in Viewpark he is probably holed up in his other rambling home on upper Broadway; he plans to keep both homes!

MARY WELLS — The curvy raven haired blues singer who made the big hit, "Bye, Bye, Baby," has another sure-fire hit in "I Don't Want to Take a Chance," on the Motown label. The flip side which is, "I'm Sorry," should move you also!

student in class just received a letter from UCLA accepting her enrollment. She is the daughter of John Long Jeff. Hig's top teacher!

ALMA GRAY — Winsome Librarian from Baltimore is the attractive eye catcher visiting her brother John C. Long and attending UCLA's institute of French studies.

he took in the annual All Star baseball game in the Bay Area!

PLAYING IT STRAIGHT—Harry Adams' mother's younger son, Hunter H. Adams, Jr., returned with his own wife and family a natural riot, from the windy city where he is a Post Office supervisor, to spend a month with sponsors, his proud parents; brother, Harry; sister, Katherleen King; friends and solvent acquaintances.

LIBBY CLARK'S FRIENDS — Immediately upon learning of newsgal Libby Clark's serious accident requiring over 200 stitches, plastic surgery and months of hospitalization and recuperation, plans were put into motion for greatly needed financial assistance. Sunday afternoon,

FIRST DAY HOLIDAY

Joined lovely Laura Prescott, along with Mr. & Mrs. John Velasco, Aubry & Margaret, Alfreda and the gang at little Margaret Glanville's as we helped celebrate two birthdays, Margaret Glanville's and Margaret Thompson's. We had such a ball that we are going to repeat tonight at Alfreda Robinson's, with a gumbo and fish-fry added attraction.

VISITING CALIFORNIANS

Mickey Kennedy, the distaff side of Dr. Ralph Kennedy from Talmadge, California, is visiting N.Y. (her former home) and having a ball, with her daughter in tow. Mickey is the house guest of Mr. & Mrs. Frankie Nichols.

Dorsey Track Star Killed As Car Hits Tree; Girl Injured

Hayward Gary Taylor, 18, known to his friends as Gary, member of Dorsey High School's track team who won several medals as a high jumper, was killed instantly Friday afternoon when his car swerved at the corner of Rimpau blvd. and Hickory street and smashed head-on into a palm tree.

KILLED—Hayward Gary Taylor, Dorsey High sprinter, was killed instantly Friday when his car smashel into a palm tree.

INJURED — Vernelle Thomas, graduate of Mt. Vernon Junior High School, was seriously injured Friday night when the car in which she was a passenger crashed into a palm tree.

Critically injured was a friend who was riding with him, 15-year-old Verneille Thomas, of 5342 Greer street.

GROUNDS FOR HOPE

The young girl, a graduate of Mt. Vernon Junior High who planned to enter Dorsey in the Fall, was rushed to Orthopaedic Hospital where she was found to be suffering from two broken legs, a broken arm and a fractured skull.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roy, young Verneille hovered between life and death for many hours but on Tuesday the resident physician gave grounds for hope.

He said she was still on the critical list but was improving and was now experiencing periods of consciousness. The outlook, he said, was "much better."

FUNERAL TUESDAY

Funeral services for Gary were held Tuesday from the Angelus Funeral Home. Rev. L. L. White, pastor of Holman Methodist Church, officiated.

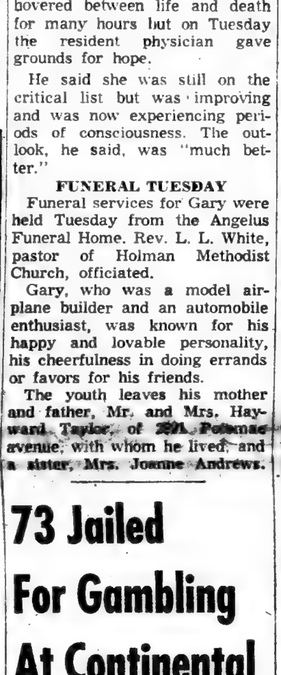
Gary, who was a model airplane builder and an automobile enthusiast, was known for his happy and lovable personality, his cheerfulness in doing errands or favors for his friends.

The youth leaves his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Taylor, of 2971 Potomac avenue, with whom he lived, and a sister, Mrs. Joanne Andrews.

73 Jailed For Gambling At Continental

Seventy-three men were carted off to jail following an early morning raid Saturday on the Continental Club, at 7300 S. Vermont avenue.

Most of those arrested were charged with gambling or being present while gambling was in progress.



200 RELEASED

Some 200 others, who were dancing in the main room of the club when vice detectives and a special task force of 30 other policemen burst into the building, were not held.

Clifford E. Johnson was arrested for interferring with officers during the performance of their duty.

FOX AND GEESE

I pretty nearly laughed my head off when Grandpa first told me the story about old Sis Goose. It seems that Sis Goose was having the time of her life swimming around in a country lake when a Fox showed up and announced that he was going to eat her for using his water without his consent. Sis Goose allowed as how she thought that was a pretty shabby deal and demanded that she get the full benefit of the law in such cases. After some hemming and hawing the Fox agreed to call the sheriff.

When the sheriff showed up, Sis Goose had the shock of her life. The sheriff was a fox. But she decided to go along and accompanied the Fox and the sheriff to the court house. She did a double take when she looked up and saw that the judge was also a fox who looked suspiciously like the brother of her tormentor. She went along with the gag and demanded a jury. That did it. The jurors were also foxes. Grandpa said he reckoned I could guess the outcome.

SAME OLD STORY

I wasn't down there but I am willing to guess that the Freedom Riders who left Second Baptist Church for a tour to Mississippi got just about the same treatment as Sis Goose. When they got there a policeman was on hand to meet them and introduced them to due process of law as it is applied in Mississippi. I am sure he had the same kind of sympathy with the Riders as the Fox had for Sis Goose.

When the Riders stood on their constitutional rights and demanded a proper trial in the proper court they got what they asked for—a trial before a judge who had as much compassion for them and their carryings-on as Judge Fox had for Sis Goose. They got the full measure of equal law enforcement—$200 fines and 120 days in jail.

The fox and goose version of law enforcement is, of course, standard down in Mississippi and other places way down south. The

Pasadenans Determine to Get Jobs

'Freedom Callers' Plan Drive on Stores, Banks

Pasadena Negroes are tired, very tired, of having to look elsewhere for jobs, unless they're prepared to hire out as janitors or servants.

The mood of protest against discrimination that is in the air in California, just as it is in Mississippi, has hit Pasadena and has given rise to two separate and apparently totally independent attacks on Jim Crow.

BECOME 'CALLERS'

One is being sparked by students who were inspired by Rev. Martin Luther King and the recent jam-packed Sports Arena rally. They couldn't enlist as Freedom Riders, so they decided instead to become "Freedom Callers." They call about jobs.

The other stems from Pasadena business men and professionals who formed the Non-Partisan League of Pasadena about two years ago.

With Turner Alexander, business man, as president, the group has conferred with city officials on jobs for Negroes and on housing for Negroes, especially

Group Urges City Council Appointment

Los Angeles should get in step with democratic practices in other California municipalities and with other large northern cities through an appointment of a Negro to fill the vacancy in the 10th District, the city council was told Monday by a delegation of more than 50 community leaders.

Addressing the Council as spokesman for the Committee on Representative Government, Wendell Green pointed out that there are Negroes in the city councils of Bakersfield, Berkeley, Richmond and Seaside and that Negroes sit on governing bodies in all northern and some southern cities.

LETTER SENT

Meanwhile, all councilmen had received a letter from eight applicants for the council post urging such an appointment and denying that the naming of any individual would subject councilmen to "reprisals" or criticism of any kind.

The letter was signed by J. Edward Atkinson, Charles N. Chapman, Tom Bradley, Herman K. Barnett, Cage Johnson, Robert L. Gilmore, Herman Clements and George Thomas, all of whom have filed applications for the job left vacant by the election of Charles Navarro as city controller.

In their letter to councilmen, the signers of the letter said that they were "motivated by the belief that the appointment of a qualified Negro will serve the best interests of the city at large and will result in direct representation of a large segment of the population which has lacked such direct representation."

ALL SATISFIED

Spokesmen for the candidates said that they had sent the letter in response to criticisms that there were too many Negro applicants and that the appointment of any one of their number would

Civil Service Post Given to Dr. Henderson

Appointment of the Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, pastor of Second Baptist Church, to the Los Angeles Civil Service Commission by Mayor Sam W. Yorty drew a chorus of praise from civic and community leaders this week, all of whom agreed that the appointment was one of the most significant ever made in city government.

A graduate of Oberlin College and Virginia Union University, the Rev. Henderson has pastored Second Baptist Church for more than 20 years. Prior to his assignment here he pastored churches in Philadelphia, New Rochelle and Atlanta. He was named recently by the MacMillan company as one of the nation's 25 leading ministers.

Special August Sub Offer

Throughout the month of August, the California Eagle is offering a special subscription price of only $3 for one year, 25 per cent less than the customary low subscription price of $4 for 52 issues of the oldest Negro newspaper west of the Mississippi — and, according to many of our readers, the most informative, the most challenging.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find a subscription blank. Fill it out, type or print your name and your address, including zone number, attach $3 and send it in to the California Eagle, 2101 W. Vernon Avenue, Los Angeles 8.

Remember the special is for August only—$3 for a full year.

'Too Tan' Reporter Can't Rent House

The friendly spirit Pasadena shows each year during Rose Bowl festivities is merely a perennial facade when it comes to everyday house renting.

Residents advertise in newspapers and in signs to the public for house sales and house rentals.

ISSUE SHADED

But when it comes to the actual business negotiations all brotherly love disappears and the issue becomes as shaded as the tree-lined avenues and boulevards of this quiet California city.

This fact was learned last week when two new arrivals to Los Angeles from Detroit tried to rent a home at 1669 Casa Grande avenue in the college-air city.

William C. Lane, new reporter with the California Eagle, went with his wife Nancy to the Casa Grande address to meet the owner, a Mrs. Taylor, after reaching her by phone at SYcamore 7-2621. The Lanes had seen a large "For Rent" sign posted on the expansive lawn in front of the spacious brick bungalow while driving through the city.

ELDERLY, LOW VOICED

Mrs. Taylor told them when they phoned she had not planned to rent to a family with children, but that she felt her plans could be changed since the Lanes had their own furniture. Mrs. Taylor asked Lane if he would drive her back to her hotel after the showing of the home. It was agreed.

Upon arrival at the Casa Grande address the Lanes were admitted by Mrs. Taylor, an elderly, white-haired woman of seasoned grace and low voice.

She went about showing the house to the couple, explaining that she had moved to a hotel where she spent her retiring time with other ladies her age, "playing bridge and gossiping like we girls do."

BUILT-IN TAN

But throughout the showing Mrs. Taylor kept regarding Lane with a quizzical scrutiny. She would shy away when Lane would ask a question about the house.

Finally, when the owner was alone with Mrs. Lane, who is Jewish, she asked, almost in a whisper:

"Dear, your husband seems to have a heavy tan. Is he . . .? What kind of a tan is that?"

Coldly, and looking the woman straight in the eyes, Mrs. Lane said:

"He has a built-in tan. He is a Negro."

WANT NEGRO COUNCILMAN — Some 50 Negroes appeared before City Council Monday morning to let councilmen know they want a Negro appointed to the vacant 10th District seat. Among those present were: Dr. Theodore Jackson; Matt B. Burton, secretary of the Morning Star Baptist Church; Rev. P. J. Ellis, president of the Baptist Ministers Union; Joe Jones, president of Laborers' Local 300; and William McCrory.

KILLED IN BLAST — Popular Questionette member, Mrs. Rose Fernandez, expecting another baby in two months, was killed instantly last Tuesday, when the boiler in her home exploded. She is shown with her husband, Herman Fernandez, injured in the blast, but recovering, but still suffering from shock.

BABY DIES — Baby Angela Fernandez, 3, died Friday morning from injuries received when the boiler at her home exploded. She is shown with her brother Ricardo, 5, who received only minor injuries.

Child Succumbs After Fall from Grandma's Bed

Police were called to 1409 E. 43rd street about 11:30 p.m. Monday when a neighbor checked on six-month-old Cherie Gibson, strangely still after crying intermittently all day following a fall from a rollaway bed. The child was not breathing.

Police found the child lying on her back, dead. The side of her face was swollen.

The mother, Mrs. June Trotter, told police that the child had fallen from the bed at her grandmother's home, but appeared to be all right. They had not summoned a doctor.

Water Heater Explosion Kills Mother, Baby

A place in the sun. A home he and his wife, Rose, prominent member of the Questionettes, could call their own. That was all Herman Fernandez wanted. And he had worked hard to get it. That was what Rose wanted, too.

Fernandez' dream had all but come true until fate rushed heinously into his life last Tuesday and with an ear-shattering blast reduced his dream home to wreckage and snuffed out the lives of his wife and tiny daughter, Angela.

STATE OF SHOCK

Today, Herman Fernandez, 38, lies in a state of shock in General Hospital. Nobody talks to him about what happened. He knows, all too well. It's just that talk would not help. The cruel, gnawing thoughts and memories are there behind his blank stare.

It happened about four o'clock last Tuesday afternoon. Herman was standing in the backyard of his stucco bungalow at 1418 S. Curson avenue, purchased [illegible]s than a year ago. He had been cleaning up empty carton con-

Fifty young people gathered in a garage at the corner of Alley 18 and Olympic blvd. in Santa Monica last Friday night for a party which reportedly has a 15 cent admission fee. Before the evening was over, police had arrested 42, including eight or 10 adults.

Neighbors had reported to the police that a wild party was in progress accompanied by loud, profane language, and fighting accentuated by bottle throwing.

Police officers sought to disperse the party. Then Roger S. Williams, 19, reportedly became belligerent and rough and officers

Laborers Give Four Students $1000 Awards

By C. MARIE HUGHES

Laborers' Local Union 300 sponsored a scholarship award dinner last Saturday night at Raffles Restaurant on Degnan blvd.

Honor students who were the recipients of the $1000 scholarship awards were: Cecila Melendrez, Barbara Ann Pino, Caryl Lee Rose and David Oles. Each is given the option of attending the school of his choice.

Forty or more invited guests attended this worthy organization's banquet which included the parents of the students honored for their outstanding scholastic ability.

Pioneering in the field of education, Local 300 has become a pace setter with its student scholarship awards. It has successfully carried on this educational program for the past five years.

Mike Quevedo, financial secretary, told the group the Union is proud of its integrated members, a cross section of minority groups with a racial, rural and urban background.

The parents of Michael Wolfson were privileged to hear their son eulogized by toastmaster Dr. M. Carson, a professor at UCLA, in his absence. Michael will receive his award as soon as he is permitted to return to Los Angeles. He was among the last group of Freedom Riders jailed in Jackson, Miss.

Mrs. Mary Tinglof, Board of Education member and guest speaker for the evening, said time is no longer with us, that all of us must dedicate ourselves to the welfare of all peoples—wherever they may be.

The union is thriving under the able leadership of Joe Jones, president; Robert G. Washington, vice president; and Mike Quevedo, financial secretary.

Smash-Up Proves Fatal

Conrad Evans, 47, of 4113 S. Hooper avenue, died about midnight Monday without regaining consciousness following an accident a week ago Sunday on the Hollywood Freeway. At the time of the accident, at about 11:30 p.m., he was sitting in his car which was parked on the apron of the freeway just East of the Vineland avenue ramp.

A motorist whom the police say was drunk struck the car as Evans sat waiting for his brother-in-law, Herbert Ferguson, to return with gasoline for the stalled car.

Freedom Riders Trigger Integration in Fort Worth

When Fort Worth Negroes learned that Freedom Riders from the Second Baptist Church of Los Angeles were passing through their city, they turned out in force "to offer moral support for the testing they thought we were going to do," and incidentally succeeded in integrating the cafeteria, Marilyn Eisenberg, one of the group, wrote to friends in Los Angeles.

Her blow by blow account tells of the trip to New Orleans. Another letter, received from Atty. Jean Kidwell, tells of the miserable "maximum security" conditions to which the Riders are being subjected in Jackson jails, the summary manner in which they were tried and the charge of assault levelled against one member of the group.

8 MINUTE TRIAL

"We are now in the County Jail in Jackson," she writes.

"The trial was held yesterday —20 defendants. The trial took at most seven or eight minutes. We were convicted of the crime of breach of the peace and sentenced to four months and $260.

"We can work off the fine at $3 per day, which would merely add 66-2/3 days to the four months. We are informed we will be released January 23, 1962 unless bailed out on giving notice of appeal within 40 days."

MAXIMUM SECURITY

Because local facilities are inadequate, Miss Kidwell continues, the county authorities "have leased a portion of the penitentiary — the maximum security section reserved for persons convicted of the most heinous crimes.

"The conditions remain in effect for us, although we have been convicted of a misdemeanor."

The trial for assault of one of the Second Baptist group was held immediately after the misdemeanor trial of the 20 and surprisingly ended in acquital. Conviction would have meant a year in prison plus a fine.

TRIGGERED ACTION

Miss Eisenberg, writing of the integration at Fort Worth, Texas, after she learned what had happened, says: "It is funny that everyone, including the local authorities and sit-inners think we are responsible for this integration, but we only triggered it off by passing through."

She tells of the anxious moments as they arrived:

"We are pulling into the depot. There is a very large crowd here — lots of newspaper and radio people. We are worried. The bus is about to stop. There are flashlights on us from the photographers. This is fantastic.

"We walked through the crowd into the cafeteria. . .

"The Negroes seem to be staging a sit-in which we just walked into. There are photographers all over and about six or seven men and women are peacefully ordering and eating at the tables.

SITTING INTEGRATED

"There are hundreds of people outside the windows looking in. They are pretty orderly. More and more Negroes are coming in (to the white cafeteria). There must be at least 20.

"They are sitting integrated throughout the cafeteria. They are having no trouble getting served . . .

"A teenager from Fort Worth is sitting at our table. He said that the Fort Worth radio announced previously that Freedom Riders were coming . . . All is peaceable but teenagers at the next table are wise-cracking loudly and there are many Negroes in the crowd outside watching. There seems to be several hundred people.

1000 'Briefed' on Critical Foreign Policy Problems

Atty. Alma Rudison, president of the National Council of Negro Women, and Mrs. Ruth Cunningham, chairman of the International Relations Dept. of the Los Angeles NCNW, attended a one day Regional Foreign Policy Briefing Conference Thursday, July 20, at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

CITY REPRESENTATIVE — Atty. Alma Rudison, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Council of Negro Women, attended the Regional Foreign Policy Briefing Conference July 20 at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

ATTENDS MEET — Mrs. Ruth Cunningham, chairman of International Relations Dept. of the Los Angeles NCNW, attender the Foreign Policy Conference in San Francisco last Thursday.

The conference was under the joint sponsorship of the Department of State and the World Affairs Council of Northern California.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss methods and resources available for increasing the American people's understanding of the troubled world in which we live and some of the critical problems of foreign policy which will face us in the months to come.

The thousand or more people who attended heard Henry R. Labouisse, director, International Cooperation Administration, outline a five point program of foreign aid. He underscored self-help measures by recipient nations, long-term financing and loan repayment in U.S. dollars. He concluded by saying: The new program, embodied in the act for International Development now before congress, may prove this country's greatest weapon in checkmating the spread of Communisim in undeveloped nations."

DISCUSSES RUSSIA

Special Assistant to the Secretary of State Charles E. Bohlen brought to the conference information on Soviet Russia. He reminded the group that Russia was the second most powerful nation in the world. His report dealt also with his recent trip to Europe with Pres. Kennedy.

A reception climaxed the conference in the Venetian Room of the hotel. It was arranged by the World Affairs Council of Northern California.

Others in picture are nurse Mrs. Dorothy Chatterton Clark; Sandra Bible, awaiting her turn; and Mrs. Willie Bible, mother of the youngsters. Broadway has scheduled another polio shot session for Aug. 16, 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

NAACP Sets Goal of Hollywood 'Face-Lift'

If NAACP plans materialize, Hollywood is in for a face-lifting where its attitude about Negroes is concerned.

According to Variety magazine, called "the Bible of showbusiness," the NAACP is currently preparing an all-out attack on Hollywood's perpetual policy of treating American Negroes as "a colored image" of inferior and fourth-class importance.

ENLISTS UNION AID

Quoting Maggie Hathaway, chairman of the NAACP's Hollywood committee and Eagle columnist, Variety said:

"Meetings have been held with the board of directors of the Screen Actors Guild to enlist the union's support in establishing (film) integration."

The trade publication said that the NAACP plans to carry the fight for integrated casting to producers, directors, writers and various technical branches of the industry to have "a Negro in every film made" as well as having Negroes employed in the technical departments of film-making.

Miss Hathaway, whose fight for better roles for Negroes in films began two years ago in the offices of the Eagle, said she noted no Negroes are listed among the ranks of cameramen, sound editors or film editors, for instance.

MAY FILE CHARGES

Miss Hathaway was quoted as saying the NAACP would bring charges of bias before the Fair Employment Practices Commission, if necessary.

She lambasted "racially stereotyped" roles which she described as "Africans, dope addicts and menials" in films, with no representation of family life in the past, as in the present, Hollywood has tended to view Negroes casually, as many non-integrated white communities would see Negroes: as domestics working for them or as entertainers they see when they go "slumming" in Negro-area clubs."

At other times Negroes are depicted as subjects of crime stories.

It is never, as one viewer put it, "that an occasional scene will show that the delivery man is a Negro, or that the clerk in a drugstore is a Negro, or the gas station man is a Negro, or that a white actor when going to the school to talk about his child just happens to talk to a Negro teacher."

ONLY SAMMY

Currently, Samuel Goldwyn studios are turning out "Soldiers Three," a film starring Sammy Davis, Jr., Frank Sinatra, Joey Bishop, Peter Lawford, Buddy Lester and the Crosby sons. Davis is not only the only Negro in the picture, he reportedly is the only Negro connected anywhere remotely at all with the picture.

All camera workers, script writers, publicists and set technicians are white. Not one Negro girl typist is employed in a Hollywood office having anything to do with the motion picture.

said that when they placed him under arrest, others in the group objected vehemently and someone threw a rubber hose over one of the policemen.

The officers radioed for help. Ten policemen answered the riot call with a paddy wagon. Some of the merrymakers left the scene when the officers told them to go home. Those remaining were taken to the police station and charged with rioting and refusing to disperse.

The juveniles were released in the custody of their parents. All of them appeared before Judge Hecter Baida on Monday. Those over 18 pleaded not guilty and asked for a jury trial. Bail was set at $500 each and a $25 penalty assessment. Those under 18 were not allowed to plead pending consultation with parents and a court appearance Tuesday.

BOOKED

Among those arrested were: Brice Glascow, Patricia Ann Blanche, Roger Stanley Williams, Charles Joseph Davis, Eugene Anderson Monroe, Alexander Alix Manigo, Billy Morris Taylor, Richard Thomas, Frank Bridges, Jr., and Chester E. Williams, Jr.

Also, Jackie Charles Shepherd, Frank Harris, Jr., Henry Lee Pierce, Theophelus McClellan, Almore McCowen, Lawrence Edward Nightengale, Morris Adkins, and Leonard Davidson.

In addition, Otis Todd, Samuel Dudley, Ernest C. Smith, George Washington Phillips, James Lee Soil, Tyrone Victor Moore, Sam Bradley, Jr., and Tom Sims. Those arrested live in Santa Monica, Venice and Los Angeles.

Hold Mother for Death of Baby

Mrs. Georgia Tillman, of 181 S. Clarence avenue, was booked by police, Sunday on a charge of endangering the life of her 18-month-old son Gregory Tillman, who died Sunday at the General Hospital, from respiratory and cardiac arrest, possible burns on the right hand and possible starvation.

Robinson's Hires Marian Barnes for Dept. Manager Job

By BILL LANE

J. W. Robinson and Co., one of the foremost department store chains in the Los Angeles area, has made a Negro woman assistant manager in the exclusive fitting department of its new Panorama City store.

CHIEF FITTER

Employed as chief fitter in the firm's three-week-old and beautiful new San Fernando store is Mrs. Marian Barnes, a Pacoima resident with an active background of work in smart fashions for women and an equally full record of NAACP campaigning.

Mrs. Barnes, a slender, trim and handsome woman whose appearance reflects her own wide knowledge of women's wear, was hired by Robinson's even before the store opened its doors to the public.

Her job is to certify proper fit for women's dresses and gowns purchased in the second-floor dress department. Garments in the department range in prices from $10 to a thousand dollars. Many are Dior, Travilla and Don Loper creations.

ONLY AMERICAN

Mrs. Barnes works also with the exclusive Helen Rose originals featured by Robinson's.

Not only is Mrs. Barnes the only Negro in the department, she is probably the only American-born employe in the store's fitting section. The other members, all of whom are from Hungary, France, Germany, Israel or other European countries, work in warm cooperation with the Santa Monica-born Negro staff chief.

Mrs. Barnes works directly with the store's selective and affluent clientele, directing the altering and "individualizing" of each garment to the purchaser's own physique and personal specifications. Often she is asked by the purchaser for her own ideas for the best appearance of the gown when it is being worn.

NO COMPLICATIONS

At no time has the store reported any expressed resentment from its patrons at being fitted by a Negro.

This has not always been the experience of the Pacoima fashion enthusiast, who is the mother of a son in college and the wife of busy postal worker Frank Barnes.

Once, after tiring of driving long distances daily to a Santa Monica dress specialty store for almost 10 years, she applied for a job as fitter with a smart shop for women closer to her residence.

"The owner said she would like to hire me," recalled Mrs. Barnes, "but she said she felt her customers would not like it if she hired a Negro woman to work close to them."

SELECTIVE CLIENTELE

The Robinson's store in Panorama City draws its customers from Van Nuys, Tarzana, Encino and Sherman Oaks and many other Valley areas. Its patrons are as selective as they are able to afford the gowns of their choice.

"The more expensive the dress, the more time must be spent with the buyer," explained Mrs. Barnes with an explanatory toss of her grey-wisped Parisian hair style. "The fitter must know all about the intricate manner in which the more expensive garments are constructed. And she must know just what the customer's style lends itself to and to what direction her taste leans.

BRIDALS EXCITING

"Bridals, however, are the most fascinating and exciting. The young women are always happy, always radiant and always willing to let the fitter make them look their very best on their very best day."

A number of years ago, when Mrs. Barnes finished a rugged study of art, life drawings and costume design, she found it impossible to get a job in larger stores.

"They just wouldn't hire Negroes then in anything but menial roles."

She became active in NAACP work.

"We had sit-ins back there then," she recalls. "I remember one owner of a Santa Monica cafe who closed up his place rather than serve a group of us who visited his place one day. But there are many, many other places that stayed open and are open today — places where hard, steady work has broken the racial-bias barriers for Negroes. But the bad part about it is that many Negroes who are qualified for certain jobs do not apply for jobs in their work categories."

IN WASHINGTON—The most Rev. John Kodwo Amissah, archbishop of Cape Coast, Ghana, will take an active part in the 46th national convention of the Knights and Ladies of Peter Claver, which meets in Washington Aug. 5-9. He is only 38 years old and has been an archbishop for a year, following a four year term as bishop.

Lawyers Assn. to Hold Convention Here Aug. 9

The 36th annual convention of the National Bar Association, Inc. will meet in Los Angeles at the Statler-Hilton Hotel on Aug. 9-11.

Atty. Elmer C. Jackson, Jr., of Kansas City, Kans. national president of NBA, said that this will be the largest mobilization of Negro attorneys ever assembled on the West Coast, and that it should be a "history-making session since so many NBA members are engaged in the relentless struggle for civil rights throughout the nation."

The Langston Law Club of Los Angeles, under the presidency of James A. Akers, and local officers of NBA are hosts to the convention. They are being assisted by the Wives of Bench and Bar under the presidency of Mrs. Geri Branton.

Spearheading the host committees are Attys. Thomas G. Newsom, Western NBA regional director; Carl A. Earls, general convention chairman; Xenophon F. Lang, program and entertainment chairman; and Leo Branton, registration chairman.

Among the convention highlights will be a public meeting Thursday night, Aug. 10, at Holman Methodist Church, when the principal address will be given by Atty. Jack H. Young, of Jackson, Miss., who has been the chief defendant of the Freedom Riders in the state.

LAWYERS' HOST—The Langston Law Club, of which Atty. James A. Akers is president, will be host to the convention of the National Bar Association, meeting here Aug. 9-11.

Worker at Safeway Stabbed; Wife Held

A South Los Angeles woman was arraigned in South Gate municipal court Tuesday on charges of stabbing her husband to death with an eight-inch butcher knife.

Police are holding an associate of the woman as a material witness, as her testimony in the slaying differs, police say, from the version given by the slain man's wife.
